11-2d

THE

HISTORY

OF THE

Apostles Creed:

With CRITICAL

OBSERVATIONS

On its feveral

ARTICLES.

by L. Chancellor Kin

The Second Edition.

LONDON,

Printed by W. B. for Jonathan Robinson at the Golden Lion, and John Wyat at the Rose, in St. Paul's Church-Yard. 1703.

THE

Apofiles (C)

OBSE

TAA

in Circ Cream Child

ned by P. S. II. There

the Colare Land The Committee of the Color o

THE ## PREFACE

TO THE

READER.

T is well known, that several Learned Comments, and other Tracts, have been already writ on the Creed commonly call'd the Apostles: The Names of the Great Men, who have exercised their Wits and Pens on this Subject, are so obvious, that the mentioning of them will be needless; so that at first View, the following A 2 Essay

The PREFACE

Essay will run the risk of being censured for superfluous and unnecessary: But whoever will consider what hath been written of this Kind, will find, that most part of the Writers who have gone before, have only handled the Creed in a Theological manner, explaining and confirming its several Articles according to the various Senses and Interpretations deducible from Holy Writ; which is in no fort the Design of the Author in the ensuing Treatise. The Reader is not to expect here a perfect and complete Explication of the Creed, or of its several Articles in their Latitude and Extent, according as they may be inferred or proved from the Holy Scriptures; this hath been already done with great Judgment and Copiousness by others, to whose Endeavours the Author

to the READER.

thor doth not pretend to add any thing: But the Author's only intent in the following Treatise, is to make an Essay towards an Historical and Critical Account of the Creed, to find out, if possible, the Authors and Framers of the Creed, the Time when the feveral Articles were introduced, the Occasion and Intent of their first introducing, and what the Sense, Meaning and Design of the first Introducers was; intermixing here and there some Critical Observations, which may be both useful and delightful to the Reader.

To this End, the Author hath not contented himself with reading of Modern Books or Collections made by later Writers, but hath himself had immediate recourse to the remaining Monuments of the Primitive Ages of the Church, from whence only all Learning of this Kind can be fetched and derived.

A 3 ing

The PREFACE

Whether the Author hath succeeded in this Attempt, must be left to others to judge; he can only say in his own excuse, that he hath done his best; and that it will be very acceptable to him to see it better done by others of more Leisure, and greater Abilities and Learning, especially if any thing hit upon by him, may be of use to advance and improve this Design.

If the Author hath not explained every thing alledged by him to that degree of Clearness and Certainty, as may be expected by an inquisitive Reader,

to the READER.

der, or hath in any Point been mistaken, it is excusable in him, not only on the account of the general Uncertainty of ancient and distant Matters, but also on the account of the affected and studied Obscurity of the Primitive Writers in relation to this Particular; fo that it is not the Author's Fault, if at any time his Proofs are not so copious or direct as might be wished for and defired: If he had found any thing in the Primitive Writers to have made any fuch Point clearer and stronger, he would not have omitted it.

If the Explication given by the Author, of any Article or part of the Creed, should happen to be disliked or not approved by any one, the Reader must remember, That the Author only acts the part of an A 4 Histo-

The PREFACE

Historian; his Design being only to collect and discover the Sense and Meaning of the first Makers and Composers of the Creed, what it was that the Introducers of the feveral Articles purposed and intended thereby; and, if in any place he feems to speak his own Sense, that is only for the better carrying on the Thread of his Discourse, and in the Quality and Person of an Historian, as having collected the Sense or Explication in such place mentioned, to be the intended Meaning of the Framers of that Part or Clause of the Creed; the only intent of the Author, being to shew the Sense and intended Meaning of the Composers of the Creed, and not at all to enter into an Examination of the Justness or Truth of such Sense and Meaning; the Author leaving that to every Man's

to the READER.

Man's private Judgment, to be tryed and determined by the Holy Scriptures, the only perfect and infallible Rule of Faith; by which, even this Creed its felf, and every explication thereof, must be tried and judged, and is no farther to be received or believed, than as it is consonant and agreeable thereunto; which is according to the Sixth Article of the Church of England, That what soever is not read in the Holy Scripture, nor may be proved thereby, is not to be required of any Man, that it should be believed as an Article of the Faith, or be thought requisite or necessary to Salvation.

WIEREADER.

Ministry of the independent to be try of and the color of the his factors and the his factors and the his factors and the last of the color of the c thought requifite or necessary.

AN

ACCOUNT

OFTHE

EDITIONS

OF THE

WORKS

Of the Ancient

Christian Authors,

Cited and made use of in the following

TREATISE.

Barnabæ Epift. Catholic. Græco-Latin. Edit. Octav. Oxonii 1685. S. Clementis Romani Epistolæ Græco-Latin. Quarto Oxonii 1633.

S. Ignatii

S. Ignatii Epistolæ Græco-Latin. Quarto, Edit. Isaaci Vossii Amstelodam. 1646.

S. Justini Martyris Opera Græco-Latin.

Folio, Colonia 1686.

Athenagoræ Opera Græco-Lat. Edit. ad calcem Justin. Martyr. Folio, Colonia 1686.

Theophili Antiocheni Opera Græco-Lat. Edit. ad calcem Justin. Martyr. Fol. Coloniæ 1686.

Irenai Opera, Folio, Geneva 1580.

Tertulliani Opera, Folio, Paris 1580.

Clementis Alexandrini Opera, Græco-Lat. Folio, Lugduni Batav. 1616.

Minucii Felicis Opera, Octavo, Lugdun. Batav. 1672.

Origenis Commentar. Græco-Lat. 2 Vol. Folio, Edit. Huetii Rothomag. 1668.

Origen contra Celsum Græco-Lat. Quarto, Cantabrig. 1677.

Origenis Dialogi contra Marcionitas, &c. Græco-Lat. Quarto, Basil. 1674.

Origen sei euxis seu de Oratione, Graco-Lat. Octavo, Oxon. 1685.

Cypriani Opera, Folio, Edit. Sim. Goulart. apud Johan. le Preux 1593.

Novatiani Opera inter Opera Tertullian Edit. Paris, Folio, 1580.

Archelai Disputatio advers. Manichæun Latin. Edit. ad Calcem Socratis & Sozomen Sozomen. Histor. Ecclesiast. Edit. Fol. Mogunt. 1677.

Arnobii Opera, Quarto, Lugdun. Batav.

1651.

Lactantii Opera, Octavo, Lugdun. Batav. 1660.

Eusebii Pamphili Ecclesiastic. Historia Græco-Latin. Folio, Edit. Henric. Vales. Paris 1659.

Athanasii Opera, Graco-Lat. 2 Vol. Fol.

Colonia 1686.

Julii Firmici Materni Opera, Edit. ad calcem Minucii Felicis, Octavo, Lugdun. Batav. 1672.

m. Hilarii Pictaviensis Opera, Folio, Basil.

1550.

0-

Tol. Ambrosii Opera, 5 Tom. Folio, Basil. 68.

1567.

ar-yrilli Hierosolomytani Opera, Græco-Lat. Folio, Paris 1631.

Soc. Spiphanii Opera Grace, Folio, Basil.

1544.

eco-dieronymi Opera, 9 Tom. Fol. Antuerp.

1578.

Gou uffini Expositio in Symbolum Apostolor. Edit. inter Opera Cypriani per lian Sim. Goulart. apud Johan. le Preux, Folio, 1593.

ann ugustini Opera, 10 Tom. Octavo, Lug-

s 6 duni, 1563

men

Augustini

Augustini de Hæresibus, Edit. cum Notis Danæi, Octavo, Genevæ, 1595.

Isidori Pelusiotæ Opera, Græco-Lat. Folio, Edit. à Conrad. Ritterbusio 1605.

Maximi Taurinensis Opera, Folio, Lugdun. 1622.

Johannis Cassiani Opera, Edit. una cum Damascen. Folio Basil. 1575.

Vincentii Lirinensis Commonitor. 12º Cantabrig. 1687.

Theodoret. Dialog. & Hæres. Epitom. Græcè, Quarto, Romæ 1547.

Petri Chrysologi Opera, Folio, Lugdun. 1633.

Leonis Magni Opera, Folio, Lugdun. 1633.

Fulgentii Opera, Folio, Lugdun. 1633. Salviani Opera, 12°, Oxon. 1629.

Gennadii Massiliensis Liber, Edit. inter Opera Angustini, Octavo, Lugdun 1563.

Andreæ Cæsariensis Comment. in Apo cal. ad calcem Secundi Tomi Com Johan. Chrysostom. in Nov. Testam Edit. à Frontone Ducæo, Paris, Fo lio, 1636. Theodor. Lector. Fragment. ad calcem Evagrii Eccles. Histor. Graco-Lat. Folio, Mogunt. 1679. Damasceni Opera, Graco-Lat. Folio, Basil. 1575.

2

t.

m

m en.

in.

3.

ter un

po om am Fo

dor

THE

Theodor Leffor Frequent, ad calcem Everyii Eccles. Histor. Greco-Lat. Folio, Mogunt. 1679. Danasceni Opena, Greco Lat. Felio, Bash. 1575.

THE

to be week and uncertain; the other

A Critical II flory of

HISTORY

OFTHE

Apostles Creed:

hoth I I W

CRITICAL OBSERVATIONS

On its feveral

ARTICLES.

CHAP. I.

The Introduction; containing several things relating to the Creed in general: The Encomiums given thereto by the Primitive Writers: The several Names by which it bath been called: Principally termed a Symbol: Two Reasons commonly alledged for that Appellation; the one taken from the manner of Common Suppers amongst the Ancients; which is shewn to be weak and uncertain; the other taken from Military Affairs, where it denotes the Watch words and Signs by which Soldiers knew each other; which is affirmed not to be the full and proper fignification of the Word, but that it is rather to be derived from the Marks and Tokens used by the Idolatrous Pagans in their Sacred Rites, called by them Symbola, which were two fold, either Mute or Vocal: Instances of both: Proved to have been fecret Marks or Words, revealed only to those who were initiated in their Mysteries, by means of which they were known to each other, and had free admission wheresoever they came, to the Services of those Deities whose Symbols they had received; and that from the same reasons, and in allusion thereunto, the Creed was called a Symbol by the Primitive Authors. A Transition from the Titles, to the Authors of the Creed: Some afcribe it to the Apostles; which by several reasons is demonstrated to be impossible: That nevertheless it is Apostolical and An-oient: Exceeding difficult to find out the presise Framers of it: The Authors thereof were many, and the Composure it felf a work of time: One part of the Creed

Creed was used by the Apostles, and left by them to their Successors: The Creed was always demanded at Baptism both by the Apostles and by those who came after them: The other part of the Creed was afterwards added by the Rulers of the Church, in opposition to Heresies, as they appeared and sprang up: In what sense the Apostles are Said to be the Authors of one part, and the succeeding Governours of the Church Authors of the other: The Meaning of the Creed to be fetched from the Writings of the Fathers: The Creed first constantly read in the Eastern Church about five bundred Years after Christ; and in the Western near six hundred: Creed then read was the Nicene; into whose room afterwards came the Apostles; which is repeated.

st

173

05

A u-

to ons

bat

4n-

out

HE great Respect and Veneration that hath in all Ages been paid to the Apostles Creed, as it is usually call'd, ay in some measure apologize for the riting this Essay or any other Disturse about it. It would be not only tecous, but also infinite, to transcribe the acomiums that every where abound in B 2

the antient Writings of this short Synopsis and Compendium of the Chri-

Doctrina Symboli est illuminatio animæ, plenitudo credentium—hoc nexus infidelitatis absolvitur, hoc vitæ janua panditur, hoc gloria confessionis ostenditur; Symbolum breve est verbis, sed magnum est Sacramentis—exiguum est ut memoriam non obruat, fed diffusum ut intelligentiam supersedat. Dignè ergo attentiores -ad audieudum Symbolum convenistis: Quicquid enim præfiguratum est in Patriarchis, quicquid nunciatum est in Scripturis, quicquid prædictum est in Prophetis, vel de Deo ingenito, vel ex Deo Dei unigenito, vel de Spiritu Sancto, -vel de fuscipiendi hominis Sacramento—totum hoc breviter— Symbolum in se continet confitendo. Tom. 10. Serm. de Temp. Serm. 131. p. 406.

stian Faith. Saint Augustin calls it, the Illumination of the Soul, the Perfection of Believers, by which the Bond of Infidelity is diffolved, the Gate of Life is opened, and the Glory of Faith is shewn; little indeed in Words, but great in Mysteries; short so as not to oppress the Memory, yet comprehensive so as to exceed the Understanding: Worthily therefore is this Creed to be attended unto, since what soever is prefigured in the Patriarchs, declared in the Scriptures, or foretold in the Prophets, concerning the bleffed Trinity, and the Mystery of our Saviour's Incarnation, Death and Crucifixion, is contained in it. Not much unlike to and Crucifixion, is con-Not much unlike to which J. Cassian writes, that the Creed comprehends in it self in few words the Faith of both Testaments, and the Sens of the whole Scripture

<sup>2</sup> Quicquid per univerforum divinorum voluminum corpus immensa funditur copia, totum in Symboli colligitur brevitate, &c. De Incarn. Dom. lib. 5. p. 1272.

And

And Petrus Chrysologus,
That 'it is the Entrance into Life, the Gate of Salvation, a peculiar, innocent, and pure Confession, the Covenant of Life,
the Plea of Salvation, and
the indissolvable Sacrament of Faith between God and us. This,
saith Maximus Taurinensis, is the Symbol, by the Sign of which the Faithful are separated from the Unbelieving,
whose Truth makes every I

Ingressus vitæ, janua salutise singularis, innocens, & pura Confessio. In Symb. Apost. Serm. 56. p. 51.

2 Pactum viræ, saluris placitum, & inter vos & Deum sidei insolubile Sacramentum. In Symb. Apost. Serm. 58. p. 52.

Hoc est Symbolum cujus signaculo sideles ab insidelibus secernuntur—cujus veritas unumquemque credentem efficit Christianum —quod & viventes sanctificat, & mortuos reducit ad vitam. Homil, in Symbol. p. 240.

whose Truth makes every Believer of it a Christian, sanctifies the Living, and reduceth the Dead to Life; and many other such like Noble and Majestick Expressions, were made use of by the Primitive Writers and Panegyrists, to declare their Esteem of this Creed, which through the Divine Assistance I shall endeavour a little to explain.

Where, in the First place: Since the Nature of Things is frequently signified unto us by the Names thereof, it may not be altogether unnecessary to take notice of the several Titles and Appellations, which have been formerly given to this Creed; by B 2 Rustinus Normam prædicationis. Expos. in Symb. Apost. §. 2. p. 565.

Munus Salutis. De gubern.Dei,

lib. 6. p. 199.

3 Catholici Sacramenti fides. De Incarn. Domin. lib. 6. p. 1276.

<sup>4</sup> Nostri Signaculum cordis— Militiæ Sacramentum. Tom. 1. de Virgin. lib. 3. p. 86.

5 Regulam Veritatis. Lib. 1.

cap. 19. p. 74.

6 Regula fidei. De Virginib. Veland. p. 385.

7 De Trinitat. p. 493.

<sup>8</sup> Tom. 2. ad Marcell. Ep. 54. p. 193. Ruffinus it is called,
'The Rule of Preaching;
by Salvian, 'The Gift
of Salvation; by Cassian,
'The Faith of the Catholick Sacrament; by Ambrose, 'The Seal of our Heart, and a Military Sacrament; by 'Irenaus, 'Tertullian,' Novatian and 'Jerom, The Rule of Faith, and Truth.

But that Name which hath generally prevailed, and by which it is usually known, is Symbolum, or Symbol; for which Title there are two Reasons commonly given: The One is, that it is an Allusion to the Custom of several Persons meeting together to eat of one common Supper; whither every One brings fomething for his Share to make up that common Meal, which from hence was called Symbolum, from the Greek Verb Eumsánnen, which fignifies, to throw, or cast together: Even so, say some, The Apostles met together, and each One put or threw in his Article to compose this Symbol; which Explication of the Word is, I think, first mentioned by Ruffinus, who after he has related the manner of the framing

ming of the Creed by the Apostles, adds, That formany and just Causes they would have it to be called a Symbol; for a Symbol in Greek signifies a Collation, that is, that which many bring into Symbolum autem hoc multis & justiffimis ex causis appellare volucium, Symbolum enim Grace—dici potest & collatio, hoc est, quod plures in unum conferunt, id enim secerunt Apostoli in his Sermonibus in unum conferendo quod umusquisque sensit. Expos. in Symb. Apost. §. 2. p. 565.

One; for so the Apostles in this Creed did bring into one, or comprehend in one Thing what every Person thought. And after him, by Cassian, and several Otheas, who affirm the same thing, That the Creed was called a Symbol, because that what sever is in an immense Copiousness contained in the Body of the Divine Volumes, is by the Apostles collated, or reduced into this brief Compendium. But what is in general spoken by Russinus, Cassian, and others, concerning the mutual framing of the Creed by the Apostles, is more particularly related by one who passes under the Name of St. Austin, and probably lived not long after him, who besides what was affirmed by the foregoing Authors, shews also the particular Articles, that were thrown or put into this common

<sup>2</sup> Symbolum ex collatione nomen accepir, — Collatio autem ideo, quia in unum ab Apostolis domini, — Quicquid per univerforum divinorum voluminum corpus immensa funditur Copia, torum in Symboli colligitur brevitate, De Incarn. Dom. lib. 5. p. 1272,

m enim Grace

Assio, Thee off,

all ar Hofloga

obsertation mi

moras ob la alloshigh of

UN Copie Tea-

rent brevitate.

LE POLL OF A

COII.

peramiver-

Confession by each individual Apostle, which I shall not here enumerate, fince I shall have occasion to mention them elsewhere in this Chapter.

But now as to the truth of this fense of the Word; in my opinion it is very much to be questioned: to evidence the Weakness whereof, I shall not insift on that Criticism, that it is not Symbolum, but Symbola, which hath the forementioned Signification; but leaving that Nicety to the Grammarians, I shall only observe, That this Interpretation of the Word hath its entire Foundation on that Opinion, that the Apostles were the real Authors of the Creed, and that they assembled together by their mutual consent to compose and frame it: Now that the Apostles did not so, neither could the Creed in any manner or way be formed by them, I shall in the ensuing part of this Chapter demonstrate, craving the Readers leave to take it for granted till I come thither, and his permission to dismiss this Exposition of the Word upon that account, as groundless and unsatisfa-Story.

The fecond Signification of this word Symbolum, is fetched from Military

tary Affairs, where it is used to denote those Marks, Signs, Watch-words, and the like, whereby the Souldiers of an Army distinguished and knew each other: In like manner, say some, by this Creed the true Souldiers of Jesus Christ were differenced from all others, and discerned from them, who were only salse and hypocritical Pretenders; unto which opinion Maximus Taurinen-

sis feems to incline, who terms the Symbol, the Sign by which Believers are separated from Unbelievers: and Ruffinus more largely writes, * That the Greek word Σύμβολον may be rendred in Latin by Indicium; which Word signifies a Sign, or a mark of Distinction, and was applied to the Creed, because at that time, as it is related by St. Paul in the Acts of the Apostles, Symbolum cujus Signaculo fideles ab infidelibus fecernuntur. Homil. in Symb. p. 240.

Symbolum Græcè indicium dici potest, - indicium autem vel fignum iccirco dicitur: quia illo tempore ficut & Paulus Apostolus dicit, & in Actis Apostolorum refereur, multi ex circumcisis Judæis fimulabant se esse Apostolos Christi, & lucri alicujus vel ventris gratia ad prædicandum proficiscebantur, nominantes quidem Christum sed non integris traditionum lineis nuntiantes. ergo istud indicium posuere, per quod agnosceretur is, qui Chriftum verè secundum Apostolicas Regulas prædicaret: denique & in bellis civilibus hoc observari ferunt, quoniam & armorum habi-tus par, & sonus vocis idem, & mos unus est, atque eadem instituta bellandi, ne qua doli subreptio siat, Symbola discreta unusquisque dux suis militaribus tradit, quæ Latinè vel indicia nominantur, ut si sortè occurrerit quis de quo dubitetur, interrogatus Symbolum, prodat si sit hostis an socius. Expos. in Symb. Apost. S. 2. p. 565.

-01 VIL

strap of a

CORNER O

many of the circumcifed Jews feigned themselves to be the Apostles of Christ, and for the sake of their Purse or Belly went forth to preach, naming indeed the Name of Christ, but not according to the perfect Lines of Tradition; to remedy which Mischief, the Apostles appointed this Sign or Token, by which he might be known, who should truly preach Christ according to the Apostolick Rules, as the custom is reported to be in civil Wars, where their Arms, Language, Methods, and manner of fighting being the same, to prevent any Deceit, every General gives the Word to his Souldiers, which is called Symbolum, that if one should meet another concerning whom he doubts, by declaring the Word, or the Symbol, he might shew whether he was a Friend or a Foe. So that the Creed in this respect was called Symbolum, in allusion to a Military Custom; that as Souldiers were known by Signs, Tokens, Words, and the like, fo true and real Christians were evidenced and distinguished from all others by this Mark or Symbol of the Creed.

Now, though this may be in part the fense of the Word, yet I do not apprehend, that it comes up to the full intent thereof; neither do I think, that it is to be derived from a Military Custom, but rather from some thing, which in its own Nature is more correspondent and agreeable to the Worship and Service of God, wherein the Creed is used: Wherefore, in my opinion, the fignification of the Word is more naturally to be fetched from the Sacra, or religious Services of the Heathens, (if Idolatry, Impurity, and Inhumanity, may be permitted to pass under that Name) where those, who were initiated in their Mysteries, and admitted to the knowledg of their peculiar Services, which were hidden and concealed from the greatest part of the idolatrous Multitude, had certain Signs or Marks, called Symbola, delivered unto them, by which they mutually knew each other, and upon the declaring of them, were without scruple admitted in any Temple to the fecret Worship and Rites of that God, whose Symbols they had received.

that

These Symbols were of two sorts; either Mute, or Vocal: Of the Mute there are the Names of several in Clemens Alexandrinus, as an 'Origanum, (a Mufical Instrument so called) a Candle, a Sword,

m

1-

IS,

al

nrk

art

ot

the

nk,

hat

The Θήμιο τα Σπορέντα Σύμο ολα, δείσανον, λύχνο, ξίφο μόειον γυναικών. Protreptic. ad gentes, p. 11: and something else, not fit to be Translated, were the Symbols of Themis; and the faid Father mentions in the same place, ' an handful of Salt, Ivy, Popthe Symbols of Bacchus, and of others of their brutish Deities.

Xov Agoi TE a Nov - i Seaκών, ος τον Διονύσε Βαωάςε έχε ful of Salt, Ivy, Popves Taut' Esiv avill Ta ana. Ibid. p. 11.

These Symbols were carefully preferved, and kept from all publick View by the Receivers of them, who, upon the producing of them to the Priefts of those Gods, whose Signs they were, had free admission to their most hidden and abominable Rites.

Apuleius, the famous Platonick Philosopher of Madaura, made use of these Mute Symbols, to defend himfelf from the Imputation of Magick;

Habuit Apuleius quapiam linteolo involuta apud Lareis Pontiani, hac quoniam ignoro, quæ fuerint, idcirco magica fuiffe contendo. Apolog. p. 295. Edit. Am-Sterdam, 1628:

for being ' suspected of that internal Practice. because he kept some unknown things wrapt up in a Napkin, or fine Linen Cloth, he replies thereunto, 3 That he had been initiated in most of

the

3 Sacrorum pleraque initia in Gracia participavi, corum quædam Signa & Monumenta tradita mihi à Sicerdotibus sedulò confer-

vo, nihil infolitum, nihil incognitum dico, vel unius Liberi patris Symista, qui adestis, sciris, quid domi conditum caletis, & absque omnibus profanis tacitè veneremini. Ibid. p. 297.

the Grecian Mysteries, that he diligently preserved those Signs, and Monuments, which were delivered him by the Priests, that this was no unusual or unknown thing, that some who were present, and had been initiated with him in the Rites of Bacchus, did well know what they kept hidden at home, and did in secret, without the company of the Profane, particularly revere:

That it could not seem strange to any, who had the least sense of Religion, that a Man who had been privy to so many Mysteries of the Gods, should keep some Tol

deri potest, cui sit ulla memoria Religionis, hominem tot mysteriis desim conscium, quædam sacrorum crepundia domi adservare, atque ea linteo texo involvere, quod purissimum est rebus divinis velamentum. Ibid. p. 297.

Etiam ne cuiquam mirum vi-

should keep some Tokens thereof at home, and wrap them up in Linen, which is the purest Covering for Divine Things: That yet, he did profess with a loud ce profiteor, siquist Voice, that if by chance rundum Solennium of the contract of the contract of the contract of the chance rundum solennium of the contract of the chance rundum solennium of the chance rundum solenniu did profess with a loud Voice, that if by chance any One was present, who had been partaker with him in the same Solemnities; if he would give <sup>2</sup> Cateris autem clarissima voce profiteor, siquis forte adest eorundum Solennium mihi particeps, signum dato, & audiat licet, quæ ego adservem. Nam equidem nullo unquam periculo compellar, quæ reticenda accepi, hæc ad profanos enuntiare. Ibid. p. 298.

the Sign, he should hear what those things were, which he so carefully preserved, but that otherwise he would not be compelled by any Danger what soever, to divulge those things to the Profane, which he received

mahiupo

- CHI SELL

ceiv'd to keep secret and conceal.

But, besides these Mute Symbols, there were others also which were Vocal, that is, a certain Form of obscure and mysterious Words, for the most part, if not always, agreeable to the Worship, Actions, or Nature of that God, whose Signs they were; delivered by the Priests to those who were initiated in their Mysteries, by which those who were thus consecrated, mutually knew each Other, and were freely admitted to the most reserved and fecret Parts of their facred Rites and Ceremonies: Such a Vocal Symbol, Apuleius feems to hint at in the precedent Quotation, where he requires, That if any were present, who had participated with him in the Same Solemnities, they should give the Sign; that is, they should pronounce and express those words, which were the Mark and Token of their Initiation and Confecration. But, there is no need to look any farther into the Writings of the Heathens for the proof of this Point, seeing there is a full and large Evidence thereof in Arnobius, Clemens Alexandrinus, and Julius Firmicus Maternus, who have recorded feveral of their filthy, fenfeless, and inhumane Symbols ;

Symbols; as for Example, Arnobius relates this to be the Symbol of Ceres, ' and to have been repeated at the Initiation in her Rites, I have fasted, and I have drunk a Caudle, (as I chuse to translate the word Cyceon, which signifies a Ipsa denique Symbola, quæ rogata sacrorum in acceptionibus respondetis. Jejunavi, atque ebibi Cyceonem, ex cista sumpsi, & in calathum misi: accepi rursus, in cistulam transtuli. Lib.5. p. 175.

ceon, which signifies a mixed and confused Potion of Liquors) I have taken out of the Chest, and put into the Basket, I have taken it out again, and put it into the little Chest; which is thus mentioned by Clemens Alexandrinus, with some small variation, <sup>2</sup> I have fasted, I have drunk a Caudle; having done that, I put it into the Basket, and from the Basket into the Tò σύνθημα Ελδονίων μυsneiw, ἐνήςδοα, ἔπον τ κυκεῶνα, ἔλαδον ἐκ κίςκς ἐρξασάμθρ ἀπεθέμω eis κάλαθον, κὸ ἐκ καλάθε eis κίςω. Protreptic. ad gentes, p. 10.

Cheft. To explain which Symbol at large, would perhaps be too tedious; I am almost consident, that it would be too obscene and filthy, and that the cleanest words by which it can be expressed in our English Dialect, will found too harsh in chaste and modest Ears: Wherefore I shall refer those who would exactly know the Mystery thereof, to the Fifth Book of Arnobius, from Pag. 170 to Pag. 176, and to the 10th

nup Liodo

cied tumpur,

בכככסו דערepitt diff

PRINCE CARP

· St. To your

AN ACTOR AND Protreplie.

and in himse

toth Page of Clemens Alexandrinus's Protrepticon ad Gentes. I shall only fay this in general, as being pertinent to my present Undertaking, That these Symbolical Words had a darkand enigmatical Reference to the fecret and hidden Rites of Ceres, and did in obscure Expressions shadow forth her impudent, bestial, and abominable Actions, which in those detestable Mysteries were folemnized and commemorated; and, that who foever declared or pronounced these words, had an imme-diate admission to those secret and referved Villanies, as they justly deserve to be termed.

There are yet feveral other Symbols - actual se trock mentioned both by Arnobius, and Cle-mens Alexandrinus; which to prevent too great a length, I shall omit, and confine my felf to fome mentioned by Julius Firmicus Maternus, who, in his most excellent Discourse concerning the Errour of prophane Religions, after he hath shewn the brutishness, stupidity, and folly of the Heathens, in worshipping fuch filthy, villanous, and barbarous Deities, and in rendring to them fuch cruel, unclean, and abominable Services, as they did, proceeds to speak particularly to the Symbols, or Marks nfed

uled amongst the more devout and zealous Adorers of those black and murtherous Gods; the first whereof is ' One used in a certain Temple, that when a dying Man was desirous to be admitted into the innermost Parts thereof; he was to repeat this obscure and dark Sentence, I have eaten of

In quodam Templo, ut in interiores partes, homo moriturus possit admitti, dicit, de Tympano manducavi, de Cymbalo bibi, & religionis secreta perdidici; quod Græco Sermone dicitur, en Tuumars Bispana; ch nupsaks as-Tona, Téfora migno. De Etror. Prof. Relig. p. 35.

à Taber, I have drunk of a Cymbal, I have learned the Secrets of Religion; which Symbol is also mentioned by Clemens Alexandrinus, and with a small Difference thus recorded by him, ' I have eaten of a Taber, I have drunk of a Cymbal, I have dan-

8

<sup>2</sup> Έκ τυμπάνε εφαζόν, χυμβάλε έπον, επερνοφόρησα; र्के में कवर्ण पंत्रहीvov.

slamic mab

municul si

anobrapat K

ced with a Cup in mine trept, ad gent. p. 8.

Hand, I have entred into the Marriage Bed. Which faid Father sufficiently intimates to us, That this Symbol was used in the famous Services of the Phrygians to Cybele the Mother of the Gods; the Words and Expressions whereof have a relation to the Taber and Cymbal which she invented, to the mad and brutish way of her Worshippers adoring of her, and to those abominable and horrid Deeds, which in those diabolical Rites they celebrated and admired.

The Symbol used

fignum est. Oeds du mergas. Jul. Firmic. Matern. de Error. Prof. Relig. p. 40.

nowned God of the Persians, was six six six six of some of the Manner of the Generation, or Production of the said

Oi τα τε Μίθεε μυς ής ια Βραδιδίοντες, λέβεσον εν πέτς ας γεγρογιώδαι αυτον. Dial.cum Tryph. p. 296.

Narrant gentilium fabulæ Mithram vel in lapide vel in terra de folo æstu libidinis esse generatum. Tom. 2. advers. Jovinian. lib. 1. pag. 142.

Nocte qua-

dam Simula-

God, which as Justin Martyr, and Jerom do both assure us, the Pagan Mythologists fancied to have been by the alone Heat of Lust from a Stone or Rock.

The Symbol employ-

TATA

by the more devout and

fecret Votaries of Mi-

ed in the Orgia, or Revels of Bacchus,

* Julius Fir- was, 4 Existineses, Simosope, or rather Existing mic. Matern.
de Error. prof. nesws, Simosope, baving crooked Horns, douRelig. p. 43. ble-Faced; because, under such Representations, that drunken God was worshipped and adored.

Lastly, That I might not mention any more, the said Julius Firmicus Maternus acquaints us with this following Symbol of some Idolaters, 2 That on a cerca supinum ponitur, & per numeros digestis sletibus plangitur, deinde cum se sicta lamentatione satiaverint, lumen insertur: Tunc à sacerdote omnium qui slebant, sauces unguntur, quibus perunctis sacerdos hoc lento marmure susurrat: Oasperte, Gc. Ib. p. 45. tain Night they placed an Image upright in a Bed, and then wept round about it; which when they had sufficiently done, a Light was brought im: And then the Priest anointed the Cheeks of all those who had lamented, pronouncing with a soft Murmur these words;

Θαρρείτε μύςαι τε Эεε σεσωσιβόε, "Εςαι γ ημίν εκ σύνων σώπεία.

Be confident, ye initiated Ones of the Saved God, for there shall be Salvation unto us from our Labours.

9

15

3-

.

e.

nc

tis

14

I might yet produce feveral other Examples of the same kind; but those already alledged, do sufficiently declare the nature of the Pagan Symbols, That they were fecret Marks, Words, or Tokens, communicated at the time of Initiation, or a little before, unto those who were Consecrated, or entred in their reserved or hidden Rites, and to none else; by the Declaration, Manifestation, or Pronunciation whereof, those more devout Idolaters knew each other, and were with all freedom and liberty of Access, admitted to their nocturnal and more intimate Mysteries and Villanies, from whence all others as Prophane and Unworthy, were kept out, and excluded; which faid Symbols bols, those who had received them, were obliged carefully to conceal, and not on any account whatsoever to divulge or reveal.

Now, for all these Reasons, the Apostles Creed was by our Ancestors very sitly termed a Symbol, because it was studiously concealed from the Pagan World, and not revealed to the Catechamens themselves, till just before their Baptism, or Initiation in the Christian Mysteries, when it was delivered unto them, as that secret Note, Mark, or Token, by which the Faithful in all parts of the World should interchangeably know and be known.

That the Creed was carefully preserved from the knowledg of the Prophane, is a thing abundantly afferted by the Primitive Writers; St. Cyprian

"Sacramentum fidei non esse profanandum, apud Salomonem in Paramiis, in aures imprudentis noli quidquam dicere, ne quando audierit, irrideat sensatos Sermones tuos. Item in Evangelio Matthaum, ne dederitis sanctum canibus, neque miseritis margaritas vestras ante porcos, ne forte conculcent ea pedibus suis, & conversi clidant vos. Testim. lib. 3. ad Quirin. Testim. 50. p. 429.

assures us hereof, That the Sacrament of Faith, that is, the Creed, was not to be prophaned, or divulged: For which he cites two texts of Scripture; the one, Proverbs xxiii. 9. Speak not in the Ears of a Fool, for he will despise the Wisdom and the other Metther of thy Words; and the other, Matthew vii. 6.

vii. 6. Give not that which is holy unto the Dogs, neither cast ye your Pearls before Swine, lest they trample them under their Feet, and turn again, and rent you. St. Ambrose most pathetically exhorts to the utmost Vigilancy to conceal the Christian Mysteries, and in particular, to be very careful not by incautelousness to reveal the Secrets of the Creed or the Lord's Prayer; and in feveral of the 'Sermons of Petrus Chrysologus,

' Cave ne incautè Symboli vel Dominicæ Orationis divulges mysteria. Tom. 4. de Cain & Abel, lib. 1. c. 9. p. 125.

2 Serm. 58. p. 52. Serm. 59. p. 54. Serm. 60. p. 55, 60, there are frequent and earnest Exhortations to preferve and hide the Creed from publick Knowledge and Observation, that the Unworthy and Prophane might not have this Secret of God with them: nay, fo exact and punctual were they in this regard, that the Creed was not declared to the Catechumens themselves, till they were advanced to the higher Form of that Order; and being ripe and fit for Bap. , Erat autem tism, were speedily by that Ordinance dominica post to commence perfect Members of the lectiones, at7 Visible Church: Of which custom quetractatum dimissis Cate-St. Ambrose speaks, where he writes, chumenis, That on a Lord's Day, the Lessons and Symbolum apetentibus in Baptisteriis tradebam Basilica. Lib. s. Epist. 35.p.129

Sermons

Sermons being ended, and the Catechumens of the lower Rank dismissed, that then in the Baptistery of the Church, he delivered the Symbol to some of the Competentes, who were the fuperiour Rank of the Catechumens: Consonant unto which, it is related by Ferrandus Diaconus concerning a Converted Negro,

Ex more Catechumenus, post aliquantum temporis propinguante Tolennitate Paschali inter competentes offertur, scribitur, eruditur, auditurus Symbolum profitetur. Inter. oper. Fulgent. ep. ad Fulgent. p. 204.

That ' first of all, according to custom, he was a Catechumen; and then after some time, as the Feast of Easter drew nigh, (which was their folemn time of Baptism) he was advanced to the Rank of the Competentes; where, amongst the other Actions peculiar thereunto, this was one, That he heard, and affented to the Symbol; so that the Catechumens knew not the Creed till just before their Baptism, when it was delivered unto them as that private Mark or Sign by which the Christians mutually knew each other: Unto which, it is not improbable, Ceci-tint. Offav. P. 81.

Occultis se lius the Heathen Disputant, in Minunotis & infig- cius Felix, did blindly refer, when he nibusnoscunt, faid, That? the Christians knew each otwo pene an- ther by hidden Notes or Marks, and loved requam nove- almost before they were acquainted with one another, seeing Maximus Taurinenfis affirms, That the Apostles appointed the be a Mark of Distinction between Believers and Unbelievers, to discover both the Strangers and

6

i-

1-

e

0-

ed th

nfis

Apostoli - mysterium Symboli tradiderunt, ut —fignaculum Mystery of the Creed, to Symboli inter fideles perfidosque lecerneret, & alienus à fide atque hostis appareret Ecclesiæ, qui aut ranquam baptizatus nescisset, aut ranquam hæreticus corrupisset. Homil. in Symb. p. 239.

Enemies to the Faith of the Church, who either knew it not, or had corrupted it. So that from the whole, it feems to me most evident, That the Title of Symbol attributed to the Creed, is to be derived from the Symbols used in the Sacra, or Religious Rites of the Heathens; in allusion whereunto, the Creed is fo termed, because it was delivered unto Persons at their initiation and admission by Baptism into the Visible Church, as that secret Mark and Sign, by which they should be known from all others, and mutually know each other.

But, from the Names of the Creed. let us pass unto the Creed it self; and, in the next place, enquire after the Authors and Composers thereof, who have for many Ages fuccesfively been esteemed to have been the Apostles themselves: from whence it is called the Apostles Creed. Now, that from the Days of the Apostles, there hath emi

fferium Stair

-frequently

n perndoloue e à fide ac-

atus helpaten. Is competen been used in the Church a certain Rule and Form of Faith, not much unlike unto our present Creed; I am fo far from denying, that I shall endeavour to prove it in the enfuing Discourse, from Tertullian and others of the most Primitive Writers: But, that the Apostles themselves should be the immediate Authors of the Creed in the present Form that now it is, and that from their Days it hath without any variation been inviolably transmitted down to us by Tradition; This is that which is justly questionable, and I doubt not but to evince the contrary.

The first, I think, who hath given us this smooth Account concerning the Composition of the Creed, is St.

Duodecim Apostoli velut periti artifices in unum convenientes, clavem suo consilio conslaverunt, clavem enim quandam ipsum Symbolum dixerim, per quod referantur diaboli tenebræ, ut lux Christi adveniat. Tom. 3. Serm. 38, p. 265.

Ambrose; who writes, That 'the Twelve Apostles, as skilful Artisicers, assembled together, and made a Key by their common Advise, that is, the Creed; by which the

Darkness of the Devil is disclosed, that the Light of Christ may appear: Or, if the Sermon, in which this Passage is, be not the genuine Off-spring of so great a Man, it is not long after his time that Ruffinus gives the same Account of it, where he relates, That they had received by Tradition from their Fathers, that after the Ascension of our Saviour, and the Effusion of the Holy Ghost, before the Apostles separated from each other to go into the Several Parts of the habitable World, to preach the Gospel to them; they fetled amongst themselves the Rule of their fature Preaching, to prevent their teaching different Doctrines, during their Separation, unto those whom they should invite to the Christian Faith: wherefore they assembled all together, and being full of the Holy Ghost, they composed the Creed; each one inserting what he thought convenient; and ordained it to be a Test of their future Sermons, and a Rule to be given unto the Faithful. The like is alfo afferted by 2 Leo Magnus, 3 Jerom, "John Callian, and an innu-

' Tradunt majores nostri, quod post ascensionem domini — Apostolos—ad fingulas quemque proficisci nationes. Discessuri itaque ab invicem normam prius futuræ prædicationis in commune conftituunt, ne forte alii ab aliis abducti diversum aliquid his qui ad fidem Christi invitabantur, exponerent. Omnes ergò in uno pofiti & Spiritu Sancto repleti, breve istud futuræ fibi prædicationis indicium. conferendo in unum quod sentiebat unusquisque, componunt, atque hanc credentibus dandam effe regulam statuunt. Exposit.in Symb. Apost. S. 2. p. 565.

s,

0fi-

7, ir

16. he

at

if

is,

fo

his

me

<sup>2</sup> Epist. 13. p. 109. 3 Tom. 2. advers. Error. Johan. Hierofol. Ep. 61. cap. 9. p. 219.

+ De Incarn. Dom. lib. 5. p.1272.

merable number of other Authors; fince from the Days of Ruffinus, it hath for several hundreds

11 xit, Credo in

deum patrem

omnipotentem; Johannes dixit,

Creatorem

of Years been generally believed, That the Twelve Apostles, before they went forth from Jerusalem to preach the Gofpel, agreed on this formulary of Faith to be the Rule and Standard of all their Sermons, which without any Variation should be delivered to their Pro-

felytes and Converts.

But besides this Opinion, that the Apostles were in general the Authors of the Creed; fome have advanced one step farther, and affirmed, That every Apostle inserted his particular Article; by which, according to the number of the Apostles, they have divided the Creed into twelve Articles, allowing one Article for each Apostle: A full Account whereof is in a Sermon

? Petrus di-falsly attributed to St. Austin, where the Author thereof gives us this following relation, concerning each particular Article that was put in by each particular Apostle. Peter, saith he,

cœli & terræ; Jacobus dixir, Credo & in Jesum Christum, filium ejus unicum, dominum nostrum; Andreas dixit, qui conceptus est de Spiritu Sancto, natus ex Maria Virgine; Philippus ait, passus sub Pontio Pilato, erucifixus, mortuus & fepultus; Thomas air, descendit ad inferna, tertia die resurrexit à mortuis; Bartholomæus dixit, ascendit ad cœlos, sedet ad dexteram Dei Patris omnipotentis; Matthæus dixit, inde venturus judicare vivos & moreuos; Jacobus Alphei, Credo & in Spiritum Sanctum, Sanctam Ecclefiam Catholicam; Simon Zelotes, Sanctorum communionem, remissionem peccatorum; Judas Jacobi, carnis resurrectionem; Marthias complevit, vitam zrernam. Amen. Tom:10. Serm.de Temp.115. p.359.

id. I believe in God the Father Alighty; John, maker of Heaven and arth; James, and in Jesus Christ his aly Son, our Lord; Andrew, who was onceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the irgin Mary; Philip, Suffered under Ponus Pilate, was crucified, dead and buied; Thomas, he descended into Hell, be third Day be rose again from the Dead; Bartholomew, he ascended into Heaven, sitteth at the right Hand of God he Father Almighty; Matthew, from bence shall he come to judge the Quick nd the Dead; James the Son of Alheus, I believe in the Holy Ghost, the Holy Catholick Church; Simon Zelotes, he Communion of Saints, the forgiveness f Sins; Jude the Brother of James, the Resurrection of the Body; Matthias, Life everlasting. Amen.

S

d

t

1

e

-

s,

n

e

1-

1-ch

e, nina-

rus,

ur. ex-

are anem,

hias

59. id

Now as to the Truth of this Tralition, I think it is altogether to be lenied, and that for feveral Reasons, s that it was nigh Four hundred Years after Christ, before the framing of the Creed by the Apostles was ever heard of; and even Ruffinus himself, one of the first Reporters thereof, hough in the beginning of his Com- qui Symbomentary he doth roundly affert it, yet lum tradiden the midst thereof he speaks of it runt, &c. Ex-doubt- $. 20. p. 570;

* Cautiffime

doubtfully, as if its Authors were uncertain and unknown.

Moreover, had the Apostles been the real formers of the Creed before their dispersion from Jerusalem, it cannot be imagined, that St. Luke in his History of their Acts, would have wholly omitted fo confiderable a Fact as this: Neither can it be conceived. but that the innumerable Councils and Synods amongst the Primitive Christians, or at least some of them, would in their Decisions and Determinations of Faith and Doctrine, have had some Reference or other to this Apostolical System, as their Standard and Basis, if any fuch there had been: whereas no fuch thing appears, but the contrary thereunto; for, as they never mentioned any fuch Creed, fo as occasion offered, they composed new Creeds, and even performed one of the highest Parts of the Christian Religion, I mean Baptism, by them; at least, so they did by the Nicene Creed, as in the Encyclycal Epistle of the Emperor Basili.

Tò Σύμβολον τ τιή άγίων παθέρων, τ έν Νικαία, — εἰς ὁ ἡμεῖς τε κὴ πάνθες οἱ περὸ ἡμῶν πις δίσανθες ἐβαπθίςημβο. Ευαgr. Ecclel. Histor. lib. 3. c. 4. p. 335.

doubt- s. co. p. 570.

cus, the said Emperor declares, That He and all Believers before him, were baptized into the Creed of the Three hun-

Nice; and the Emperour Zeno, in his Henoticon, or Edict of Union, which he published after the Expulsion of Backlifus Arielly com

iliseus, strictly comnanded, That 'all eusses αξικμένοι φωθίσματ Φ
bould be baptized by the αὐτὸ κὸ μόνον Φραλαμβάνοντες Nicene Creed alone, and βαπτίζονται. Id. Ibid.c. 14. p.345.

hat no Person or Church should make ese of any other Symbol, or Definition of Faith; assuring us withal, that this ame Method was observed by the Third General Council held at Ephesus, where Nestorius was condemned. I might for he farther confirmation of this Point, irge several Arguments more; but it being so clear and evident, I shall ony farther add, That if the Apostles had really framed, and delivered to heir Successors this Creed, every Church would have agreed therein; and there would not have been fo many different and diverse Creeds, as we find there were; fcarce two Churches, think I may fafely venture to fay hat not two, had exactly the same ymbol without any Variation or Dif-

-

IS

e

al

if

10

y

n.

on

is, est

an lid

cy-

ili.

ror

and im, the un-

drea

Ruffinus informs us, was neither in fix Romanz Symbolo non abetur additum, descendir ad Inserna, sed neque in Orientis Eccleis habetur hic sermo. Expos. in Symb. S. 20. p. 570.

the

the Roman, nor Oriental Creeds: The Communion of Saints was not in any Creed till above Four hundred Years after Christ, and then not immediate ly received in all: The Clause of Life Everlasting was omitted in feveral, whilst in others it was inferted. But not to exemplify in any more Particulars, whofoever shall compare the Grecian, or as some may think it more fitly termed, the French Creed, record ed by Irenaus; those of Carthage, cited by Tertullian; that of Aquileia, com mented on by Ruffin; that of Hippo repeated by St. Austin; that of Raven na, extant in Petrus Chrysologus; tha of Turin, explained by Maximus Bi shop of that Church; and several of ther Creeds here and there intersper fed in the Primitive Writings: I say whofoever shall compare these Creed together, shall find them vastly diffe rent; and that there are very few A ticles, in the Order and Expression whereof, they do all without Except on, agree : Which confideration, wit those forementioned, sufficiently ev dence, That the Apostles neither wer nor could be the Authors or Comp fers of our present Creed, that pass under their Name.

But though this Creed be not of the postles immediate framing, yet it may truly styled Apostolical, not only beruse it contains the Sum of the Apoles Doctrine, but also, because the ge thereof is so great, that its Birth nust be fetched from the very Apostock Times: It is true, the exact Form f the present Creed cannot pretend to e fo antient by Four hundred Years; out a Form not much different from , was used long before. Irenaus, the cholar of Polycarp, the Disciple of t. John, where he repeats a Creed not nuch unlike to ours, he affures us,

That the Church diersed throughout the ed this Faith from the les; which is also af-

1

u.

970

d

ed

m ppo

en.

ha

Bi

1 0

per

fay

eed

diffe

7 At fino

cept

Wit

r evi

wer

mpd

pall

нав бъль f обхыщия — Леhole World had recei- owdewlon and 3 7 Smosonw n) 7 insivar maduth abanaspostles and their Disci- Lib. t. c. 2. p. 35.

rmed by Tertullian of one of his reeds, That 'that Rule of Faith had 'Hanc regu-gen current in the Church from the be- Evangelii deinning of the Gospel: And which is cucurrisse. ery observable, although there was so Advers. Prareat a diversity of Creeds, as that xean, p. 316. carce two Churches did exactly agree herein, yet the Form and Substance f every Creed, was in a great meaare the same; so that, except there had

sie dance he had been from the very Plantation of Christianity, a Form of sound Words, or a System of Faith delivered by the first Planters thereof, it is not easy to conceive, how all Churches should harmonize, not only in the Articles themselves, into which they were baptized, but in a great measure also, in the Method and Order of them.

But now the Creed, or at least a great part of it, being fo very antient, and the Records of those Times being withal so few, it will be a difficult Task to give an exact and punctual Account of its certain Authors, and of the precise intended meaning of every Article and Clause thereof; which Difficulty is yet farther increased by the extraordinary care and affected studiousness of the Primitive Fathers, to conceal the Creed; which was fo great and unaccountable, as that they not only kept it from the knowledg of the Heathens and Catechumens, as hath been already demonstrated, but they even scrupled to commit it to Writing, and rather chose to transmit it down to their Posterity by Tradition; for which reason, finus calls it the Tradition Faith; and Jerom informs us, That this

Traditio fidei. Expos. in Symb. §.37. P. 575.

this Symbol of our Faith and Hope delivered by he Apostles, was not britten in Paper and lak, but in the slessly Tables of the Heart; n an agreeableness w

In Symbolo fidei & spei nofiræ quod ab Apostolis traditum, non scribitur in charta & atramento, sed in tabulis cordis carnalibus. Tom. 2. advers. Error. Johan. Hieros. Epist. 61. cap. 9. p. 219.

n an agreeableness whereunto, Perus Chrysologus frequently exhorts his Hearers, to preserve this Gift in the most inward Recesses of their Hearts, not to permit vile Paper to depreciate this precious Gift, or beauthic Mustern of Line

0

35

ut

to if-

Dy

ef.

nat his Hoc vitæ Symbolum—mens teneat—ne divinitatis pretiofum munus depreciet charta vilis, ne mysterium lucis atrum tenebret atramentum. In Symb. Apost. Serm.

this precious Gift, or black Ink to darken this Mystery of Light: And many other such like Passages might be easily produced, to evidence their strange Fancy, to keep the Creed secret, concealed, and hidden; which together with the sorementioned Considerations, do clearly shew, That it is no easy matter to give a satisfactory Account of the Authors and intended Sense of every Article thereof, and may justly excuse or lessen a Mistake or Desect herein.

Wherefore, having premifed this Observation, I shall now endeavour to give the best account I can, of the Authors and Framers of the Creed, and of the designed Meaning of the

the feveral Articles thereof.

As for the Authors thereof, it cannot be denied, but that they were feveral and many; the Creed was neither the work of one Man, nor of one Day, but, during a long Tract of Time, passed successively through several Hands, e'er it arrived to its prefent Perfection; the Composure of it was gradual, and not instantaneous; the Manner whereof, I apprehend to have been these two ways: First, Some of the Articles therein were derived from the very Days of the Apoftles: Secondly, The others were afterwards added by the Primitive Do ctors and Bishops, in opposition to gross Herefies and Errours that sprung up in the Church.

As for the first of these, That some of the Articles were of the very inserting of the Apostles; this will appear, if we consider, That the Apostles and Evangelists, who were the first sent forth to preach the Gospel and to convert the World both Jewish and Pagan; when they formally received any one a Member into the Christian Church by Baptism, they did then particularly demand his Assent to the Christian Faith, and a Deservice of the Christian Faith, and a Deservice of the Very service of the Very s

claration

claration of his Belief thereof: An Example whereof we have in the 8th of the Acts; where, after the Conference between the Eunuch and Philip the Evangelist, when the Eunuch testified his Desire to be baptized. Philip told him, That if he did believe with all his Heart, he might; unto which, when the Eunuch replied, That he did believe Jesus Christ to be the Son of God, then Philip baptized him, but not before. From which fingle instance it is manifest, That the Apoftles and first Preachers of the Gofpel required the Assent of all Persons at Baptism to some of the particular Articles of the Christian Faith, which were the Platform and Model of the Creed, fince that time, always used at Baptism. Which of the particular Articles of our present Creed were inserted therein by them, I shall more largely shew in their particular Order, wherein they are disposed in the Rule of Faith; it is sufficient in this place to fay, That they were the Articles of the Existence of God, the Trinity; that Jesus was Christ, or the Saviour of the World; the Remission of Sins, and the Resurre-Ction elolly mileso

0

e.

0.

af.

0.

to

ng

me

in ap-

po

the [pel

will rethe

they

Af

De

ation

D 2

Now

Now as for these Apostolick Demands, they might not always be exactly the same, nor still confined to the forementioned Particulars; in every Church, and at every Season, they might not mention the very fame Particulars without either Addition or Diminution, but allow themselves a liberty of Expression according as they faw occasion, and so in this respect they might fometimes vary and alter; although, as to the Fundamentals of Christianity, that Jesus of Nazareth was Christ the Messias, and the like, they never omitted them: and the form of their Expression, and delivery of their Confession of Faith, was generally the fame, near the Method and Order of our present Creed; for had it not been so, it is almost imposfible to conceive, how all Churches should so harmoniously agree in the general Form and Order of their respective Creeds, when yet they all disagree in the Words and Expressions used therein.

This Apostolical System professed at Baptism, was not committed to Writing, but observed by, or lest with the Governors of every Church to use it on the like occasion, whose Duty it was to preserve it undefiled and incorupt, and to make it the terms of Chrifianity and admission to their Communion; unto which, some think St. Paul might have an eye, when he exhorted Timothy to keep that which was I Tim. 6.20. committed to his Trust, and to hold 2 Tim. 1.13. fast the form of Sound Words: But whether he had or no, I shall not here enquire. This is certain, That not only Timothy, but the Apostolical Churches, and all others who received it from them, were folicitous and careful to preferve those Articles and that Form of Faith, which was delivered unto them by the Apostles; and as the Apostles, so they in imitation of their Example, did always at Baptism require the Assent of the Person to be baptized, unto the Creed, or Articles of the Christian Faith; which is a thing fo univerfally known, as 'Mosibiferthat it may feem almost needless to vatur antiproduce any Quotations for the proof gratiam bapof it: Thus Ruffinus relates, that in tifmi fuscephis Days, 'the ancient Custom was re- lice Symbotained at Rome, for Persons to be bapti- lum reddere. zed, publickly to recite the Creed: And Exposin Symb. Salvian, That 4 at Baptism the Chri- Quæ est in

was

y

h

e,

10

e.

as

bc

or

of-res

he re-

all

ons

Ted

ri the eit

7 it

was Baptismo salu-

tari Christianorum confessio ?— Credo inquis in Deum Patrem omnipotentem, & in Jesum Christum filium ejus. De Gubern. Dei, 1.6.p. 197.

stians professed their Faith in God the Father Almighty, and in Jesus Christ his Son; according unto which, Vigilius Tapsensis, or whosoever else was the Author of those Books concerning the Trinity to Theophilus, extant amongst the Works of Athanasius, Ad facrum Lavacrum Regenerationis venientes, confessi sic, Credo in Deum Patrem omnipotentem, & in Jesum Christum Filium ejus unigenitum, & Spiritum Sanctum. Inter. oper. Athanas. Tom. 2. lib. 11. ad Theophil. P. 591.

writes, That those who came to the sacred Laver of Regeneration, confessed, saying, I believe in God the Father Almighty, and in Jesus Christ his only Son, and in the Holy Ghost; and long before any of these Justin Martyr assures us, That

<sup>2</sup> 'Οσοι ἀν σαδώση, κ) σιεδίωση ἀληθη ταῦτα τὰ ὑφ΄ ημών διθασκόμθρα — ἀ ∫ονται ὑφ΄ ημών Ένθα ὕδως ἐςὶ. Αροί. 2. P. 93. none were baptized, unless they did first declare their Assent to the Doctrine and Faith of the Gospel.

Not long after the Apostles Days, and even in the Apostolick Age it self, several Heresies sprung up in the Church, subversive of the Fundamentals of Christianity; to prevent the malignant Effects whereof, and to hinder such Hereticks from an undiscernible mixing themselves with the Orthodox Christians, as also to establish and strengthen the true Believers

S

0

n

rst

10

of

It

ft

10

h

s, it

in

n-

nt

to 1-ne

a-

rs

n the necessary Truths of the Christin Religion, the Christian Verities opposite to those Heresies, were inserted n the Creed; and together with those other Articles, which had without any intermission been constantly used from the time of the Apostles, were proposed to the affent and belief of all Persons who came to be baptized: The Governours of the Church judging this a prudent and an effectual course, to preserve the Fundamentals of Religion from being undermined and overthrown by cunning and fubtle Hereticks; which is the fecond way by which the Creed was composed, viz. The Doctors and Governours of the Church did add unto those of the Apostles, other Articles, in opposition to gross and fundamental Heresies and Errours, as they appeared and grew up, as Ruffinus informs iis; that whereas it was in the beginning of the Roman Creed, I believe in God the Father

Almighty, there were some other Clauses added thereto in the Creeds of several Churches, occasioned by certain He-reticks, to exclude the Sense of their new Doctrine; as particularly in the D 4 Aquileian His additur invisibilem & impassibilem, sciendum, quod duo isti Sermones in Ecclesiæ Romanæ Symbolo non habentur, constat autem apud nos additos, Hæreseos causa Sabellii,—quæ Patrem ipsum, vel ex Virgine natum dicit, & visibilem sastum, vel passum affirmat in carne. Ibid. §. 7. p. 567.

In cateris locis propter nonnullos Hareticos addita quadam videntur, per qua novella dostrina sensus crederetur excludi. Expos. in Symb. Apost. §. 3. p. 565.

Aquileian Creed, to the word Almighty was subjoined invisible, impassible, in contradiction to the Heresy of the Sabellians, or Patripassians, that the Father was born of the Virgin, both wishle and passible and so became both visible and passible. But, there is no need of any farther Testimonies to prove this Point at present, seeing a great part of the ensuing Treatise will be an abundant confirmation thereof.

I would not be here mistaken, as if I did mean, that none of those Articles which were introduced into the Creed, and fetled there in opposition to Heresies, were ever used before, or demanded at Baptism by the Adminifirer thereof; but my meaning is, that every Church being at liberty to express the Fundamental Articles of the Christian Faith in that way and manner, which she saw fit pro re nata, or as occasion offered; it is not improbable, but that before damnable Herefies sprung up, they might not always to a tittle follow the same Form of Words, nor exactly ask the same Questions; as for Example, The Do-Etrines

Arines of the Trinity, of Jesus of Nazareth's being Christ, or the Mesfias, of Remission of Sins through his Name, and of the Resurrection, were at the first Preaching of the Gospel sufficient, without a particular Explication of the Actions of the Father, and the States of the Son; as Philip only required the Eunuch to believe, That Jesus Christ was the Son of God: And if at some Seasons they might mention the Humiliation and Exaltation of Christ, and the several Acts thereof, at other Seasons they might omit them, and not constantly express the Particulars in that order in which they are now found in the Creed, till the appearance of contrary Herefies gave them occasion so to do; so that when any Article was added to the Creed, it was not the introduction of a new Point, but the vindicating and fetling of an old One, and a constant perpetual Profession and Declaration of that Truth, which before was only arbitrarily and uncertainly exprefsed, seeing every one, before those contrary Errours arose, was supposed firmly to believe and own it. In which respect, I may say of the Creed as Vincentius

,

)

f

1

1,

-

e

n

e

)-

es

Vincentius Lirinensis doth of the Canons and Determinations of Councils, that the design of the Quid unquam aliud conciliorum decretis enisa est nisi ut quod antea simpliciter credebatur, hoc idem postea diligentius credererur; quod antea lentius prædicabatur, hoc idem postea instantius prædicaretur; quod antea securius colebatur, hoc idem postea sollicitius excoleretur? Commonit. advers. Hæres. cap. 32. p. 104. Church thereby is,

That what was before
more simply, should now
more diligently be believed; that what was more seldom, should now more frequently be preached;
and that what was more unconcernedly, should for the future be more carefully Worshipped.

CHATTER STORY

By these two Ways then, was the present Creed framed; part thereof was transmitted down from the Apositles, and the other part thereof was afterwards added by the Governours of the Church, to prevent Heresies from corrupting her Doctrine, and Hereticks from insecting her Members: By the which of these two Ways each particular Article was inserted in the Creed, I shall shew in the following part of this Tteatife, and shall not here anticipate or forestall it.

This being then the Method whereby the Creed was framed; although nothing that is contained therein, must be believed any farther, than it agrees with the Holy Scriptures; yet the inended sense of the greatest part thereof, is not to be fetched from thence, but from the Writings of the Fathers, and from those Heresies against whom it was defigned: which Expression may at the first hearing be perhaps, esteemed by some too hasty and inconsiderate, but the nature of the thing well reflected on, makes it evident and beyond contradiction; and if the Authority of others before me, will be more valued and better received, it will be no difficult Task to produce feveral, who have affirmed the same thing; but at present, I shall content my felf with the Testimony of Monsieur Jurieu, a French Divine now living, who writes in express

terms, That for his part he is perswaded, that we must not seek the sense of the Articles of the Apostles Creed in the Scriptures, but in the interior of the sense continue of

e

f

IS

rs

es

nd

n-

VO

m-

in ife,

re-

ere-

ugh

nust

be

' Je suis persuadé qu'il faut chercher le sens des Articles du Symbole des Apôstres, non dans l'ecriture, mais dans l'intention de ceux qui ont composé ce Symbole. Prejug. Legit. contre le Papisme, 1 Part. c. 1. p. 26.

tention of those who composed it.

This is that which I design to do, to search into the intended meaning of this Compendium of Faith, which hath been received in all Ages with

the

Albert William

world hales

ense Tox

नेत प्रश्लिक्षण

the greatest Veneration and Esteem: The respect and reverence that the Antients paid unto it, hath been in part already related; and in the selatter times, throughout feveral Centuries of Years, fo great a Deference hath been rendred thereunto, as that it hath not been only used at Baptism, but in every publick Assembly it hath been usually, if not always read, as the Standard and Basis of the Christian Faith, unto which the whole Congregation hath been wont to testify their unanimous Affent, by faying, Amen.

It is true, that the Primitive Christians affecting an unaccountable Secrefy for this and their other Mysteries, as it hath been already shewn, did not in their Affemblies publickly recite the Creed, except at the times of Baptism, which besides Cases of Necessity, were only at Easter and Whitfontide; from whence it comes to pass, that the conflant repeating of the Creed in the Church was not introduced till a long time after our Saviour's Incarnation.

* Timote & TO T TELAKOcior Sena x क्री के कव दिश्था ने कांड्स्थड ou me oyon xal' exastw

moisgoagt

contro de Par-

The repetition of the Creed at every Assembly, was appointed in the Eastern Church by Timothy, Arch Suvagiv Ne fedas mageondiarev. Theodor. Lettor. Ecclef. Hift.l. 2. p. 563

bishop

bishop of Constantinople, in the Reign of the Emperor Anastasius, who after having governed the Empire Twenty feven Years, died Anno 521. About which time, Petrus Gnupheus Bishop of Antioch, prescribed also the perpetual recital of the Creed, at the pub- ouvaits to lick Administration of Divine Service; σύμβολον λέwhich before that time, as the Hifto- p. 566. rian observes, * was on-* Απαξ τε έτες λεγουθών ly repeated on the Day westerov in the and was mediately preceding ondin is dels walls, to have the Good Friday, when the oxious nathxhoras. Id. Ibid. Catechisms were more p. 563. solemnly performed in order to the Celebration of Baptism, the Easter or the Easter-Eve ensuing: Which Repetition on that Day was first appointed by the Council of Laodicea; the 46th

Canon whereof is, Baptizandos oportet fidei learn the Creed, and repeat it to the Bishop or

1

i-

e.

e-

n,

ly

es

of

nd

nes

ing

not

our

eve.

the

rch-

0.563

Mop

That ' those who are Symbolum discere, & quinta seria to be baptized, must ultima Septimana vel Episcopo vel Presbytero reddere. Carranza Summ. Concil. p. 98. Edit. Genev. 1600, a Presbyter the Thursday before Baster. In the Western Churches, at a Synod etiam placuit of Thirty five Bishops, held under A- ab omnibus laricus at Agatha or Agde, in the Lower die, id est an-Languedoc, the Ninth Canon thereof te octo dies ordains, That on the Lord's Day be- furrectionis, publice in Ecclesia Competentibus prædicari. Id. Ibid. p. 161.

tore

fore Easter, the Creed should be publickly preached in the Church to the Competentes, or to those of the Catechumens, who being ripe for Baptism, were speedily to be admitted thereunto: But, the general and constant reading thereof, seems not to have prevailed in the West, till almost Five hundred and ninety Years after Christ; when, in imitation of the Eastern Churches, the Third Council of Toledo, by the Petitione Recaredi Regis, conflituit Synodus ut per omnes Ecclesias Hispaniæ & Galliciæ, — Symbolum sidei recitetur, — quo sides vera manisesta sit, & testimonium habeat, & ad Christi Corpus, & sanguinem prælibandum pectora populorum side purisicata accedant. Id. Ib. Can. 2. p. 254.

out the lie is

asi todistrict

Petition of K. Recared, ordered, That through out all the Churches both of Spain and Gallicia, the Creed should be repeated with a loud Voice every Lord's Day, that so the true Faith might be manifested and assented to, and the Hearts of the People being purified by Faith, they might be prepared to partake of the Body and Blood of Christ.

It must indeed be owned, That the Creed appointed to be read in the Church, both by Timothy Archbishop of Constantinople, and the third Council of Toledo, was the Nicene or Constantinopolitan Creed; which, for that time, through some Reasons peculial to that Age, did in some measure exclips

clipse the Apostles Creed, although this latter did in a little time recover its former Esteem and Value, and for several Ages hath, next to the Holy Scriptures, been always reputed the most Venerable and Divine Piece extant; and whilst all other Creeds, excepting the Nicene, and that commonly ascribed to Athanasius, have perished as to their use, with their very Birth and Framing, this hath outlived them all, and for several hundred Years hath been uninterruptedly used, and even before those two other Creeds, it hath been perpetually and constantly preferred.

Such a peculiar Honour hath Almighty God been pleased in his most wise Providence, to put upon this particular Creed: To the Explication of the several Articles whereof, I shall forthwith proceed; first repeating the Creed it self, which is to be the subject of the ensuing Discourse, and is as follows.

,

e ŋ.

th

ia,

re-

ice

bat

ght

by ake

the

hop

oun

Con

that

ulia

re e

clips

I Believe in God the Father Almighty, maker of Peaven and Earth; and in Ielus Chilf his only Son, our Lozd, who was conceived by the Poly Short, boxn of the Airgin Mary, liftered under Pontius Pilate, was Crucifistered under Pontius Pilate, was C

ed,

ed, Dead, and Buried; he descended into Hell; the third Day he rose again from the Dead, he ascended into Peaven, and litteth at the right Pand of God the Father Amighty; from thence he shall come to judg the Duick and the Dead. I believe in the Poly Shost, the Poly Catholick Church, the Communion of Saints, the Forgive ness of Sins, the Resurrection of the Body, and the Life Everlasting.

CHAP. II.

The Reason for which it is said in the Singular Number, I believe; the meaning of the word Believe: by believing in God, we assent to his Exi-stence, and Unity; the Greek and ancient Latin Creeds read, I believe in ONE God, which was designed against some blasphemous Deniers of the Divine Unity, who Negatively were not the Jews, since they owne it; nor the Heathens principally, see ing the greater, or at least the wise part of them acknowledged it: Bu Positively, they were certain ancien Hereticks; in opposition unto whom this Clause of ONE God is to considered, either Absolutely or Rela tively

9

36

the

the

be.

xi.

and

ieve

gnel

5 0

ivel

wnet

, See

wile

Bu

ncien

whom

to

Rela

ively

tively; Absolutely it signifies, That there is but ONE God; The Valentinians, Cerdonians, Marcionites, and others, introduc'd several Gods; the reason for which they did it; the Authors of this Herefy lived in the Apostles time; against it the Creed declares, That we must believe in ONE God; which being understood relatively, or as it hath reference to what immediately follows in the Creed, signifies, That ONE and the same God is the Father Almighty, maker of Heaven and Earth, in contradiction to several Hereticks, who maintained Opinions contrary thereunto; the Title FATHER, denotes God to be the Origine of all Beings, in contradiction to the Gnosticks, and others, who, being worse than the Heathens, disown'd him to be such, and refused to give him the Appellation of FA-THER, which is here briefly ex. plained, but attributed it to another Being, different from him: Or, it denotes the peculiar Relation of the Father unto the Son, in which sense it bath been also understood in the Creed, which is the primary sense thereof, wherein it bath been in the Creed from the Foundation of Christianity. The The proper Notion of the word AL. MIGHTY, it hath a threefold sig. nification in the Creed : First, I denotes God's Infinite Power, which shews the Reason why it is placed be fore the making of Heaven and Earth; in this sense it was intended agains the Valentinians, Simonians, Mo nandrians, Gc. whose Herefies are explained: Secondly, It implies God's Providential Government of the World, in opposition to the Denis thereof by the Gnofficks, and Mar cionites; the former of whom at least ascribed this mord ALMIGHTY thus understood, to another Being divers from the Supreme and only God the reason of their Blasphemies again the Divine Providence: Third It includes God's Immensity and On nipresence, in contradiction to the El rour of the Gnofficks, which con fined God within a certain limit Space. What is to be understood MAKER, and what by HEAVE and EARTH; the blasphemous To nets of several Hereticks about the Creation of the World; Simon Ma gus, and several others, attribute the making thereof to Angels; the por tentous System of the Valentinian concers concerning the Origine of Beings, and the Creation of the Universe; the Cerdonians and Marcionites maintained two Eternal Principles, God and the Devil, the latter of whom they affirmed to have been the Former and Maker of the World: Against all these Hereticks it was inferted in the Creed, That the Supreme God, the Father Almighty, is man ker of Heaven and Earth.

ne.

b:

2/

le

· X.

di the

214 ar

east.

ing

iod

in dly

Om

E

CON

nite

od b EN

s Ti

t th

Ma

bute

e por nians

ncera

THE first words at the Head of the Greed, which must be supled to be of like force with respect every Article and Clause therein, I believe; wherein are two things servable: The first whereof is, the imber, wherein the word Believe expressed; which is not the Plural, believe, but the Singular, I believe; ich came from the manner of the techumens repeating the Creed, or least yielding their assent unto it at ptism, which they did severally and art; or, if for convenience fake, Diabolo, &c. my might recite or affent unto the & quid poeed together, yet each one to de inquis, in re his proper personal Belief thereof, Deum Patrem d I believe; so writes Salvian, At omnipotentem, & in um Christum filium ejus. De Gubern. Dei, lib. 6.p. 197, 198.

cio, inquis, stea, Credo,

E 2 Baptism

Baptism thou didst not only renounce the Devil and all his Works, but thou saidst, I believe in God the Father Al. mighty, and in Jesus Christ his Son: And to the same purpose it is related

Ad facrum Lavacrum Regeherationis venientes, confessi fic, Credo in Deum Patrem omnipo- came to the facred Latentem, & in Jesum Christum Filium ejus unigenitum, & Spiritum Sanctum. Inter. Oper. A- fessed thus, I believe in thanas. Tom. 2. lib. 11. ad Theoph. P. 591.

by Vigilius Tapsensis, That all those who ver of Regeneration con-God the Father Almigh. ty, and in Jesus Christ

his only Son, and in the Holy Ghost; it being most fit and proper, that e very Person at his admission into the Christian Church, should make a particular and personal Declaration of his Faith and Belief.

But there is farther observable in these two words, the Act mentioned or specified therein, viz. Believing which, that I may avoid all needles and impertinent Criticisms, I do i brief apprehend to fignify in thi place no other, than the full and un doubted affent of our Mind and Un derstanding to the truth and verit of every particular Clause and Articl contained in this Creed or Symbol.

The first whereof is, That we be lieve in God, which worthily deserve to be placed in the beginning of the Creed; fince, according to the observation of Origen, ' fitting Apprehension and Faith of God is the Bas and Foundation of

d

10

4. n.

in 16

it

Baow of oinal is escalaua sival मक्किंग में बेश्डमी Thi बंशμόζεσαν Θεφ δύξαν τε κ) σίς ιν, Dialog. 1, p.1.

all Virtues : In which Expression there are contained these two things, The Existence of God, and the Unity of the Godhead: That the Existence and Being of God is here first of all professed, is no wonder, since on it our whole Religion depends; this is the Foundation of every thing that is the Foundation of every thing that is sacred; without it Religion would be a mere fancy and conceit, the most foolish and unreasonable thing in the World: ' He therefore, faith the Apofile, that cometh unto God, must believe that he is; that is, must be fully perfuaded in his mind, that there is a God; and not only yield a naked Affent to the certainty of his Being and hi Entity, but apprehend. him under due and congruous Notions to his Nature and Essence, 3 as the first Cause and Foundation of all things, infinite, unbegotten, immortal, perpetual, only, whom no Bodily Shape can de-

Prima causa, fundamentum cunctorum quæcunque eunt, infinitus, ingenitus, immortalis, perperuus, folus, quem nulla deliniar forma corporalis, nulla determinat circumscriptio, qualitatis expers, quantitatis, fine fitu, motu, & habitu. Arnob. lib. I, P. 6, Scribe.

Scribe, or Circumscription determine, with. out Quantity or Quality, Disposition, Mo. tion or Habit; as Ruffinus writes in his

Deum cum audis, fubftan-tiam intellige fine initio, fine fine, fimplicem, une ulla admixtione, invisibilem, incorpoream; in qua nihil adjunctum, nihil creatum fit, fine auctore, est enim ille qui Auctor est omnium. Expos. in Symb. S. 4. 1. 566.

Exposition of this Ar. ticle, 'When thou hear. est, saith he, the Word GOD, understand Substance without begin. ning, and without end, simple, without mixture, invisible, incorporeal; to whom nothing is adjoined, in whom nothing is created, without Author, for he himself is the Author of all.

But, the Existence of God having been in all Ages universally acknow. ledged, without any confiderable Opposition thereunto, the Unity of the Godhead hath been more generally inculcated as the chiefest and more principal fense of this Article; for the better understanding of which, it will be convenient to take notice of the ob-Orientis Ec- servation of Ruffinus, That in all the cleux omnes Eastern Creeds, it is, I believe in ONE God the Father; where, if by the Eastern he means the Nicene, or Constantinopolitan, it is certainly true; or if he means the antient Creeds used be fore either of those, it is true not only of the Eastern, but of the Western also for

ita tradunt, Credo in unum Deum Patrem. Expof. in Symb. 5. 4. p. 566.

for in all the most Primitive Creeds, whether Latin or Greek, this Article runs, I believe in one God, or, in the only God; as in the Two Creeds of Irenaus, and Three of Origen's, "Eva Osov, One God; and in Three of Tertullian's, Unum, or, Unicum Deum, One, or, the only God: And whofoever shall with any observation consider the Writings of the most antient Fathers, and especially of Irenaus, shall find, that there was a peculiar Force and Energy couched in this Expression of One God, in contradiction to the wretched Notions and Tenets of some Men, whereby they opposed and blasphemed this Fundamental Point of the Christian Religion, the Unity of the Divine Essence.

As for the Persons who were condemned by this Clause, it will be readily granted, that they were not the Jews, seeing the Unity of the Godhead is every where inculcated in the Mosaical Law, and the Body of that People have been so unmovably fixed and confirmed in the Belief thereof, that now throughout their Sixteen hundred Years Captivity and Dispersion, they have never quitted or deserted this Principle, That God is One, as E 4

). 10

y

e

10

bbe E

10

11-

r

e

01

is evident from their Thirteen Articles of Faith, composed by Maimonides,

The Second whereof is the Unity of the דשני יחות Bleffed God; which is there explained to be in such a peculiar and transcen-

Edit. Sebaft. mac. 1529.

לתברך dent manner, as that nothing like it can Munster. Vuor- be found : And in their Liturgy, according to the use of the Sepharadim, or the Spaniards, which is read in these Parts of the World in their Synagogues; in the very first Hymn, according to the Edition of David Di Krasto Tartas, printed at Amsterdam Anno 422, of their little Computation, which falls in with Anno Christi 1662; or, as it is in a larger Edition by Emanuel Benvenisti at Amsterdam, Anno Christi 1642, in the Second Hymn, which is an admiring Declaration of the Excellencies of the Divine Nature; the repeated Chorus of that Hymn is,

בהואי מעלה ומשה ישירון יגידון כלם אחר ושםי אחר In Seder Tephiloth. Edit. Amfterdam 1662. p. 1.

All Creatures both above and below, testify and witness all of them as one, that the Lord is One, and his Name One.

And as this Affertion of the Divine Unity was not intended against the Jews, so neither is it probable, that it was principally designed against the Pagans:

Pagans: I do not deny, but that the Apostles and first Preachers of the Gospel did carefully instruct and warn their Heathen Converts against Polytheism, or a multiplicity of Gods, and directed them to the folitary Worship of the true and only God; as St. Paul and Barnabas preached unto the Lycaonians, to turn from the Idolatrous Services of Jupiter and Mercury un- Acts xiv. 15. to the living God, who made Heaven and Earth, and the Sea, and all things that are therein; and the more firmly to establish them in the true and necessary Notion of the Unity of the Divine Essence, it is very likely, that frequently they might mention this with the other Christian Verities, which they demanded at Baptism: But that which I fay, is this, That the constant repetition of this Clause, in the order wherein it now stands in the Creed, was chiefly designed against some Perfons different from the Pagans; for to do the Heathens justice, and not to make them worfe than really they were, I do not think that it can be proved, That the generality, or at least the wisest and most thinking part of them, did ever own a Plurality of Gods; but on the contrary, a large Volume

·

1 16

e

C

it

le

Volume of Testimonies might be produced both from Heathens and Christians, to evidence, That they believed but only One Eternal, Supreme, Unbegotten, and Independent Being; from whom, all their other inferiour Divinities, vulgarly also called Gods, derived their Original and Essence.

As for the Heathen Writers, an infinity of Testimonies might be cited from Plutarch, Seneca, Maximus of Tyre, Plato, Virgil, Hecataus Abderita, Xenophanes Colophoniensis, Orpheus, Cicero, and a multitude of others, who have all afferted, That the Pagans received but one Supreme, Infinite, and Self-existent God; unto whom the Title of Optimus, Maximus, the Greatest, and the Best, was alone ascribed; and that for those other innumerable Divinities, called also Gods, they were only fo termed in an inferiour and fecondary fense, as they had some Refemblance in their Natures and Virtues to the supreme God, from whom they were derived and generated, and whose Children and Off-spring they were, and as they were Intercessors and Mediators between him and the Sons of Men. wo reve hib med But there will be no need to cite any

Eis Osos agénunt G.

emulo V

any particular Passages from the Pagan Authors to confirm this Point, seeing the Christian Writers, and even those who have professedly writ and disputed against the Idolatry and Superstition of the Heathens, have at the same time acknowledged, That they believed but One Supreme and Eternal God. St. Austin informs us, That although the Pagans worshiped several Deities, yet their Doctors declared these to be but so many different Names of their Great God Jupiter, who was called in the Air Juno, in the Sea Neptune, in the Earth Pluto, in Hell Proserpina, in War Mars, in Vineyards Bacchus, in the Woods Diana; yea, all those other inferiour Gods and Goddesses, as, Opis, Lucina, Cunina, Fortuna, Rumina, and the rest of that numberless Company, one and the same Jupiter,—Had perderent, find the diverse and various Benefits that he bestow- ed upon Mankind, was c. 11. p. 232. worshiped under different Names

d es

nd

ors

he

Hi omnes dii deaque fit unus Jupiter,—Hac fi ita fint—quid perderent, fi unum Deum colerent prudentiore compendio? Quid enim ejus contemneretur, cum ipfe coleretur? De Civit. Dei, lib.4.

worshiped under different Names and Appellations suitable thereunto; which being so, as the said Father continues there to write, What would they lose, if in a more prudent Compendium they dia

did worship but one God? For, what part of him would be despised, when he himself is worshipped? Homer and Hesiod were the first, as Athenagoras

Τος τοι ή είσην οἱ ποιήσαν-Γες Βεογονίαν Έλληση, κὴ τοῖσι Βεοῖση τὰς ἐπωνυμίας δόντες, κὴ πμάς τε κὴ τέχνας διελόν-Γες, κὴ εἰδεα αὐτή σημήναντες. Legar, pro Christian. p. 16. relates from Herodotus, 'who invented the Names, Generations, Titles, Honours, Arts, and Shapes of the Grecian Gods; and yet Justin

Martyr affirms, That not only Pythagoras and Plato, with the rest of the wise Philosophers, but that even this blind, superstitious, and idolatrous

Τῷ પ્ર દેષ્ટ્રો પ્રે πεώτω ઉદ્ભ Τὴν ઉદ્યાલય પ્રે το પદુલં Τ άπάν-Τον όμης ος δια τ΄ χουσης ενώνης αναφέρες σειρας, τές પ્રે λοιπες δευς τουντον απέχειν έφη τ΄ ενώνε δεότη Θ ώς ε αὐτες પ્રે μετα ανθρώπων ονομάζειν αξίνν. Ad Grac. Paranes. p. 22.

um colerent

ion Quid.

Del, fill the

Homer, in the Golden Chain of his Gods and Goddesses, doth at length place all the Power and Dominion in one supreme God, declaring the other Gods to be so far distant from the Deity, that they were to be reckoned among st Men.

Lactantius in the First Book of his Institutions, both learnedly and largely proves from the Heathen Poets and Philosophers, That they believed but one Supreme and Self-existent God; the like he doth again, in his Book of the Anger of God, where he shews, That although Plato, Pytha-

goras, Hermes, Antisthenes, and several others, 'who were too many to be all mentioned, made use of several Names, yet they all agreed, that there was but one Power which governed the World.

Longum est singulorum sententius exequi, qui licet diversis nominibus sint abusi, ad unam tamen potestatem, quæ mundum regeret, concurrunt. De irâ Dei, cap. 11. p. 796.

There is a remarkable Passage in Arnobius to this purpose, wherein an Heathen is represented, complaining,

That the Christians wrongfully accused those of his Religion, to deny a Supreme God; whereas, saith he, he is by us talled Jupiter, and is essented the greatest Be-

Frustra nos falso & calumniofo incessitis & appetitis crimine, tanquam eamus inficias esse Deum majorem, cum à nobis & Jupiter nominatur, & Optimus habeatur & Maximus, cumque illi Augustissimas sedes, & Capitolia constituerimus immania. Lib. 1.p.19.

ing; spacious Temples and August Capitols being built and dedicated unto him. Unto which Arnobius amongst other things, pertinently replys, <sup>3</sup> Let it be fo as you fay, that your Jupiter and the Omnipotent God, are one and the same: But, why then do you unjustly persecute us? Why do you dread the very mentioning of

'Sint, ut vultis unum, —écquid ergo injustis persequimini nos Odiis? Quid, ut ominis pessimi, nostri nominis inhorrescitis mentione, si quem Deum colitis eum & nos? Aut quid in eadem causa vobis esse contenditis familiares Deos, inimicos atque insestissimos nobis? Id. Ibid.

the very mentioning of our Name, as the worst Omen, if you worship the same expension.

constant

s elle Deam roniqui 3

-cran A all

 aco silonida. .0 L.C. I ...

100 - 60penlequiming

log amine as

3 infrorredeitis

Delim coins quid in eidem

onendicis fa-

hidl bk

God with us? Or, why in the same Cause should the inferior Gods be kind to you, and Enemies unto us? But

Sed non idcirco Dii vobis infesti funt, quod omnipotentem colatis Deum, sed quod hominem natum, & quod personis infame est vilibus crucis supplicio interemptum, & Deum fuisse contenditis, - & quotidianis supplicationibus adoratis. Id. Ibid.

unto this the Heathen answers, ' The Gods are not Enemies to you, because you adore the Omnipotent God, but betause you deify, and with your daily Prayers wor-(bip a Man that was born, and which is most infamous, one that was put to death with vile Persons on a Cross. So that from these sew Quotations, it is most evident, That the generality of the Heathens, or at least the wifest and best part of them, believed but one Infinite, Supreme, and Eternal God; from whence it follows by a natural confequence, That the Unity of the Godhead professed in the Creed, could not principally be intended against them.

It remains therefore, that we fearch elsewhere; and that, since the occasion of this Clause was chiefly taken neither from Jews nor Gentiles, we fix it on fome false and heretical -mr sugar zoom Christians; which we have the greater reason to do, seeing not long after the Apostles Days, and even in those Days them-

Discoulă Secretare

themselves, there were several Sects and Divisions of Hereticks who embraced Tenets contrary hereunto, as also to what immediately follows concerning God, That he is the Father Almighty, maker of Heaven and Earth; and to feveral other Articles, which were all inferted in the Creed, on purpose to oppose those Heresies; from the consideration of the nature and particular Points whereof, it necessarily follows, That the defigned meaning of those Articles is only to be fetch'd and brought: The Books of Irenaus will be of great use to us herein, and afford us the greatest Light into those Parts of the Creed of any Book that I know, fince therein we have the amplest and clearest Relation of the antient Heresies of the Gnosticks, Marcionites, and others; against which, a great part of the Creed was levelled and intended; and in particular, this Clause of One God, which was inserted to require our Belief, That there is but one Infinite, Supreme, Beginninglefs, and Eternal God; and that this One God, and none other, was the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, and of all other Beings what soever, Almighty, maker of Heaven and Earth: So that this OFARE

this Expression of One God is to be understood, either absolutely, without regard to any other Article in the Creed, and so it denotes our Faith, that there is but one Eternal, Independent, Self-existent God; or relatively, as it hath reference to what immediately follows, and so it signifies, That one and the same God, and not a different or diverse Being from him, is the Father Almighty, maker of Heaven and Earth.

As for the first of these, that hereby it is professed, That there is but one Infinite, Omnipotent, Eternal, and Self-existent God, the very Clause it self. I believe in God; but especially, as it is in all the most Primitive Creeds, whether Greek or Latin, I believe in One God, puts it beyond doubt or question. That which is farther incumbent on me, is, to shew the Heresies that gave occasion for this Profession in the Creed, and to prove that they were the real Causes thereof.

SimonisSamaritani Magi Discipuli & Successores
funt. Lib. 1.
6. 30. p. 83.

As for the Herefies, I suppose them to have been those of the Valentinians, Cerdonians, Marcionites, and others, who as Irenaus assures us, were 'all the Disciples and Successors of that first grand

Ira Hermo-

out main

TONS ELANOR

duo, arra. mereatus Zu

brand Heretick Simon Magus: as for the Valentinians, the most considerable Branch of the Gnofticks, there was an exact agreement betwixt them in the same Principles; but their Opinions were various and inconstant; Materiam for which they are frequently re- Lib. 1. c. 52 flected on by Ireneus. Some of P. 38. Lib. 41 c. 69. p. 300 them afferted two Coeval and Coexistent Principles, God and Matter, as Droserius a Disputant for this Sect, in the Dialogues of Origen, affirmed Matter to be Coeternal with God; and Hermogenes, who was living when wo how has to Tertullian wrote against him, main- p. 90. tained, That ' Matter Sumplie à Stoicis Materiam was Coeternal with the cum Domino ponere, que & ipsa

Lord, that it was neither without both beginning

n

54

9. ıll

ft

ad

femper fuerit, neque nata, neque born nor made, but was facta, nec initium habens omnino; nec finem. Adverf. Hermog. p. 2644

and end; which, as Tertallian there very folidly proves, was really and effectually to make two Gods.

The reason which induced him to genes duos embrace this Opinion, as is easily to Ibid. p. 2554 be gathered from Tertullian's Treatife against him, was that puzling and vexatious Question so famous in the Primitive Church, Tibles to restor; or Whence was Evil? For, not being willing to make God the Author of Evil.

<sup>a</sup> Materiam naturam ma-Jam. Ibid. 1.279.

ica idermo-

Evil, and withat imagining it to be a substantial Nature, and to have an Original Caufe fuitable thereunto, that he might therefore throw the Source and Origine of it upon another, he affirmed in Matter to be a natural revil Principle, weoeternal with Godin who was contrary thereunto of from whence all other Evil had its fpring and rife And from the fame realonnallonas

<sup>2</sup> Duos Ponticus Deos affert, passus infelix hujus prastumptionis inflinftum, de fimplici capitalo Lycarp the Disciple of Dominica pronunciationis disponentis exempla illa bonæ, & malæ arboris, quod heque bona malos, neque mala bonos proferat fruchis, &cc. Adverf Marcion. cum Domino pone . 921 4 44 lemper fuerity nec

Bod sich wo Terrullian affures us, Mardion, who faw Po-St. John, roundly declared in words at length, That there were two coeternal independent Beings, the one a good

God, the Father of our Lord Jesus termog, 25 a. Christ, Author of the Gospel, and the Fountain, Source, and Origine of all Good the other an evil God, the Creator of the World, the Giver of the conceduos Law, and the Cause, Root, and Au-Deos infere. embrace this Opinion, live aller for order this, p. 255,

It must indeed be owned, That the 3 0E/20013 Marcionites disagreed amongst them-म्बिकेंड में है vautus Maefelves; for, although? Marcion himriev dio alzas eion Ev-Tas, andor 3 manivar aught on to reason Form Navres, i povor No, αλλα κό τρείς καθίθενται φύσεις, ών έςτην αρχηγ και σροςάτης Σύνεςως. Apud Euseb. Eccles. Histor. lib. 5. c. 13. p. 177. felf with several of his Followers, introduced but two Principles, yet, according to the relation of Rhodon, who lived at that time, some of them advanted farther, and asserted Three eternal Principles; the Chief and Head of whom, was one talled Synerus: Of which Faction also was Megethius in the Dialogues of Origen, who there affirms, That there were Three Principles; the Origin That the Synusgion, is the Father of our trees the original the Synusgion, is the Father of our trees the original the Synusgion, is the Father of our trees the original t

But the Body of the Marcionites, and their Master himself, maintained only two Gods; the one a good God, Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, and God of the Christians; the other an evil God, maker of Heaven and Earth, and God of the Jews. So Irenaus, who lived in those Days, assures us in several places. That in several places, That the Followers of Marcion held but Two Gods, who were naturally so, being distant from one

d

d

15

e

11

e

10

1-

he

n-

ma

'vov

nai

elf

Hi qui à Marcione Duos naturaliter dicentes Deos, distantes invicem, alterum quidem bonum; alterum autem malum. Lib. 34 c. 12. p. 194.

another, the one a good, and the other an evil God: And Marcus, the Champion for this Sect of the Marcionites in the Dialogues of Origen, affirms,

F 2 pion

' Έςω δείζομαι ε τεθες αξε χας είναι, αλλά δύο, πόνης αν κ) αζαθιώ, — αὐπορυθές, κ) αναςχοι επει ἀπεςαντοι, — πάντη επν. Dialog. 2. p. 43.

That for his part, 'he believed not Three Principles, but only Two, who were equally Self-existent, without beginning, Insi-

nite, and in every place.

But though this impious and abominable Tenet was in those Days generally known under the Name of Marcionitism, as it was afterwards under that of Manicheism, yet it was both hatched and vented before Marcion, and much more before Manes; for, as for Marcion, he is by none allowed to have been the first inventer thereof, but all affirm him to have received it from his Master Cerdon, a noted Heretick in the early Days of Christiani-

<sup>2</sup> Cerdon introducit initia duo, id est, duos Deos, unum bonum, & alterum sævum, bonum superiorem, sævum hunc, mundi Creatorem. De præscript. advers. Hær.

ty; of whom Tertullian writes, That he introduced two Beginnings, that is, Two Gods, a good God, and a fierce One being the superiour

God; the good One being the superiour stephain-God, and the sierce One the Creator of noverous God, and the sierce One the Creator of noverous God the World: And Theodoret, That twaster sie the maintained, that there were Two sugit show he maintained, that there were Two Inox Xeisk,—and have he that there were Two Sinasov, to asadov. Epit. Haret. Fabul. in Har. Cerdon. p. 93.

Gods;

בדנגוב שנו דוו שספום לחודם

Ιεροσόλυμα δει τές Χρόνες 7

क्षेत्रकार केंद्र में केंद्र केंद्र केंद्र केंद्र केंद्र केंद्र केंद्र

movagzias ungutlovlas, के 7 रह

Θεδ κητριάτων, ὁ ή τάλας αναλθών, αντηβάλλων ηςξατο πρός

मेंड देमलेक महरविधर्महरूड, &c. Ad-

verf. Haref. Manich, p. 267.

Gods; the one a good God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; the other a just God, the Creator of all things: And even before Cerdon, as well as before his Scholar Marcion, was this blasphemous Heresy broached in the Church; for Theodoret informs us, That both Cerdon and Marcion took the occasion text of their Blasphemy from Simon Magus: text of their Blasphemy from Simon Magus: text of the Author of Two Eternal grains that the Author of Two Eternal grains Tas Principles, a good and a bad One, apostuds. Ibid.

went to Jerusalem about the Days of the Apostles, and there disputed with the Elders about the Unity of the Godhead, and the Creation of the World.

e !-

e

er

at

vo

di

5;

This blasphemous Heresy then being so early espoused from the very Apostolical Age, the belief of One God was inserted in the Creed in opposition thereunto, as it may be gathered from Irenaus; who, after he hath recited the Heresies of the Valentinians, and others, informs us in contradiction thereunto, That the Church wante who had received from the Apostles and their Timesodow is Disciples, to believe in One God, the Timesodow was Disciples, to believe in One God, the Timesodow was Disciples, to believe in One God, the Timesodow was Disciples, to believe in One God, the Timesodow was Disciples, to believe in One God, the Timesodow was Disciples, to believe in One God, the Timesodow was Discipled to be the third was a state of the thir

Father Almighty, &c. And in various places, throughout his whole Five Books, he confutes the Marcionites Dotage of Two Gods, shewing it to be not only inconfishent with Reason, and opposite unto the Scripture, but also contradictory to the Faith and Belief of the Church; whence Epiphanius in his large Exposition of the Creed, in opposition to the foresaid Hereticks, tells us, That by this Clause we μω κ) देश कट्ड्मां так, κ) देश हें थाईyeators is on smosohors, en maraia no raivo d'abonn neno-guntai. Advers. Her. lib. 3. Gom-pend. Fid. Cath. p. 464.

431/12

are obliged to believe, God, who was the God both of the Law and the Gospel, both of the Old and New Testament.

nino Deum effe.

And Tertullian in his Prescriptions against the Valentinians, Marcionites, and Regula est other Hereticks, sends them to the autem sidei, Rule of Faith, wherein it is professed, unum om that there is but one God: And, that I may add yet one instance more, it is very observable in the Dialogues of Origen, That when Adamantius, who sustained the part of an Orthodox Christian against the Marcionites, was by agreement first of all to recite the Catholick Faith, which he would de-P Lanco Ares E fend in contradiction to the foremen-T'ER TAY BE tioned Hereticks; he begins his Creed with,

with, I believe there is but One God; "Eva Octy and when one of the Marcionices la wiseves, Dial. boured hard to prove his Three, and 1. P. 3. the other his Two Gods, Adamantius fo invincibly evidenced the Unity of the Godhead, that Eutropius the Judge of the Disputation, declared the Victory to be on his fide; and when in the end of the last Dialogue he repeats the Articles of the true Christian Faith, he begins it with the Belief of One and on vov Osev. ly God; which makes it very probable, Dialog. 5, that this Clause in the Creed of One P. 158. God, was in part defigned to contradict the blasphemous and impious conceit of those Hereticks, who introduced more Gods than One. But, Secondly, This Clause may be also considered in relation to what immediately follows in the Creed, viz. the Father Almighty, maker of Heaven and Earth; in which regard it is a Declaration, that we believe this Que God band not a Being different from him, to be the Father, and Almighty Creator of all things; for though some Hereticks owned one Supreme and Original God, yet they denied him the Creation of the World, and his Paternity and Almightines in that Catholick fense, wherein it is to be understood in the man as a Creed :

wisevry Dial.

you Guly

inting to

Creed; and those other Hereticks, who blasphemed the Unity of the Godhead, contented not themselves with that, but dared to devest our true and only God, whom they called their kind and merciful One, of one of the greatest Acts of his Power, Wisdom, and Goodness, even the making of Heaven and Earth, whereby they totally destroyed one of the most obliging Relations we stand in to God, which is that of a Creature to his Creator.

Who those Hereticks were, with the particulars of their several Heresies, shall be considered under those respective Terms predicated concerning God in the Creed, as they present themselves to our observation in their several order: There is nothing farther necessary in this place, than to shew, That this was in part the intended sense of this Clause of the Creed; for the Proof whereof, innumerable Passages might be produced from the Writings of Irenaus; as in

Eis iva from the Writings of Irenaus; as in Θεὸν Παβερα both his Creeds, which he opposes to καντοκράτο all these kinds of Hereticks, he extense του γιων γιων presses this Article, by believing in Lib. 1. c. 2. One God, the Futher Almighty, maker 3.35. In unum Deum sabricatorem cocli ac terra. Lib. 3. c.4-p.172.

of Heaven and Earth; and contrary to the delirious Fancies of these Atheistical Wits, affirms, That the whole Church of God throughout the World.

received one and the Same God the Father: and that ' the universal Church reserved this by Tradition from the Apofles, that there was but One God, the maker of Heaven and Earth.

1 Unum & eundem Deum Patrem recipientibus. Lib. c. c. 17. P. 341.

Unum Deum fabricatorem cœli ac terræ, - Ecclesia omnis - hanc accepit ab Apostolis Traditionem. Lib, 2. c. 9. p. 107.

This Clause is likewise so expressed in Two of Tertullian's Creeds, as that the condemnation of these various Hereticks appears most evidently to have been designed thereby; in one of them it is faid, That by the Rule of Faith we must believe, that there is but One only God, and that there is no other be-

n

+

Regula est autem fidei, qua creditur unum omnino Deum ese, nec alium præter mundi Creatorem. De Prajeript. adv. Heret. p. 73.

sides the Creator of the World; and in In unicum the other, that we must thereby be- potentem, Deum omnilieve ' in the only God Almighty, the Mundi condiframer of the World. The fame also torem. De Virgin. Veland. may be observed, concerning the seve-p. 385. ral Creeds of Origen; in one of, "On es which, our Faith is declared to be in to Trail T One God, who created and disposed all xlious vy nalactions, nat Toinous on To un ov To eis to sival Ta mavra. Vol.2. Com.in Johan. Tom. 32. P. 397. things,

Eva Osdr ni nislu ni

Sumised on

menisdra.

Dialog. 1. 7.3.

2 Catech. 6. P. 53, 6c.

Deum omnipotentem,

Mundi courstoram.Del'n-

gine Feland.

Son of s

Open S Open

things, and made those things that are, out of things that were not : And in that Creed, wherein Adamantius profesfed the Catholick Faith in opposition to the erroneous Tenets of the Marcionites, he begins it with, I believe in One God, the very Creator and Maker and view sivas of all things: And so Cyril of Ferusar lem explains the Unity of the Godhead, in contradiction to the Herefy of the Simonians, Carpocratians, Mar, cionites, and others, who made Two Gods, one a good God, and the other a just God; and in another place, where he repeats and explains the Creed, he thus explains the Unity of

"Оम वर्ण नेड हर्डा वेडिक में Singio iva ear wole ausons resour aiessins antor eivai + δίχαιον, η άλλον είναι τα άζαθον, ευθύς το το το αίζεσεως το δολον τουμισαντο doesos Tov Eva Ostv Stazugtons τω λόζω. Catech. 4. P. 24,

the just God is one, and the good God another, we should remember it to be a venomous Herefy, during wickedly to divide the one God. From all which it is most apparent, that the intended design of this Clause of One God, was in part to declare, That whatsoever is immediately predicated concerning God, in the subsequent part of the for the fame of th

God; That he is both

good and just; so that if we should bear any be-retical Person say, that things,

inter lotar

Caron, &

Kilkit, O.

oll også Bondilmi

God; that one and the same Divine Being, was the Father Almighty, maker of Heaven and Earth; that all things had their Spring and Original, Form and Shape, from one and the same Divine Essence, who was the One and only God, so One as that there is none other besides him, and like unto whose Unity there is nothing to be found in the whole World, whereby it may be represented or expressed.

r

e

of

at

e-

na

er,

dly

ich led

was

T IS

nag

the

ame

od;

After the Existence and Unity of God, there follows next in the Creed, that relation wherein he stands to us as our Father, as he is the Author, Caufe, and Origine of all Beings. The reason whereof is most probably to be fetched from the Gnofticks, and the other Hereticks of the First Ages, who denied God's Paternity in this respect, by disowning him to have been the Creator and Producer of the World, and of the various Creatures therein; and in an agreeableness thereunto did avowedly refuse to attribute unto God this very Title or Appellation of Father, acting therein far worse than the Heathers, who by the glimmering Light of Nature had conceived of God under this Notion, that he was the Pater omnipotens, Haling and govre DEGITE, ador'd him; for the Proof whereof, the single Testimony of Last antius shall Omnem Deum,—necesse est inter solennes ritus & precationes Patrem nuncupari, non tantum honoris gratia, verum etiam rationis; quod & antiquior est homine; & quod vitam, salutem, victum præstat, ut Pater. Itaque ut Jupiter à precantibus Pater vocatur, & Saturnus, & Janus, & Liber, & cateri deinceps; quod Lucilius in deorum concilio irridet: Ut nemo sit nostrum, &c. Institut. lib. 4. c. 3. p. 352.

fuffice, who writes, That 'every God in the Worship and Prayers directed to him, was of necessity called Father, not only for Honour's sake, but for Reason's also, because he is antienter than Man, and as a Father, gave him his Life, Health, and Food; and that therefore, Jupiter, and Saturn, and Janus, and Bacchus, with the rest of the Gods, were each of them called Father. For which he cites these Verses of Lucilius:

Ut nemo sit nostrum, quin Pater op-

Ut Neptunus Pater, Liber, Saturnus Pater, Mars.

Janus, Quirinus, Pater nomen diça-

The notion or signification of a Father is so well known, as that it may be needless to say, That in its proper and restrained sense, it denotes such an one as communicates Life and Being to another, Generation being the Foundation of Paternity; and that more largely and comprehensively, it fignifies fuch an one as confers Kindnesses, Favours, and Benefits upon another; every own knows, according to the forementioned Citation from La-Stantius, That he is a Father who gives Life, Health and Food, to another: But now, fuch an one the Gnofticks had the wickedness to deny God to be. How in this respect they blasphemed the Divine Majesty, I shall more particularly relate and prove, when I come to that Article of Maker of Heaven and Earth, unto which this word thus confidered, hath a nearness and affinity; in this place it shall be fufficient to remark in general, That the Gnosticks and Valentinians imagined the supreme and omnipotent God to live within circumscribed Limits, inan unactive, and idle Rest and Ease, whilst they seigned an inseriour Deity to be the Creator of the World, the Author of every Being thereof, and of every Gift necessary and suitable thereunto, unto whom therefore they gave this Title of Father; which, in this Acceptation, is alone communicable

7

b,

at

a-

of

p-

us

ca.

Fa-

ay

per ich

an

Ralgo.

cable to the Supreme and Infinite Majefty, calling this fancied Maker of the Tov Παθέςα, βασιλέα πάν- King of all, Father and των, — Παθέςα ε) Θεόν λέγκουν King of all, Father and αυτον. Iren. lib. 1. c. 1: p. 16. God, Creator of the

Id. Ibid.

World, Father and 2 Anuseyov autor is Halega World, and Father; thereby making them felves guilty of the last and greatest Blasphemy. Wherefore, to declare the true Christian's abhorrence of fuch an odious Crime, Irenaus in his oppofition thereunto, doth generally underfland by God's being the Father, his being the Fountain, Source, Producer, and Creator of all other Beings what foever; and therefore, after he hath revealed at large this Mystery of Iniquity, this portentous and horrid Imagination of the Gnosticks, he immediately repeats as a proper Antidote, against the Infection thereof, the Apofiles Creed, by which we are obliged to believe in God ' the Father; and having in his whole First Book, related the extravagant Fancies of these wild and distracted Brains, and their blasphemous Denials of God to have been the Author and Creator of the World, and of all things therein, he informs us in the beginning of his Second Book, he intended to prove therein,

Haleea. Lib. 1. c. 2. P. 35.

therein, that the true and supreme God was the 'alone Creator, and the 'Solus Conalone Father. to ditor, & folus

Parer. Lib. 24

But, there may be also another fort i. 1. p. 95. of Paternity included in the Creed, viz. the peculiar relation wherein God stands to his Son, that he is his Father, that he hath begotten him; the manner whereof is peculiar, eminent and ineffable, and is not only impoffible to be explicated by us, but fuch an Attempt would be both perillous and arrogant Por, Who can fearth out God to perfection ? Secret things belong unto God, but revealed things unto Us and our Children. Where- mount spil fore, waving all Searches or Inquiries flood ogaml and into the manner or nature thereof, and in one and referving what I have farther to & misnimoh fay on this Point, till I come to the Generation of the Son, contained in quod cum Dei that Article, His only Son, I Thall only Patris nomen in this place endeavour to prove, That in confessione conjungit, this Article was understood in this oftendir quod fence by the Primitive Church, as fuch hath obtained a place in the poster Pater, Screed.

)-

d

rd

e.

fe

ir ve

he he nis

ve

m,

<sup>2</sup> Advertice and non ante Deus

St. Austin thus explains it; Observe, initio & Deus femper & Pater; Patrem autem cum audis, agnosce quod habet Filium veraciter geniam, quomodo possessor dicieur, qui aliquid possider, & Dominus qui ulcui dominatur: Deus ergo Pater secreti Sacramenti vocabulum est, cujus vere Filius est Verbum. Serm. de Temp. Serm. 181. p. 525.

faith

saith he, that when in the Creed the Name of God the Father is conjoined, it is thereby declared, That he was not first of all a God, and afterwards a Father; but without any beginning, he is always both God and Father: When thou hearest the word Father, acknowledge that he bath a Son truly born, as he is called a Possessor who possesseth any thing, and a Governour who governs any thing: So God the Father is a Term of a secret Mystery, whose true Son is the Word. To the fame effect likewife. Ruffinus thus writes in his Expli-

· Patrem cum audis, Filii intellige Patrem, qui Filius supradictæ fit Imago substantia. Sicut enim nemo dicitur Dominus, nisi habeat vel Possessionem vel Servum cui dominetur; & ficut nemo Magister dicitur, nisi Discipulum habeat : Ita & Parer nullo pacto quis dici potest, nisi Filium habens. Hoc ergo ipso nomine quo Deus Pater appellatur, cum Patre pariter subsistere etiam Filius demonstratur. Exposit. in Symb. Apost. S.4. p. 366.

Carping 64

flea Pacer,

nest 55 rang -1003 7510st

254 6

cation of this Article When thou hearest the Title Father, under stand that he hath a Son, who is the Image of his Substance; for, as no Man is called a Lord, unless he bath a Servant; or a Possession, whom he lords it over ; and no one is called a Master, except

he hath a Scholar; so no one can in any manner be called a Father, unless he hath a Son: By this Name therefore acod to ourse by which God is called a Father, the Son is also demonstrated to subsist likewise with him. The same Exposition is al ocabaina est, fo given by Petrus Chrysologus, Maximus Taurinensis; and in a word, almost by all others, who have had occasion to mention this Subject; and especially, fince the appearance of the Sabellian and Arian Herefies, this Interpretation hath been more largely infifted upon, and more curiously explained.

8

d

10

175

S 4

ds

16

ept

1757

The next word to be explained, is, Almighty, I believe in God the Father Almighty; the Greek word whereof is Панопратия, which properly fignifies the Universal Dominion of God over all his Creatures, and his Providential Regency and Gubernation of them; in which fense it is only in part to be understood in the Creed, and together with that to be enlarged to some other fignifications of the Word, which were denied and opposed by some Primitive Herefiarchs.

In the first place therefore, this term Almighty may be considered as a Declaration of God's Infinite Power and Energy, by which he made the World he of nothing, without the affiftance of ore Angels, or any other help what soever; Son that his Might and Force is so great, rife that as he needed not any coexistent al Matter, whereon to show the Efficacy and Operation thereof, but created all things of nothing; so neither did he lick the affistance of Angels, or of any other Principle whatsoever, to affist him in that which next follows in the Creed, viz. the making of Heaven and Earth: which by the way, shews us a good reason, why the word Almight is placed before the Creation of the World in our Rule of Faith; for if it had only fignified God's Dominion and Providence, its proper Order would have been after the making of Heaven and Earth, the subject about which it is exercised: But, seeing it also signi fies the Omnipotency and irrelistible Efficacy of his Power, by which he could form and produce all Creature without any previous Matter, as allowithout the help of Angels, or any other Being, the present order of the Creed feems to be most natural and unconstrained, that the profession of God's Almightiness should precede the first and great Demonstration thereof viz. the making of Heaven and Earth.

and

Now that this was in part the defigned fense of this word, I shall evince, after I have shewn, who those Hereticks, and what their Heresis were, which gave an occasion hereun

ad

8

ity

he

it

nd

to

to. Concerning the Valentinians, it hath been already proved, That fome of them affirmed Matter to have been coeternal with God; out of which confused Heap, he produced the World in the same order and regularity wherein now it is : And others of them. with several Divisions and Subdivisions of the Gnofticks, although they allowed not Matter to have been coequal with the first and original God, yet they affirmed its coexistency with, ven and even pre-existency to that petty it inferiour God, whom they constituted the Creator of the World, imagining ble a most sensites and almost unintelligihe ble manner, in which this stupendous are and admirable Fabrick was erected and also raised; a clear and full relation where-any of will yield a great Light into the the intended sense of this and the followanding Clause of the Creed: Under which the cinct Account thereof; and at present half only touch on so much as is neth. cessary for the Explication of the Point de before us.

Il e We must know then, that these monholdrous Hereticks, in imitation of Hesiod's esie Pagan Theogony, imagined a Copulatieuron of Thirry Aions, as they termed them; fifteen of which were Male. and fifteen Female, begotten and generated one from another; Twenty eight whereof, either mediately or immediately, proceeded from Bythus, or Depth, the Origine and First Principle of all; and his Wife Sige, or Charis, that is Silence, or Grace. These Thirty Aions they fancied to lead, an idle and unactive Life, within an imaginary Space, Pleroma, or Fulness; and that Sophia, the last of the Female Ones, being not able to accomplish a passionate and asfectionate Defire which she brought forth an Inform Matter, called Achamoth, which was thrown out of the Pleroma, from whose Tears, Laughter, Sorrow and Fear, proceeded the Substance and Foundation of all Animal and Material Beings; under which, they included the Creator himfelf, and the Matter by which he effected the work of Creation.

Now this ridiculous and monstrous Opinion, was an impious Reflection on the Power of God, as though he had not Strength sufficient to prepare Matter himself for his Works of Creation, as well as to create his Works out of Matter provided to his Hands in another way and manner; it is both both impious and foolish, as Irenaus writes, not to believe, that God could by his own Will, make those things that are, out of those that were not; and to ascribe the substance of Matter to the Tears, Laughter, Sorrow, and Fear of an unintelligible and imaginary Achamoth: And be-

Deum—impiè contemnunt,
—non credentes, quoniam Deus
ex his quæ non erant, quemadmodum voluit, ea quæ facta funt ut effent omnia, fecit fua voluntate,
—quod enim dicunt ex lacrymis
Achamoth humectam prodiffe fubftantiam, &c. quomodo hæc non digna rifione, & verè redicula?
Qui non credunt quidem, quoniam
ipfam materiam, cum fit potens & dives in omnibus Deus, creavit, nescientes quantum potest spiritualis & divina substantia. Lib. 2,
c. 10. p. 108.

ing ignorant of the Power of a Spiritual and Divine Substance, not to believe that God who is strong and rich in all things, created Matter it self.

d

7

}-

us

ac

re

a-

ks

ds

th

But, besides these forementioned Hereticks, there were also others who derogated from the omnipotent Power of God, by ascribing the Creation of the World unto Angels; as did the Followers of 2 Simon Magus, the 3 Me-Mago dicente nandrians, 4 Saturnilians, 5 Basilidians, mundum ab 4 Carpocratians, and others, who all Angelis factum. Iren. combined in this Degradation of the lib. 2. c. 9.

γ. 107.

*Έλες ε καὶ αὐτὸς το κόσμον γεςονέναι ὑπο αζγέλων. Ερίρhan, cont. Hær. Mænand, p. 32.

Υπό τι αξγέλων την κλίση έρησε γεγμυνώσαι. Id. Ibid. in Har. Carpoc. p. 87.

3 Almighty,

* A septem quibusdam Angelis mundum factum. Iren.l. 1.c. 22.p. 77.

5 'A syéres δημακεργίσαι τ κόσμον. Theodoret. Epit. Har. Fabul, in Har. Basilid. p. 96.

Almighty, and the taking from him the Glory of this first manifestation of his Power and Godhead, in creating and framing this stupendous Fabrick of the Universe.

Now against all these various Hereticks and fundry Herefies, to declare our Belief of the Omnipotent Power and Operation of God, was this word Almighty partly inserted in the Creed, whereby it is professed, That as there was no eternal Substance or Matter antecedent to the Creation of the World. from whence it should be formed and taken, so God needed it not for that End; neither stood he in any want of the help and strength of Angels, or others, to effect so glorious a Work; but was infinitely able, and fufficient of himself, to produce that and Ten thousand times more, if it had pleased him fo to do.

tentem Deum the Author of the Second Explication credimus, qui of the Creed to the Catechumens, exfactus non est, tant amongst the Works of St. Austin; & ideo omni
We believe God, saith he, to be Alpotens est, quia de nihilo fecit quæcunque fecit: non enim eum aliqua materies adjuvit, ex qua demonstraret artis suæ potentiam, sed ex nihilo cunsta creavit, hoc est enim esse omnipotentem, ut non solum fabrica ipsa, sed etiam materies ab illo inveniatur esse, qui non habuit initium. Tom, 9. de Symb, ad Catech. lib. 2. p. 1395.

mighty,

n

N

.

e

75

d

d,

e

n-

d, id

at

nt

s,

k;

of

en

ed

by

on

X.

n;

41-ries

acta

pfa,

ty,

mighty, who making all things, is not made himself; and therefore he is Almighty, because he made of nothing whatsoever is made; for no Matter helped him, on which he should shew the Power of his Workmanship, but he created all things of nothing: for this is to be Almighty, that not only the Fabrick it self, but also the Matter thereof be found by him, who had no beginning. And when Eutropius, the Judge of the Disputation in the Dialogues of Origen, sums up the Catholick Faith, he applies this term Almighty, not only to God's providential Government of the World, but also to his Infinite Power in the making thereof, without the Aids of any Matter coexistent with them.

Irenaus bewails, that the Gnosticks of sex on and Valentinians did by their Craft and Subtilty draw away those from the Truth, who did not keep a firm Faith in ενα Θεὸν Παθέρα παντουράτοςα

One God the Father Almighty: Wherefore, as

2 Τὰς μὴ ἐδεαίαν την πίςην εἰς
κα Θεὸν Παθέρα παντουράτοςα μιαφυλάωοντας. Lib. 1. c. 1.

a preservative against their Insection, he adviseth his Reader firmly to adhere unto the Creed, believed by the Universal Church, and received from the Apostles; which Creed, saith he, obliges us to profess, That God

Deus omnipotens qui omnia condidit,—non per Angelos, neque per virtutes aliquas abscissas ab ejus sententia, nihil enim indiget omnium Deus, sed per verbum & spiritum suum omnia faciens & disponens. Lib. 1. c. 19, p. 74.

ed them. And in several other places, in opposition to the forementioned He-

*Non Angeli fecerunt nos,— nec virtus longè abstinens à Patre universorum. Nec enim indigebat horum Deus, ad faciendum quæ ipse apud se præsinierat sieri,
quasi ipse suas non haberet manus.
Adest enim ei semper verbum,— & spiritus, per quos & in quibus omnia l berè & spontè fecit. Lib,4.
6. 37. p. 266.

God is Almighty, who made all things, not by Angels, or any other Powers; for he needeth none of these things, but by his Word and Spirit he completed and perfectin several other places,

resies, he writes, That the Angels did not make us, nor any Power

inferiour to the Father

of all: for God wanted

none of these, to effect

what he had before deter mined with himself to do, as if he had no Hands of his own; for the Son and Spirit were always present with him, by whom and in whom he did all things freely and spontaneously. So that, from all these Citations it is most evident, that this word Almighty in the Creed, doth in part denote the Infinite Power and Energy of God, whereby he was able without the affistance of any other, to create the World, and to have done whatsoever else had pleased him.

But, Secondly, It also signifies God's Universal, Absolute, and Sovereign Dominion

Dominion over all Things and Perfons, and his providential Regency and Gubernation of them all, according to the counsel of his Will, for his own Praise and Glory. This indeed is the primary Notion of the Greek word Havtongátus, which hath a respect to Governing and Ruling, and is thus explained by Russinus, who writes, That in the Creed God is called Almighty, because he hath Dominion over all: And to the same effect Salvian affirms, That we must believe, according to the Rule of Faith, that God rules all

.

0

be

y .

is

ty

ne

d, ıf-

he

er d's

gn

Omnipotens autem ab eo dicitur, quod omnium teneat potentatum. Expol. in Symb. §. 7. p. 566.

<sup>2</sup> Secundum veritatis regulam, —quod Deus omnia regeret. De Gubern. Dei, lib. 1. p. 12.

applies this term Almighty 'to God's 'Catech. 8.' providential Power, whereby he governs and rules all Persons and Things whatever. Now this Assertion of God's Providential Regency of the World, and of all Assairs therein, seems to be levelled and intended against the Gnosticks and Marcionites; both of whom resuled to own, That God concerned himself with the Management and Direction of the World; and the former of them at least arrived to that pitch of Blasphemy, as to attribute unto another Being this very Title of Almighty, confidered under this notion of Rule and Authority; for of these Gnosticks the venerable Irenaus affures us, That whilft they confined the Supreme and Eternal God within a certain and imaginary Space, circumscrib'd by Bounds and Limits, and placed the Maker of the World (whom they supposed a distinct Being from the true and only God) in a seventh Heaven of their own framing and imagination, they allotted this inferiour World, the Seat of Mankind, to be the Habitation of the Devil, wherein he governs and tyrannizes; for which reason, they him ' Cosmocrator, or the Governour of the World; and Pantocrator, which is the very word Almighty ascribed to God in the Creed. Or, if some of them were not arrived to that degree of Impiety, as to place the Government of the World in the Hands of the Devil, yet the best of them resused to lodge it with the one only Independent and Self-existent God, but appropriated it to that other subordinate Deity, whom they fancied to be the Creator of the Universe; and unto whom for this reason, they attributed the agreeing, as Irenaus obferves, with the Epicureans; and being full with the Spirit of the Devil, they invented a Father, neither taking care, nor providing about those things that relate unto us.

to

<sup>2</sup> Διαθολον, <sup>2</sup>ν κ) κοσμοκες τος α καλέσι— παντοκες τος α. Lib. 1. c. 1. p. 18. the very word 'Almighty, which is 'Havtoreja' in the Creed. As for the true and location in the Creed. As for the true and location in their feigned Plenitude, imagining location in their feigned Plenitude, imagining location in Rest and Silence; that as he did not make the World, so neither was he in any manner concerned about the guidance and direction thereof; therein

<sup>2</sup> Epicuri invenientes Deum, neque sibi neque aliis præstantem. Lib. 3. c. 41. p. 227.

<sup>3</sup> Diabolico spiritu pleni,—alterum quendam excogitant Patrem, neque curantem neque providentem eorum quæ sunt erga nos. Lib. 5. c. 21. p. 350.

And as for the Marcionites, they did not only, as it hath been already related, introduce two eternal Causes, God and the Devil, and ascribe the Creation of the World unto the latter, but they also attributed the Rule and Government thereof unto him, calling him for that reason, as Ireneus informs us, *Cosmocrator, or the Ruler Cosmocrator of the World; whereas, as the said Fa-rem dicit. ther excellently well proves in oppo-Lib. 1. c. 29. still s

feriour World, and the principal Subject of Divine Providence here below; that whatfoever Dominion he hath, it is all usurp'd, obtained through that Apostacy and Rebellion into which he drew Mankind with himself; that the Lord Jesus Christ hath undertaken for the rescue and delivery of Human Nature, and in that Nature he hath in his own Person already conquered and fubdued the Devil, wresting his unjust Power and Dominion from him; and that in his own appointed time, will enable all his Members to do the fame, to tread down Satan under their Feet, personally and particularly for themselves.

That which gave occasion to this and other Heresies of the like nature, was their setting up an odd and incomprehensible Notion of Good and Evil: for they imagining, Bonity and Pravity not to be Assections or Qualities of Beings, but Beings themselves; that all Natures were substantially Evil, or substantially Good; and consequently, apprehending the necessity of an Origine or Maker suitable to these different Essences, they introduced two Eternal Causes, God and the Devil:

vil; the one effentially Good, Author of all created Good, and the Governour and Ruler thereof; the other essentially Evil, Author of all created Evil, and the Governour and Ruler thereof: fo that not only the Creation, but also the Providence of God was blasphemed by these Marcionites, in allotting unto the Devil the Rule and Government of this inferiour World, at least of the greatest part thereof; which latter words I add, because those of them who maintained Three Eternal Principles, allowed unto the fupreme God fince the promulgation of the Gospel, the Conduct and Gubernation of the Christians: as when Megethius, a Marcionite of this Sect, affirmed, That there were Three Principles; Adamantius replied unto him, That according to his apprehension, the word Aga, or Principle, came from शेळे के बेंश्वरहार नारेंड़, from a Person's ruling and governing; and therefore he would willingly know of him, over whom these Three Principles did preside: Unto which Megethius answers, That the good Principle rules the Chri- "Ha Jaba Stians, the Maker of the World the Jews; agait xeland the evil Principle, the Heathens. "In In Inques-Juni T'Isdalov, nal morneg ror ifrikav. Origen. Dial. I. P. 4. So

So that even this Sect of those Hereticks, who acknowledged fome part of God's Dominion and Providence, did fo far blaspheme it, as that they made the Extent thereof very narrow and inconfiderable, much beneath what the Scripture saith of it; That' his Kingdom ruleth over all; That not only the * Pfal.lxxxix. * Heavens, but the Earth also is his,

19.

Pfal. ciii.

3 Pfal. xxiv.

with the Fulness thereof, the World, and they that dwell therein. fore, in the Dialogues of Origen, after Eutropius had fully heard the Disputation between the Orthodox Christian and the two Marcionites, he adjudges the Victory to the former, and rati-fies his Confession of Faith, That there was but One God, *"Os กล่งใหม หอุสโต้, ผู้ ล่ง- 4 who ruleth over all, whom nothing can oppose, and unto whose Will nothing can resist: and where he again repeats the substance of the Creed, he र के नवे नवंग- explains God's Almightiness, by s all la imorelant things being subject unto him; which, with what hath been faid before, fufficiently proves, That this Epithet of Almighty in the Creed includes, in opposition to the Gnosticks and Marcionites, the Dominion, Rule and Authority of the One only God, and his providential

ไ่นผาสม ชิงิริบ, ซึ่ Tที่ ผิชมที่ ชิงิริบ สิบชิร์รหมอง. Dial. 2. p.69.

P. 159.

vidential Disposal of all Affairs and Events in the World.

But, Thirdly, There is yet another Interpretation of this word Almighty, which is, That it signifies God's Immensity, Infiniteness or Omnipresency; that he is every where, and in every place; that he contains all things, and is himself contained of none; that he is Immeasurable, Incircumscriptible, without Bounds or Limits, which was also designed against the Gnosticks; for these monstrous and abominable Blasphemers supposed a certain Space or Plenitude, called in Greek Pleroma, far above this inferiour World, bounded by a certain Being called Horos; or that I may speak it in plain English, terminated and environed by a Circle, within the Sides whereof the supreme and incomprehenfible God was contained, and never came out from thence to take notice of the Affairs of this lower Region, but satisfied himself in Rest and Silence with the other Aions, in those vast and inestable Spaces limited by that Circle which did encompass it. Such base and contemptible Thoughts did these deluded Wretches entertain concerning the Divine Majesty, whose Greatness is incomprehensible, his Being infinite, and his Essence unmeasured in the who' hath measured the Water in the hollow of his Hand, and meted out Heaven with his Span, and comprehends the Dust of the Earth in a Mea-

<sup>2</sup> Ipse est qui cœlos implet, & perspicit abyssos, qui est etiam cum unoquoque nostrum. Lib.4. c. 36. p. 265.

fure; who, as Irenaus writes, i fills both Heaven and Hell, and is with every one of us.

Whosoever would see any more of this blasphemous Frenzy, with a solid Consutation thereof, he may find enough of it in the Five Books of Irenaus, and particularly in the places quoted

Lib. 2. c. 1. in the ' Margin.

But that which is pertinent to the Matter in hand, is, That the Fathers levelled this Clause of God's Almightiness in the Creed, against this impious Heresy; and therefore we find that Adamantius an Orthodox Christian, suspecting probably Marinus a Bardesianist, to incline to these Gnosti-

4 'A Δ A 'M. Παν]ους άτοα φης τ Θεὸν, η ε; ΜΑ' Ρ. Παν]ους άτος ά φημι. 'ΑΔ Α'Μ. Περιέχη τὰ πάντα, η σειέχται; Orig. Dial. 3. p. 83.

cal Dotages, asked him,

<sup>4</sup> Dost thou acknowledge God to be Almighty, or no? Unto which, when Marinus answers, I say that he is Almighty, Adamantius immediately replies as an Explication of the former Question, That he might prevent all equivocating Evasions; Doth he contain all things? or, is he contained himself? Understanding the word Pantocrator, used in this part of the Creed for Almighty, to have reference to the infiniteness and boundlesness of God's Nature, that he comprehends all things, and is not comprehended or limited by any thing himself: And so Cyril of Jerusalem paraphrases this part of the Creed,

vens

That God is not circumscribed in any place, neither is he less than the Heaven, but the Heavens are the Works of his Fingers, and the whole

¹ Ου αθειγέ σεισται εν πίνι πόσω έθε έπ μικεό τες Ε΄ έξεινε αλλ' έξρα τ θακ υλων αυτε εἰσὴν οἱ ἐξεινοὶ κὴ ἡ ἡῆ πῶσα ἐν τῷ δεακῷ ἀὐτε καθέχεται, οῦτ Ε΄ ἐν πῶσιν ἐςὰ κὸ παίν ων ἐκθος. Catech. 4. P. 25.

Earth is comprehended in his Fist; He is in all, and out of all. And unto this Interpretation of the word, the very Derivation thereof, it being from ων το ποίνια μεσιείν, doth also direct us, as well as unto God's providential Disposal and Government, of which I have already spoken; for μεσιείω signifies not only to Rule and Govern, but also to Contain and Comprehend; and so consequently, πάνια μεσιείν denotes not only a Governing, but also a Comprehending of All; which was long since observed by Theophilus H Bishop

Bishop of Antioch, who alledges this to be the reason for which God is

Πα. Τοκράτως δε όπ αὐτὸς τα πάνηα κραθά, κὴ εμπερέχζη, τὰ χο ὑ ἡ π ἐςανῶν, καὶ τὰ κέςα Γα τ οἰκεμθρίης ἐν τῆ χαρὶ αὐτὰ ἐςῖν, καὶ ἐκ ἐςῖ τόπο τ κα Ταπαύσεως αυτέ. Αα Autolyc. lib.

1. p. 71.

called 'Almighty, because he contains and comprehends all things; for the heights of Heaven, and the depths of the Abyss, and the ends of the World, are in his

Hand, and there is no place where he refts.

But, to conclude with this Subject, it appears from what hath been faid, That by affenting to this term Almighty in this precedent part of the Creed, it is thereby declared, That the Power of God is omnipotent, his Dominion universal, and his Essence infinite.

After the Affertion of God's Omnipotency, there immediately follows in the Creed, the Profession of one most glorious and admirable Effect thereof, viz. the Creation of the World, expressed in these words, Maker of Heaven

<sup>2</sup> Cœli&ter- and Earth; where, by making, we shall ræ nomine universa creatura fignisicating or Producing of what was made ta est, quam out of nothing; and by Heaven and fecit & condidit Deus.

Earth, all Creatures whatsoever both Tom. 1. de Ge- Visible and Invisible, according to that ness. Cont. Manage of Augustin, That by the Name

Name of Heaven and Earth, is signified every Creature that God made and created.

Now that which gave occasion to the inserting of this Act of God's Power and Might in the Rule of Faith, was that numerous and prodigious variety of Hereticks in the nost Primitive Days; who, though jarring and divided monght themselves, yet, is Irenaus observes, oncentred in the same Blasphemy against God the Creator of the Uni-

Hi enim omnes quamvis ex differentibus locis egrediantur, & differentia doceant, in idem tamen blasphemia concurrunt propositum, docendo in dominum fabricatorem blasphemiam. Iren. in Prafat. lib. 4. p. 232.

gels,

verse: And altho they came from different Places, and spread different Tenets, yet that one Spirit by which they were all guided and impregnated, to far united them, as to deny the Sureme God to be the Creator of the World; tho they could not agree amongst themselves, who it was that was the Cause thereof.

Simon Magus, the first Heretick, As as significant aught, That the World was made by sumsessing angels, as did also his Successor was the world was made by sumsessing angels, as did also his Successor was the work to seven An-in Har. Simon. p. 85.

Mundum factum ab Angelis. Iren. lib. 1. c. 21. P. 77.

A septem quibusdam Angelis mundum factum, & omnia quæ eo. Idem, lib. 1. c. 22. p. 77.

have been the Creators of the World, and of Mankind therein. The Basilidians dreamed, that there were successively created one after another, Three hundred sixty and sive Heavens, with their proper and peculiar Angels;

Τὰς δὲ τ΄ ἐξανὸν τὸν ἔσαθον τὸν ὑφ' ἡμῶν οἰκῶντας ἀ∫γέλες Ιπμιεργήσαι τὸν κόσμον. Theodoret. Epit. Her. Fab. de Bafil. p.96. The Angels of which last Heaven, being the Starry one that is visible unto us, created this in feriour World, with the Inhabitants there.

<sup>2</sup> Τὸν Λὲ κόσμον καὶ τὰ ἐν τιδ κόσμω τῶν ἀ Γγέλων γεγωνη δαι. Ερίρhan. cont. Haref. Carpocrat. p. 49.

In like manner also, the ' Carpocratians, with feveral other Hereticks, at tributed the Creation of the World unto Angels, thereby robbing the Supreme and Eternal Being of one of the most glorious Discoveries of his Wisdom, Power, and Goodness: But, howfoever impious and foolish the Creation of the World by Angels feems to be, yet the way by which feveral of the Gnosticks, and in particular the Valentinians, imagined it to have been produced, was far more monstrous, ridiculous, and abominable; whose He resies having been frequently mention ed in this Chapter, I think it will not be unnecessary to give a brief Account of them in this place, at least of that חמו

part of them which relates to God the Father Almighty, and his making of Heaven and Earth; for, as for their corrupt Tenets respecting Jesus Christ, and the Nature and State of Mankind, I sha'l have occasion to speak of them elsewhere.

As for what therefore concerns our present purpose, I have collected this general Idea of their portentous System from the first Book of Ireneus; unto which I refer the Reader, who defires farther information.

10

1.

1.

ŀ

of is

ns al he en ri-

n-Ot

nt

They believed, That there was an Eternal, Invisible, and Unbegotten Aion, or Æon, the first of all Beings, i. e. Age. called by them 2 Bythos, who lived 2 Depth. in Rest and Silence throughout an infinite Number of Ages; with whom existed Ennaa, or his Thought, whom they also called 3 Charis and Sige, which silence, couple begat and produced two Æons more, 4 Nus and Alethia, the first a 4 The Mind Male, the second a Female; Nus they and the Truth. also called ' Monogenes, who could a- ' Only Begotlone apprehend and contain the Greatness of his Father Bythos: Nus and Alethia emitted another couple, & Lo- The Word gos and Zoe, who fent forth two and Life. more, Anthropos and Ecclesia; all Man and which were in number Eight, and con-the Church, stituted

Bleffedness;

Willing and Wisdom.

stituted the First Order of the Æons, whom they termed the Root and Substance of all the rest.

After this, the two last Couple, for the glory and praise of their first Father, emitted eleven Couples more; of which, Logos and Zoe sent forth Depth, and these five, Bythus and Mixis, Agerative. Never tus and Henosis, Autophues and Hedone, Bungs himself. Acinetus and Syncrasis. Monogenes and Bornog kimelf, Acinetus and Syncrasis, Monogenes and and Vicasure; Macaria: And from Anthropos and Unmovable, and Compositi- Ecclesia proceeded these six, 2 Parason; Only begot-cletus and Pistis, Patricus and Elpis, ten, and Blessed. Metricus and Agape, Aenos and Syncand Faith, Fa-sis, Ecclesiasticus and Macariotes, Theletherly and tes and Sophia; which compleated the Hope, Motherly pumber of thirty.

and Love; per-number of thirty Æons, or fifteen petual Mind, Couples, the one half Male, the or Understanding; ther Female; who were supposed by Preacher, and the Couples are periods.

these extravagant Brains to copulate and beget, in the same manner that Men and Women do generate and produce their Children.

These all lived within a vast and unconceivable Place, far distant from these lower Regions, called by them Pleroma, or Fulness, mutually enjoying and rejoycing each other, till a certain Accident, as I may so term it, gave some disturbance to their Repose and Quiet; for though, as it was said before,

. . . .

.

d d

.

s,

2 0.

e n

)•

y

e ıt

)-

d

n

n

2

t,

(e

d

before, Nus, or Monogenes, was only delighted with the apprehension of the unmeasurable Greatness of Bythos, the Root and Origine of them all, yet the other Æons also vehemently longed to have the same Happiness of seeing their original Author and Producer; and especially, the last Female Eon called Sophia, was fo unreasonably passionate to obtain her desire of comprehending the Greatness of the Propator, or their first Father, that being not able to accomplish it, through vexation and grief at the faid Difappointment, flie brought forth an inform Matter, or such a monstrous Birth, which fometimes happens to Women; at which, she was so asfrighted, confounded and aftonished, that she would have been dissolved, or fallen out of the Pleroma, if Bythos had not in compassion to her, emitted a certain Power called 'Horos, who Circle. environed the Plenitude wherein the Eons dwelt, and confirmed her therein, but cast that inform Matter therefrom into those infinite Vacuities where the World was afterwards created: After which, that none of the Eons should be any more affected as Sophia had been, Monogenes emitted another H 4

Limit, or nother Couple, unto whom they gave the Names of Christ and the Holy Ghost, by whose means the Aons being established, they celebrated with great joy their Propator, or Bythos; and to his honour, every one of them brought together the best they had, and fent forth Jesus, whom they also called the Saviour, and Logos, and patronimically Christ, with whom alfo they emitted the Angels to be his Attendants.

I The Word.

All these precedent Affairs were transacted within the Plenitude, or that vast Space bounded by Horos; from whence the Alons never stirred, being always limited thereby, and confined therein: But as for that inform Matter produced by Sophia, and thrown by Horos out of the Pleroma into their truly imaginary Spaces, they fancied it to have been fo far pitied and affifted first by Christ, and afterwards by the Saviour, that a spiritual Form, or a Form x Tin yveen, was given unto her; which being thus shaped, they called a Achamoth, whom they most ridiculously imagined, by her Tears, Laughter, Sorrow, and fuch like things, Wisdom, as her to have emitted from her felf the Matter and Foundation of all those Animal

2 It comes from an Hebrew word which signifies Mother Sophia's Name doth in Greek.

mal and Material Beings which were afterwards created; and that first of all, from her Animal Substance she formed the great Father and Maker of all inferiour things, or of all without the Pleroma, except that eighth Heaven which she her felf framed for her own Habitation, and is between the Pleroma and the Dwelling-place of this her Son, called by them Demiurgus, or Maker of the World: who being moved and excited by her, ignorantly and unknowingly created the whole Universe, with every Being therein; framed seven Heavens, in the supremest whereof he dwells in a fupine, stupid, and careless manner, neither knowing any thing of, nor concerning himself about the Affairs of Mankind; but leaving them altogether unto the Devil, who was without his knowledge made by him, lives in this World, and rules and governs all the Events and Transactions thereof.

300

n

d

y

or

y

s,

S,

t-

al

Thus have I, as succinctly as possible, in the most intelligible manner that I could, explicated the Valentinian System relating to the first Cause of all things, and the Creation of the World; wherein not only the Villany and Imposety piety,

piety, but also the Delusion and Folly of those Hereticks is to be admired and wonder'd at; which is fo gross and notorious, that it would have feem'd incredible and past belief, that ever fuch a fenfless number of People should have appeared in the World, if the uncontroulable Records of the most Primitive Times had not made it most evident, that many embraced this pernicious Way; and that whilst others blasphemed the Creator of the Universe, by ascribing the framing thereof to Angels, these dishonoured him, by attributing it to an ignorant, doltish, and inferiour Divinity.

But besides these Hereticks, there were yet others, who in another way and manner denied the Heaven and the Earth to be made by the One only Supreme and Eternal God; and these were the Cerdonians and Marcionites, the introducers of two Eternal Principles; the inferiour whereof, according to their Notions, was the Cerdon introducit initia Father and Creator of the Universe.

duo, id est,
duos Deos,
unum bonum,
That he invented two Principles, or & alterum sæ-two Gods; the one a good God, who is vum, bonum
sum, the superior; and the other a sierce sævum hunc mundi creatorem. De Prascript. advers. Hæret. p. 95.

God,

Goa, who was the Creator of the World.

And as for Marcion, he was Cerdon's Scholar, and with him maintained two Eternal Causes, a good and a bad one, God and the Devil; the latter of whom, as Irenaus frequently assures us, he afferted to be the 'framer of bricatorem. the World; by which means, he made Lib. 1. c. 29. the Creator to be an inferiour God, as p. 82.

Justin Martyr, who lived in his Days, writes, That Marcion of Pontus ima- Androw Tregined, that there was a greater God than wa vouicew the maker of the World.

Superpresentation of the World.

With too great reason now may we Oedv. Aporeflect with horrour and amazement log. 2. p. 70. on these monstrous and unaccountable Herefies! Who could possibly imagine, that the fancies of Men should ever have been so miserably deluded? But, the Matter of Fact is too certain to be call'd in doubt; these Heresies were fo fpreading and contagious, that as an Antidote against the venomous Infection thereof, the Governors of the Primitive Church found themfelves necessitated in contradiction thereunto, to infert in the Creed, That the one God, the Father Almighty, is the maker of Heaven and Earth; as we find in Irenaus, who after he hath related several of the precedent Blasphemies

y

d

e rof,

10

s,

or

rce

s. od,

mies against God as Creator, the first Argument that he useth for their Confutation, is the Creed received in the Church, wherein we profess our Faith in one God, the Father Almighty, Τον πεποιηχότα τ δεανον κ) την γω), και τας θανάκτας, και πάντα τα εν αυτοίς. Lib. 1. c. 2. p. 35.

<sup>2</sup> Unum Deum fabricatorem cœli ac terræ, --- ecclesia omnis per universum orbem hanc accepit ab Apostolis traditionem. Lib. 2. c. 9. p. 107.

maker of Heaven, Earth and Sea, and of every thing therein; and in another place he faith, That the Universal Church throughout the whole World, had received this Tradition

from the Apostles, that there was but one God, the maker of Heaven and Earth: And again, disputing against the Gnosticks and Valentinians, he cites for their confutation, the Rule of Faith received from the Apostles in all Churches, which, saith he, teaches us, That there is but

Quia fit unus Deus omnipotens, qui omnia condidit per verbum fuum, --- five vifibilia, five invifibilia, five fenfibilia, five fempiterna. --- Hanc ergo tenentes regulam, licet valde varia & multa dicant, facile eas deviasse à veritate arguimus. Lib. 1. c. 19. p. 74.

us, That there is but one Almighty God, who made all things by his Word, whether visible or invisible, sensible or intelligible, temporal or eternal; which Rule if we observe, although they affirm many and various things, yet we shall easily convince them to swerve from the Truth. But, should I produce what-

foever

foever is to be found in the Books of Irenaus pertinent to my present purpose, I should swell this Chapter into a Volume.

In the Dialogues of Origen, when Adamantius the Orthodox Christian repeated the Catholick Faith, which he would defend in opposition to the Marcionites; as he confessed therein, that there was but one God, fo he omitted not to add, That this one God was Kristo nai the Creator and Maker of all Things; Supusesov 35 which he fo well proved and confirm- a wall ov sivas ed, that Eutropius the Judge of the memis dia. 1. p. 3. Disputation, condemned the Marcionites for Fools: And together with Adamantius, in contradiction to their Herefy, not only inferted in his Creed the Unity of God, but also that he was ' the Creator and Framer of all 'Knishu nea' Things; so that when we recite this June 200 a-Clause in the Creed, of maker of Hea- Dial. 2.p. 69. ven and Earth, we thereby profess our Belief, that the one Eternal and Supreme God, is the alone Creator and Former of all Things whatfoever, both visible and invisible.

S

10

is

or

n.

e-

if

ve m it-

er

CHAP. III.

The Nicene and more antient Greek Creeds, read in One Jesus Christ; which was a designed opposition to the blasphemous Division of Jesus from Christ. by the Gnosticks and others. whose several Heresies are related. By believing in Jesus Christ, we profest that there was such a Man as was known by the Name of Jesus of Nazareth, which word Jesus was an usual Name amongst the Jews; and that this Jesus was the Christ, or the Messias, which was constantly a part of the Creed from the very beginning of the Gospel; it being the Foundation of all Christianity, and that which was most violently assaulted by the Jews: The Word Christ fignifies Anointed; Unction used amongst the Jews on several occasions; in allusion whereunto Jesus is called Christ, from his Consecration to his triple Office of Prophet, Priest, and King: His Unction is to be understood in a spiritual sense; God the Father was the Anointer, and the Holy Ghost the Oil, which was poured upon his Human Nature at his Conception and Baptism. Baptism. His only Son, wherein are Two things contained; First, That He is the Son of the Father; His Son, which was foretold by the Prophets, whence Messias and the Son of God were convertible terms amongst the Jews at the time of our Saviour's appearance. Christ was the Son of God in several respects; but in one way peculiarly so, which is the second thing in this Clause, that he is his only Son. The Scriptures affirm, That God had one Son in a peculiar manner, which is expressed in the Greek Creeds, to be by Generation; which was perhaps opposed to the Valentinian Emission, or Division from the Father; caution to be used in the searching into this Mystery: Christ said in the Greek Creeds, to be the Movo Rous, or the only Begotten, in contradiction to the Gnosticks, and others. This Article was coeval with Christianity, and denotes Christ's Divine Nature: The Title Lord, denotes the Dominion of Christ, who is Lord by way of Eminency, being supreme Lord over all; and particularly, the Christian's Lord, our Lord: Two opposite Parties in the Universe; the one under Christ, the other under the Devil, who have each their

t

in

er

ft

is

nd

n.

their separate Kingdoms; the Devil's Interest among Spirits, is unknown to us, but amongst Mankind he very much prevailed, insomuch that in several places he was worshiped as God; but when Christ came, he destroyed the Devil's Kingdom, which was but an usurp'done, and erected his own King. dom; the admission whereinto was at Baptism, when the baptized Person not only acknowledged Christ's Lordship, but also expresty renounc'd the Devil's Power. This Article coeval with Christianity, and denotes a submission to Christ as our Lord, in opposition to the Devil. In the next place, the Creed declares Christ's Humanity, the necessity of his being Man: his Incarnation blasphemed and denied in fundry ways and manners, by various Hereticks; against whom was levelled, what soever is mentioned in the Creed from our Saviour's Conception to his Resurrection. The Conception and Nativity are in most Creeds joined together in one Sentence. Ebion, Cerinthus, and others, affirmed Christ to have been a Man, conseived and born in the ordinary way of Generation; against whom it is declared, that he was conceived by

by the Holy Ghost, and born of Juch a Woman as was a Virgin. Several Hereticks whose Names are mentioned, denied that Christ assumed a Material Body from the Substance of his Mother, but held that his Body was fram'd in Heaven, and pass'd through the Virgin Mary as Water through a Pipe; their reason for this Heresy, which is emphatically condemned by this expression, in Maeias, or, of Mary: The strange Notion of the Apel-leians concerning the making of our Saviour's Body, against whom, with the precedent Hereticks, the Creed directs us to believe, by his being born of the Virgin Mary, that he took from her Flesh the real substance of his Body: The Birth of Christ employed also in conjunction with his Passion, Crucifixion, Death and Burial, to denote the reality of his Body: These last four not all found in one and the Same Creed, till St. Augustin's Days: The monstrous consequences of an imaginary and fantastical Incarnation, which was maintained by a prodigious Variety of Hereticks from the Days of St. John, as by the Simonians, Mehandrians, &c. Against whom was inserted in the Creed, the Birth of Christ,

Christ, and his Sufferings; which latter Point was so convincing a Proof, that to prevent any Cavils, as if it were a doubtful and uncertain thing, the Time thereof is declared to have been under Pontius Pilate, who was Procurator of Judea in the Reign of the Emperour Tiberius: To condemn also the forementioned Heresies, the Crucifixion of our Saviour follows, that it was not Simon of Cyrene, as the Basilidians affirmed, but he himfelf who was crucified; and likewife his Death which is mentioned, because the certainty thereof is the Foundation of the Gospel: By Death is meant the Separation of Soul and Body; after which, for the same intent, fol-lows the disposal of his dead Body, viz. that it was Buried, or laid in the Grave.

in God the Father; in this I come to consider in part, of that which relates unto the Son: The beginning where of is, and in Jesus Christ; wherein the first thing observable is, That the Nicene and more antient Greek Creeds read, and in one Jesus Christ; putting

TAVING in the former Chap-

Els Eva nuelos Inossy Xelsis. Socrat. Ecc. Hist. lib. 1. c. 8. p. 25. putting an emphatical Force and Energy upon the term One; as in one of the Creeds of Irenaus, the Christian Faith is not only terminated upon One God the Father, but also upon 'One Jesus Christ; and where the said 'Eis Eva Xessov' In-Father exhorts his Readers to a sirm osv. Lib. 1. adherence unto the Faith, which the c. 2. p. 35. Church received from the Apostles, and distributes to her Children, this is one Article thereof, That there is but One Christ the Son of God: 'Unum Christum Filium which particular Emphasis in the Ori-Dei. Lib. 3. ental Creeds, was long ago remarked c. 1. p. 169. by Russinus, who assures us, That as they did all read in One God the Father Almighty, so also in One Lord Jesus Christ, in conformity, as he thinks, to the Authority of St. Paul, That there is but 4 One Lord, and One God.

orientes Ecclesiæ omnes ita tradunt, Credo in unum Deum Patrem,—& in unum Dominum nostrum Jesum Christum, unum scilicet Deum, & unum Dominum, secundum auctoritatem Pauli Apostoli profitentis. Exposit. in Symb. §. 4. p. 566.

* Ephes. iv. 5, 6.

ticks,

But, as I conceive, a more probable account of this emphatical Expression may be fetched from the blasphemous and horrid Imaginations of the Gno-sticks, Cerinthians, and others, who by dividing Christ from Jesus, denied the Unity of our Saviour's Person; concerning the former of which Here-

I 2

ticks, Irenaus writes, That they did not only endeavour to withdraw Perfons from their Faith in One God the Father Almighty, but also from their eis eva weiov i Faith in one Lord Jesus Christ, by · Separating Jesus from Christ, affirming them to be two diffinct and different Persons, and not One Christ Jesus, as the Creed declares.

" Misiv -Inow Xerov. Lib. 1. c. 1. P. 12. <sup>2</sup> Jesum separant à Chrifto. Idem, lib. 2. c. 11. p. 186.

3 Iren. lio. 1. c. I. p. 22. lib. 3. c. 17. p. 201, 202. and in many other places.

The general Opinion of the Gnoflicks relating to this matter, feems to have been this, 3 That Christ was the Son of their Creator, whom they termed Demiurgus; from whom he derived an Animal Life, as from his Grandmother Achamoth he received a Spiritual one; that he passed through the Virgin Mary as Water through a Pipe; and that at his Baptism, Jesus who lived with the thirty Æons within the Pleroma, descended into him in the form of a Dove, and continued with him till his Passion, when the faid Jesus lest Christ, and returned back to the Pleroma in an invisible and incomprehensible manner.

The Blasphemies of Valentinus, a principal Leader amongst the Gnorespecting particular, this are thus briefly expressed by Theo-doret, that he afferted, That the Only Begotten was one, and the Word another; that there was one Christ within the Plenitude, and another Jesus, and again one Christ without the Plenitude; affirming moreover, that Jesus was incarnated, by Βαλείζι ο άλλον με έφη τ μονοχυή, άλλον δε τ λόξον, καὶ άλλον τ Χειςον, τ ενδός τε πληρώματ ο, μετερον τ Ίπος ν, με άλλον αυ πάλιν, τ έξω Χει-5ον, ενανθρωπήσαι ο τ Ίπος ν έφη, τ έξω Χειςον ενουσάμειον, η σώμα εν τ ψυχικής εσίαι ανειληφότα. Ερίτ. Haret. Fibul, lib, 5. 6. 12. P. 124.

the

putting on the Christ that was without, and assuming unto himself a Body of an Animal Substance: thus making Jesus and Christ to be two different Persons. Which Heresy was hatched before his time, in as much as we find it ascribed to Cerinthus, who affirmed Jesus to be a meer Man, the Son of Joseph and Mary, into whom Christ de-scended after Baptism, in the Shape of a Dove, from that Principality which is above all, and then revealed the unknown Father, and wrought Miracles; but in the end, Christ sled

<sup>2</sup> Jesum fuisse Joseph & Mariæ Filium, —& post baptismum descendisse in eum Christum, ab ea principalitate quæ est super omnia, sigura Columbæ, & tunc annunciasse incognitum Patrem, & virtutes perfecisse, in sine autem revolasse iterum Christum de Jesu, & Jesum passum esse, & resurrexisse, Christum autem impassibilem perseverasse, existentem spiritalem. Iren. lib. 1. c, 25, p. 81.

from Jesus, and Jesus suffered and rose again, whilst Christ remained impassible, being spiritual. Against which I3 Errour

Johannes—volens per Evangelii annuntiationem auferre eum qui à Cerintho — errorem —ut fuaderet eos — quoniam — non quemadmodum illi dicunt—alium quidem fabricatoris Filium, alterum vero de fuperioribus Christum, quem & impassibilem perseverasse, descendentem in Jesum Filium fabricatoris, & iterum revolasse in suum Pleroma. Lib. 3.

Teneus assures us, St. John levelled his Gospel, persuading them, that it was not as they said, that there was one Jesus the Son of the Creator, and another Christ, who came from the Pleroma, who remaining impassible, descended into the foresaid Jesus, the Son of the Creator, and afterwards returned back to the Pleroma

again.

Now if St. John designed his Gospel for the consutation of this Herespecify, it is no wonder that the Church in her most early Days inserted in the Rule of Faith, a proper Antidote thereagainst, requiring all her Sons to believe in One Jesus Christ, which was a direct contradiction to all the forementioned Heresies; for, as Irenaus well

<sup>2</sup> Si enim alter quidem passus est, alter autem impassibilis mansit, & alter quidem natus est, alter vero in eum qui natus est, descendit & rursus reliquit eum, non unus sed duo monstrantur. Lib.3. c. 18. p. 206.

reasons, If these Figments should be admitted, it would necessarily follow, that there are two Christs; for, if one suffers, whilst the other is incapable thereof, and one is born, whilst the other descends into him so born, and afterafterwards leaves him, it is most certain that they are not one, but two: Which Division and Separation of our Saviour's Person is such an intolerable Blasphemy, that as the said Father writes, 'Christ Jesus Judicabit eos qui sunt à Vashall judge the Valenti- Ientino omnes, quia unum do-

nians for it, when he shall minum Jesum Christum, &c.

come to judge the World. Lib. 4. c. 58. p. 297.

But, though the Eastern Creeds did read in One Jesus Christ, yet in the West, where the Churches were not so much infested and ravaged by the Gnoficks, the Creed, as our prefent One doth, expressed this Article without the addition of the term One, faying, And in Jesus Christ, his only Son our Lord, &c. In which words, our Faith is declared in the Son of God; wherein we have him first described by his Name Jesus; and then by his Office, that he is Christ; and afterwards by his Natures both Divine and Human, with feveral Acts belonging thereunto: Unto each of which, I shall speak in their respective order.

And first of all, by the word fesus, I suppose the designed sense thereof to have been no other than this, that hereby we must profess our Belief, That without question or dispute, there I 4 really was fuch a Man living in the World as was called Jesus, or Jesus of Nazareth, to distinguish him from others of the same Name; for it must be observed, That Jesus was a proper Name, attributed and given unto others besides our Saviour, as Joshua the Son of Nun was called Jesus: And besides him, we read of Jesus who was called Justus, and of Barjesus, or the Son of Jesus; it being an usual

Heb. iv. 8. Son of Nun was called Jesus: And Colos. iv. besides him, we read of Jesus who have sailed Justus, and of Barjesus, or the Son of Jesus; it being an usual Name amongst the Jews, and like unto other Names, imposed upon Children at their Circumcision: According to which St. Jerom tells us con-

4 Christus commune dignitatis est nomen, Jesus proprium vocabulum salvatoris. Tom. 6. Com. in Matth. c. 16. p. 33.

Jesus inter homines nominarur. Institut. lib. 4. c. 7. p. 367.

cerning our Saviour, That as Christ was his common Name denoting Dignity, so Jesus was his proper Name, by the which, as Lastantius writes, he was called amongst Men.

As for the exact time when this Je-Jus lived here on Earth, it is not mentioned in this part of the Creed, seeing in another part it is declared to have been in the days of Pontius Pilate; neither indeed was it necessary to be here expressed, since this Article being coeval with Christianity, it was a thing then universally known and and owned by all, as might easily be proved both from Pagan and Jewish Writers, that there was fuch a Man as Fesus of Nazareth, who preached an heavenly and divine Doctrine, and confirmed it both by an exemplary Life and undeniable Miracles; wherefore the bare existence of such a Man was fufficient to be expressed, whose name Jesus was principally inserted in the Creed, and by consequence chiefly to be considered, for no other reason than as it is related to the following word Christ, and in Jesus Christ; the intended meaning whereof was this, That the Man called Jesus, who lived at Nazareth, is Christ; that is, is the Messias, or the Anointed of God; that very Person, who was design'd and appointed by him to be the Instructor, King, and Saviour of Mankind: The Declaration whereof at Baptism, was required from the very Foundation of Christianity, seeing it is that on which our whole Religion depends, and what was most violently assaulted by the Jews, out of whom the first Converts were made.

St. John relates concerning the Fury and Malice of the Jews, That they had agreed, that if any Man did John ix. 22, confess confess that this Jesus was the Christ, he should be put out of the Synagogue, that is, be excommunicated; in which hatred against the Person and Name of Jesus, the Successors of thoseblind and enraged Zealots have obstinately continued to this very day: They univerfally expected indeed about that time, the coming of the Messias; but they imagined, that it should be in worldly Pomp and Splendor, that his Salvation should be Temporal and Earthly, that he should appear in a state of Grandeur and Majesty, and advance them to a fuitable condition of Magnificence and Terrestrial Greatness: wherefore, when quite contrary to all their Imaginations, they beheld our Jesus to be in mean and defpised Circumstances, an Inhabitant, and as they believed, born in the contemptible Town of Nazareth, from whence no good could come, attended only by a few despicable and unlearned Fishermen, labouring under Penury and Want, and living in an univerfal Contempt; they were fcandalized hereat, and could not brook this Jesus for their Christ, or Messias, who was fo directly contrary to the gaudy Conceits they had entertained of him, which is an open denial and total subversion of the whole Gospel; for, if this Jesus be not Christ, our Religion, as was hinted before, is vain and false: The very Basis and Foundation of the whole Body of Christianity is, That Jesus of Nazareth is the. Christ, or the Messias; wherefore, from the first Preaching of the Gospel, the belief of his being the Messias or Christ, was always required at Baptism; as is farther evident from the Exhortation of St. Peter to the convinced Jews, to be baptized every one of them in the Acts ii. 38. Name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of Sins: And from his baptizing Acts x. 48. Cornelius, and his Friends, for the fame intent, in the Name of the Lord; where, feeing they were baptized in the Name of Jesus Christ for the remission of Sins, it is most apparent, that they must necessarily yield their assent to this Proposition, that Jesus was the Christ, who had procured Pardon and Forgiveness for them.

In the Confession also of the 3 Eunuch, which he made antecedent to his Baptism, there is included an acknowledgment of this necessary truth, that Jesus is the Saviour of the World; as Irenaus writes concerning him,

That

Nihil enim aliud deerat ei, qui à prophetis fuerat præcate-chizatus, non Deum Patrem—fed folum adventum ignorabat Filii Dei, — Quapropter non multum laboravit circa eum Philippus.—Propter hoc autem & Apotoli oves colligentes quæ perierant domus Ifrael, — oftendebant Jesum crucifixum, hunc esse Christum Filium Dei vivi. Lib. 4, c. 40. p. 274, 275.

That 'he had been beforehand catechized by the Prophets, concerning God the Father; and that he only lacked to be instructed in the coming of the Son of God, which was now done by Philip,
who easily persuaded him,
that he was Jesus Christ,

who was crucified under Pontius Pilate; which Method was also observed by the Apostles, who in their Sermons to the Jews did principally shew them, that that Jesus who was crucified, was the Christ, the Son of the Living God. Wherefore, when we repeat these Words in the Creed, in Jesus Christ, we thereby declare our fincere and unfeigned Belief, That that Man who was called Jesus of Nazareth is the Christ: Which word signifies in Greek Anointed, as Messias doth in Hebrew alfo. I might hence take an occafion to enlarge on the Use and End of Unction amongst the Jews, and on the Analogy that is between it and that of our Saviour; but this being not for pertinent to my present Defign, and it having been already largely handled by others, I shall only briefly mention mention fo much thereof, as will be necessary to render this Treatise complete and entire.

In the Kingdom of Israel therefore, this Ceremony of Unction was used to defign the Confecration, Dedication or Appointment of any Person or Thing to any particular Act or Office; and especially, it was employed in the Vocation, Confecration, and Inauguration of their Prophets, Priests, and Kings; as Elisha was anointed to be a Prophet by Elijah; and the Le. Lev. iv. 3 vitical Law prescribes Unction to every High Priest, at his investiture in his Office; and 'Zadok the Priest inaugurated Solomon in his Kingdom, by anointing him with Oil. Now in allusion hereunto, our Saviour is said to be anointed by a spiritual Unction, being set apart, consecrated, and dedicated thereby, to be a Great Prophet, Ab unclian High Priest, and an universal King; one Christus, in a most eminent manner uniting in unctio que himself the three Offices, viz. Propheti- per Reges, cal, Sacerdotal, and Regal, which were Propheras & Sacerdotes odivided in the Jewish Administration, Sacerdotes o-as Petrus Chrysologus remarks in his Ex- rat in figuram, position thereof, That & Jesus was cal- in hunc Re-Sacerdotem Sacerdotum, Prophetarum Prophetam, tota se plenitudine spiritus divinitatis effudit. In Symb. Apost. Serm. 59. p. 53.

gem Regum,

led Christ from anointing; because, that Unction which formerly by a Figure ran upon Kings, Prophets, and Priests, the Divine Spirit poured with a perfect Plenitude on this King of Kings, Priest of Prophets Priests, and Prophet of Prophets.

As for the manner of our Lord and Saviour's Unction, it cannot be supposed to have been by real and material Oil, but it must be understood of a spiritual and divine Operation, Athanasius observing the several Refemblances and Parallels that are betwixt David and Christ, in every one whereof the latter hath the Preeminency, mentions this for one: David, faith he, was anointed with material Oil; but the manner of our Saviour's anointing is thus described in the forty fifth Psalm, Thy Throne, O God, is for ever and ever; a right Scepter is the Scepter of thy Kingdom: thou hast loved Righteousness, and hatest Iniquity; therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the Oil of Gladness a-

"Iva μη τη nointed thee with the Oil of Gladness aδμοιολεξία τ bove thy Fellows; where it is said with γομίαν νομί- the Oil of Gladness, lest by the word
σης, είναι τ λε- Anointing we should apprehend an Equaείδη Δαβιδ, εχείδη η ὁ Χειςὸς, ἀλλ' ὁ μ΄ εχείδη καὸ ἀνθρώπε, ὁ τὸ εχείδη ομ Παθεὸς, κὴ κρίσις ἀνεμδή ητ Θ, μὰ ἀναΠάληπτα τα πρό ςματα, &c. Τοπ. 1. Homil, de Sement. p. 1068.

lity between them : David and Christ were both anointed, but the one was anointed by Man, and the other by the Father; which Unction is ineffable, and the manner thereof incomprehensible: wherefore the Psalmist stiles it, the Oil of Gladness above thy Fellows; for, although both are alike anointed, yet their Unction is not of equal Worth and Dignity; for, as Christ retains the Parallel, so also he conferves the Pre-eminency.

He who anointed our Saviour was God the Father; and the Oil with which he performed it, was the Holy Ghost: In the word Christ, faith Irenaus, there is understood the Anointer, the Anointed, and the Unction; the Anointer is the Father, the Anointed is the Son, and the Unction is in the Spirit; as he saith

.

ty

' In Christi nomine subauditur, qui unxit, & ipse qui unctus est, & ipfa unctio in qua unctus est; & unxit quidem Pater, unclus est vero Filius, in spiritu qui est unctio; quemadmodum per Esaiam ait sermo, Spiritus Dei super me propter quod unxit me, fignificans & ungentem Patrem, & unctum Filium, & unctionem qui est spiritus. Lib. 3. c. 20. p. 209.

by the Prophet Isaiah, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he anointed me; signifying the Father who anointeth, the Son who is anointed, and the Spirit who is the Oil: Which Oil was chiefly poured upon him at His Conception and aure and Baptism; and, as Origen observes, Xe150; wv. is to be referred to his human Nature, ment.in Johan.

Mintere de ravading nuas i aνθew-

in Tom. 1. p. 29.

in which he was anointed by God to be both Lord and Saviour.

After our Saviour's human Name. and the declaration of his Function and Office, there follows in the Creed his Filiation, or Sonship, expressed in the word Son, which is his Divine Name; whereby we are not to understand any thing that is human and common, but fuch a Filiation as is Divine, proper and peculiar unto him, and is not communicable and attributable unto any other, being his Father's only Son; wherein are Two things observable: First, That he is the Son of the Father, his Son: Secondly, That he is his only Son, i.e. fuch a Son; or, a Son in such a manner as never any other is or was.

The Oracles of the Old Testament did foretel, That Christ should be the Son of God: 'I will declare the Decree; the Lord hath said unto me, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. * He shall cry unto me, Thou art

my Father, my God, and the Rock of my Salvation: Also, I will make him

my First-born, higher than the Kings of the Earth. 3 * Unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given, and the Government shall be upon his Shoulder, and his Name

Pfal. ii. 7.

Pfal.lxxxix. 26, 27.

3 Ifa. ix. 6.

Name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, the mighty God, the everlasting Father, the Prince of Peace. When 'Hosea xi. 1. Israel was a Child, then I loved him, and called my Son out of Egypt. Whence amongst the Jews, at the time of our Saviour's appearance, Messias and the Son of God were convertable terms, defigning the same Person, as is evident from feveral Passages in the New Testament; as, Rabbi, thou Joh. i. 49? art the Son of God, thou art the King of Israel. 3 I believe, that thou art 'John xi.27. the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the World. 4 What have 4 Matth. viii. we to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of 29. God ?

Now Christ is on several respects called the Son of God in Scripture, as he is fo called on the account of his temporal Generation, being conceived in an extraordinary manner in the Virgin's Womb, by the Power of the Holy Ghost; whence the Angel told Luke 1.35 the Virgin Mary, He 'should be called the Son of God: And, he is also so called by reason of his Resurrection from the Dead, whereby he was, as it were, begotten to another Life by God his Father, who raised him; as in Acts XIII

f

À f

is

xiii. 32, 33. And we declare unto you glad Tidings, how that the Promise which was made unto the Fathers, God hath fulfilled the same unto us their Children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second Psalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee. And, he is likewife called the Son of God, by reason of that High Office whereunto he was called by the special Designation and immediate will of God: 'Say ye of 3 John x. 36. him, whom the Father hath sanctified and Sent into the World, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the Son of God? As also, by reason of his great Dignity and Authority, being next in order to the Father, and fat down on the right Hand of the Majesty on High, whereby he hath the actual possession as Heir of all. God bath in these last Days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed Heir of all things, by whom also he made the Worlds; who being the brightness of his Glory, and the express Image of his Person, and upholding all things by the Word of his Power, when he had by himself purged our Sins, sat down on the right Hand of the Majesty on high,

3, 4, 5.

Heb. i. 2,

high, being made so much better than the Angels, as he hath by Inheritance obtaind a more excellent Name than they; for unto which of the Angels said he at my time, Thou art my Son, this Day ave I begotten thee? And again, I will e to him a Father, and he shall be to ne a Son.

Now in all these forementioned repects, our Saviour was the Son of God way of Eminency and Excellency eyond and above all others; but he oth not feem to have been fo foleand folitarily, and exclusive of all thers, which is the Filiation and Sonnip intended in the Creed: It being id therein, That he is his only Son, which is the Second thing observable this Clause; and intimates the pediarity of his Sonship, that he is the on of God in such a way or manner, s never any other was, is, or can

The Holy Scriptures do abundantassure us, That God had one particuson in fuch a peculiar way and maner as he had never any other; as, ' God loved the World, that he gave his only 16, 17, 18. gotten Son, that who soever believeth in m should not perish, but have everlasting fe; for God fent not his Son into the World K 2

3

John iii.

S. Sang. non

World to condemn the World, but tha the World through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condem. ned, but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the Name of the only begotten Son of

Rom.viii.3. God. God fending his own Son in the likeness of sinful Flesh, and for sin con-Gal. iv- 4. demned sin in the Flesh. When the Fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son made of a Woman, made under the Law. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, That he might destroy the Works of the Devil. 4 In this was manifested the love of God towards us, because that God sent his on-by begotten Son into the World, that we might live through him. And several other Passages there are in Holy Writ, which shew, That God had one Son in a proper and pecuhar way, fo and in fuch manner as he had never a-

my other Son; which way and manner is expresly declared in the Greek

Creeds, to be by Generation: All the Greek Creeds reading, and in Jesus Christ his only begotten Son, & vide auts

Movo Mons & movo Mun; and supposed in the Latin Creeds, under the term only, and in Je-

Semp. Tom. 1. sus Christ his only Son. For, as A-S. Santt. non thanasius says, Christ is the only begotten,

r John иі. 8.

* 1 John

IV. 9.

20 हरा ठीठे मे Movo. effe Great. B. 190.

blue W

gotten, and therefore the only.

When thou hearest, Yide answe un vouious Sefaith St. Cyril of Jeru- You, and puorkov vide, vide unsalem, Christ called a vossun, asexpor etees ix exor-Son, do not think him δα διά τέδο οδ καλείται μονοτβυής, δοη, do not think him δη είς το το πεότη Θ αξίωμα to be an adopted Son, n's The on Male's Honore adenbut a natural Son, an por sx sxes. Catech. 11. p. 93. only begotten Son, not having any Brother; for he is therefore called the only begotten, because there is none other like him, either as to the Dignity of his Deity, or his Birth from his Father. And again, When thou hearest him called 'ridvans. a Son, do not understand him so only a- xensinos abusively or improperly, but understand μες μόνον, αλ-him to be a true Son, a natural Son. λαὶ υίον αλη-So that Christ was the true and natu- ornov. Catech, ral Son of God, begotten of him be- 11. p. 94. fore all Worlds; that as by Generation, one of the same Kind and Nature is produced with a Likeness and Similitude to the Producer, fo in a more perfect and eminent manner, the Father before all Worlds begot a Son like unto himself; which manner of his Production by Generation, was perhaps placed in the Creed, in opposition to the Blasphemies of the Valentinians and Gnosticks, who imagined it to be by Emission, and consequently by Division and Section from that K 3.

75

1-

6-

19

Nature, or Being, from whom he was emitted: Wherefore, Athanasius in his Creed, not in that which common ly passeth under his Name, but in another, expressly opposeth the Generation of the Son, to this Emission of Τις δόριλο είς ενα μονογού λόγον, — εν τε Παθεός ἀνάς χως κ) ἀϊδίως γεγρουμούον, λόγον δε — ε τινώσιν τ ἀπαθές φύσεως, ετε ωεοβολίω, ἀλλ΄ ύιὸν αυλοτελή. Τομ. 1. Εχρος. fid. p. 240.

the Gnosticks; We be lieve, saith he, in one only begotten Word, born of the Father, without beginning of Time, from all Eternity, being not i

Division from the impassible Nature, or an Emission, but a perfect Son.

As for the manner of the Father's Eternal begetting of the Son, there are various Similitudes used by the Antients to help our Conceptions therein, as that the Father begat the Son, asa Fountain doth her Streams, and the Sun Light, and a Root the Branches and feveral others fuch like : but who ther all of them will abide a strid Scrutiny, I shall not here enquire; on ly this I shall venture to affirm, That none of them do yield us any adequate or fatisfactory Apprehension of this sub limeand incomprehenfible Mystery. For which reason, great caution is to be used in our Searches thereinto, and Expressi ons thereof, that we do not with to great Nicety and Curiousness dive into this profound and incomprehenfible Secret, lest whilst we endeavour to shew our Learning and Knowledg, we betray our Ignorance, and, what is worfe, conceive and utter things unbecoming the Divine and Infinite Majesty.

This was the wife and pious Advice of the famous Alexander, Bishop of Alexandria, who was the first discoverer and condemner of Arius: It is true, writes that Bishop, That the Son was begotten; but he that enquires farther into the manner thereof, is not to be reckoned amongst the Pious, seeing he hearkens not to that which is written, Seek not after things which are too difficult for thee, and search not into those things which are too high for thee; for if the knowledg of many other things, far inferiour to this, exceed the reach of an human Un-

id

U

nat

ate

ub For

effi

' Eis Eugeßeis en oluai roseζουδό το μέχει τότον επηςω-Ταν, τι τολμώντ Ο δια το ανήκοον τε, χαλεπώτερα σε μη ζή-τι, η υ τηλότερα σε μη Εξε-Τάζε, εἰ χο έτεςων πολλών ἡ γνώσις, κὸ τέτων ἀσυζκείτως κολοβωζέςων, κέκςυπται τὴν ἀγθεωπίνω καλάλη τιν, - πος αν किंश्हिर्विकार्य माड मोग में छिड़ रेर्विड των όςτιστο, επίδς εί μπ μελας-χολική διαθέσει ληφθείς πιξχάvoi, wei is to wespolition wredμα φήσι, την βυεάν αυτέ τις διηmontas. Epift. ad Alex. Constantinop. apud Theodoret. Eccles. Histor. Lib. 1. c. 4. p. 12.

derstanding, how then shall any without madness pretend curiously to search into the Essence of the Divine Word? Of whom the Holy Ghost by the Prophet Saith, Who (ball shall declare bis Generation? Wherefore, according to this prudent Counfel, I shall forbear to fay any thing concerning the manner of the Divine Generation of the Son, and pass on to another Observation, which may be made on this Clause, as it is in the Greek Creeds, viz. That Christ and not any other is the Movo Suns, or the only Begotten; which feems to be a defigned contradiction to the blasphemous Gnoflicks, who denied Christ to be the only Begotten, affirming their second Male- Eon to be the only Begotten; whilst disowning Christ so to be, they made him to be a Being formed within the Pleroma, after the number of the Thirty Acons was compleated. According to which Iraneus faith, That

K 4

"Axxov i i povozuin Deλεσιν είναι, άλλον ή τ σωλήξα Lib. 1. c. 1. γεσονέναι θέλεσι. 1. 32.

<sup>2</sup> Flosculus Valentini Scholæ. Iren. Lib. 1. in Prafat. p. 3.

3 Πτολεμαΐ & "έφη δύο ζύγες र्रे स्था में वे श्रींगरण, र्णणावण में अस्ताσιν, κ πρώτον ενενόνσεν, संत्रa, n Βέλησε, κ) สำระดู ενενόει, έκ η δύνα-To किन्द्रविश, सं mi ठिंग्ह, में में गई Dexhuar & Suvapus exivelo, &c. Dennua nai Bennow weenseldat denot 78 noss, &c. Tom. 1. contra Arian. Orat. 4. P. 510.

they ' imagined the only Begotten to be one, and Jesus to be another: And Athanasius writes concerning Ptolemaus, the Flower of Valentinian's School, That he 3 affirmed, that the Unbegotten, or God, had two

όθεν κ) οἱ 'Αρμανοὶ μαθόντες

Tokes,

Tokes, as he termed them, his Mind and his Will; and that first he imagined, and then willed; and that he could not effect what he had imagined, till the power of his Will was superadded thereto; and that from his Mind and Will proceeded the only Begotten, and after him all others: from which Heresy, as Athanasius continues there to write, the Arians afterwards learned, That God's Counsel and Will preceded the Generation of the Word; whereas the Orthodox maintained, That the Word was the very Mind of God, and fo was the very First-begotten, and generated by him in fuch a manner, as never any one else was; as Maximus Taurinensis writes on this Article, That Christ is called the

Only, or the only Begotten, because he is the only One so born, and bath no Companion in his 10

1 annunciatur & creditur, quia unus ita est genitus, neque habet in nativitate confortem. Homil.in Symbol. p. 239. Nativity. This Article of the Creed hath been

1 Unicus autem vel unigenitus

coeval with Christianity, and was wont to be demanded at Baptism of the Persons who came to be baptized, as appears from the Form of the Celebration of Baptism, which is in the Name of the Son, as well as of the Father and the Holy Ghost; where. in is necessarily supposed a Belief of Jefus Christ to be the Son of God; it being in it felf impossible to be baptized in the Name of the Son, without acknowledging the Person in whose Name he is baptized, to be that Son: Which Appellation of the Son of God denotes his Divine Nature, as that of the Son of Man implies his Human; as was long ago obferved by Novatianus in his Exposition of this part of the Creed, viz.

'Ut enim prascripsit ipsa natura, hominem credendum est esle, qui ex homine sit, ita & Scriptura Deum esse, qui ex Deo fir, quod si non & Deus suerit, cum ex Deo fit, jam nec homo fit, licet ex homine fuerit. De Trinitat. p. 500.

? Christus non homo tantum, quia hominis Filius, sed etiam Deus, quia Dei Fllius comproba-

tur. Ibid. p. 503.

That as our Saviour's being the Son of Man declares his Humanity, fo his being the Son of God is an undeniable proof of his Divinity: And, Christ is not only a Man, because the Son of Man, but is also God, because the Son of God.

Lord

After the Filiation and Divine Nature of our Saviour, there follows in the Creed his Dominion, expressed by the Title Lord; for that the Dominion of Christ is thereby afferted, appears from the Derivation of the Greek word κύριΦ, used for Lord: κύριΦ, 3 faith

Dial. 1. p.4. Origen, Alletai dià to mupissien tivon,

Lord comes from a word that significs Ruling, Lording or Governing; under which notion, it is frequently used by the Septuagint to express the Hebrem word Adon, which properly implies

Government and Authority.

h

Now Christ is not only a Lord, but he is so 201' 250xlw, eminently and singularly so; whence he is frequently in the New Testament only called the Lord, without any farther or other addition; as, 'Come, see the place 'Mat.xxviii, where the Lord lay. 'The Lord is Luke xxiv. risen indeed, and hath appeared to Si-34. mon. 'They have taken the Lord out 'John xx.2. of the Sepulcher, and we know not where they have laid him. 'For I have re-41 Cor. xi. ceived of the Lord that which also I 23. have delivered unto you. And innumerable other places there are in the New Testament, where the Lord alone absolutely taken, is used determinately for Christ.

The Scripture is very copious in declaring the Dominion of Christ, that his Empire is universal, and his Kingdom everlasting. All Power, Mat.xxviii, saith our Saviour, is given unto me in 18.

Heaven and in Earth. And, all things Mat. xi.27. are delivered unto me of my Father.

The Fath er loveth the Son, and hath Joh. iii.35. given given all things into his Hands; whence Acts x. 36. he is particularly called, the Lord of Acts ii. 36. 3 Let all the House of Israel know as-Suredly, faith St. Peter, That God hath made him Lord and Christ, even this Je-• Philip. ii. sus whom ye did crucify: 4 God hath highly exalted him, and given him a Name above every Name, that at the Name of Jesus every Knee Should bow, of things in Heaven and things in Earth, or things under the Earth; and that every Tongue should confess, that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Luk. i. 31, Father. 'He shall be great, and shall 32, 33.

9, 10, 11.

be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto him the Throne of his Father David, and he shall reign over the House of Jacob for ever, and of his Kingdom there shall be no end.

Thy Throne, O God, is for ever and ever; a Scepter of Righteousness is the Scepter of thy Kingdom. 7 And there was given him Dominion, and Glory, and a Kingdom, that all People, Nations and Kingdoms, Should Serve him; his Dominion is an everlasting Dominion, which shall not pass away, and his Kingdom that which shall not be destroyed. And feveral other such like Passages there are in the Holy Scripture, which shew the

! Heb. i. 8.

7 Dan. vii.

14.

the extensiveness and duration of our Saviour's Kingdom, that he is King and Lord of all.

But, tho Christ be thus the univerfal Lord, and hath a supreme Dominion over all, yet the Creed particularly terms him Our Lord; which intimates some propriety of Dominion that he hath over us Christians, as we are immediate Subjects of his particular Kingdom.

There are some Hints and imperfect Discoveries in the Scripture of two great Powers in the Universe, contending against each other under their respective Heads and Leaders; the Head of one Party being Jesus Christ, and the Head of the other the Devil, who is also called in Scripture Satan, Apollyon, the Dragon, and the Old Serpent; there being, as it feems very probable, one particular Spirit by way of Eminency called the Devil, who is at the Head of that Party, which opposeth it self to the Son of God and his Followers; as appears from the Sentence on the wicked at the last Day, which is, that they depart accurfed into everlasting Fire, prepared for the Mat xxv. Devil and his Angels; and from other 41. places of Scripture that might be enumerated.

merated. These two Chiefs, Christ and the Devil, have two separate Kingdoms; between whom there is a perpetual and unwearied Opposition:

8, 9.

Rev. xii. 7, And there was War in Heaven; Michael and his Angels fought against the Dragon, and the Dragon fought and his Angels, and prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in Heaven; and the great Dragon was cast out, that Old Serpent, called the Devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole World; he was cast out into the Earth, and his Angels were cast out with him. Kingdom of Christ is represented to us under the notion of a Kingdom of Light, as that of the Devil is under the notion of a Kingdom of Darkness, as in Col. i. 12, 13. Giving thanks un. to the Father, who hath made us meet to be partakers of the Inheritance of the Saints in Light, who hath delivered us from the power of Darkness, and hath translated us into the Kingdom of his * 1 Thess. ii. de'ar Son. * That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his Kingdom and Glory. And St. Paul 12.

* Act xxvi.

16.

was fent to preach the Gospel unto the Gentiles, 'to open their Eyes, and to turn them from Darkness unto Light, and from the power of Satan unto God.

And

And St. Barnabas concludes his Epistle

with an elegant Description of the two ways; the one of Light, over which preside the Angels of God, who is the eternal Lord; and the other of Darkness,

'Οδοί δύο εἰσί — ἢΤΕ ΤΕ φωρός ἢΤη ΤΕ σκότες — εφ ἢς ῷ ἢς ἢς ἐρὶ ἀγρελοι ΤΕ ΘεΕ, ἐφὶ ἢς ἀγρελοι ΤΕ Σατανά, ἢς ὁ μὶ ἐςς κυξιΘ ἀπὶ αἰωνων εἰς ΤΕς αἰωνας, ὁ ἢ ἀγραν καιςε ἢ ἀνομίας. Ερίβτ. Catholic. c. 18. p. 102.

which is subject to the Angels of Sa-tan, who is the ruler of Wickedness. What number of Spirits the Devil drew into his Party and Interest is unsnown to us, for that the Scripture ath not reveal'd it; but our own obervation will give us too fad a View fthe extent of his Kingdom amongst Mankind, where he gradually enlarged is Empire, till at length the whole Earth was covered with Ignorance and Parkness; and especially at the time f our Saviour's coming into the World, the generality of Mankind vere so gain'd and blinded by him, hat they had almost lost all right nd true notions of God, and were fo r sunk into Idolatry, that in several aces the Devil himself was actually vorshiped and adored as God; for roof whereof, I need not cite the racles at Delphos and other Places, ho were fo many Devils and impure Spirits, 20.

John xvi.

A Critical History of

Spirits, feeing the Scripture is plain in feveral places, that feveral of the Gods whom the Gentiles worshiped,

Deut.xxxii. were Devils; as, They facrificed unto Devils, not to God; 2 yea, they fa-

2 Pfal. cvi. crificed their Sons and their Daughters 37. I Cor. x. unto Devils: And, 3 the things which the Gentiles sacrifice, they sacrifice to

Devils and not to God:

St. John faith, That the whole World 1 John v. lieth in Wickedness, o nosuo sho ev w 19.

πονηςῶ κᾶται, which may be rendred, The whole World is subject to the wicked one, or to the Devil; as it was most remarkably at the time of our

Saviour's coming in the Flesh, when the generality of Mankind were the Devil's Vassals and Subjects: And

Eph. ii. 2. being dead in Trespasses and Sins, walked according to the course of the World, according to the Prince of the power of the Air, and the Spirit that

worketh in the Children of Disobedience;

whence the Devil is called the God of

2 Cor. iv.4. this World: 6 In whom the God of this World hath blinded the Eyes of them who believe not; and the Prince of this World: 7 The Prince of this 7 John xiv. 306

World cometh, and hath nothing in me;

and, " The Frince of this World is judged: And the Devil and his Angels are are called Principalities and Powers, Ephes. viand the rulers of the Darkness of this 12.

World.

But now when our Saviour came into the World, he erected his Kingdom amongst Mankind, and broke the Devil's Kingdom and Power, and wherever the Gospel came, put a period to the Worship and Adoration of the Devil, and destroy'd his Empire and Dominion; whence the Author of the Epistle to the Hebrews faith, That Christ ' destroyed him that had 2 Heb. ii. 14? the power of Death, that is, the Devil; that is, he abolished him as to any farther pretence of Empire or Power over us? And St. John faith, That the Son of God was for this purpose i Joh.iii.8: manifested, that he might destroy the Works of the Devil: Satan fell from Luk. x.18. Heaven like Lightning at the coming of our Lord, who ejected and cast out the Devil. 's Now is the Judgment of 'John xii. this World, now shall the Prince of this 31.

World be cast out: 6 The Prince of this 6 John xvi.

World is judged: We are now re-11. deemed by the Power of Christ, from the Slavery and Bondage of the Devil.

The Possession which the Devil got 176. Lib. 5. of the Human Nature, was, ? as Ire-c. 18. p. 3435

5

ls

L naus 344.

naus writes, a forced and usurped one, acquired through our Sin and Apostacy, by which we became the House and Vesfels of that strong Man; but the Lord Jesus hath bound this strong Man, and delivered us from his Usurpation and Tyranny. He came into this World, and erected an adverse and opposite Kingdom to the Devil's Kingdom, and invited all Men to come into his Kingdom, and be Subjects thereof; the Entrance or formal Admission into which was at Baptism, when the Party baptized made a visible and open Renunciation of the Devil's Kingdom and Interest, and publickly submitted himfelf to Jesus Christ as his Lord and Governour.

This was one of the principal Subjects of the Apostle's Sermons, That Jesus Christ was Lord; and this was the principal Engagement made by New Converts at their Baptism, to submit to him as such. Thus St. Peter concluded his Sermon, which he made on the descent of the Holy Ghost, Let all the House of Israel know assured, That God hath made that same Jesus whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ. And so St. Peter and the other Apostles, in their desence before the the Sanhedrim, told them, That God 'Acts v. 31 had exalted Jesus with his right Hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, for to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of Sins. And fo St. Paul faith, That tho there be (id est, according to popu- 3, 6. lar Estimation) Gods many, and Lords many; yet to us there is but one God the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him: One Lord, one Faith, one Baptism, 'Ephes. iv. one God and Father of all. So that 5, 6. the very Formality of a Christian, and the Intention of a Person's being such, was to submit to Christ as Lord, which every one professed to do at Baptism; that being a visible admission into his Kingdom, and an open profession of Subjection to him: whence Cornelius and his Company were faid to be baptized in the Name of the Lord, id est, they were by Baptism initiated into the Service of Christ as Lord.

* Acts ii. 36.

And it is farther observable, That the baptized Person did not only own the Dominion and Lordship of Christ at Baptism, but he did then likewise inexpress terms, renounce and abjure the Vassalage and Service of the Devil; it being the antient course, to demand

4 Acts x. 48.

demand of every Person at his Baptism, just before he received the Baptismal Laver, whether he renounced the Devil and all his Works? To which he gave his publick Assent, and so made a solemn Abjuration of the Devil, and his Government and Interest, being now to become a Servant of Jesus Christ, and a Subject of his Kingdom. So Clemens Alexandrinus wtites.

Anolacsophown nuon rais no ungais as xais. Theod. Epift. p. 573.

Renunciavimus Diabolo & angelis ejus. De Idololat. p. 618.

Pactus es renunciare Diabolo & pompæ & angelis ejus. Lib. de anima, c. 17. p. 554-

Diabolo & mundo renunciavimus. De bono patientia, §. 7. That in Baptism! we renounced the evil Powers, id est, the Devil; and Tertullian, That we renounced the Devil and his Angels; and, we covenanted to renounce the Devil, his Pomp and his Angels; and Cyprian, That we renounced the Devil, and the World.

Now if we reflect on all these Matters, on the two opposite Kingdoms of Christ and the Devil, on the extent of the Devil's Kingdom at the time of our Saviour's coming, on the destruction or weakening of it by our Saviour, and his visible erecting of a Kingdom among Mankind, and the admission into it by Baptism, it will most evident.

evidently appear, That this Article had its beginning with Christianity it self; and that the intended meaning thereof was, solemnly to declare thereby, that Jesus Christ is Lord and Governour of all, and particularly of us Christians, in opposition to the Devil, his Kingdom and Empire; every Person at Baptism particularly, and solemnly professing Christ to be his Lord, in opposition to the Devil, whom Christ had conquered and overcome: On which account St. Austin assures us, That Christ is in the Creed termed our Lord, because he hath spoiled our antient Enemy, and hath called us to his particular Dominion.

Christus est --- unicus Dominus noster, spoliato antiquo hoste, singulari dominio suo adsciscens nos. Tom. 10. Serm. 181. De Temp. p. 526.

Baptism doth in its own nature, suppose the submission of the Baptized Person to the Dominion and Lordship of Christ, it being the publick Rite of initiation into his Kingdom, and the solemn Admission into the number of his Subjects; so that whenever Baptism hath been used, the Lordship or Dominion of Christ hath been then either implied, or expressly assented to, and owned; From whence it follows, that this Article in the Creed,

Creed, whereby Jesus Christ is professed to be Lord, is coeval with Christianity, and hath been always either expressed or implied at Baptism.

After the Declaration of our Saviour's Divine Nature and Lordship, the Creed descends in the next place to his Humanity, affirming him who was named just before his only Son our Lord, to be conceived by the Holy Ghost, and born of the Virgin Mary; by that and the following Expressions, declaring the reality, certainty and manner of his Incarnation; that He, who is the Son of God, did for us Men and our Salvation, become the Son of Man, not disdaining to take on him the Seed of Abraham, and to become in every thing like unto us, Sin only excepted, that he might redeem

him the Seed of Abraham, and to become in every thing like unto us, Sin only excepted, that he might redeem pominus, &
amans humanum genus,
hærere itaque had captivated and enslav'd us: For fecir, & adunivit hominem Deo, fi most kind and merciful, and loving Manenim homo non vicisset inimicum hominis, non juste victus esset inimicus; rursus autem nisi Deus donasset salutem, non firmiter haberemus eam, & nisi homo conjunctus suisset Deo nostro, non potuisset particeps sieri incorruptibilitatis, oportuerat enim mediatorem Dei & hominum per suam ad utrosque domesticitatem & ad amicitiam & ad concordiam utrosque reducere, & facere ut Deus assumeret hominem, & homo se dederet Deo. Lib. 3. c. 20. P. 211.

kind,

kind, be united Man to God; for if Man had not conquered the Enemy of Man, that Enemy would not have been justly overcome: Even as if God had not given us Salvation, we could not have securely enjoy'd it; so if Man had not been conjoin'd with God, he could not have been a partaker of Incorruption; it behoved therefore the Mediator between God and Man, by his Relation unto both, to reduce them both to Amity and Concord, and to cause that God should assume Man, and that Manshould give himself to God; so that there was a necessity of the Mediator's being really and truly Man. ' It was through nem victum descendit in mortem a conquered Man, that genus nostrum, sic iterum per ho-Death descended on the minem victorem ascendamus in vitam. Lib. s. c. 18. p. 342.

' Quemadmodum per homi-

Human Nature; where-

fore it was necessary, as Irenaus remarks, That through a conquering Man, That Nature should ascend into Life: And, 2 Si Deus as Lactantius observes, 2 The Media-tantum suisses tor was to be an Example of Vertue and exempla vir-Holiness to his redeemed Ones, which tutis homini præbere non he could not be as God; wherefore he in-posset,—ideo duit, ut desideriis carnis edomitis, doceret, non necessitatis esse peccare fed propositi ac voluntatis. — Quibus ut repugnare possemus, Deus nobis viam superandæ carnis & aperuir, & ostendir. Institut,

Lib, 4. c. 25. p. 430, 431.

L 4 carnated carnated himself, to shew by his own conquering of the Defires of the Flesh, that the Commission of Sin was not neceffary but voluntary, and by his own Pattern to encourage and enable us to overcome the Lusts thereof.

For these and several other reasons therefore, the Son of God, out of his amazing and infinite Pity to us, became the Son of Man, not abhorring the Virgin's Womb, that he might accomplish his gracious Design of redeeming miserable and lost Mankind: This is that divine Philanthropy, that aftonishing effect of his Goodnessand Mercy, which ravishes the Holy Angels, and caused those harmoni-ous Choristers of Heaven to sing at his coming into the World that trium-

Luke ii. 14. phant Song, Glory be to God in the Highest, on the Earth Peace, and good Will towards Men. But yet, such is the degenerate and corrupted Nature of Mankind, that severals of them have disbelieved his Incarnation, and accounted it a mere Fancy and Conceit.

> I need not here mention any of these in our Days, if there be any fuch, fince my Defign leads me to the confideration of the former Times of Christianity,

where

where there are too numerous Spectacles of those who stumbled at this Rock of Offence, and from the very Age of the Apostles rejected this truth of the Incarnation; or, if they did not in words disown it, yet by denying the true way and manner thereof, they did in effect disown it : Wherefore, against such a number and variety of Hereticks, and their diverse Methods of affaulting this Doctrine, the Governours of the Church inferted in the Creed whatfoever follows from our Saviour's Conception to his Resurrection; the first Clause whereof is, who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary.

Where the Conception and Nativity are clearly distinguished, the former being ascribed to the Holy Ghost, and the latter to the Virgin Mary; whereas in the generality of Creeds, as in those of Ruffinus, Petrus Chrysologus, Maximus Taurinensis, and others, they are thus coupled together, ' who was ' Qui natus born by the Holy Ghost of the Virgin est de Spiritu Tertullian indeed in one of ria Virgine. his Creeds, diffinctly mentions the Delatum ex * Conception by the Holy Ghost, and his spiritu Patris Dei, & virtute.

in Virginem Mariam, carnem factum in utero ejus, & ex ea natum.

De Prascript. advers. Haret . p. 73.

Birth

Birth of the Virgin Mary; but after him, I do not find that any observed this Distinction till St. Austin, who writes, that in the Symbol after our Belief in God the Father Almighty, fol-

' In Jesum Christum Filium ejus, conceptum de Spiritu Sancto, natum ex Virgine Maria. Tom. 6. Conc. advers. Jud. Pag. & Arian. p. 71.

lows our Faith ' in Te. sus Christ his Son, who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Vir. gin Mary; but whether they expressed the Conception and Na. tivity diffinctly or conjunctly, the fame

thing was intended by all.

Now the Conception of our Saviour by the Holy Ghost, and his being born of fuch a Woman as was a Virgin, was probably defigned against the Ebionites, Cerinthians, and fuch like Here. ticks, who allowed him indeed to be a Man, but denied his Incarnation in this manner; affirming, That he was conceived and born in the fame way and manner as all other Men are, in the ordinary way of Generation, by the conjunction of Joseph and Mary.

'Ex σπέςματ Φ ανδεύς τκ-Test To 'Iwong & - Xeisov 1/6-Aurndas Exugle. Advers. Har. Ebion. p. 59.

Birris

Thus Ebion taught, as Epiphanius informs us, That ' Christ was born of the Seed of Man, viz. of Joseph; as did also Carpocrates, who affirmed, That Christ Christ was not begotten in an extraordinary way by the Almighty Operation of the Holy Ghost in the Womb of a Virgin,

' Carpocrates dicit, - Christum non ex Virgine Maria natum, sed ex semine Joseph. Tertull. de Prascript, advers. Hæret. P. 94.

but in the ordinary and common manner, by the two Sexes, in Joseph and Mary: and before either of these, Cerinthus, whose Herefy was the occasion of St. John's writing his Gospel, vented the same Blasphemy, That Jesus Christ, being but a meer Man, and only excelling in Justice, Righteousness, and Vertue, " was not born of a Virgin, but 'Cerinthus --

by the Seed of Joseph.

Wherefore, against these numerous seph natum Blasphemers, this peculiar and extra-proponit. Id. ordinary way of our Saviour's Concep- Ibid. P. 94. tion and Nativity, was inserted in the Creed, as is apparent from fundry places in Irenaus; and amongst them more especially, from his opposing the Creed, wherein our Saviour is faid ' to be born of a Virgin, unto these and fuch like Herefies; which is likewise magbins fudone by Tertullian, who repeats a c. 2. p. 34. Creed, wherein 4 both our Saviour's 4 De pra-Conception by the Holy Ghost, and his script. advers. being born of the Virgin Mary, are di-Haret. p. 73-1 stinctly mentioned in contradiction to the Cerinthians and Carpocratians: Un-

Christum ex semine Jo-

to which may be added, That Gennadius Massiliensis in his Declaration of the Catholick Faith, expounds this Article in opposition to the Ebionites, Natus est ergo Dei Filius ex homine, & non per hominem, id est, non ex viri coitu, sicut Ebion, dicic, sed carnem ex Virginis corpore trahens, & non de cœlo secum afferens, sicut Marcion, &c. affirmant. Inter. Oper. August. Tom. 3. De Eccles. Dogmat. p. 259.

after this manner, That although the Son of God was born of a Woman, yet it was not by the conjunction of a Man, as Ebion affirms; but as the Creed directs us of the Holy Ghost, who in an invisible and unknown way supplied the place of a Father, and begat the Holy Child Jesus, in the Womb of the Virgin Mary, of whom he was really born, and from whom he received the true and real Substance of his Body.

Which latter Clause directs us to another end, for which our Saviour's being born of the Virgin Mary, was inserted in the Creed, viz. to declare the place from whence he setched the Flesh and Matter of his Body, even from the Substance of the Virgin Mary; for, from the most early Days of Christianity, the Devil excited a great number to blaspheme the manner of Christ's Incarnation in this respect.

Severals of them were constrained to acknowledg, That our Saviour had a Body, but they would not grant it to be a material slessly Body, formed of the Substance of his Mother, but they imagined it to be a kind of celestial, supernatural, or heavenly Body; as the Valentinians, who held, That his Body was framed in Heaven, and 'passed through the Virgin Mary, as Water through a Pipe: Which notion was also espoused both by Basilides and Marcion, as Athanasus assures us; concerning the latter of which the faid Father writes. That he believed, that God came down from Heaven, and 3 dwelled or sojourned in the Virgin, without participating of her Substance, being incapable to receive any thing from the nature of Διὸ Μαείας ΛιοΛεύσαν τα ναθάπες ύδως διὰ σωλίώ Θ.

 Iren. l. 1. c. 1. p. 22.

² Εἰπωμθυ κὰ περὶς Μαρκίως να, — κὰ Βασιλίθιυ τὰ λέςονλα, ώς διαὶ σωλῆν Φ υ΄δως περστελθόνλα, τὰ κυ΄ειον, διαὶ τὰ Μαείας. Τοπ. 1. cont. omnes Hæreς. p. 1083.

Μαρκίων — Θεον επιδημήσαντα εν σαςθένω, κὰ αθιγώς
σερεληλυθότα κὰ ανεπιδέκ]ως
έχοντα κοινωνήσαι φύσει ανθεως πίνη πῶ ἐποπεπθωκία τῆ αμαςγία, ἐποκεμιδή τῶ ἀξχεντετ κακίας. Τοπ. τ. de Salut. advent. Ĵef. Christ. advers. Apollinar.
p. 635.

TOTAL TO ME THE

क्षेत्र है है है है है

in the said

Man, that was fallen under Sin, and subjected to the Ruler of Wickedness: Which words afford us
some light into the cause and reason of this Blasphemy of the Marcionites,
which

Figo TavThe meson faJelo, no Tol igyou'll of Kanias impossiveTal, sai in esal xweis
a magnas o Xelsos. Ibid.
P. 635.

which feems to be this; These Here. ticks imagining in the first place, all Beings to be originally either fubstantially good or evil, could not in confequence thereunto, as the faid Father continues to write, conceive, bom a good and holy Christ Should partake of our Natures, which are substantially evil, and yet preserve himself free from Sin and Evil. Wherefore, to untye, or rather cut this Knot, they fancied, That Christ brought with him a Body from Heaven, which returned to Heaven again, from whence it came, whilft his Divinity remained whole and entire. And from the same occafion also, it is more than probable, That the Bardesianists fell into the same Herefy, as Marinus, one of that Sect, endeavours to demonstrate, from the absurdity, as he terms it, of joining our Flesh to his pure Essence; that Christ received none of his material Substance

<sup>2</sup> Πάνυ ἀτοπώτα]ον, τέτο τη ἀχεφντω ἐσία, ωερπά ωτων ἄλλως ἢ κὰ αὶ γεαφαὶ, ἐεφνιον αὐπὸν, φάσι, σάγκα ἀνωληφέναι. Origen, Dialog. 4. p. 105.

* Ομολος & from the Flesh of the Virgin, but that whi, on διά he assumed unto himself an heavenly Bo-Magias, αλλ which passed through the Virgin works you Mary, as Water through a Pipe, without δως δια σωλίο Θ διές χεται, μηδέν πεοσλαμβάνων, έτω καὶ ὁ λόγ Θ δια Μαςίας καὶ ἐκ ἐκ Μαςίας. Ibid. p. 121.

receiving

receiving any thing from her; wherefore faith he, we confess that he is born by Mary, but not of Mary: From which latter words, it doth not only appear, That the Birth of Christ of the Virgin Mary was intended against the forementioned Hereticks, but that also there was a peculiar Emphasis designed by this expression on Mapias, or, of Mary, to obviate and exclude their heretical Sense, who would own. That Christ was born Sià Magias, or by Mary, that is, that the was the Organ or Instrument that he made use of for the exhibition of his heavenly Body to this inferiour World, caufing it to pass through her, as through a Channel or Pipe, without receiving any thing from her, whilft they difowned, that he was born on Mapias, or of Mary; that is, that he received his Body from her Flesh and Substance, deriving the Matter thereof from her, in the same way and manner as all o. ther Children do.

But, besides the forenamed Hereticks, there was another strange kind of Sect called Apelleians, so stilled from their Master Apelles, a Scholar of Marcion's, who owned, that Christ had a real and material Body, but denied it to have been

t

A Critical History of

been formed in the Virgin's Womb, or to have participated of any part of her Substance, inventing this new and unheard of way for its composition, Έν τω ές χεθαι Σπό τ έπε-ξανίων, πλθεν είς την γίω, κ) συνή τα γιο έαυτο Σπο των τεκτα-ξων τοιχέων σώμα. Advers. Apel. Haref. 44. p. 167.

That when ' our Saviour came down from Hea. venunto Earth, as Epiphanius relates it, he fram'dunto himself a Bo.

dy of the Four Elements, in the which he truly fuffered and died; although Tertullian reports it somewhat otherwife of these Apelleians, That they

* De sideriatus est carnem. De carne Christi. p.15.

afferted the Body of Christ to be made bus, inquiunt, of the Stars, and of the substance of the tiis superioris Superiour World. But, whether the first mundi mutu- or the last was their real Opinion, I shall not here enquire, seeing by either of them, they denied, that our Saviour assumed his Body from the Nature and Flesh of his Virgin Mother.

Now against all these Hereticks, was our Saviour's being born of the Virgin Mary, designedly mentioned in the Creed, as is apparent, from that Tertullian opposes his Nativity to the forementioned Herefy of the Apelleians: And the fame is to be observed throughout the whole Five Books of Ireneus, that Hammer and Scourge of all those Primitive Herefiarchs, need

In lib. de carn. Christ.

refiarchs, and particularly throughout several Chapters of his Third Book, where he excellently well proves the verity and necessity of Christ's assuming his bodily Substance from the Flesh of the Virgin; and then in the 40th Chapter of the faid Book, he concludes with an elegant Epiphonema, That all the various Blasphemies of those divers Hereticks were rejected and condemned by the Church, and declared against by her, and the contrary truth preserved by all her Children, as a precious Depositum and most sacred Treasury. to which may be added the Exposition of this Article by Gennadius Massiliensis, who applies it not only against the Ebinnites, but that also contrary to the opinion of Marcion, he derived his Body from the Flesh of the Virgin, and did not bring it from Heaven with him. But the Birth of Christ of the Virgin Mary, was not only employed by the Composers of the Creed to express the Subject from whence he derived the Matter and Substance of his Body, but also to affert the reality and certainty of his Body, that it was not fantaffical M

1

Ü

and

Natus est -ex homine-

nem ex Virginis corpore trahens,

& non de cœlo secum afferens.

Inter. Oper. August. Tom. 3. De Ec-

cles. Dogmat. p. 259.

and imaginary, but substantial and real; under which Notion, it may be confidered in conjunction with our Saviour's Passion, Crucifixion, Death and Burial, which were all introduced to exclude those Heresies, and the Abertors of them, who maintained, That the Incarnation of Christ was not true and real, but only in appearance and fhew, a meer Delufion and cheating Impression on our Senses; which will not only appear from what shall be hereafter faid under each of those Particulars, but also from the various manner of expressing these Acts of Humiliation in the antient Creeds: In Lib. 1.c.2. both of the Creeds of ' Irenaus, the

P. 34. lib. 3. c. 4. P. 172.

2 De Prascript. advers. Haret. P. 73. De Virgin. Veland. p. 385.

Passion is alone put to signify his Sufferings, Crucifixion, Death and Burial: In two of Tertullians, the Crucifixion by it felf, doth the same; and generally our Lord's Crucifixion comprehended his Passion, and his Burial included his Death; as it is in the Creeds of Leo Magnus, Ruffinus, Petrus Chrysologus, Maximus Taurinensis, and others: And fometimes on the contrary, his Passion contained his Cru-In Proam. cifixion, as in a Creed of 3 Origens; and his Death comprehended his Burial, as in the Creed of ! Ignatius:

Which

lib. wei aezav. 4 Epist. ad Trallef. p. 52.

Which variety of Expression naturally leads us to this conclusion, That feeing these terms did mutually include or infer each other, and either of them were indifferently mentioned, that therefore they were primarily intended for one and the fame thing; which, as it will be proved, was to declare, that the Body of Christ was real, true, and material.

0

9 d

e

0

d

.

e

h

The first Creed, wherein they are expressed all four together, is a Creed of St. Austin's, who mentions them according to our present Form, ' Suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, Pontio Pilato, dead and buried; from whom, as it is mortuus, & probable, the Compilers of our Creed sepultus. De received it, who judged not one of Fid. & Symanic Book. Tom. 3: these Particulars to be a superfluous op- p. 182. polition to this Herely, but all of them necessary, since they were each of them particularly impugned and denied, and were most fit and proper to confute and gainfay these sottish and blasphemous Hereticks.

That this abominable Tenet was subversive of the whole Gospel, the Primitive Writers against those false Doctors have abundantly shewn; fufficient whereof may be feen in the remaining Works of Irenaus, Tertul-M 2 lian,

Paffus fub

lian, and Epiphanius, wherein it is clearly demonstrated, That if Christ had been incarnated and fuffered only in Thew and appearance, he had been the greatest Deceiver and Liar that ever was in the World; his Murderers would have been excusid, and freed from that most horrid and enormous Crime; he could not possibly have been the Sa. viour of Mankind, neither should we have been at all obliged to him, but should have been most miserably cheated and deluded by him; and it would be our greatest folly to suffer for his fake, who only pretended to have fo done for ours.

These being then the natural and tremendous consequences of this horrid and portentous Opinion, it seems almost incredible that any should ever have entertained or believed it: But the Primitive Records contain too numerous Spectacles of such unhappy and misguided Souls, who even at the dawning and first appearance of the Gospel-Sun, endeavoured to obscure it by these black and sulphureous Vapours; the Incarnation of our Saviour was no sooner preached, but it was almost as quickly denied, and that not only by Heathers and Foreigners, but even by those who pretended to be his Disciples and Followers: Unto whom it is probable, St. John refers in his General Epistle, where he writes, That there were then in the World certain Antichristian Spirits, who would not confess that Jesus Christ was come in the Flesh; which ungodly Spirits were without doubt the Gnofticks, who, though crumbled amongst themselves into innumerable Sects and Divisions, yet univerfally agreed in denying the truth and reality of our Saviour's Body, affirming it to have been fantaftical afferebat fe and imaginary, only in shew and ap-esse Christum, pearance; from whence they were cal- Tiberii in Filed Doceta, Douniai, and Phantasiasta, liipersona pufailamasai, the Father of all whom iffe. Aug. de was Simon Magus, ' who taught, that Haref. c. 1. he was Christ; and that in the time of 1. 49. Tiberius he appeared in shew, in the Per- Kieslov, no fon of the Son: Now that which Si- Magnier mon Magus afferted of himself. when he imagined himself to be the Son, other fucceeding Hereticks affirmed it of Theodoret. the Son himself; as Menander, his 145. immediate Follower and Disciple, Cerdon, Marcion, with & Saturninus, Ba-dicit Chriftum in substantia corporis non fuisse, & Phantasmate tantum quasi passum suisse Tertull. de prascript. advers. Hæret. p. 93. Basilides—dicit—Christum venisse in Phantasmate, sine sub-stantia carpis suisse. Id. Ibid. p. 93.

' 1 John iv.

- tempore tative apparu-MévardeO, nai and orv devertal Thy ενανθεώπισιν. Tom. 3. Epift. 4 Saturninus filides,

reneks,

la pertora pu-

fram in 1969-

filides, and others, who all affirmed, That Christ had no substantial Flesh, but that his Body was a meer Phantasm and Ap. parition, which was neither really born, nor truly suffered. I might add the Names of feveral other Hereticks, who embraced this fame unhappy Opinion; but to endeavour the enumeration of them all, would be too tedious and burdensom, seeing from the very first promulgation of the Gospel, through out an uninterrupted series of several Generations, there ceased not to be fome or others under the Names of Simonians, Valentinians, Manichees, and the like, who did blasphemously deny and ridicule this necessary and fundamental Point, That Jesus Christ is manifested in real and substantial Flesh.

The unconstrained consequences therefore of this Herefy being fo hide. ous, and the Abettors thereof fo numerous, and appearing under various Shapes and divers Forms, it is no wonder that the Compilers of the Creed introduced fo many terms in opposition thereunto. Olo Patribon

Now that the Birth of our Saviour was intended for this End, is evident gradus cresited in from the Creed of Ignatius, wherein, in contradiction to these fantastical Hereticks, reticks, he expresseth this Article, not simply by Christ's being born, but by his being ' truly born of the Virgin Mary; and in the beginning of his Epistle to the Smyrneans, he ' glorifies God for their firmness in the immovable Faith, that Christ was truly of the Seed of David according to the Flesh, and truly born of a Virgin;

unto which may be subjoined, that in a Creed of Origen's this Article is expressed, by our Lord's being born in 'Natus -

Truth and not in Appearance. te,& non per

That our Saviour's Passion was like- imaginem. In wife introduced for the same design, welder with well as the same design, weld as your. as having been particularly attack'd by the forementioned Hereticks, is also evident from the foretius and o Origen, in p. 52. both of which this per imaginem, Ibid. ut antea. Clause runs, That he truly and not imaginarily suffered under Pontius Pilate; and from that o- Kai annobes ther fore-quoted place of Ignatius, & rader, &x wherein he blesseth God for the Smyr- women am-501 TIVES NEneans, that they firmly adhered to the sourts doimmovable Faith, that Christ & truly κείν αὐτον πεΜ 4 Suffered, πονθέναι. p.2.

'En Magias ös annos enfuvnθn. Epist. ad Tralles. p. 52.

2 Δοξάζω τ Θεον, — evonσα γο υμάς καθηθισωθένς εν απινήτω τοίες — είς τ πυσιον ήμων, αληθώς byla en giss Δαβίδ χη σάγκα, — γεγωνωμόν αληθώς εκ παςθένε. p. 1, 2.

4 'Anna เป็นหลาย คือ Порcited Creeds of & Igna. Tie Hidate. Epift. ad Tralles.

s Passus est in veritate, & non suffered, and not as some Unbelievers affirm, that he only suffered reputatively and according to outward appearance; and from the Comment of St. Cyril of Jerusalem on this Article, which is,

Eπαθεν Ἰνοῦς χτ ἀλνθείαν το ερ πάνθων ἀνθρώπων, ε χδ δόκησις ὁ ςαύςΘ, εδε δόκησις η λυτεωσις, ε φανθασιώδης ὁ θάνατΘ. Catech. 13. p. 122. That 'Jesus Suffered truly for all Men; for his Cross was not in opinion, nor his Redemption in opinion, nor his Death of Christ is so convincing an Argument of the reality of his Incarnation, that it is surprizing how any could possibly withstand the force thereof; for

Prascript. ad- silidians, and others, That Christ suffervers. Heret. ed only in fancy and shew, was a poor y. 93. Idem Ibid. and most ridiculous Evasion; at which rate, a Man may argue against those things that can be proved by the most

Ei δοκήσει, sensible and visible Demonstrations.

πέπονθε, δο When Marinus the Bardesianist, asπίποι κ) Ἡρώ- firmed in the Dialogues of Origen, that δικ δικώζει, our Saviour thus suffered; his Antagoπωρονίπ- nist Adamantius thus closely replies up τεραι τὰς on him: ⁴ If Christ suffered only in the

χείρας, δοκή ει

λ) Ἰέδας παρέθωνε, δοκήτει κ) Ἰεδαίοι κατέρον αὐτὸν, δοκήτει κ)

οἱ ᾿Απόςολοι, δοκήσει κ) τὸ αἷμα αὐτε ἔξεχύθη, δοκήτει κ) οἱ ᾿Απόςολοι, δοκήσει κ) τὸ αἷμα αὐτε ἔξεχύθη, δοκήτει κ) οἱ ἐυαγξελισαὶ ἐυαγξελίζονο, δοκήσει κ) ἦλθεν ἀπ΄ ἐρανῶν, κ) δο κήσει ἀνῆλθε, δοκήσει κ) ἡ σῶρηςἰα τῶν ἀνθεώπων, κ) ἐκ ἀληθεία.

Dialog. 4. p. 109, 110.

deb anul

cem tradici

Spenta Sa

opinion of Men, and not inreality, then Herod judged him in opinion, and Pilate washed his Hands in opinion, and Judas betrayed him in opinion, and Caiaphas adjured him in opinion, and the Tews seized him in opinion, and the Apostles were only in opinion, and his Blood was shed in opinion, and the Evangelists preached the Gospel in opinion, and he came down from Heaven in opinion, and in opinion returned thither again; and in aword, the Salvation of Men is only in opinion, and not in truth and certainty. Now as no Man would be fo abfurd and unreasonable, as to ascribe all this to opinion and fancy, fo it shews a most wilful perverseness and obstinacy for any Man to ascribe only one particular act thereto, when he efteems others in the fame circumstances to be undoubted and real; if the Actions of Caiaphas, Herod and Pilate, relating to our Saviour's Passion, were true and fubstantial, it was very unfair to deny the Passion it self so to be, seeing it was equally attended with the fame ocular and visible Demonstrations wherefore, the Fathers well understanding the strength of this Argument, frequently prove the certainty of the Incarnation from the Passion, as is to he be seen in the Works of Ireneus, Tertullian, and others; and that all Cavils might be prevented, and all Pretences be removed, as if it were a doubtful and uncertain Tradition, the compilers of the Creed have taken care to express the time of the Passion therein, viz, that it was under Pontius Pilate.

This is the observation of Ruffinus,

Cautissime autem qui Symbolum tradiderunt, etiam tempus, quo hæc sub Pontio Pilato gesta sunt, designaverunt, ne ex aliqua parte velut vaga & incerta gestorum traditio vacillaret. Expos. in Symb. S. 20. p. 570. That the 'framers of the Creed have most cautiously mention'd the time of the Passion, that it was under Pontius Pilate, lest in any manner of way it should be reputed a wandring and uncertain Tale: And indeed, the folicitous exactness of the antient Churches is very remarkable herein, fince there is scarce any Creed extant, wherein our Saviour's Sufferings are not expresly mentioned to have been under Pontius Pilate, that is, at that time when Pantius Pilate was Procurator, or Governour of Judea, wherein the Creed observes the manner of Calculation then used; for as in those Days, they made their computations by their Governours, and referred their Historical Events to the respective time

time of their Government, so the Passion of our Saviour is here referred to the Government of Pontius Pilate; who, as Justin Martyr, with others, i'Em Hove informs us, was Procurator of Judea, sent 78 Juousous thither by the Emperour Tiberius to 'Irdaia on' exercise that Office, which chiefly con- Xegvois Tice fifted in the receiving and disposing onleans. of the publick Tribute and Revenue, Apol. 2. p. 60. being in subordination to the Governour of Syria, part of whose Province Judea was; with whom, nevertheless, he received from the Emperour power of Life and Death within his peculiar Diffrict and Jurisdiction.

But unto the Passion of our Saviour in general, there is added in the Creed the particular manner thereof, viz. that it was by Crucifixion, that he was publickly lifted up on a Cross, and being nailed thereunto, hung between Heaven and Earth in an open and visible place, where all the Spectators might, without any delufion of their Senses, easily know that he was a Man, and that he was that very Man who was commonly known by the name of Jesus of Nazareth, and not Simon the Cyrenian, as Basilides and his Followers blasphemously imagined; concerning whom, the Primi-

tipes, and I va

tive

tive Records have left us this account.

Παθείν δε Χεισον εδαμώς λέγι, άλλα Σίμωνα το Κυριωαίον Επομείναι το πάθο, νομισθένηα είναι Χεισον, τ δε Χεισον πόρρωθεν ορώντα, γελάν των Ίκδαίων την απόνοιαν, χρηναι δε πισθείν έλεγω εκ είς τ εσαυρωμό ον, άλλ είς τ εσαυρώδαι δόξαντα. Theodoret. Epit. Har. Fab. lib. 1. in Hares. Basilid. p.87. That they affirmed, Christ did not suffer at all; but that Simon of Cyrene, the bearer of his Cross, being taken by the Jews for him, suffered in his stead, whils he stood by, and laughed at their folly and mistake; from whence they farther affirmed, that we must not believe on him who was really crucified, but on him who seemed fo to be. Which horrid Opinion being an evident subversion of the Gospel, and a total destruction of the very Foundation of Christianity, it is no wonder, that to declare our Faith that Jesus Christ was crucified, as well as that a true and real Man so suffered, the compilers of the Creed inferted this Clause therein, that every true Believer might at once yield his affent hereunto, that it was a real Man, and that it was really Jesus of Nazareth who was crucified by the Jews at Jerusalem: in a conformity to which Interpretation, Ignatius thus expresses this Article in his Creed, That he was truly crucified; and where Epiphanius largely explains the Creed, he

gives

<sup>3</sup> Aληθώς Esaugώθη. Epift.ad Trallef. p. 52. gives this fense of the present Article, that he ' suffered in truth upon the Cross.

But lest it might be by any one suppo-vers. Heres. fed or imagined, that the Eyes of the Be-lib. 3. in Comholders were cheated by a delusion and thol. P. 463. pretended Crucifixion, or that by Witchcraft, Sorcery, the distance of the Object, disturbance of the Air by wrong Mediums, or any fuch like way, their Sight might be fo far deceived and imposed upon, as to apprehend him who was nailed unto the Crofs, to be a true and substantial Man, whilst he was no other than an imaginary Appearance, and a mere Chimera: It is farther inserted in the Creed, That our Lord was not only crucified, but that he was also dead; when on the one hand, being deprived of all vital operation, he could not by Magick or any other Tricks deceive them; and on the other hand, they themfelves without any impediment or hindrance, might freely imploy all their Senses to search into the certainty and reality of his bodily Substance, and eafily discover his Delusion and Cheat, if any such there were: Wherefore Ignatius doth in his Creed thus mention this Clause, That he traly andeia on To saupe. Ad-

AR Fromm

a to Think to

serram, de

- απέθανεν, βλεποντων τ επερανίων, επιβείων, 2 wox for ion. Epift. ad Tralles. P. 52.

truly died; the hear venly, earthly, and in. fernal Inhabitants beholding it : And Ori-

2 Communem hanc mortem verè mortuus eft. In Proam. lib. क्टा ते दूर्वण.

gen in his Creed thus expresseth it, That he ' truly died our common Death.

Now there may be feveral reasons alledged, for which the Death of Christ is placed in the Creed, and there employed to prove his Incarnation; of which I shall mention but one, that is urged to very good purpole by Tertullian against the Marcionites, and other affertors of a fantastical and imaginary Incarnation; the fum whereof is this, that the whole Gospel is fubverted, or is an unprofitable Fable and Whimfy, if Christ did not die; and Christ could not die, if he had not had real and substantial Flesh: For, as the faid Father writes, by these blasphemous Imaginations that our Saest torum Dei viour's Body was only in shew and appearance, the whole work of God

3 Everfum opus, torum Christiani nominis & pon-

due & fructus, mors Christi negatur, quam tam impresse Apostolus demandat, utique veram, fummum eam fundamentum evangelii constieuens, & falutis nostra & prædicationis suæ; tradidi enim, inquit, vobis imprimis quod, &c. Porro fi caro ejus negatur, quo modo mors ejus affeveratur? quæ propria carnis est passio devertentis in terram, de qua est sumpta secundum legem sui Autoris. Advers. Marcion. lib. 3. p. 171.

is overturned, the entire weight and fruit of Christianity, even the Death of Christ, is denied, which the Apostle so express asserts to be true, constituting it the chief Foundation of the Gospel, of our Salvation and his Preaching; for, saith he, I delivered unto you sirst of all, that Christ died for our Sins according to the Scriptures, and that he was buried, and that he rose again the third Day according to the Scriptures: Now if his Flesh be denied, how can his Death be asserted? which relates to Flesh returning into the ground, from whence it was taken, according to the Law of its Author.

By the Death of Christ, is fignified the separation of his Soul and Body, by which the vital Union being dissolved, he was in a perfect incapacity to perform any living Actions:

Death, saith Ambrose, is the secession or division of Soul and Body; and so Athanasius makes the formality of Death to consist in the disjunction or separation of the Soul and Body: after which, each of those two essential Parts of Man goes to its proper and appointed place, the one to the Grave,

Mors secessio quadam est anima & corporis. Tom. 4. de Cain & Abel, lib. 1. c. 2. p. 116.

Tuχης από σώματ χωεισμός. Tom. 1. de salut. advent. Jes. Christ. P. 647. Grave, and the other to the invisible receptacle of departed Souls; according to which universal Law of Nature our Saviour died, that is, there was a separation of his Soul and Body; and then, according to the manner and custom of all Mankind, his Body was committed to the Grave, and his Soul went unto the Dwelling and Habitation of separated Spirits; both of which immediately sollow in the Creed, the former in the term Buried, and the latter in this Clause, he descended into Hell.

Now; as for the Burial of our Saviour's Body, that as well as the precedent Clauses, was also introduced against those Hereticks, who impugned the reality thereof; this being a most sensible and undeniable demonstration, that he had a material and substantial Body, seeing any one might then have both felt and seen, that what was buried, was real and certain, and that it could be no other than a true Body of Flesh, which was committed to the Grave; for, as Theodoret well observes

Aυτος ο Grave; for, as Theodoret well observes τάρω απόχρη το ζηθε- against these Hereticks, The 'Burial
ωμων λύσαι, of our Saviour was a sufficient confutaεδε χο ψοχο Βραδίδοται τάρω, ήπερε θιότης, — τοις χο σαμασιν ε πάου καβασκουάζονται. Dialog. 3. 'Απαδί ρ. 62.

tion

tion of them : for it was neither his Soul nor his Godhead which the Grave received, but his Body; for Graves are prepared for Bodies: In which sense, this Article is generally applied by the Primitive Commentators on the Creed, as by Epiphanius, who writes, That hereby we are obliged to believe, that his Body was buried in truth, remaining without a Soul three Days, void of Breath and Motion, wrap'd in a Linen Cloth, laid in a Tomb, and secured by a Stone,

Anacephal. p. 531. and the Seals of those who rolled it on; and by Maximus Tauvinensis to the same purpose, That Sepultus our Saviour's Barial declared him to est, ut qui vebe truly dead; not much unlike to re mortuus, which, Petrus Chryfologus faith hereon, Hom. p. 239.

That ' the Confession of the Burial of our Saviour, proves that he assuhe really died.

4

7

3 Sepultum dicis, ut veram carnem Christi, mortemque non perfunctoriam prober confessio med true Flesh, and that sepuleura. In Symbol. Serm. 60. P. 55.

Τέ σύματ σταρέντο εν εληθείς, η αλύχε μείναντο

To Teinuscov, a Trosserat axivn-

TE, ENGIANDENT G- Sua à orrasoνΘ, καλαλεθέντ Θ έν τω μνήμα-

Τι, συγκλειθέντο δια τη λίθη, κ) σφερχίδο 7 επηεθένων.

So that after our Saviour's Expiration on the Crofs, and the Dissolution of the vital Union between Body and Soul, that he might in every thing become like unto us, (Sin only exceptishmer &

arrifelish form

supluque :

eft, at qui ve-

LELIDOTOGI ST

1 Hom. 1. 225.

- silve

orego-

(ed) and by his personal Endurance fanctify every state and condition to all his Members, he permitted his Bo. dy, like unto ours, to be buried in a Grave, and committed to the Earth, whilst his Soul fled to the invisible receptacle of difunited Spirits and feparated Souls, which is contained under the following Article, he descend ed into Hell, and will be the Subject of rassortin ca the enfuing Chapter. CHEST IN STREET

, nafelose to es to prince CHAP. IV. Gereni 5 7

The Descent of our Saviour into Hell, mas never questioned by any: Differences in the Explication thereof: The Moderation of the Church of England berein. This Article relates, First, Something done by Christ's Soul, which excludes the Burial of his Body from being designed thereby; and, Secondly, Something done by his Soul in its separate state, exclusive of the Sufferings thereof, wbilst he was alive: No exact agreement in the Notions of the Primitive Writers hereabouts: The explication of the word Hell or Hades, as it is in the Greek: No one Word in the modern English Frencho Dutch

Dutch, comprehensive of the full siginfloation thereof: Hell in old English, exactly answers to the Greek Hades, which properly signifies the ha-bitation or receptacle of all separated human Souls, whether good or bad: The Pagans, from whom the propriety of any Greek or Latin word is to be fetched, understood it in this sense: The modern, or at least the antient Jews, placed all separated Souls in Hell: The Primitive Christians affirmed, That all good Souls immediately after their Jeparation from the Body, passed into a place of Joy and Happiness, which they termed Hell, as is at large proved In the declenfion of the Greek, and chiefly of the Latin Tongue, the word Hell began to be solitarily applied to the Mansion of departed wicked Souls: Origen among ft. the Greeks, doubted of the Raffage of faithful Souls into Hell, since the Re-Surrection of Christ: But after him, the antient Doctrine, that all Souls go to Hell, and remain there till the Ra-Surrection-Day, generally prevailed in the East, home to this very Day : Ambrose, and after him Jerom, and others, entertained the same notion in the West, as Origen had in the East : Auftin

Austin was uncertain and wavering in his apprehensions hereof: The recession from the antient Opinion, occasioned by the mutation of Languages and Words: The word Hell in the Apostolick sense, could not according to the propriety of Speech, signify any other thing, than the state or place of separated human Souls, whether good or bad. The meaning of the word descended; it sometimes only signifies a simple Removal from one place to another: Used in the Creed, because it was a popular kind of Speech arising from the common opinion, that Hell was in the Bowels of the Earth, or under the Earth; from whence it was called by the Latins Infernum, and by the Greeks Hades, and the like: Some of the Fathers imagined Hell to be in the heart of the Earth, others under the Earth; and some were uncertain of the situation thereof, but all apprehended it to be the common Ludge of departed Souls; and in a conformity to the common Dialect, usually termed the Passage thither a descent into Hell, as in this Article of the Creed; by which they meant no other, than that our Saviour's Soul being feparated from his Body, went by a local motion motion to the unseen Habitation of departed Souls, where it remained till his Refurrection-Day: Which is farther proved from the ends of his going thither; which were chiefly these Four; First, To sanctify unto his Followers the state and place of their Souls, during their separation from their Bodies : Secondly, That he might undergo a necessary and principal part of his Humiliation: Thirdly, That he might personally, and as the Head of his Church, conquer Death and Hell, which he did by returning therefrom, and bringing the Souls of severals of the Faithful with him: And, Fourthly, That he might subjest himself unto the Laws of Death, and be in every thing like unto us: From whence it more evidently appears, That the Descent of Christ into Hell signifies no other, than the passage of his Spirit unto the receptaelesof separated Souls. The occasion of inserting this Clause in the Creed, taken from the Arians, Eunomians, and Apollinarians, who in a more cunning way than the former Hereticks, assaulted the humanity of our Saviour, by denying, that he had a reasonable Soul: The difference between N 3 the Errour of the Afians and Apol. linarians berein: Proved, that the Arians, or at least some of them, with the Eunomians, held, That Chrif's Body was void of a rational Soul: But that which rendred this Herefy the more considerable and dangerous, was the espousing of it by Apollinarius the Younger, the most noted Person of his Age for Ability and Piety; on which account, his Fall was a very tender and sensible loss to the Church: The time when he vented his Herely, which was, that Christ had no human Soul, but that his Divinity Supplied the place thereof: The consequences of which Opinion, are instanced in several particulars. In opposition whereunto, this Clause was inferted in the Creed, he descended into Hell: Which Point was pitch'd up. on by the Governours of the Church, because of all the Arguments used against the Apollinarists, it was the most unanswerable: On which account, it is frequently urged by the Fathers against them, and it falls in most naturally with the Frame of the Creed, without disturbing the Order thereof: The time of the Introduction of this Article: The first publick Catholick

Onis ergo min insidelit

negaverit fuil-

ic arud infe-

rest briftum Fort 2, ad E

and Epilles o

N. 502.

tholick Creed, wherein it is found, is in that of Aquileia, recorded by Rusfinus, though before that in a private Creed of Epiphanius, and even before him in a Creed framed by a Party of Arians at the Council of Ariminum, held Anno 359. Several probable Defigns of those Arians berein, as to clear themselves from the suspicion of the forementioned Herefy, to difgrace their great Antagonist Apollinarius, and by that means to create Feuds and Quarrels amonst the Orthodox; who, finding Apollinarius openly to delare for his Heresy, entirely abandoned him. condemned him in several Synods; and at length, according to the Example of the Arians, inferted in the Creek this Antidote against his Heresy, That Christ descended into Hell: Which in the Aquileian Creed is expressed in agreater Latitude, by descending into the lower Parts, wherein the Burial might be comprehended and designed; But as it is expressed in the Roman, or our present Creed, it can have no other than the forementioned signifi-cation; which, to prevent Mestakes, is og ain repeated. The Woll of Briside ंत्र विशिष्टक सह वि

his Ecclefashinal Fistery, the A W 4

slick Creed, wherein is is found

TE are at length arrived to that famous Article of our Saviour's Descent into Hell: The truth whereof was never denied or questioned by any; for the Holy Scriptures do fo expressy affert it, especially that Text of St. Peter, cited from the Pfalmift, Acts ii. 24. Thou Shalt not leave my Soul in Hell,

2 Quis ergo nifi infidelis negaverit fuiffe anud inferos Christum? Tom. 2. ad Evod. Epist. 99. P. 502.

neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see Corruption; that, as St. Austin affirms, ' none but an Infidel will deny it. But, that which hath rendered this Article fo noted and observable, are the various Senses and different Significations that have been given of it: The particulars whereof are fo multiplied, that I shall not here go about to enumerate them.

In the Articles of Religion, set forth in the Days of King Edward the Sixth, this Descent of our Saviour into Hell, was expounded by the going of his Soul unto the Spirits who were in Prison, or, in Hell, where he preached to them. But in a Synod ten Years after, in the time of Queen Elizabeth, when the Articles of the Church were framed, which are now subscribed, as Dr. Fuller informs us in the Ninth Book of his Ecclesiastical History, the Descent inte

NAME OF STREET

into Hell was barely mentioned, without any explication of the manner thereof; the Compilers of those Articles judging it imprudent and unreafonable, to impose upon others any Explanation whatfoever of a Point fo intricate and obscure, leaving every Man in Jove and charity to embrace that fense thereof which seemed to him most genuin and proper; wherein the Moderation of the Church of England cannot be fufficiently praised, and is a most worthy Pattern unto all others in the like cases, that they impose not their particular and private Expositions of a perplexed and obscure Doctrine as Articles of Faith, and Seeing there-Terms of Communion. fore, that fuch worthy Persons as the composers of the forementioned Articles, have left every one to his liberty, to pitch upon that Interpretation of this Article which he effeems to be most natural and easy; it cannot be any way culpable in me, to make an Estay towards the Explication thereof: Which that I may the more effestually do, I shall proceed by degrees, and First observe, That what is spoken herein concerning our Lord's Descent into Hell, relates to his Soul alone:

lone; as the disposal of his dead Body had been before declared in the term Buried, so now there follows something in the Creed respecting solitarily and peculiarly his Soul, or Spirit; for the proof whereof, I need not say much in this place, seeing it will be sully consisted by the whole ensuing part of this Chapter. But yet, that I may not affirm any thing without a direct and immediate Proof, this will be most evident from the consideration of the use that the Orthodox made of this Point against that Heresy of the Gnosticks, by which

Non suscipientes salutem carnis sua, — simulatque mortui suerint, dicunt se supergredi cœlum, —ad matrem, — nec ordinem resurrectionis sciunt, nolentes
intelligere, — quemadmodum, — Cominus, — tribus diebus conversatus est, ubi erant mortui, — discipulorum — animæ abibunt in invisibilem locum, —usque ad resurrectionem, — post recipiemes corpora, — venient ad conspectum
Dei. Iren, lib. 5. c. 26. p. 356.

they denied the Salvation of the Body, and that at Death their Souls ascended above the Heaven unto their determined place, from whence they shall no more return unto their Bodies; for against this Notion and Opinion they strongly argued, That it was the Order of the Resurrection, a depial of our Lord's descent into Hell, and by consequence of all his Followers, who, according to the Scriptures of truth, must first go thither before they can be admitted to the perfect Fruition of the ever bleffed God; Unto which convincing Argument, these Hereticks could frame no other Reply, than ' that the Body was the Hell of the Sout, and that Christ's Earth, was bis descent into Hell ; from the Dieunt inferos quidem effe hunc mundum, qui sir secundum nos, interiorem autem hominem being in his Body bere on ipsonum derelingnentem hic corpus, in supercoelestem ascendere locum. Id. Ibid. p. 356.

Pains whereof he was fet free, when by Death be was delivered from his Body: From whence it is most apparent, that the Descent into Hell is to be understood alone of our Saviour's Soul.

For the farther proof whereof, I might cite St. Jerom, who writes, That it mas the Soul of Christ which went into Hell; as alfo ! Epiphanius, 4 Ambrose, Origen, Athanastus, with many others, who all apply this Action of our Saviour's to his Soul alone; employing

4

Anima ejus descendit in infernum. Tom. g. Com. in 12. cap. Ofe. p. 74. Anchorat. p. 484.

* Tom. 2 de Incar. Dom. Sacram, c. 5. p. 181.

Vol. 2. Com. in Johan. Tom.

32. P. 419.

6 Tom. 1. de Incarn. Christ. advers. Apollinar. p. 630.

for this end that Text of the Apostle, cited by him from the Pfalmift, on which this Arricle is principally founded, Thou wilt not leave my Soul in . Acts ii. 27. Hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy mabassas

IR. CAR.

DOMEST.

0.00

One to See Corruption; where, by the Soul of Christ, which God would not leave in Hell, they understood the rational part of Man, that Spirit which distinguishes him from a Brute, and fubfifts after its disunion and departure from the Body : Wherein it is most probable, they were in the right; for although the word Soul may by a Metonymy be fometimes taken in Scrip. ture for the Body, yet it cannot be fo understood, where it is placed in opposition to, and contradistinction from it, as in this Textitis. And, as for the Creed it self, the Burial of our Lord's Body having been already afferted, the bare repetition of the same in other Terms, would be an unaccountable Tautology, and contrary to that Brevity which this short Summary of Faith intends. But then.

Secondly, The Descent into Hell respects not only our Saviour's Soul, but relates something done by it in its separate state, after it was disunited from its Body by Death; which excludes its having any reference to the Miseries and Agonies that he suffered in his Soul whilst alive. Now this will most evidently appear from the Sermon of St. Peter, recorded in the Sermon of St. Peter st.

cond

THE NOTE less frame

NOTE TO LOCK

elica la luma

1.1.00

.I amail

cond of the Acts, wherein he applies that Text of the Pfalmift, That God would not leave his Soul in Hell, unto our Saviour, after that the Jews had by wicked hands crucified and flain him; affuring his Auditors therefrom, that although they had crucified and put to death the Lord of Life, by means whereof his Body was buried in the Earth and his Soul gone to Hell, yet those two essential Parts should return from their respective separated Mansions, and be conjoined in the same perfect living Man again, according to the Prophefy of David, who seeing this before, spake of the Resurrection of Christ, that his Soul was not left in Hell, neither did his Flesh see Corruption; where it is manifest, that the Being, or Descending into Hell, related unto the Soul of Christ during the interval betwixt his Death and Refurrection; that, as during that time, his Body was laid in the Grave, fo his Soul went into Hell, where each of them remained in their particular Habitations, till the reunion of them again by his glorious Resurrection, which was the Third Day after his Death and Passion. except amongs the World of the fud

Marife H

भिता १६-ठीर्जा १६९६-ठार में दिखीरण में रेंग मर्द्यक रेंगा देंग देंगा, Tom.1. p.630.

Now fuitable to this Explication of the forementioned Texts, were the No. tions of the Primitive Fathers; Athanafius in his Tract against Apollinarius, concerning the Incarnation of our Lord shews in fundry places, ' That while his Body tay baried in the Grave, his Soul went into Hell, to perform in that place those several Actions and Operations which were necessary for the complete Redemption and Salvation of Mankind; that he performed after his Death, different Actions by his two Effential Parts; by his Body he lay in the Grave, and conquered Corruption; by his Soul he went into Hell, and vanquished Death. Wherefore he writes in another Trad

Mite & Deonil To oripato ev to tapo Storiustavoulins, unte & Juzis ev to adin zoei querns, toto 35 En to onde sia T teoponti, en esnalarei leis thu Juziu un eis dsum, ine swoes à orior ou isen siaploede: De salut. advent. Jes. Christ. advers. Apollinar.
Tom. 1. p. 645.

against the said Heretick, That after the Death of Christ, his Body lay in the Grave, and his Soul went to Hell; neither of which were deserted by his Divinity, according to that Saying of the Psalmist, Thou shalt not leave my Soul in Hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see Corruption. And the Author of the Dialogues concerning the Holy Trinity extant amongst the Works of the said Father.

Father, Writes, That
Christ for our sakes, sur the foxles, x, is usingle down by his Soul resinant of roma. Tom. 25 into Hell, whilft his Body was laid in the Grave. But, what need I multiply Quotations to prove a Point so universally attested by the Antients in innumerable places of their Writings? Let therefore the Tuperaddition of the fingle Testimony of Fulgentius suffice, That

'after the Death of the Humanicas vera Filii Dei nec but that he lay dead in the Grave with his Body

e

đ

۲,

Son of God, his whole tota in sepulchro fuit, nec tota in inferno, sed in sepulchro secun-Humanity was neither in dum veram carnem Christus morthe Grave nor in Hell, thus jacuit, & secondum animam ad infernum Christus descendita Ad Frafimund. lib. 3. c. 34. P. 76.

whilf he went into Hell with his Soul. From all which it is most evident. That the Descent into Hell relates only to the Soul of Christ during its feparation from the Body, or the time that intervened between his Death and Refurrection; which being premised. I come now to consider the Article it self, or what is predicated therein concerning our Lord's feparated Soul, which is, That he descended into Hell; wherein thefe two things shall be examined, First, The place whither he went, which was Hell; Secondly. regulace

135535040

A Country

A MICE

414 RODG 200

mamilia m defeandit

Br. 1 . 15

Secondly, The manner of his going this ther, viz. by descending, he descended into Hell.

Only before I speak to either of these, I must be forced to premise one thing more, which is, that I do not pretend to affirm, that all the Fathers and Primitive Writers had the fame exact Notions and Conceptions of this Article of the Creed, fince without any Reflection it is too manifest, that severals of them had no diffinet and clear apprehensions thereof, but were uncertain and confused in their Notions thereabouts: Wherefore, it will be sufficient for my purpose, to prove what follows to have been the generally received Opinion, and that it is the most natural, easy, and uncon-strained Interpretation of this perplexed and obscure Article, he descended into Hell.

Now, as for the first thing, the place whither Christ descended, which is said to be Hell; it is most certain that we have not any one word in our modern English Dialect, nor by what I could ever understand, in any other of the present European Tongues, to express the Greek word by: The word in Greek, which is adns, Hades,

fignifies

fignifies an invisible place; wherein all separated Souls, whether good or bad, righteous or unrighteous, are received and contained, as shall be hereafter proved; the half of which signification, is only expressed in the French word L'Enfer, and in the English and Dutch words Hell and Helle, seeing they are always taken in an evil sense, and do solitarily denote the Mansion and Habitation of wicked and ungodly Souls.

It is true indeed, that in the antient English Dialect, the word Hell was taken in a larger sense, for the general receptacle of all Souls whatfoever; and even no longer ago than the old Translation of the Pfalms, which is still retained in the Common Prayer Book, it was used in this general Acceptation, as in Psal. lxxxix. 47. What Man is he that liveth, and shall not see Death? Shall he deliver his Soul from the Hand of Hell? Where Hell must be understood of the general receptacle of all Souls, or otherwife the words of the Pfalmist would not be true; for, all Souls do not go to that Hell which is the place of the Damned: And even long before that, ' commentaas Dr. Towerson informs us, in a ry on the Creed; Saxon Discourse written above Seven hundred Years ago, it is faid of Adam, That after he had lived Nine hundred Years, he went with Sorrow into Hell: where, fince none but reputed Here. ticks ever denied the Salvation of A. dam, it is most reasonable to conclude, That by the Hell to which he went, nothing else is to be underflood than the common receptacle of all departed Souls, whether good or bad. Which antient sense of the word Hell, may be farther confirmed from the primary and original fignification thereof; according to which, it imports no more than an invisible and hidden place, being derived from the old Saxon word Hil, which fignifies to hide, or from the Participle thereof Helled, that is to fay, hidden or covered; as in the Western Parts of England at this very day, to Hele over any thing, fignifies amongst the common People to cover it; and he that covereth an House with Tile or Slate, is called an Helliar. From whence it appears, that the word Hell, according to its Primitive Notion, exactly anfwers to the Greek word adus Hades, which fignifies the common Mansion of all separated Souls, and was so called, ROZER led, quasi o aidis towo, because it is un unseen place, removed from the sight and view of the Living: according to which, the Translator of Irenaus fitly so terming it, because of our un- c. 26. 3. 356: certainty of the places whither departed Souls do go, and of their invi-fibility unto us.

But, from the literal fignification of the word, let us proceed to the thing t felf; where I shall endeavour to prove, That amongst all the Antients, whether Heathens, Jews, or Christians, the usual Acceptation of the term Hell was, that it was the common Lodge or Habitation of separated Souls, both good and bad, wherein each of them, according to their Deferts in this Life, and their expectations of the future Judgment, remained either in Joy or Misery.

I place the Heathens with the Jews and Christians, because the propriety of any Greek or Latin word is to be fetched from them; and the Apostles speaking the words of their Language, it cannot be imagined, but that they spoke them according to their vulgar Signification, intending always by them their usual and universal Meaning. Now

Now that the Heathens, both Greeks and Latins, the one by their Hades, and the other by their Inferi, did ge. nerally understand the forementioned place of departed Souls, needs no large or copious Proof, seeing the least peruser of their Writings must without doubt have observed this to have been their general opinion, that as upon the Death of all Men, whether just or unjust, the Grave received their Bodies, fo Hell received their Souls: For the demonstrating whereof, there will be found sufficient in those Books alone, that are usually read in Grammar Schools; as in the beginning of Homer's Iliads, the Poet invocates his Muse to assist him in the Description of the Anger of Achilles, which was so fatal to the Greeks, that it sent mamy noble Souls to Hell, and made their Carcases a Prey to the Dogs.

Πολλάς δ' Ιφθίμες ψυχάς άτδι σε τα ψεν "Η φώων, αυ τές δ' έλωεια τευ χε χυνέων.

And in the Eleventh Book of his Odyffes, Vlysses gives a Narration of his Descent into Hades, or Hell, which he describes to be the common place of Souls separated from their Bodies, where he met with severals of his old Acquain-

京 本本のでは

Acquaintance, and others, of whom he had heard, both good and bad; there he faw the Souls of Achilles, Agamemnon, Patroclus, Antilochus, and others whose names are mentioned with honour and praise in the Pagan Histories, as well as the Souls of Titius, Tantalus, and Sisyphus, whose Memories are preserved with Brands of Insamy and Reproach; there he beheld the Soul of Achilles to skip with Joy in a flowry Meadow, whilst the Souls of other dead Men stood by in a mournful posture, relating their particular Sufferings.

Each of them being suitably affected to the Sentence that had been passed on them by Minos, who in that infernal Region judged all Souls, according to their Actions in the Body, either to Misery or Felicity.

Ένθ ήτοι Μίνωα Ιδιον δί Φάζλαδν υξόν Χρύσεον σκήπθον έχονλα Θεμισδόντα νεκύεωτν. Aneas also in imitation of Ulysses, is seigned by Virgil to have gone down to Hell, or to the Habitation of departed Souls, where he saw not only the proud Giants who attempted to pull Jupiter out of Heaven, the King of Elis, Ixion, Pirithous, and other great and abominable Sinners, in the midst of unconceivable and tremendous Torments, but also Ilus, Aslavacus, Dardanus, Anchises, and a multitude of other Hero's,

Magnanimi Heroes, nati melioribus annis, recreating themselves in green Meadows, amidst a sull confluence of every thing that could make them blessed and happy. So that Hell contained the separated Souls of all Men whether good or bad, whether adjudged to Misery or Felicity; being divided into Two Parts, in the left whereof the Ungodly are plagued and torment ed for their Sins and Follies, as in the right the Godly are rewarded and blessed for their Duty and Obedience according to those Verses of Diphilus an old comical Poet, preserved by

mat. p. 442. Clemens Alexandrinus.

Kai X nad d'Alm No Teißes voui (out) Miav Anaiw, ÉTÉEAN d' doeß ŵn Éinai 'Oddr, x) et Tes d'o nanúta ú yú.

For Good and Bad, two different Paths are found In Hell; both which are cover'd by the Ground.

Not much unlike to which, Virgil describes two Paths in Hell; the right, leading to the Elysian Fields, or the Habitation of the Blessed; the lest, leading to Tartarus, or the place of the Damned.

Hic locus est, parteis ubi se via findit in ambas, Dextera, quæ Ditis magni sub Mænia tendit, Hâc iter Elysium nobis: at læva malorum Exercet pænas, & ad impia Tartæra mittit. Æn. 1.5.

In English thus:

The Way in two divides, that on the right By Pluto's Walls, goes to the Elysian Light: That on the left doth unto Torment tend, And Men to wicked Tartarus doth send.

From all which it manifestly appears, That Hell was a general Term, and signified the place whereunto all separated Souls, whether good or bad, were translated and carried, and there disposed of into two distinct Manssons.

THE PLANCING

lerese de secret Bro se attobals  But from the Heathens let us come unto the Jews; amongst whom we shall find the same Sentiments to have prevailed, insomuch that St. Ambrose in Philosophiæ libris mirantur, translata de nostris, atque utinam non superflua his & inutilia miscuissent, — satisfuerat dixisie illis quod liberatæ animæ de corporibus atolu peterent, id est, locum qui non videtur, quem locum latinè infernum dicimus, Tom. 4. de bano mortis, c. 10, p. 240.

affirms, That the Pagans stole the forementioned Notion of the state of departed Souls, from the Jews and the Books of the Old Testament; though he wishes, that they had not mingled other superfluous and unprofitable Conceits therewith, but would have been contented with that single Opinion, that Souls delivered from their Bodies, go to Hades, or Hell, that is, a place not seen, which is called by the Latins Infernum.

The Sadduces indeed denied Angels, and Spirits, and the World to come; by which, as Josephus writes, * Yuxis-* they took away the Rewards and Pu-Ta's nati a's nishments of Souls in Hell; but the मामळहावड में Pharifees, who were the prevailing THUS S EVEL gron. De Bello and far more numerous Sect, belie-Judaic. lib. 2. ved the Immortality of Souls, and that 3 'Adavalor TE igor rais they were either tormented, or honoured Luzais miunder the Earth, that is, in Hell, ac-SIS aU TOIS Elναι, κὶ ὑπὸ χθονὸς δικαιώσεις τι κὰ τιμας οίς αρείκε κακίας ἐπίκτ Adors ἐν τερ βίω γέρονε. Idem. Judaic. Antiq. lib. 18. c. 2.

cording

cording to the Virtue or Wickedness of their past Lives. In an Agreement whereunto, the Learned Huetius obferves in his Notes on the Commentaries of Origen, That the ' modern Jews distinguish between the superiour Paradise, or Heaven, which is prepared for the glorified Souls and Bodies of the Saints

' His consentit Ebræorum doctrina, qui paradifum illum appellant 170 13, & paradifum inferiorem, ut a paradifo superiore, cœlo nimirum distinguant, eamque sedem assignant animis justorum corpore exutis. In Orig. Com. Observat. of Not. p. 101.

after the Resurrection-Day, and the inferiour Paradise usually called by them the Garden of Eden, which is appointed to be the Habitation of holy Souls during the time of their separation from their Bodies: According unto which, in the Jewish Liturgy, there is a Prayer prescribed to be faid in time of Sickness, wherein the fick Man prays,

That ' if the time of his Portion in the Garden of Eden, and purify him for the World to come, the hidden place

1g

his Departure be come, יואם קרבה עת פקורתי ב God would give him לפות הלקי בנן ענן י ואם קרנה עת פקורתי ווכניו לעולם הבא הצפון ישריקים: In Seder Tephiloth. p. 178.

of the Righteous; which exactly anfwers to the Greek word Hades, which, as it hath been already said, signissies an hidden or unseen place: And, in one

-offul alm Cred Resource

one of the following Prayers, called Hakaphoth, or Encompassings, because the Elders encompass and go round the Grave of the buried Person; in ther peetition of them, they first pray, י פּנָקָם תְקַכֵל לְגַוּ טָרוּף משם הטלה סרום ולא בחוצ may go to the Garden of . Ibid. p. 179.

That the ' departed Soul Eden, and that from thence he may ascend on high, and not stay without. But, whether the modern Jews universally concur herein, is not necessary for me to enquire, seeing my design leads me only to the consideration of the Sentiments of the antient Jews; concerning whom, one well vers'd in their Opinions, I mean Father Richard Simon, affures us, That in the Days of our

2 Ils reconnoissoient de plus des lieux fouterrains, ou les ames alloient aprés estre saperées des Hist. Critiq. du Texte du corps. nouveau Testam. c. 22. p. 259. De l' Edition de Roterdam 1689.

Saviour and his Apostles, their common Belief was, that there were places under-ground whither Souls went, after they were separated from

And a Learned Man long their Bodies. before him, even Origen, affirms, That the fews were instructed from their

Infancy, in the Immortality of the Soul, and that under the Earth, that is, in Hell, there

3 This of Jugas abavasian, છે ત્રને જેન્ન પૂર્ણ કામના અમિલન, મના ત્રનેક ત્રાપ્યેક તે મનમાં દિલ્લા મના Contra Celsum, lib. 5. p. 260.

OHO

are

gording to Mens Merits and Deferts in this Life. From all which it doth most evidently appear, That the antient Jews as well as Heathens, underderstood by Hades, or Hell, the place whither all separated Souls do go, and there live according to their different Qualities and Merits, either in a state of Joy or Mifery.

realon,

But, that which nearly concerns me, is the Opinion of the Primitive Christians herein; which after an unprejudiced Enquiry, I find to have been almost, if not altogether the same with that of the Heathens and Jews, viz. that Hell was the common Receptacle of all departed Souls, whether good or bad, being divided into two Mansions or Habitations; in one whereof, the Souls of the wicked remained in Grief and Torment; and in the other, those of the godly in Joy and Happiness; both of them expecting the general Refurrection-Day.

Now, that they believed the separated Souls of the Wicked to have immediately passed into a place of Punishment and Anguish, requires no Proof, at least it will be needless for me to insist upon it; but seeing it will

BUTCER MAR

in locumen

quies. Dean

be proved, that they maintained, That even the Souls of the Faithful went to Hell, it will be necessary, by reason that that word is now always taken in an evil sense, and so without a pre-vious caution may possibly create wrong Ideas and Misapprehensions in fome Peoples Minds, as if I would infinuate, That the separated Souls of the Godly suffer the Pains of Hell, or at least pass through the Flames of a pretended Purgatory: I fay, upon these and the like Accounts, it will not be unnecessary, before I come to evince this main Point, that the Antients placed believing Souls in Hell, briefly to shew, that notwithstanding this, they affirmed them to be there in a state of Rest and Peace, in a full complacency of Spirit, joyfully expecting the reflitution of all things, and the general Refurrection-Day, when their Happiness should be completed in the highest Heaven.

'Accidit Archelaus, Bishop of Caschara in Meurrumque vità discedere, sopotamia, though he supposes both & in infer- Dives and Lazarus to have been in Hell, num descendere, & pauperem mitti there in a place of Rest: For which in locum requiei. Disput. advers. Manich. ad calcem, not. Vales. in Socrat. p. 2014 reason,

eason, Origen calls him the rester in Abraham's Bosom; and Clemens Alexandrinus, That ' he fourished in the Bosom of Father Abraham; upon which account Hilary of Poictiers very well argues, That our Saviour could not fear to enter into the infernal Chaos, feeing Lazarus rejoiced in Abraham's Bosom. And from

O avanavoule er Tois тв Аведац полтыя. Vol. 2. Com. in Johan. Tom. 15. p. 234. <sup>2</sup> 'Ανέθαλεν εν κόλποις το Halegs. Padag. lib. 2. c. 10. P. 147.

Lazaro in Abrahæ finibus lætante, infernum Chaos Christus timeret ? De Trinitat. lib. 10.

the same Consideration, Cyprian comforted the Christians of his Age against the fear of Death, and exhorted them Amplestachearfully to receive it; 4 Let us em- mur diem qui brace, saith he, the Day that assigns to assignat singuevery one his Habitation, that delivers los domicilio suo; qui nos isthinc ereptos, & laquæis fæcularibus exfolutos Paradiso restituit, & regno cœlesti, quis non peregrè constitutus properaret in patriam regredi? Quis non ad suos navigare festinans, ventum prosperum cupidius optaret, ut velociter charos liceret amplecti? Patriam nostram paradifum computamus, parentes patriarchas habere jam cœpimus, quid non properamus & currimus, ut patriam nostram videre, ut parentes falutare possimus? Magnus illic nos charorum numerus expectat, parentum, fratrum, filiorum frequens nos & copiosa turba desiderat jam de sua immortalitate secura, & adhuc de nostra salute solicita, ad horum conspectum & complexum venire, quanta & illis & nobis in commune lætitia est ?--- Illic Apostolorum gloriosus Chorus, illic Prophetarum exultantium numerus, illic martyrum innumerabilis populus ob certaminis & passionis victoriam coronatus, triumphantes illic virgines -- remunerati mifericordes qui alimentis & largitionibus pauperum justiciæ opera fecerunt, -ad hos tracres dilectissimi avida cupiditate properemus, ut cum his cito esse, ut cito ad Christum venire contingat optemus. De mortalit. S. 18. P. 347.

Sion of

2. 1671

STEEL STORAGE

.....

w.C. 11.4

wall to

mo mub

म्बर्गाते १५५

esq 315, 31

AND BUT

रित्ते वस कि

eurono.

unerabilis echanica audinous

min avida

us from these worldly Snares, and restores us to the Heavenly Kingdom: Who, being abroad, would not hasten to return into his own Country? Who, hastning to sail home, would not heartily wish for a good wind, that he might speedily embrace his Friends? We may reckon Paradise for our Country; we have begun already to have the Patriarchs for our Parents; why then do we not hasten and run to see our Country, and to salute our Parents? A great number of Friends expect us there; a numerous company of Parents, Brethren and Sons, desire us, already secure of their own Immortality, but now solicitous about our Salvation. How great must their and our Joy be, in the mutual seeing and embracing of each other? What must be the pleasure of the heavenly Kingdoms, where there is no fear of Death, but a certainty of eternal Life? There is a glorious Quire of the Apostles, there is the number of the exulting Prophets, there is the innumerable company of Martyrs, crowned for the victory of their Fight and Passion; there are the triumphing Virgins, who by the strength of Continency Subdued the Concupiscence of the Flesh and Body; there are the Charitable, who are reward-Christum veed for their Works of Righteousness, in feeding mol,

PARTON

.025 A.

นออเลของ

eon lunuida.

confeeture

feeding and giving to the Poor; who by keeping the Precepts of the Lord, conveyed their earthly Patrimony unto the heavenly Treasury: To these, dearly beloved Brethren, let us hasten, and wish to be speedily with these, that so we may speedily come to Christ. And many other fuch like Passages might be easily produced, to shew the Opinion of the Primitive Writers to have been, That the Souls of the Godly, immediately after their feparation from the Body, pass into a place of Blifs and Happiness: But, that I may not be tedious, I shall designedly omit them, and proceed to the proof of the principal Point, which is, That it was the general Belief of the Primitive Church, that the feparated Souls of good Men went into Hell, or Hades, as it is termed in the Creed, where they remained in a condition suitable to their Merits in this Life, in an expectation of the Resurrection, and the general Judgment-Day.

Now the first, whom I shall produce for this end, shall be the venerable Irenaus, Bishop of Lyons, who relates this to be the Order of the Resurrection and Glorification of all true Christians, That upon the dis-

y

je

1;

d-

in

ng

union

nion of their two essential Parts by

Animæ abibunt in invisibilem locum, definitum eis à Deo, & ibi usque ad resurrectionem commorabuntur, sustinentes resurrectionem: post recipientes corpora & persecte resurgentes, hoc est, corporaliter,—sic venient ad conspectum Dei. Lib. 5. c. 26. 2.356. Death, their Souls shall go to Hell, or to an invisible place appointed them by God, where they shall tarry till the Resurrection, in a continued expectation of it; after which, receiving their Bo.

dies, and rising perfectly, that is, corporally, they shall come to the presence of God. Not much unlike to which, it is affirmed by Justin Martyr, That

ου δε Σποθνήσκειν φημί πασας τας ψυχας, — τας με τ ευσεβων εν κρείτθονί ποι χωρο κυρείν, τας η αδίκες κη πουνηεας εν χείρονι, τε κείσεως εκδεχουρίας χείνονι Dial. cum Τγρόοπ. p. 223. all Souls did not die, but that those of the Godly remained in a better place, and those of the Ungodly in a worse, expecting the Day of Judgment.

Abrahæ refrigerium constitutus, contra Dives in tormento ignis constitutus. De Idololat. p. 622.

Tertullian writes, That both Dives and Lazarus, or Eleazar, as he calls him, were in Hell; the former in the refreshment, viz. in Abraham's Bosom; making Abraham's Bosom to be a part of Hell, according to those Verses against Marcion, which commonly pass under his Name:

In parte ignota quidam locus extat apertus, Carni, advers. Luce sud fretus Abraha sinus iste vocatur, Marcien.
Altior a Tenebris, longe semotus ab Igne Sub terra tamen bec, &c.

In which Verses, he comprehends the place of damned and bleffed Souls under the general term of the word Hell, or, of a Place under ground; only making this difference, that the wicked were in the lowermost Parts thereof, in a place of Darkness, Fire an Torment; but the righteous in the fuperiour Parts thereof, in a place of Light, Freedom and Happiness.

But, to return to the unquestionable Works of Tertullian, in his Book concerning the Soul, he proposes to Dispute of several Questions relating to ir; one whereof is, concerning the corporiety of the Soul, which he holds in the affirmative, and thinks it undeniably evinced from the Soul's passivity, or receptibility either of Joy or Mifery in its separate state : For the proof of which, he doth not only alledge the Example of Dives and Lakarus, but also the detaining of ail Souls in Hell, both good and bad, till

m Quid est autem illud, quod ad inferna transfertur post divortium corporis, quod detinetur illic, quod in diem judicii reservatur, ad quod & Christus moriendo descendit, puto ad animas Patriarcharum, sed quamobrem si nihil anima detinet sub terris, nihil enim si non corpus, incorporalitas enim ab omni genere custodia, immunis à pœnâ & à sovellà, De Anim. c. 2. p. 525.

the Judgment Day; m What is that, faith he, that is translated unto Hell after the divorce of the Body, which is there detained, and reserved unto the Day of Judgment, to which Christ by dying did descend? Even to the Souls of the Patriarchs, I think. How if the Soul be nothing, can it be detained under the Earth? For, it is nothing if it be not a Body; for, Incorporiety is free from all kind of Custody, and incapable of either Pain or Pleasure. And, in the same Book, one of the last Questions which he handles relating to the Soul, is concerning its receptacle after its separation from the Body; where he first proposes the various Opinions of those Philosophers, who acknowledged its Immortality, as of the Platonifts, Stoicks, and others, who generally allotted to wife and pious Souls, Seats exalted in the Air, fublimated according to their Wisdom and Excellency, but maintained, that other Souls were, according to their Folly and Corruption, depressed towards the Earth, and hovered thereabouts; which Conceit he condemns, as contrary to that part of the Christian Faith which placed all Souls in Hell: For, n as for us, saith he, we neither believe Hell to be a naked Cavity, nor an open Sink of the World, but it is a vastness in the Body and Depth of the Earth, and an abstruse profundity in its Bowels; for we read, that Christ was conquered by Death, was conquered by Death, three Days in the Heart of the Earth, that is, in its most inward and internal Recess, covered over by the Earth, shut within it, and built about by yet more inferiour A-bysses: And a little farther, he pro-

Question, o Whether all Souls go to Hell, which he positively affirms; referring his Reader to a Book, now lost, which he had formerly written concerning Paradise, wherein he had declared; That every Soul was sequestred in Hell till, the Day of Judgment: adding sor a far-

"Nobis inferi non nuda cavofitas, nec subdivalis aliqua mundi sentina creduntur: sed in sossa terræ, & in alto vastitas, & in ipsis visceribus ejus abstrusa prosunditas, siquidem Christum in corde terræ triduum morte legimus expunctum, id est, in recessu intimo & interno, & ex ipsa terra operto; & intra ipsam clauso, & inferioribus adhuc abyssis superstructo. Ibid. c. 31. p. 574.

o De inferis, & an illuc omnes animæ compellantur. — Habes etiam de Paradiso à nobis libelluni quo constituimus omnem animam apud inferos sequestrari in diem Domini. — Christus — quia & homo mortuus secundum Scripturas & sepultus secundum easdem, huic quoque legi saissecit, forma humanæ mortis apud inferos sundus, nec ante ascendit in subiiniora coelorum, quam descendit in inferiora terrarum, ut illic Patriarchas & Prophetas competes sui faceret. Ib. c. 32. p. 576.

ther confirmation thereof, That Christ, because he was Man, was not only dead and buried according to the Scriptures, but that he also satisfied this Law of descending into Hell, and did not ascend into the heights of Heaven before he had decended into the depths of the Earth, that there the Patriarchs and Prophets might enjoy him: And in the same Chapter he continues to write, That

P Nulli patet cœlum, terra adhuc falva, ne dixerim clausa, cum transactione enim mundi reserabuntur regna cœlorum. Ibid. p. 576.

P Heaven is not yet opened to any, the earth, or Hell, being yet shut, but, that at the end of the World the Kingdom of

Soul

Heaven shall be unlocked: And in the next Chapter, he mentions it as the common Belief of the Christians in his

Animas Age, That 9 all Souls went to Hell; universas ad inferos redigi. and speaks both with horrour and delibid. c. 33. rision of the impious Practices of the p. 577. Followers of Simon Magus, that they rum animas ab pretended by their Magical Arts r to inferis mo- bring the Souls of the Prophets from vere se spondeant. Ibid. Hell; since, whatsoever Spectrums or p. 578. Visions appeared, they were not real

Nulli autem anima Phantasins; sit being impossible for any divitis ingemiscentis ex persona Abrahæ sanxit, non posse inde relegare renunciarorem dispositionis infernæ. Ibid. p. 578.

Soul to come out of Hell before the Judgment Day, as our Lord in the Person of Abraham hath appointed in the Parable of the comforted poor Man and tormented rich Man, that no Soul shall pass from Hell to Earth: Wherefore he concludes in the next and last Chapter, That t all Souls are in Hell, that there are both Punishments and Rewards, that both Dives, and Lazarus are there, that the Soul is both punished and comforted in Hell in apposit * Omnes ergo animæ penes inferos, supplicia jam illic & refrigeria, habes pauperem & divitem. — Animam & puniri & foveri in inferis interim sub expectatione utriusque judicii. Ibid. c. 34. p. 579.

forted in Hell, in expectation of the future Judgment.

To Tertullian, the Sybilline Oracles may be subjoined, which seem to be a pious Fraud of some good intentioned Christian, compiled probrably about the latter end of the Second Century in the Time of the Emperor Commodus, wherein all Men who live upon the Face of the Earth, are said to go down to the House of Hades, or to Hell.

u Τένεκα 3 πανίες οἱ ἐπχθόνιοι γεζαῶτες Ανβες εἰν ἀίδαο δόμοις ἰέναι κέκεση).

u Sybill. Orac. lib. 1. p. 164.

All Men, who in this World do dwell, Must go unto the unseen Gates of Hell.

3 Novatian

Novatian discoursing of the perfection of the Creation, shews, that all Parts thereof are full of the Wonders of God's Workmanship, not only the Heavens above and the Earth be-

* Neque quæ infra terram jacent, ipsa sunt digestis & ordinatis potestatibus vacua, locus enim est quo piorum animæ impiorumque ducuntur suturi judicii præjudicia sentientes. De Trinitat. P. 493. neath, but even those places which lye under the Earth, are not empty of distinguished and ordered Powers; for that is the Place whither the Souls both of the godly and ungodly are led, receiving the Forejudgment of their future Doom.

Archelaus, Bishop of Caschara in Mesopotamia, writes concerning Dives and Accidit utrumque vita difcedere, & in infernum descendere. Disput. advers. Manich. ad Calcem. Not. Vales. in Sacrat. p. 201.

post mortem protinus judicari, omnes in una communique custo-dia detinentur, donec tempus adveniat, quo maximus judex meritorum faciat examen. Institut. lib. 7. c. 21. p. 717.

Lazarus, That Y they both died and descended into Hell.

Lactantius warns his Readers, That 2 none of them should think, that Souls were immediately judged after Death; for they are all detained in one common Custody, till the time shall come when the greatest Judge shall examine their respective Merits.

Athanasius commends and admires the courage of the Martyrs, who, for the

the sake of Christ, did not fear to undergo all Hardships and Miseries; and though many of them had weak and insirm Bodies, yet they greedily snatched at Death, not recoiling at the Corruption of their Bodies, nor a fearing the Paths

in Hell.

Hilary, Bistop of Poitiers, assirms it to be be the necessary Law of Nature, that Bodies should be buried, and that Souls should descend into Hell: Wherefore the Souls of the Faithful when they care loosed from their Bodies, are reserved for an Entrance into the heavenly Kingdom by the custody of the Lord, to wit, in * Mns tas en don หลาง กระ ภิยภเติบโลร. De Incarn. Verb. Dei. Tom. 1. p. 82.

b Humanæ ista lex necessitatis est, ut sepultis corporibus ad inferos animæ descendant. Enar. in Psalm. 138. p. 701.

Exeuntes de corpore ad introitum illum regni cœlessis per custodiam Domini sideles omnes reservabuntur, in sinu scilicet interim Abrahæ collocati, quo adire impios interjectum Chaos inhibet. Enar. in Psalm. 120. p. 628.

the Bosom of Abraham, unto which a great Gulf hinders the Wicked from apbis sunt Evanproaching: And in another place he gelii Dives & writes, that immediately after Death, Pauper, quothe Soul of every Man goes either to Angeli in sedia place of Bliss or Woe; d of which the bus beatorum & in Abrahæ finu locaverunt, alium statim poenæ regio suscepit. — Judicii enim dies vel beatitudinis retributio est æternæ, vel poenæ; tempus vero mortis habet interim unumquemque suis legibus, dum ad judicium unumquemque aut Abraham reservat aut poena. Enar. in Psalm. 2. p. 453,

P 4

rich and poor Man in the Gospel, are Witnesses; the one of whom the Angels placed in the Seat of the Faithful, even in Abraham's Bosom, whilst the Region of Punishment presently received the other. — The Day of Judgment is a retribution either of eternal Blessedness or Punishment; but the time of Death detains every one under its Laws, whilst it reserves every one for Judgment, either in the Bosom of Abraham, or in Punishment.

St. Jerom seems also in some places, to be of the same Opinion; as where

e Inter mortem & inferos hoc interest, mors est, quâ anima separatur à corpore infernus, locus; in quo anima recluduntur, sive in resrigerio, sive in rœnis, pro qualitate meritorum. Tom. 5. Com. in Ose. c. 13. p. 74. he e puts this difference between Death and Hell, that Death is the separation of Body and Soul, but Hell the place in which Souls are reserved cither in Happiness or Misery, according to the Quality of their Merits: And in feveral places he faith, That f before the coming of Christ, all were alike conducted to Hell.

St. Austin writes, That the g time which is interposed between a Man's Death and the last Resurrection containeth Souls

f Ante adventum Christi omnia ad inferos pariter ducerentur. Tom. 5. Com. in Ecclesiast. c. 3. p. 10.

r.nt. e. 109. f. 252.

in hidden Receptacles, according as every one is worthy either of Rest or La-

But here it must not be disembled or concealed. That in the declenfion of the Greek and Latin Tongues, the words Hades and Inferi became to be chiefly understood in an evil sense, especially in the Latin Tongue, where it came to be for the most part, peculiarly applied to the place and flate of departed wicked Souls; from whence we find amongst the Greeks, That in the Days of Origen, some h Christians h Vol. 1. Hocould not imagine, that the Saints be-mil. de Enga-frym. p. 30. fore the coming of Christ, went to Hell; unto whom, that Father replies, i That i Ibid. p. 32, the Servants were not greater than their 33. Master, that it was no dishonour for them to go unto that place, whither their Lord bimself went, who descended into Hell, that he might conquer it, and deliver from thence the Souls of the Pious and Godly; by which he hath opened for us a Paffage into Paradise, that so k me, who k neewedy 3 live in the end of the World, have this in Exoulu, Privilege beyond the antient Saints, that our gia ?

λυθότες, — ἐἀν ἀπλημεςῶμου γρόμου κλοὶ κὶ ἀςαθοὶ, — Αιβάσδιβλα κὸ αἰζοὶ τὰ φλογίνου ρομφαίαν, κὶ ἐ καζθασόμθα κἰς τὰ χρίεσν ἔπε τὰ κοιμώμου, Αιβάστο τὰ κοιμώμου, Αιβάστο τόμθα κὶς μηθὲν βλαπζόμου γπο τὰ φλογίνης ρομφαίας. Ιδιά. p. 36.

if we depart out of this Life good and holy, we shall pass by the Flaming Sword at the entrance of Paradise, and shall not go unto that place, where those who died before the coming of Christ expected him, but shall pass by without receiving any Harm from the Flaming Sword.

Where it is also evident, That Origen himself receded something from the Opinion generally received in the Church, in that he would not allow the Souls of the Godly to go to Hell fince the Resurrection of Christ, as he acknowledged they did before; but fent them to Paradife, which he affigned to be in a different place from Hell, and not in Hell, as others believed it to be: Which Notion of Origen's was afterwards followed by feveral, especially in the Western Church, where it prevailed to the exclusion of the antient Doctrine; though in the Eastern Church it did not so; for there the Primitive Notions were still more generally received, as is to be feen in the Writings of the Two Gregories, Ny sen and Nazianzen, with others; and รี หลุงพิธีตาร อมิรูปี คิธ์รุทร технейсеру). Com. in Apoc. c. 17. p. 34.

bis

his Days, that every one at his Death received a place suitable to his Deeds, by which he might conjecture his future
State; which place he doth undoubtedly mean to be Hell, seeing elsewhere
he doth, according to the distinction of St. Jerom, make this difference between Death and Hell,

That m Death is the separation of Soul and Body, but that Hell is an unseen, invisible and

unknown place to us, which receiveth our Souls when we go hence.

The Author of the Book De Definitionibus, extant amongst the Works of Athanasius, but supposed to belong to Maximus, who flourished in the Seventh Century about the Year 640, writes, That our Saviour is called the

First Fruits of those that sleep, n because he first arose from Hell, which we shall also do at his second coming 5

" Δίότι ἀνές η τρῶτ۞ • κ τὰ ἀθε, καθῶς κὰ ἡμῶς μήλλομθι ἀνίς αῶς ἐν τῆ θατές ᾳ ταgεσία. Τοπ. 2. p. 52.

m Oaval & it xwestude tonuiv aus ns, nsev apavns, y as-

Τεύθεν επθημέσας δεχόμου.

that is, he died no more after his Refurrection; whereas Lazarus, and others, who were risen from the Dead, died again, and must continue in Hell till the general Resurrection-Day.

But,

Sandy's Travels, the Seventh Edition, p. 96.

But, I need not produce any more Testimonies for this matter, seeing to this very day the fame Doctrine, with very little Alteration, is entertained in the Oriental Churches and the Dependants thereof, as Sir George Sandys relates concerning the Greeks and Armenians, That they believe, o that the Dead neither do, nor shall feel foy nor Torment until the Day of Doom; by which, I suppose, those Christians mean no more than what I remember is related in the Embassy of the Earl of Carlifle into Muscovy, Anno 1663, concerning the Christians of the Empire, That they believe, that the Souls of all good Men are not admitted into Heaven, and unto the immediate fight of God till the general Resurrection-Day; and, than what Job Ludolphus writes con-

p Ils croyent communement que les ames des fideles ne jouiront de la felicité qu'apres la resurrection, ce qui Selon norre auceur, à aussy eté le sentiment de la plupart des ancient peres. Biblioth. universel. mois de Juillet 1691, p. 16.

cerning the Modern Ethiopians, That P their common Belief is, that the Souls of the Faithful shall not enjoy their Happiness till after the Resurrection, which the said Ludolphus doth affirm, to have been the sentiment of the greatest part of the Fathers; wherein he is not at all mistaken, who generally maintained, as

10

after Death the Bodies of the Faithful remained in the Grave, so their Souls continued in Hell till the general Resurrection-Day, when their Happiness should be compleated and perfected in the highest Heavens; which Doctrine, as we also see, hath with very little Alteration, been preserved in the Eastern Churches for these Sixteen hundred Years.

But in the Western Church, it hath been otherwise; where, as the Latin Tongue declined, the word Inseri or Hell, was more and more used in an evil sense, till at length it came to be wholly appropriated to signific a place of Torments, or at least of some kind of Misery and Obscurity.

St. Ambrose was one of the first in the West, who varied from the antient Doctrine, and embraced the Opinion of Origen, concerning the place of the departed Souls of good Men; which was, That q before the Death of Christ the Souls of all the Patriarchs and Saints went to Hell, where they remained in Joy and Happiness till our Saviour's Death 5

Nullus ascendit in cœlum, nisi qui descendit de cœlo, nam & Moysen licet corpus ejus non apparuerit in terris, nusquam tamen in gloria cœlesti legimus, nisi posteaquam Dominus resurrectionis suæ pignore vincula solvit inferni, & piorum animas elevavit. Tom. 2. de side ad Gratian. lib. 4. 6. 1: p. 77, 78.

when

when his separated Soul came into those infernal Regions, and breaking the Bonds thereof, he freed those captive Souls, and at his Resurrection triumphantly led them into Heaven, unto which place the departed Souls of all Believers do now immediately and instantly go.

After him, St. Jerom entertained the Ante adventum Christi omnia ad inferos pariter ducerentur, unde & Jacob ad inferos pariter descensurum se dicit, - & Evangelium, Chaos magnum interpofitum apud inferos esse testatur, & revera antequam flammeam illam roram & igneam rompheam ad Paradifi fores Christus cum larrone reseraret, clausa erant coelestia, &c. Tom. 5. Com. in Eccles. c. 3. p. 10. Quod Sancti post resurrectionem Domini nequaquam reneantur in inferno, testatur Apostolus, dicens, melius est dissolvi & esse cum Christo, qui autem cum Christo est, utique non tenetur in inferno. Tom. 5. Com. in Eccle-Siaft. c. 9. p. 24.

Missage of the last of the las fame Notions, That before the Death of Christ, all Souls were alike conveyed to Hell; that Abraham's Bosom, where Lazarus rested in Peace and Joy, was a part thereof; that Jacob, Job, Samuel, and all the other Saints who lived under the legal Dispensation; were detained in Hell, till the Gospel opened the Gates of Paradise, and Saviour's Blood quench the Flaming Sword at the entrance thereof, when the Thief entred with our Lord thereinto; after whom followed into that Holy City, the Souls of all the Saints who had been before detained in Hell, and unto which heavenly place, the Souls of all good Men immediately, upon their Dissolution, do now instantly instantly pass, being no longer held in Hell since the Resurrection of our Lord.

Austin seems to be sometimes wavering and uncertain in his apprehen-

s I do not doubt, saith he, but that the rich Man was in an extremity of Torments, and the poor Man in a confluence of Joys; but how that Flame of Hell and Bosom of Abraham is to

'Illum quippe divitem in ardore pœnarum, & illum pauperem in refrigerio gaudiorum intelligendos esse non dubito, sed quomodo intelligenda sit illa slamma inferni, ille sinus Abrahæ, vix fortasse à mansuere quærentibus, à contentiose autem certantibus nunquam invenitur. Tom. 3. De Genes. ad Liter. lib. 8. c.4. p. 815.

be understood, will scarcely be found by humble Seekers, never by contentious Strivers. In some places he doubts, whether Abraham's Bosom, the receptacle of all faithful Souls before the coming of Christ, was in Hell or no; I must confess, saith he, that I have not yet found where the Habitation of the Souls of the Just is in Scripture called Hell; and as I t Illud me nondum invenisse consiteor, interos appellatos ubi justorum animæ requiescunt, — proinde ut dixi, nondum inveni, —nec mihi occurrit inseros alicubi in bono posuisse Scripturam duntaxat canonicam. Tom. 3. de Genes. ad Liter. lib. 12. c.29. p.934.

have said, so I say again, that I never yet met with the word Hell used in a good sense in the Canonical Scripture: But, in other places he seems to grant, That Abraham's Bosom, the Mansion of the Godly before the coming of Christ, * Etenim apud inferos utrum in locis quibusdam suisset jam Abraham, non sais possumus desinire, nondum enim Dominus venerat ad infernum, ut erueret inde omnium sanctorum præcedentium animas,—ergo inter ista fortasse duo inferna, quorum in uno quieverunt animæ justorum, in altero torquentur animæ impiorum, &c. Tom. 8. Part. 2. in Psalm 85. Enar. p. 71.

Christ, was part of Hell; whether Abraham, faith he; was in some Parts of Hell, I cannot well define; for Christ was not as yet come to Hell, that he might deliver from thence the Souls of the precedent Saints; it is probable that there were two Hells, divided by the great Gulph; in one whereof, the Souls of the Just were at peace, whilst in the other, the Souls of the Wicked were tormented: And, in his Book of the City of God, composed in the extremity of his Old Age, he writes,

Non absurde credi videtur, antiquos etiam sanctos, qui venturi Christi tenuerunt sidem, locis quidem à tormentis impiorum remotissimis, sed apud inferos susse. donec eos inde sanguis Christi, & ad ea loca descensus erueret; prosecto deinceps boni sideles, prorsus inferos nesciunt. Tom. 5. de Civit. Dei. lib.20. c.15. P. 563.

That it is not absurd to believe, that the antient Saints who believed in Christ to come, although they were in a place most remote from Torments, yet that they were in Hell till the Blood of Christ, and his descent thither delivered them from thence; since which time, the Souls of Believers go to Hell no more.

I might here farther add the Sentiments of Petrus Chryfologus, Gennadius dins Massiliensis, Gregory the Great, and feveral others of the succeeding Writers, but I think it will be an unneceffary as well as tedious Labour, feeing the generality of the Latin Fathers of the middle Ages, embraced the forementioned Notion of Origen, Ambrose, and others, which was occasioned through the Mutation and Declension of the Latin Tongue, whereby the Word Inferi, or Hell, received a confiderable Change in its Meaning and Signification, being for the most Part taken in an evil Sense; according to which Apprehension and Notion thereof, new Ways and Ends of our Saviour's Descent thither, were imagined and invented. But, as I have already shewn, the Word Hell, according to its primary and original Import, doth principally fignify no other, than the State or Place into which all separated Souls do pass, and there remain till the Refurrection-Day; in which Sense it is to be frequently understood in the Septuagint, and cannot in any Propriety of Speech be otherwise accepted in that Text, whereon this Article of the Creed is founded, viz. Acts ii. 27. Thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell, neither wilt thon suffer thine Holy

Holy One to see Corruption, because the Souls being in Hell, is there opposed to and distinguished from the Bodies being in the Grave; and being applied by the Apostle to our Saviour's Refurrection, it is as if he should have thus expressed it in other Words, That although Christ Jesus died, and according to the manner of all Mankind, his Soul went into Hell, the common receptacle of all disunited Spirits, and his Body was buried in the Grave; vet God raised his Body from the Corruption of the one, and loosened his Soul from the Bonds of the other, reuniting those two effential Parts in a most wonderful and glorious Resurrection; according to which Pattern of our Lord and Saviour, all his Followers shall at the time appointed by the Almighty, be rescued both in Body and Soul from the Power of the Grave and Hell; when, as the Apofile writes, y shall be brought to pass the Saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in Victory, O Death, where is thy Sting? O Grave, or, O Hell, as it is in the Greek, being the same Word that is used in the Creed, where is thy Victory? That is, at the Resurrection-Day, through the omnipotent Power

† 1 Cor. xv.
54, 55. Πέ
σε, θάνα]ε
τὸ κέν]εον;
Πε σε, ἄρη,
τὸ νῖκΘ;

Power of God, the Grave shall be forced to yield up her dead Bodies. and Hell her separated Souls; that so all Souls and Bodies being reunited, they may in their perfect Humanity stand before the Tribunal of Jesus Christ, and receive a Sentence suitable to their Works in the Flesh, and the Execution of that Sentence throughout a never ending Life, either in eternal Misery or Felicity; which is the exact Description given by St. John, of the general Resurrection and Judgment-Day, in Rev. xx. 13, 14. And Death and Hell delivered up the Dead which were in them, and they were judged every Man according to their Works ; und Death and Hell were cast into the Lake of Fire ; this is the Second Death ? That is, Death or the Grave furrendred her imprison'd Bodies, and Hell her detained Souls, after which their Empire and Power over the Children of Men was destroyed and annihilated: From all which, I suppose it appears most evident, That the chief and proper Signification of the Word Hell, is no other than the Place of separated Souls; and that by consequence, the descending of Christ into Hell, imports no more than the Paf-Q. 2

fage of his Soul to that invisible World of separated Spirits, where according to the Laws of God and Nature, it remained in Rest and Peace till his Refurrection-Day.

But then Secondly, The next thing to be enquired into for the full Explication of this Article, is the manner of our Saviour's going into Hell, which in the Creed is expressed by descending thither, xellinder eis Low, he descended into Hell.

Now as for this Word nashaber, tranflated descended, Archbishop Usher asto a Challenge sures us, That z in the Acts of the Ato a Challenge fures us, That z in the Acts of the Ato a Challenge fures us, That z in the Acts of the Ato a Challenge sure sure a lower time in Ireland. of all those Places significate any descend4. London, ing from an higher Place unto a lower,
but a removing simply from one Place un-

but a removing simply from one Place unto another; whereupon, the Vulgar Latin Edition doth render it there by the general Terms of abeo, venio, devenio, supervenio; and where it retaineth the Word descendo, it intendeth nothing less than to signify thereby the lower Situation of the Place unto which the removal is noted to be made; if descending therefore in the Acts of the Apostles, as the said Archbishop continues there to write, imply no such kind of thing,
What Necessity is there, that thus of force

Apostles? So that, according to this Interpretation, the Word descended implies no more than the simple Passage of the Soul of Christ into Hell, the Habitation and Mansion of all severed and disunited Spirits.

And the Reason of the Use of this Word beyond any other, was, because it was a vulgar Expression and a popular kind of Speech, ariling from the generally received Opinion, That the Receptacles of departed Souls were under the Earth, or in the Heart and Bowels thereof; whence called by the Latins Infernum, and by the Greeks καθαχθόνια, and τὰ καθώτεςα, that is, the nether and lower Parts; and dans quasi dians, that is, Invisible, because those Places are imperceptible and unfeen by the Living; according to which received Opinion of the Heathens, the Fathers also generally believed Hell to be either under the Earth, or in the Bowels of it; in which Belief they were the more confirmed from that in Resemblance to the Prophet Jonah, who in his Soul as well as Body, was three Days and three Nights in the Whale's Belly; the Son of Man was to be three Days and three Nights in the Heart of the Earth, as it is in Matth. xii. 40. which is a Place that they generally applied to our Saviour's Soul, during the three Days of its Separation from his Body.

About the beginning of the Prophet Jonah's Prayer out of the Fish's Jonah ii. 3. Belly, there is this Expression, a Forthou hadst cast me into the Deep, in the midst of the Seas; where, what we render in the midst, St. Jerom more exactly, according to the original Hebrew Word ITT translates it, in the Heart of the Seas; and on it writes, That

Per cor maris fignificatur infernus, pro quo in Evangelio legimus, in corde terræ; quomodo autem cor animalis in medio est, ita & infernus in medio terræ esse perhibetur. Tom. 5. Com. in Jonam. c. 2. p. 138.

b by the Heart of the Sea, Hell is signified; for which, we read in the Gospel, the Heart of the Earth; for, as the Heart of an Animal is in the midst thereof, so Hell is Supposed to be in the middle of the Earth: For the Proof of which, he elsewhere produces that Text of the e Quod autem infernus in inferiori parte terræ sit, & Psalmista testatur, dicens, aperta est terra & devoravit Dathan, &c. Tom. 6. Com. in Ephes. c. 4. p. 178.

301

the Prophet Isaiah, Chap. xiv. 15. d Yet thou Shalt be brought down to Hell, to the Sides of the Pit, and long before St. 7erom, Tertullian calls Hell e a subterranean Region, f a Vastness in the Body and Depth of the Earth, and an abstruse profundity in its Bowels; and Novatian affirms it to be 8 a Place beneath the Earth, whither the Souls both of the Godly and Ungodly are led,

d Infernus sub terra sit, dicente Scriptura, usque ad fundamenta laci. Tom. 4. Com. in Esai. c. 14. P. 47.

Regionem inferûm subterraneam. De Anim. c. 32. p. 576.

f In fossa terræ & in alto vastitas, & in ipsis visceribus ejus abstrusa profunditas. De Anim. c. 31. P. 574.

rum animæ impiorumque ducuntur, futuri judicii præjudicia sentientes. De Trinitat. p. 493.

receiving in themselves the previous Apprehensions of their future Doom; with which agrees the Prediction of Sybilla, That at the Dissolution of all things by the general Conflagration at the last Day, a great River of burning Flames shall descend from Heaven, and burn up every Place without the Confines thereof; amongst which she reckons not only Earth and Sea, Rivers and Fountains, but also unmerciful Hades or Hell.

h Lib.

<sup>h</sup> Καὶ τότε δη ποθαμός τε μέζας πυρός αἰθομίνοιο P δύση ἀπες ανόθεν κὰ πάνθα τόπον διαπής η Γαΐαν τὰ ῶκε ανόν τε μέζαν, γλαύκλυ τε θλοάσαν Λίμνας κὰ πόθαμές, πηθώς κὰ ἀμέλιχον ἀδλίω.

i Sub terra, lib. 4. c. 45. p. 280. k Υπὸ γίω. Orthodox. Fid. lib. 3. c. 29. p. 278.

1 Τῶ καθαχθονίφ τόπφ. Vol. 1. Homil. de Engastrym. p. 35.

he elsewhere speaks very doubtfully and uncertainly of the Situation thereof, as when he writes,

That Christ descended in John Town into Hell, m whereso

ever it be, or, in what

14 .1

i Ireneus, k Damascen, and others, believed it also to be a place under the Earth; and Origen likewise one where, terms it a place

under ground; though

place soever it is.

Vol. 2. Comment. in Johan. Tom. 8. p. 126.

And indeed, though every one believed Hell to be the receptacle of all Souls, yet they were not agreed in the exact Situation thereof; Tertullian, wherein he is followed by the School-men, placeth it in the very Bowels of the Earth; Novatian, Damascen, and others, fix it beneath the Earth, infra terram, in the by which they understood the Southern Hemisphere; which space we now find to be filled with Earth and Air, as our

Northern one is: Others knew not where to settle it; but in general, every one meant by it that Place, wherefoever it was, into which separated Soul's do pass; only whatsoever their particular Opinion was, in conformity to the usual Dialect and common manner of Speaking, they termed a going thither a Descent into Hell, as the forementioned Reverend Archbishop instanceth in Cicero, who, " where ever he hath occasion to mention any thing that to Challenge concerneth the Dead, speaketh still of In-made by a Jeferi, according to the Vulgar Phrase; land, p. 392. although, he misliked the vulgar Opinion which bred that manner of Speaking, and professed it to be his Judgment, That o the Souls when they depart out of the Body, are carried up on high, and cume corpore not downward unto any Habitations un-excesserint, in der the Earth.

So that when the Creed affirms, that lan. Queft. our Saviour descended into Hell, the meaning thereof is no other than this, viz. that his Soul being separated from his Body by a real Transition and local Motion, went into the unseen Region of Spirits, where, according to the Laws of Death, it remained amongst other religious and pious departed Souls till the Refurrection of fublime terri. Lib. I. Tuscu-

M P Zel ze-

ש אנטיוש כש בים ול לוא ישמגורן

rdr abbrea

with mean of

n An Answer

da kelaren

ne little

en's to let

10.000

A Critical History of

his Body, which was the Third Day after.

Now that this is the true and proper Signification of Christs's descending into Hell, will be farther proved from the Consideration of the Ends for which he descended thither; some of the most pertinent whereof to our present Purpose, are as follows.

First, One End thereof was, to sanctify and sweeten unto us the State of Separation, to abate its Dread and Terrour, and to render it the more comfortable and joyful, in that our Head and Saviour endured it before us; for, as Ireneus observes, after that our Lord had passed through the several Ages of Man's Life to sanctify them unto pervenit, ut sit promigenitus ex mortuis, spse primatum tenens in omnibus. Lib. 2. c. 39. p. 137. us, he P at length came unto Death, that he might be the First-born of the Dead, and have the pre-eminency in all things: According unto which Anathasius writes, That Christ condemned Sin in his Life on Farth took away the Curse on the Earth, took away the Curse on the Is Fueld- Cross, Corruption in the Grave, and August in Descent into Hell, passent wardi

ambas τόπφ, του τε σύμπαν] Φ ανθρώπε τ σω πείαν καθερία·
ση μορφιώ τ, ημεθέρας ακόν Φ εν ξαυτώ επιθεκνύμη Φ. Τοπ. 1.
de Incarn. Christ. cont. Apollin. p. 618.

sing

sing through every Place, and appearing in our several Conditions, that he might work out the Salvation of the whole Man.

Secondly, Our Saviour descended into Hell, because it was a necessary and principal Part of his Humilation; for, though his Soul was, and the Souls of all good Men now are in a Place of Bliss and Happiness, yet as long as they continue in their State of Separation, they are suffering under the Effects of Sin, from which they shall not be delivered till the Resurrection-Day, when Death and Hell, the Executioners of Sin, shall lose their Sting and Victory; according unto which, Irenaus writes, That as Christ arose from the Dead, fo the Bodies of all good Men shall be raised, when the time of their Condemnation for Sin shall be completed; and, Athanasius describes the Souls of Adam and other good Men, held under the Condemnation of Death, to be crying unto the Lord in

Sic & reliquum corpus omnis hominis, qui invenitur in vita, impleto tempore condemnationis ejus quæ erat propter inobedientiam, refurgat. Lib. 3. 6. 21. p. 213.

The j τε Aθαμ ψυχης εν καθαδίκη θανάτε καθεχομίνης ερός τ έαυθης δεσσότων τω τως. — κ) τ εναρες ποάνθων τω Θεώ, — συμβοώνθων. Τοπ. 1. de Salut. advent. Jes. Christ. p. 641.

that State of Separation for his Mercy and Pity: And the faid Father elsewhere remarks, That whereas, when Man

eno luqui

right the sole of

DESIRER IN.

4. 38 5 4 5

Darighte Kay

-Brazilia (S. 18) Art Regisa (S. 18)

H. P. SALL

Man fell by the eating of the forbidden Fruit, the righteous Judge pronounced a double Sentence upon him, the one relating unto his Body, the o-

Τῷ τὰ γητνω εκηκώς, γη ε, κỳ είς γὶῦ ἀπηθόση, κỳ ε Τως ἐποδίεχε ) φθορὰ τὸ σῶμα Λεαπότε ἐποφηναμθύε, τῆ ἡ μυ
χῆ δανάτω ἐποθανῆ, κỳ ἔτω διι
χῆ διαιρεί ) ὁ ἀνθρωπ , κὸ ἐνω διι λιὰ τετο χρεία γε ονε τε ἐποφηνα μθύε ἴνα αὐτὸς διὶ ἐαυτε λύση τὸ ἐαυτε ἐπόφασιν, ἐν μορφῆ τὰ καθα δικαθέν , &c. Τοπ. 1. de Incarn. Christ. advers. Apollinar. p. 626.

ther unto his Soul; that respecting his Body being comprehended in those Words, Dust thou art, and unto Dust thou shalt return; and that respecting his Soul in these Words, Thou shalt die the Death; so when a Saviour was sent to redeem him, that he might in his own Person undergo the same Punishment, he permitted his dead Body to be laid in the Grave, and with his Soul he went into that Place of Separation, whither the Souls of all Men were adjudged to go, whereby likening himself to us in those States and Conditions he thereby redeemed us from them.

Thirdly, Another End of Christ's Descent into Hell, was to conquer it in his own Person, and as the Head and Representative of his Church and People; that the loosing of his Soul from the Bonds thereof, might be an Earnest and Assurance to all his Followers, that at the appointed time of their Resurrection, furrection, their Souls should be also rescued through his Almighty Power, and obtain an Eternal Victory over Death and Hell; from whence the Antients represented our Saviour like a mighty Champion entring the Territories of Hell, and

righting for the space of three Days with him, till he had broken the Strength of his Malice, and quite destroyed his Power and Force, setting himself free from all his Bonds and Fetters, and rendring them unable to detain his Saints whensoever it shall please him to command them thence; for a Declaration and Manisestation whereof, he brought with him at his Resurrection, several holy Souls from that State of Separation, and reunited them unto their Bodies, who afterwards x came into the holy City, and Matth. Matth. Appeared unto many.

Per triduum istà consistatione pugnatum est, quamdiu mors superatis malitiæ suæ viribus frangeretur. Jul. Firmic. Matern. de Error. Prof. Relig. p. 48.

Thus Epiphanius writes, That our Lord y descended with his Soul into the \sum \sum \times \nethermost Parts, where Death and Hell \( \theta \times \times \nethermost \text{Parts}, \text{ where Death and Hell } \( \theta \times \times \times \ni \text{ Tall } \) being ignorant of his Divinity that ac-xalax \( \theta \times \text{ tall } \times \text{ to constitute of } \)

A Critical History of

companied him, affaulted his Soul, thinking to have conquered it as they had the rest of Mankind before; but that herein they were mistaken, seeing that it was impossible for his Soul, by reason of his Deity, to be holden by them: For, as

* Κλάσης κένθον θανάτες, Φιαρρηξάσης του μοχλές του εθαμανθίνες, η λυσάσης ώθις vas abs er idia Heroia. Advers. Har. lib. 3. Compend. Fid. Cathol. p. 463. the said Father writes elsewhere, he broke the Sting of Death, rent in sunder those Adamantine Bars, and by his own Power loosed the Bonds of Hell, bringing from thence with him some of those captive Souls, as a Pledge and firm Foundation of Hope to all whom he left behind, that in his own due time they should also arrive unto the same Liberty and Resurrection with the others; which is the same with what Spbilla sings.

· Lib. 8. p. 388. • "Hty of de dishu diyénner Enmisa mari.

He shall descend unto the Gates of Hell, Declaring Hope to those who there do dwell.

Athanasius writes, That the Soul of base Christ went into Hell b to break the shift ta sec-Bonds of the Souls who were detained und fuxor there, fixing or ordaining the time of nasexousius, there seams duly began. Tom. 1. de Intarn. Christ advers. Apollin. p. 626.

A THE WAS

y July

nalisation Little Lab

the for an early

Par to la

their Resurrection; and that he conquered the Grave and Hell, that where Corruption had been Jown, there Incorruption Should arise; and where Death had reigned, there he appearing with his human Soul, should exhibit Immortality, and so should make us partakers of his ε 'Ινα όπε απάςη ή οβοςα, ενώ ἀναθώνη ή ἀρθαςσία, κὸ ὅπε εβασίλουσεν ὁ θάνατος ἐν μοςφή Τυχῆς ἀνθεωπίνης παξων ὁ ἀθάνατος ἐπως ἡμᾶς μεθόχες καθαςήση ἡ ἐπωτε ἀρθαςσίας, ἐν ἐλπίδε ἀνασάσεως ἡ ἐκ νεκςων, &c. Tom. I de Incarn.

Christ. advers. Apollinar. p. 630.

Incorruption, in hopes of the Resurrection from the Dead, when this Corruptible shall put on Incorruption, and this Mortal shall put on Immortality.

Lastly, The chief and principal End of our Saviour's Descent into Hell was. that he might subject himself unto the Laws of Death, and be in every thing conformable unto us; for feeing that he became our High Priest to redeem and save us, it behoved him in all things to be made like unto us, Sin only excepted; wherefore when he died, his Body like unto ours, was committed to the Grave; and in the same manner, his Spirit fled to the Receptacle of holy and religious Souls, where, as all we must, it awaited his Refurrection-Day; and which is very observable, amongst those infinite and various various Ends, which the Antients imagined, according to their different Conceptions, to be the Reason of this Descent, they frequently alledge this to be the most proper and principal Cause thereof.

Thus Ireneus writes, That our Lord d Legem by his abode in Hell, dobserved the Law morruorum of the Dead; and Tertullian, That his c. 26 p. 356. Body was not only buried, but that • Huic quoque legi fatisfecit, forma humanæ mortis apud inferos functus. De Anim. c. 32. p. 576.

Ψυχης Σπο σώματο χωεισμός, ο βλημέτρο ενώ Αιε-Γεάρε το Βάνατο. Τοπ. 1. de Salut. Advent. Jef. Christ. p. 646.

e he satisfied this Law also, viz. that he underwent the manner of buman Death in Hell; and Athanasius writes, That f our Death was described by the Separation of the Soul of Christ from bis Body, & who being found in our Shape and Figure, underwent the manner of our Death; that by it he might prepare a Resurrection for us, shewing his Soul in Hell, and by his Body in the Grave; that being in Hell the exhibition of his Soul there, he might destroy it, and being in the Grave by the burial of his Body there, he might annihilate Corruption, and so might bring forth Immortality and Incorruption from Hell and the Grave, going thither in our Form and Manner, and loosening our Detention there.

Leo Magnus writes, That our Lord h Leges enim h by dying, underwent the Laws of Hell, inferni morians by rising again he did dissolve them; sed resurgenand that I may not mention any more, do dissolvit. Hilary of Poictiers assures us, That Serm. 8.p. 55.

ito fulfil the Nature of Man, he subjected himself to Death, that is, to a departure as it were, both of Soul and Body, and penetrated into the

i Ad explendam hominis naturam, etiam morti se, id est discessioni se tanquam anima corporisque subject, & ad infernas sedes, id quod homini debitum videtur esse, penetravit. Enar. in Psal. 53. p. 472.

infernal Seats, which was a thing that feemed to be due unto Man; for, as he elsewhere writes kit

elsewhere writes, k it is a Law of human Necessity, that the Bodies being buried, the Souls should descend into Hell, which Descent the Lord did not refuse for the k Humanæ ista lex necessitatis est, ut sepultis corporibus ad inferos animæ descendant, quam descensionem Dominus ad consummationem veri hominis non recusavit. Enar. in Psalm. 138. p. 703.

consummation of a perfect Man.

So that one principal End of our Saviour's going into Hell, was to undergo the Laws of Death, that in every thing both living and dying, and after Death he might submit himself to the Rules and States of that Na. ture which he came down from Heaven to redeem. In his Life-time he appeared in the similitude of sinful Flesh. not disdaining to undergo all the natural Actions and Infirmities thereof: at his Death, his Body was committed to the Grave, whilst his separated Soul fled unto the invisible World of departed Spirits; which reason of his Descent into Hell, together with the others forementioned, is a more evident proof, that the meaning of this Article in the Creed is no other than this, viz. That our Saviour's Soul being separated from his Body by Death, went unto the unfeen Manfion of feparated Spirits in the other World; that as his Body according to the Laws of Death, was laid in the Grave, foin a conformity thereunto, his Soul also passed into the Habitation of departed Spirits, where it remained in its separate state amongst the Souls of Abraham, Samuel, David, and all the Godly in Rest and Peace, till the Day of his Resurrection; describing there by unto all his Followers, the manner of their Death and Resurrection, that their Bodies must remain in the Grave and and their Souls in Hell, or in their separate state, till the time of their Resurrection, when they shall be raised to Life again, and in their perfect Manhood receive eternal Honour and Glory from him.

But, now having at large explained this Article, and shewn the true and proper sense thereof, it yet remains to inquire into the occasion, manner, and time of its being inserted in the Creed. Now that which gave occasion thereunto, was an Heretical Opinion of the Arians and Eunomians, but especially of the Apollinarians; between whom and the two former, the Difference was very small, if any at all in this particular, as shall be hereafter shewn.

These Hereticks violently assaulted the truth of our Saviour's Humanity; but as they were more subtle and learned than that gross and sottish Tribe before-mentioned, against whom our Lord's Birth, Passion, Crucifixion, Death and Burial, are inserted in the Creed, so they managed their Cause with greater Wit and Cunning, and proceeded in a more refined and politick Method; for whereas, those forementioned Hereticks in a direct R 2 opposi-

opposition and contradiction to the Senses of all Mankind, denied the Substance and Reality of Christ's Body; these allowed that to be true and certain, whilst in a more dangerous and plausible way, they as effectually overturned the truth of his Humanity, by maintaining that he had no human, rational Soul, but that his Divinity supplied the room thereof.

Now that the Arians and Eunomians, or at least some of them, led the way to Apollinarius in this Errour, is abundantly attested by Epiphanius, Athanasius, and others, who charged them with this Doctrine as held and believed by all, or, I think, rather by some of them, (seeing it is most probable, that all the Arians were not infected therewith, ). That the Body which Christ assumed, was destitute both of a rational and sensitive Soul; wherein they fomething differed from the Apollinarians, who allowed Christ a sensitive Soul, and only divested him of a rational one; into which Difference between them, I shall not here enquire, seeing it is sufficient for my present purpose, that they both agreed, in denying Christ an human reasonable Soul: Which that the Arians fo so did, we are assured by the unquestionable Testimony of Athanasius, who accuseth them of maintaining, That the Heavenly Mind in Christ Served instead of on human Soul; and to the same purpose, Theodoret writes concerning both the Arians and Eunomians, That they m held, that our Saviour's Godhead performed the Office of the Soul; with whom, both n Epiphanius and o Austin agree in their charge against the Arians, affirming, That they held, that Christ took only an human Body without a Soul.

Aγ]ὶ τε ἐσωθεν ἐν ἡμῖν ἀνθρώπε, νες ἐπεράνι Ο ἐν Χειεῷ. Tom. I. de Incarn. Christ. advers. Apolinar. p. 628.

<sup>m</sup> Açe Θ j y Eωόμι Θ — εφας, — τ θεότη α τ ψυχής ενης Γηκέναι τ χς είαν. Divin. Decret. Epit. c. 12. p. 124.

Edena μόνον το σωθήςα Χειsòν ἀπὸ Μαείας εἰληφέναι θιαεεξαιέμθροι, κὰ εἰ τυχων. Απιcephal. p. 528.

O Deum Christum carnem sinc anima suscepisse. De Hares. c. 55.

engino

p. 182.

But, that which rendred this Herefy the more confiderable and dangerous, was, that it was defended and Patronized by the great Apollinarius,
the Ornament and Splendour of the Church in that Age; who, after he had been the most signalized Champion for the Faith, and an Illustrious Example of Piety and Virtue, unhappily espoused these and other Noti-

R 3

ons,

ons, which caused him to be branded for an Heretick in that and all succeeding Generations.

This Apollinarius, of whom I am now speaking, was Apollinarius the Younger, Bishop of Laodicea; but whether of Laodicea in Syria, or of that in Phanicia of Libanus, is not certainly known; he was by all esteemed the greatest Man of his Age both for Learning and Piety, a most accurate and nervous Defender of the Faith against all its Enemies, whether Heathers or Hereticks. Vincentius Lirinenses represents him as a very extraordi-

r Quid illo præstantius acumine, - doctrina ? Quam multas ille Hæreses multis voluminibus oppresserit? Quot inimicos fidei confuraverit errores? Indicio est opus illud triginta non minus librorum nobilissimum ac maximum, quo infanas Porphyrii calumnias magna probationum mole confudir, longum est universa ipsius opera commemorare, quibus profecto fummis ædificatoribus Ecclesiæ par esse potuisfer, nisi prophane illa hæreticæ curioficatis libidine novum nescio quid invenisser. Commonit, c. 16. p. 46, 47.

nary Man, P that he had a most acute Wit, and Sublime Learning; that in many Volumes he had overthrown Heresies, and confuted Errours opposite to the Faith; that in thirty large and noble Books, he had most convincingly baffled the Calumnies of Porphyry; that it would be too long to recite all his Works, by which indeed he might have been equall'd with the chiefest Builders of the Church, had he not fallen into Heresy:

Heresy: And Philostorgius the Arian Historiographer, gives this larger Character of him, That rHe, and Basil, and Gregory Nazianzen, defended the Divinity of Christ better than any either before or after them; in comparison of whom, the great Athanasius was esteemed to

Τρείς ή ετοι ἀνδιρες, —
μπηρώ πάντας παρενε πόν ες
του πεότερον η θε ερον, — ως
παίδα παρ' αὐτοις κειθυναι τ Αθανασιον, — η μάλις ά γε αὐσην ὁ Απολλινάει Θ, — τοσαύγραφων θωάμεως έσης, η το πθ Θ εδιεν ήτον, &c. Ε Suidâ
in Voc. "Απολλινάει Θ.

born

be but a Child; that they had not only an extraordinary Faculty both in speaking and writing, but their Lives were so attracting, that whosever either saw or heard them speak, were drawn and persuaded by them, and that the most considered and esteemed of these Three was this Apollinarius, of whom I am now speaking.

The Fall therefore of so great a Pillar, must needs have been a very sensible loss unto the Church, and is as such bewailed by Epiphanius, in the relation that he gives of his Heresy, and most pathetically by Gregory Nazianzen, who speaking of the Heresies of Eunomius and Apollinarius; the former of whom denied the Divinity of our Saviour, saith, That the Heresy of the sirst was supportable, and to be

R 4

Τὸ ἡ πάνων κομεπώταων ἐν τ ἐκκλησιασικοῦς συμφοεαῖς ἡ τ ᾿Απολλιναειςῶν τὰ παρρησία. Apud Sozomen. Eccles. Hist. lib. 6. c. 27. p. 676. born withal, but that which was m st insupportable and sinking in all the Ecclesiastical Shipwrecks, was the Errour of

Apollinarius, that so great and good a Man, the Ornament of his Age, and Flower of the Church, should become an Heretick, and an impugner of the Catholick Faith.

As for the time when he began his Herefy, it is not exactly known; he was not Anathematized as an Heretick by Name, till the fecond General Council at Constantinople, Anno 381; but nineteen Years before that, viz. Anno 362, his Herefy was condemned by a Synod at Alexandria; whereat were present Athanasius, Ensebius Bishop of Verceil in Piedmont, with several others, without mentioning his Name; the reason whereof might be, either because some Monks were sent by him thither, to purge him from the suspicion of Heresy, as in the Παρής ή η τίνες 'Απολλιναείε τε εποκόπε μονάζονζες τας εὐτε εἰς τετο τεμοθενίες. Athanas. Epist. ad Antioch. Tom. 1. p. 580. relation of the Synod there is room enough for such a Conjecture, or, because they were loth to believe so great a Doctor of the Church could

could fall into fo foul an Herefy; as Epiphanius writes. That when he first heard of this Errour, by some who came from him, he could not believe that fuch a Man had espoused such heretical Notions, and that they were only t some Peoples mistaken Apprehensions, who could not fathom the depth and profundity of so great a Scholar; or

bestiminate

Exeroply 28 मा कवार वह क्ये पंत्र' वर्धिक कर्ड़ म्यूबंड वेवाnouliss, un vosvas Ta Balias, ्कि गई ग्वाइम्ड त्र्विड केंग्डि हें, &c. Advers. Hares. Dimarit. p. 421.

else they were unwilling to cast so eminent a Man from the Communion of the Church, and therefore would first condemn his Herefy without mentioning his Name, hoping that that might be a means to regain him to the Catholick Faith, of which he had been before so noted and strenuous a Defender: But now, how long before this Synod he had vented his Herefy, is not certainly known; only it could not be long, and not above three or four Years at farthest.

Now that Herefy of Apollinarius, which respects our present purpose, was according to St. Austin's Expression, That " Christ assumed Flesh with- "Apollinaris instituit Deum out a Soul ; or, as Cassian words it, Christum car-

nem fine ani-

ma suscepisse. De Heres. c. 55. p. 182.

That

* Humanam That he x had not an human Soul, or eum non háa rational Soul; for they allowed him buisse animam. De In- such a fensirive Soul as is in Brutes, carn. Christ. but denied him to have a reasonable l. 1.p. 1241. one, as Vincentius Lirinensis Writes, y Apollinaris dicit in ipla falvatoris nostri carne, aut animam humanam penitus non fuiffe, aut certe talem fuisse, cui mens & racio non effet. Comment. c. 17. of Merg. Dance, p. 421,00.9

The manguou The year out our es το πληςωσαι τη γε τη χερίαν.

Epit. Har. Fub. lib. 4. in Har. Apol. p. 107.

That y Apollinaris affirmed, that there was not in our Saviour's Body an human Soul, at least not such an one wherein was Mind and Reason, but that z instead thereof his Divinity Supplied its room and place; so that in short, the Er-

rour of Apollinarius was this, That though Christ in his becoming Man, was wage, that is, was incarnate, had real Flesh and a substantial Body; yet he was not entoxopho that is, he had no reasonable human Soul, but his Divinity performed all the Actions and Offices thereof.

Which Herefy the Eathers apprehended to be attended with most dreadful Consequences; for if Christ had been destitute of an human Soul, and the place thereof had been suppliand starting ed by his Deity, then feveral Actilike, would have been most impiously attributed attributed by the Holy Scriptures unto his Divine Nature; which Argument is urged to very good purpose by 2 Epiphanius against these Hereticks; res. in Hares. and Athanasius most pertinently asks 77. them, how Christ could be sorrowful and troubled? as it is faid of him in John xiii. 21. that he was troubled in Spirit; if he had not b had an human Soul, for

to ascribe that to insensible Matter, was ridiculous, or to the immutable Godhead, was blafphemous. Wollet of ame

ь Тайта है हैं रह जबहुम हैंड वेंग्रांनि रह वेंग्र सेंग, हैं रह डिह्न्सी ∰ वेτρέπλε, άλλα ψυχής νόησιν εχέσης. — Τελεάφθαι τ άτρεπ-Tov eis λύπω κ αθημονίαν κ τας χω το εννοείν, ασεβες ές. Tom. 1. de Incarn. Christ. advers. Apollinar. p. 628.

Besides, if Christ, had been void of a reasonable Soul he would not have had the whole Essence of Man, his Humanity would have been defective and imperfect; on which account Vincentius Lirinensis anathematizes Apollinarius for c taking perfect Humanity; and tatis proprietatem. Epiphanius accuses his Followers d of making d Tives & Bunduly ennin that be did not assume a .....

Soul: And it is observed by Theodoret, That in the Synodical Epistle of the Second away the Property of the Auferenti perfecte humani-Commonit - the Incarnation of Christ worky syragrov Xeis wagsoi-imperfect, by holding, Ednogram. Serm. Ancorat. p. 502.

Willes Sixx

Second General Council held at Conftantinople, this Herely of the Apollinarians was condemned by these Τον τ ενανθρωπήσεως τε πυείε λόζον απιάς λεοφον σώζομυν, έτε α τυχον, έτε ανεν, ή ατζη τ τ σαρκός οικονομίαν πραπεχόμυνοι. Eccles. Hist. lib. 5. c. 9. P. 212.

words, c We retain the Doctrine of our Lord's Incarnation uncorrupted, neither believing his Body to be without a Soul or Mind, or his Humanity to be imperfect; which it would have been, if he had only assumed a Body; for, by wanting a Soul, he would have had but half the Nature of Man: Upon which, this farther Consequence seems to follow, that he would have been but a partial Redeemer, and have only saved the Body, whilst he left the Soul to perish and be undone.

Clemens Romanus writes, That Christ I This sale gave f his Flesh for our Flesh, and his raise of soul for our Soul: But, these Hereas the toxin ticks by denying our Lord an human soul of the soul, by consequence rendred his Salas in the soul, by consequence rendred his Salas in the soul, by consequence rendred his Salas in the soul of the sensitive and confined it solely to the sensitive and bodily part of Man; for as Athanasius proves against them, one thing could solve and not be redeemed by another different toximate, it therefrom; but it the Body must be given to the solve of the solv

becond

for the Body, and the Soul for the Soul; upon which account it is affirmed by

Theodoret, That Apollinarius h denied Salvation to the rational Soul, by which the Body is governed; for if according to his Opinion, God the Word did not assume it,

Τω λοςικω ψυχω τ ίθως εν το σώμα σεπις διμθύω, εερπος τ γεγωπωνίης έφησε σωγείας, εκ εληφώς γο τσώτω χτ τ επένε λόγον ο Θεος λόγο το μης μεθέσωπεν. Eccles. Hist. lib.s. c. 3. P. 200.

he could not then either relieve it, or impart Honour to it: And therefore Damascus Bishop of Rome, in the Synodical Epistle, which he writ on purpose to condemn this Heresy, asserts in opposition thereunto, That Christ the Son of God, our Lord, by his Pas-

fion i brought such full Salvation to Mankind, that he freed the whole Man which was entangled by sin, from all Iniquity: And in another Synodical Epistle

i Πλης ες άτω άπεδωκη το σως εείαν, ενα όλον το άνθεωπον το άμθριας εναχόμωνον στόπε άμθριας ελαθες ώση. Apud Theodor. Eccles. Hist. lib. 5. c. 10. p. 213.

ther Synodical Epistle penn'd before this at Alexandria, Anno 362, in contradiction to this necessary consequence of this Heresy, Christ is declared to be the Saviour of the whole Man, k not of the Body only, but also of the Soul.

k Ουθε σώματ Φ μόνε, ἄλλα κὶ Τυχῆς ἐν αὐτις τω λόςφ σω suela γέςογεν. Athanas. Tom. I. Epist. ad Antiochen.p. 578.

Thefe

- we :

· 2 , cui

· 620 65

Karana da karana

All the second

-0001 E1200-

. c. 10.

स्थान क्षेत्रक व्यक्तिक इंग्रह्मीय स्थापन

STUDY (S. S.

Strange

Tre

These then being apprehended to be the natural consequences of this Here. tical Opinion, which was advanced by a Person of an extraordinary Esteem both for Learning and Piety, and fo more probable to insnare and infect o thers, it cannot be imagined, but that the Governours of the Church endeavoured to apply the most effectual Remedy and Antidote there against; and it seems most probable, that for this very End they introduced into the Creed, or Rule of Faith demanded at Baptism, this Clause, That he descended into Hell; that is, that his Soul being separated from his Body, went to the common receptacle of departed human Spirits: Which Point was pitched upon as the most pertinent and proper, because it was thought the most convincing and undeniable proof of the Reality, and certain Exi-Stence of our Saviour's reasonable Soul: For though other Arguments were made use of by the Fathers of the Church for the confirmation thereof, yet its Adversaries had invented more plaufible Answers thereunto than they could possibly frame unto this pressing and unanswerable Reason now before us. As for instance, if the Orthodox for the proof of their Doctrine, produced that Text of our Saviour. John x. 18. No Man taketh away my Life from me, or as it is in the Greek # Jux w us, my Soul from me, but I lay it down of my self; The Apollinarians replied, That hereby I he meant the human Life, which is maintained by the sen- view Exercise fitive Soul, as that of Brutes is. If the Colw. Inter. Orthodox again argued from Christ's Oper. Athanas. m being sorrowful and exceeding heavy, Trinit. Dial.4. that he must needs have had a rea- p. 239. fonable Soul, feeing not only his Di- xxvi. 38. vinity, but also his Body was incapable of Sorrow, being in its felf but insensible Matter; Unto this the Apollinarians rejoyned, That n it might be foul, ori alwell enough understood of the Body, that Inouvaxes that was perceptive and sensible of Suf- to σωμα εν π fering: An Example whereof is found wades. Id. in Brutes, who though they have no Ibid. ut supra, rational Souls, yet appear to be capable both of Sensation and Passion. And fo for other Arguments with which the Fathers oppugned this Herefy, the Abettors thereof made a shift to frame fome kind of Tolerable Reply thereto: But against this Reason no possible Answer could be imagined, or the least shadow of an Argument invented; for if Christ descended into Hell.

Hell, what was it of him that went thither? It could not be his Diety for that is omnipresent, and was in Hell before as well as elsewhere, and therefore could not now make a local transition thither; neither could it be his Body, for that was committed to the Grave, and under fafe custody confined there: It remains therefore of necessity, that it must be his Soul; on which it doth as necessarily follow, that that Soul must be reasonable and human, fince the Souls of Brutes expire and die with their Bodies, and only the Souls of Men survive and live in a separate State, and go into Hell, or the common Lodge of all such severed and disunited Spirits.

This Argument therefore being so unanswerable, we find it frequently urged by the Antients against this Heresy, as by o Epiphanius in his Consutation thereof, and by Theodoret; in one of whose Dialogues, when he that supplied the place of an Orthodox

P Εἰ δίξε ἐσολαδών ἄποι, κ) μω ψυχω ἐκ ἀν ἐλαδεν, ἄλλα σῶμα μόνον, — σοίοις ἄν λόγοις τὰ ἀντίθεσιν διομύσαιο. Dial. 2. ᾿Ασύγχυ]. p. 33. Christian asked the other, P If, saith he, I should say, that Christ afsumed a Body without a Soul, and that his Divinity being united to his Body,

• Advers. Hares. in Hares. 77. p. 434. Body, performed all the Offices thereof, with what Reasons would you confute me? To which, when the Respondent answered, That he would confute him from several Texts of the Holy Scripture, and in particular from that Text of the Psalmist, 9 Thou wilt not leave my Soul in Hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see Corruption; he replied unto him, That r he had most aptly and pertinently cited those Testi-

Τὸ ౘఄ ౘ τε Δαδὶς ἐξής μίνον, — ὅτι ἐκ ἐξκαίδικόθη ἐς ἀζε ἡ ψυχὴ ἀὐτε, &c. Ibid. p. 34.

T Agμοδίως με άζαν, ης ου-Γνομόνως τας μεθυείας ταςή-Γαγες. Ibid.

monies. But more especially is this Argument managed for this End by Athanasius, who affirms the Death of Christ to have been a most evident demonstration, that he had an human Soul as well as Body; for; saith he,

when s his Body went no farther than the Grave, his Soul pierced even into Hell; and whilft the Grave received his Corporeal Part, Hell recei-Τὸ μβίτοι μέχει τάος οθάς, ηθε μέχει άθε διαδάσα; — κ) τε μ΄ τάρε σωμα]ικων ἐπιθεχομβόε τ΄ ἐπίβασιν; τε τ΄ άθε ἀσώμα]ον. Τοπ. 1. adνει β. Apollinar. de İncarn. Christ. p. 626.

ved that which was Incorporeal: And τ Πῶς ἐν τέtherefore he thus interrogates the Apol- [ετε, ἀι]ὶ τὰ
linarians, τ How then will you say, πε, τὰ ἐν ἡμῖνς
νἔς ἐπερένι Θ ἐν Χεις ῷς μήτι γε διχῆ μερίσας τ ἔξωθεν, κὶ ἐν τάτω ἐπερέκνυ ο, κὶ ἐν ἄδη; — τῶς ἐς ἄδε καθῆλθεν; Ibid. p. 630:

that there was an heavenly Mind in Christ instead of an humane Soul? Was his Body divided into two Parts? Did one Part appear in the Grave, and another in Hell? How was it possible for him without a Soul to descend into Hell? Where you see, that he makes it to be ridiculous and absurd to affirm, That our Saviour's Body went into Hell, since that was committed to the Grave: After which he proceeds to prove, That it was impious and blasphemous Πῶς ὁ λόγ ૭ મેં લેઠ લેઠક ἐπίδασιν ἐποιήσαλο, ἢ πῶς મેં ૩૬ વૈઠેદ ἀνάς ασιν ἐπεδιάκνυλο; μήλίς αὐτὸς ἀνλὶ τ΄ ἡμελέρας μυχῆς ἀνίς αλο, ἱνα τ΄ ἡμελέρας ἀνας άσεως τ΄ ἀκόνα άςμόση); κ) πῶς ὅ τε πελ Θες ταῦτα εννοῦν; &c. Ibid. p. 646. to attribute it to his Divinity; "How could the Word, saith he, descend into Hell, or demonstrate the Resurrection therefrom? Did he supply the place of our Souls, that he might fashion the Image of our Resurrection? How is it possible to imagine such things concerning God? Such Reasonings are altogether contrary to the Holy Scriptures: For, if this were * "Esai નું દિ લેંગ્લકલંડરબડ દેડિ-લેંગ્લોમિં ને તેન્યું માર્થક, લેંગ્લેપિંગ પ્રલેદ પાંચ તેને લેંક મેં લેદુ-પ્રોમ્મ મેં લેંગ્લકલંડરબડ સે તાર્વક્યા, પ્રત પ્રતેષ્ઠ મેં મેં લેંગ્લેડલાડ, પ્રો પર તેન-પ્રતેષ્ઠ મેં તેંગલાડ, પ્રો મેં તેને લેંગ્લ જ્યને-પ્રતેષ્ઠ મેં તેંગલાડ, પ્રો મેં તેને લેંગ્લન-નું તેંગ્યું જેંગ્લેખું લેંગ્લેન્ટ, જેંગ્લે તેંગ્લન-નું પ્રો લેંગ્લેખું લેંગ્લેન્ટ, જેંગ્લે તેંગ્લન-નું પ્રો લેંગ્લેખું લેંગ્લેન્ટ, મેં તેંગ્લા, Iom.1. de Salut. advent. Jef. Christ. advers. Apollinar. p. 648.

true, it would follow,
That * the Divinity
should be raised; for it is necessary, that some one should begin the Resurrection from Hell, that so there may be a perfect Resur-

Resurrection; a dissolution of Death, and a dismission of the Spirits held there: Now, faith he, if the Word underwent this, what is become of that necessary attribute of the Deity, viz. Immutability and Unchangeableness? In all which Quotations, we may observe the force of Athanasius's Argument to lye here, That seeing Christ descended into Hell, and that it was impious to ascribe that Action to his Divinity, and abfurd to attribute it to his Body, that therefore of necessity he had an human Soul, by which he performed that Descent in the same manner as the rest of Mankind do: Upon which account, the Author of the Dialogues concerning the Holy Trinity, extant amongst the Works of Athanisius; in that Dialogue, which is professedly against these Hereticks, affirms, That

Christ y could not be in Hell without an human Soul; and that as he could not be in the Grave without a Body, so neither z could be be in Hell without a Soul.

But this Article of the

Descent into Hell, was not only pitched upon to be inserted in the Creed,

8 2 because

y Έν d's γνέος, χεμαν Ε΄ χεν Αυχης. Τοπ. 2. de S. Tria nitat. Dial. 4. p. 245.

Li un Exer & xweizopolitic toxlor ull' is no rois en as evaysexicalo. Ibidemo

because of its aptness and pertinency to contradict and refute this Herefy, but the Introducers of it might probably have had this also in their view, viz. that it naturally falls in with the Passion and Humiliation of Christ, without disturbing the Order of the antient Creed, or causing any very fensible variation therefrom; and methodically continues on the same Argument with the precedent Actions of our Saviour recorded in the Creed, viz. the proof and declaration of his Incarnation and Humanity; only with this difference, that whereas the former affert the reality of his human Body, this proves the certainty of his reasonable Soul; that he was a perfect Man, confifting of Spirit as well as Flesh, being thereby prepared to be a complete Saviour of all his Followers, both of Soul and Body was the D

Now as for the Time when this Article was introduced into the Catholick Symbol, it must be confessed to have been very late: The first Creed wherein it is usually thought to be found, is in that of the Church of Aquileia, repeated by Ruffinus, who withal assures us, That at that time

because

sidt an to be infelted in the Crost,

a this Clause was neither in the Roman nor Oriental Creeds: By which, I suppose, he means the Publick Creeds used by those Churches at Bap-a In Ecclesiæ Romanæ Symbolo non habetur additum, descendit ad inferna: Sed neque in orientis Ecclesiis habetur hic Sermo. Expos. in Symb. Apost. §. 20, p. 570.

tism, seeing I find it before his time in the particular Creed of a private Father, viz. of Epiphanius, or rather in an Exposition of the Creed, by him; where, after the Death and burial of Christ, it follows, That his Godhead

Soul into Hell, and by his own power loosened the Pains thereof; as also in the Creed of St. Cyril of Jerusalem, wherein it is recited, That Christ Suffered, was crucified and Buried, and descended into the nether-

b Συζκαζζθέσης τη ψυχή τη άγία es τα καζαχθόνια, — κ λυσάσης ώδινας ασε εν ίδια Κεσία. Adverf. Hæref. lib. 3. in Campend. Fid. Cathol. p. 463.

ταφένλα, καλβθόνλα είς τα καλαχθόνια. Catech. 4. p. 27.

most Parts. But, putting aside these two Creeds, the Descent into Hell is not to be found in any Catholick Creed, whether publick or private, till the time of Russians, which was about Four hundred Years after Christ; I say, in any Catholick Creed, because it was introduced some time before, by a party of Arians, in their Creed proposed at the great Council of Ariminum, held under the Emperour Constantius, Anno 359, and confirmed by him: The consideration of the temper and disposition of which Council, may give us some light into the occasion and manner of the Introduction there-of.

S<sub>3</sub> posed

Now it is well known, that at that Synod the Arians employed the greatest dexterity and cunning to buoy up their Cause, and to depress that of the Orthodox, making use of all proper means thereunto, as by difguifing their own Tenets, unfairly representing the opinions of others, and above all, endeavouring to lessen the Authority of the Nicene Council, and to antiquate the Form of Faith appointed thereby: For which end, they drew up a new Formulary, wherein the word Odola, or Substance, that the Son was of the same Substance with the Father, which was part of the Nicene Creed, was wholly omitted, under pretence, that that word being not in Scripture, it was very unfit to be made part of a Creed, and that more especially, because it had been found by past experience, that it did rather distract than satisfy Mens Understandderstandings and Apprehensions. But now lest this should too much alarm the Orthodox, whom they were willing to keep quiet and lull afleep, they inserted other words, which did seem fufficiently to express their detestation of the Arian Herely, as that Christ was the only begotten Son of God, begotten of him before all Time, God of God, in every thing like unto his Father who begot him: And to make fure work, that they might in all Points appear to abandon the Herefy of Arius, and all his Followers, and approve themfelves to be truly Orthodox, they did not content themselves with a pretended Denial of his Herefy, which related to the Divinity of the Son of God: but they also added in the Confession of their Faith, that our Lord descended into Hell, defigning thereby to purge themselves from the imputation of denying Christ's human Soul; which the d Lucianista, and others of them did, d'Asnianisal but probably they themselves did dors of the not; that so by protesting heartily xw elangeand fincerely against one Heresy, vas. Epiphan. of which they were suspected, they p. 483. might be the more easily credited as to their denial of the rest: And thus as on the one hand they cleared and vindicated themselves, so it is not improbable, but that, on the other hand they had an eye to Apollinarius their great impugner, (who had very likely about this time, given some jealousies of his Inclination to the forementioned Herefy,) and threw in this Article on purpose to confound the Orthodox, by affording them a subject of new Debates between themselves, and to difgrace Apollinarius, and by a too usual, though a most unreasonable consequence, the Catholick Faith its felf, of which he had been hitherto a most noted and eminent Defender. Now, I say, for these and such like Reasons, it is most probable, that in the Confession of the Arians at Ariminum, mention is not only made of Σταυς ωθένλα κὶ ἐποθανόνλα, κὶ εἰς τὰ καλαχθόνια καλζθόνλα, κὶ τὰ ἐπεῖσε οἰκονομήσανλα, ὅν τὰ ἐπεῖσε ἰλόνλες ἔσειξαν. Αρμό. Socrat. Eccles. Histor. lib. 2. c. 37.p. 133.

Christ's e being Crucisied and Dead, but also that he descended into Hell, to perform those things which were necessary for him there to do, at whose sight the Porters of Hell trembled: And the Year following, the Acacians, a particular Sect of the Arians, in a Synod at Constantinople, assented to the foresaid Consession of Ariminum, with some sew Explication

ons

ons and Additions; amongst which they added the word Buried, and thus read that which relates to the Humiliation of Christ, & Crucified, Dead and Buried, descended into the nethermost Parts, whom Hell also feared: After Σταυςωθέν]α κὶ ἐποθανόν]α, κὴ ταφέν]α, κὴ εἰς τὰ κα]αχθόνια κα]ζηλυθότα, ὅν τίνα κὴ αὐτὸς ὁ ἀδης ἔπ]ηζεν, Idem, Ib. c. 41. p. 154.

which, Apollinarius declaring himself more openly for this Herefy, the Orthodox found themselves under a necessity of abandoning and renouncing him; wherefore, his Herefy was condemned by a Synod at Alexandria, Anno 362, and by another at Rome, Anno 373: And last of all, according to the Example given them by the Arians, an Antidote was inserted thereagainst in the Creed, and the reality of Christ's rational Soul was declared by that undeniable Argument of his descending into Hell; as in Epiphanius's Exposition of the Creed, after our Saviour's Death and Burial, it follows, viour's Death and Burial, it follows, εΘεόζητος, ε That his Deity accompanied his Soul — συς καζηθέτοιτο Hell, delivered from thence the cap- τη άξια εἰς τὰ καζαχθόνια, έλέσης ἐκάθεν τ τ Τυχῶν αἰχμομοσίαν, κλασάσης κένθερν Βανάτε διαβρηξάσης τὰ κλάθεα κὶ του μοχλές του ἀδαμανίνες, κὶ λυσάσης ἀδίνας ἀδε ἐν ἰδία ἐξεσία. ᾿Ανξθέσης σων τῆ Τυχῆ, μὰ ἐαθάσης τ Τυχῆς εἰς ἀδίω, μηδὲ τ σαρκὸς ἑωρα κύας διαφθοράν. Adverf. Heref. lib 3. in Compend. Fid. Cathol. 1.465.

tive

tive Souls, broke the Sting of Death, rem

and the same of Oridaso.

Regulation on

. Salvad vafant

The Book of the st Mysser bb.

Fr our shoet

ERRES ERRE tid Cakbot.

dille de ret

-degrates Mileson Ibe h Kalnaber es Tà na-Ταχθόνια ίνα naneider Du-Tewon Trois Sinaiss. Ca-

in sunder those Bars and Adamantine Chains, and by his Power loofened the Bonds of Hell; from whence he returned with his Soul, not leaving his Soul in Hell, nor Suffering his Flesh to see Corruption: And St. Cyril of Jerusalem writes on this Article, That our Saviour h descended into the lower Parts, that from thence he might redeem the Just: After which, the first Creed wherein we find this Article, tech. 4. p. 27. is in that of Aquileia, recorded by Ruffinus, in which indeed this Claufe is expressed with greater Latitude than in our modern Symbol, it being there, descendit ad Inferna, or, he descended into the lower Parts; wherein the Burial might be included and defigned, and that more especially, because the Sepulture of our Saviour is not therein expressed; but immediately after his Crucifixion under Pontius Pilate, comes this Clause, that he descended into the lower Parts; but afterwards, when the Descent was received into the Roman and Oriental Creeds, the Burial was there retained, and instead of the lower Parts, it was faid, that he defcended into Hell: Which Two Confiderations make it unreasonable to be imagined, magined, that the Descent in our Creed should be applied to the Burial of Christ's Body; for that having een already mentioned, it would e a Tautology in so brief a Compenlium to repeat it again in other words; nd according to the Propriety and diom both of the Greek and Latin Tongues, the most natural and easy nterpretation thereof, and which best grees with the Order and Method of he Creed, is the same with what hath een already related; which to prevent Mistakes, I shall again repeat, viz. hat by affenting to this Clause, that Christ descended into Hell, it was hereby intended for the Reason aforesaid, viz. the afferting the reality of his human Soul, to declare our Belief that as upon the separation of his Body and Soul by Death, his Body was Buried in the Earth; fo his spotless and immaculate Soul by a true and local motion, went unto the invisible and bleffed Habitation of holy and pious Souls, where it remained in Peace and Happiness with the separated Spirits of the Faithful, in a triumphant and believing Expectation of the time of his Resurrection, which was the Third Day after, when his Soul Soul was delivered from the Power of Hell, and his Body from the Corruption of the Grave, according to the Text of the Psalmist on which the Article is founded, cited by St. Pete in Acts ii. 27. Thou wilt not leave m Soul in Hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine Holy One to see Corruption.

CHAP. V.

The Resurrection of Christ being a neces fary Fundamental of our Religion was always part of the Creed, by which our Belief is declared, that Christ role from the Dead, and returned to Life again. The farther consideration whereof, is referred to the Article of the Resurrection of the Body. The reason for which our Lord's Resurrection is Said to be in and not after the Third Day. The Ascension of our Saviour was introduced against an Opinion of the Apelleians, viz. that at his Ascension, his Body was resolved into its first Principles, and ascended not up on high, or into Heaven. The nomination of which place, might probably have been designed in contradiction to a Conceit of Hermogenes, that his Body

Body went into the Body of the Sun. Sitting at the right hand of God the Father explained; by which, we must not imagine Christ confined to that singular Posture, but it signifies his Advancement to the full exercise of his Regal Office; all things being subjected unto him by the Father, who was infinitely able to do it, seeing he is Almighty; which word in the Greek, is different from that used in the beginning of the Creed, and in this place denotes the irresistibleness and efficacy of God's Power. This Clause is first found in the Creed of Tertullian's, and was inserted, either as a continued proof with the Ascension, that our Lord's Body was not dissolved a little after his Resurrection, or rather was designed against some Hereticks, who imagined the Body of Christ to be in a stupid and unconcerned posture in Heaven, and not to be sate down at his Father's right hand, exercising all Power and Authority for the good of his Church. A brief Explication of From thence he shall come to judge the Quick and the Dead. Three Interpretations of the Quick and the Dead; the last most natural, that by the Quick are meant those who shall be

is d

ts

ep

0-

1-

172

is

be alive at the coming of our Lord and by the Dead, those who shall then be actually void of Life. This Ar ticle mas designed against the Mar cionites and Gnosticks; of whom the one blashbemed the final Judge the other the Judgment. Marcio with his Master Cerdon, beld, Tha the true God, and his Son Christ fo Sur, were all Mercy and Love, and would never judge the World; which Opinion opened a Flood-Gate to al Impiety; in opposition whereunto, th Creed declares, That he shall comet judge. The word Judging explained and Supposeth a liberty and freedom of Action in the Person judged, and a Rule by which he is judged; bot which were denied by the Gnosticks as by the Valentinians, Basilidians Carpocratians, and others, who a sprung from Simon Magus, and un ted in these two Heresies, That Ma was fatally necessitated to all hi Actions, and that he should not b judged according to his Works, bu according to his spiritual Seed, Ele ction, and the like: Which Tenet were attended with most abominabl Confequences; and therefore again them both, it was inserted in the Creed Tha

That Christ shall come to judge the Quick and the Dead : Wherein, First The liberty of Man was acknowledged; which is farther evident, from that the word Autigeois, or, that Man hath a Power over himself, was in several of the antient Creeds part of this Article; the Fathers could not imagine a Just Judgment, without Supposing a Freedom of the Person judged. Secondly, It is farther declared by this Clause, that Men shall be judged according to their Works; for which reason, whilst the Heresy of the Gnosticks raged, it was expressed with a suitable Periphrasis to prevent any equivocating Evasions. A brief Repetition of the true intended sense of this Article.

ITERTO we have beheld our Mediatour and Redeemer the inglorious and Mean estate of his Humanity, throughout the several steps of his Humiliation, home to he last and most abasing of them, his the separation of his two Essential Parts by Death, and the particular confining of them to their respective Mansions and Habitations: His waltation now follows; and that Sun of

on le

et

bl

n

ea ba

of Righteousness, which did set in Redness and Obscurity, now arises with Light and Splendour; the Earth could not detain his Body, nor Hell his Soul, but each delivered up their Prey; for according to the next Article in the Creed, the third Day he rose again from the Dead; that is, his Body was delivered from the Grave, and his Soul from Hell, and being reunited, constituted the same complete Man and Person that was before. The certainty of which Refurrection, is absolutely necessary to the Christian Religion, seeing without that it would be no better than a vain and frivolous Imposture, or a meet Cheat and Delufion.

The great advantage and benefit that the Gospel promises, is Remission of Sins; the assurance whereof, depends upon the certainty of our Saviour's Resurrection; for that declares the virtue of his Sufferings, and the efficacy of his Undertakings for us; that God's Anger is now appealed, and he become propitious to Mankind; the Death of Christ is the ground of our Absolution and Pardon, but his Resurrection accomplished the Collation of them; as a be was delivered

* Rom. iv.

for our Offences, so he was raised again
for our Justification; on which account
St. Paul argues, That b if Christ had b 1 Cor. xv.
not been risen, our Faith is in vain; 17.
we are yet in our Sins. The Guilt thereof, or Obligation to Punishment is not yet removed, seeing our Surety
still remains under Death, the effect

and consequence of them.

Wherefore, seeing that on these and other Accounts which might be mentioned, the Refurrection of Christ is so necessary a part of the Christian Faith, we may well conclude that it had a place in the Creed from the beginning of Christianity: To the belief whereof, we may be farther induced from this confideration, That it was the peculiar End and Design of the Apostolical Office, to c be witnesses . Acts i. 22, of Christ's Resurrection: And St. Paul xiii. 31. look'd upon it to be so necessary an Article, that he doth as it were, make Salvation and the whole Christian Religion to depend on it alone; d The d Rom. x. Righteousness of Faith, saith he, saith 6, 9. thus, id est, it is the purport of the Christian Institution, That if thou shalt confess with thy Mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thy Heart that God raised him from the Dead, thou shalt be saved.

By this Article it is declared, That we believe that Jesus Christ our Saviour, did truly and really arise from the Dead, and return to Life again: But now, forasmuch as this Article is coincident with that of the Resurrection of the Body, and the particular Resurrection of Christ the Head, cannot well be distinctly considered from the Refurrection of his Members, but the one implies and proves the other: I shall therefore refer the farther confideration thereof to the Article of the Resurrection of the Body, and only take notice in this place, of the time when Christ arose, which the Creed declares to be the Third Day.

Wherein it is observable, that it is said to be on the restau suppa, in the Third Day; and not after the Third Day: For, as Augustin remarks, our Lord e Ipsum triduum non totum & plenum fuisse. Tom. 3. de Trinit. lib. 4. c. 6. p. 402.

For, as Augustin remarks, our Lord was not three whole Days in the Grave, but only the entire second Day, and part of the first and last; the whole time of the disunion of his Soul and Body by Death, being not above six and thirty Hours or thereabouts: Upon which account, the Compilers of the Creed did with good reason so cautiously express the time of his Resurrection to be in the Third Day, and not after three Days.

Isodore

Isdore the Pelusiote, hath an whole Epistle concerning this Matter, to answer their filly Enquiries, as he terms them, who would search into the Cause of Christ's Resurrection before he had remained three whole Days in the Grave; where, after the Allegation of several Reasons therefore,

he adds, f But if I would descend to the exact and accurate Explanation of this Question, I would say that Christ only said, that he would rise again the third Day; and so you have Friday, Saturday, which concludes with Sun-set; and after Sa-

El ή μ els aŭtlu f anels Gear nala γιέως χεη chero av εποιμι τη τείτη επεν avas ήσαλς, εχεις τ ερασκοίω, εχεις τὸ σαββαίον εως δυσων ηλία, κὶ μῦ τὸ σαββαίον ανές η, ἐκαίεςων μι α μάμν , τ ή μέσιω πληςώσας, εν τείσι γό επεν ανας ήσεως, κὶ ὰ μῦ τς εξεις ήμέρας, λύσαι γο οποί τ να ον τετον, κὶ εν τεισίν ημέραις ἐςορώ αὐτὸν, &c. Lib. 2. Ερίδι. 212. p. 169.

part of the first and last Day, and the whole of the middle Day; for in three Days, he said be would rise again, and not after three Days. Destroy this Temple, saith he, and in three Days I will raise it up again: And in like manner the Prophet predicting it, saith, Aster two Days will he revive us, and in the third Day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight. From whence it appears, that it is not without rea-

a Paradia East Sugarity

fon that the Creed for exactly mentions the time of our Saviour's Refurrection, feeingiit was not after three Days, but in the third Day that he Capte of Christ's Refurredinisphesion

e After our bond's Refurrection, his Aftention into Heaven follows, which imports, That he left this World, and mounting through the Air, afcended the Heaven of Heavens, whithe Throne of God, and the Habitation स्ताहर रामहर्थाof the most High; on to the truth whereof depends our future Ascen-(CCallor aresn) to Tion: For if our Saviour be not

s Apelles disafcended into Heaven, it will be impossible for us ever to ascend this fcipulus Mar-possible for us ever to ascend this cionis, ther. This is the Foundation of our christian ne ther. Hope, the Anchor of our Soul, both que in Phantasmate dicit fure and stedfast, That the Forerunfuisse, --- fed in eo quod è ner, even Jesus is for us entred with-Superioribus in the Vail I that he is gond to prepartibus defcenderet, ipfo pare a place for us, and will come descensu side-again, and receive us unto himself; ream fibi carnem & aeream that where he is, there we may be alfo. As for the occasion of its being centexuiffe, hunc in refurrectione fingu-introduc'd into the Creed, it feems to lis quibusque have been taken from the Apelleians, elementis, qua a Spawn of the Marcionites, so called in descensu from one & Apelles a Scholar of Marfuo mutuata fuissent, in ascensu redidisse, & sie dispersis quibusque corporis sui partibus, in cœlo spiritum tantum reddidisse. De prascript. adters. Haret. p. 96.

cions

gion's, mbei 139 Tentullian writes, did not affirm with Marcion the Body of Christ to be fantastical and imaginary E Argbeite but that when he came thomn from Heaven, be framed unto himself a sidereal - (Typeston) ditor conger, and an aeneal Fleshambich at his Assen-CAND CHIEF from the restored to its primitive places 10000s , els m much palen and huring 1549 differed every part of Andgeorge. his Body , his Spirit alone was received 1 331. ports their Herefy ton be and hat our Lord him bis faming tention to se xest sto Tenseadown fearth Heaven to would have his Tylu, is ownEarth be gathered antal sandawish to Tewager soubimself a Body from the xelor owna, — escueden in annels, is est to air the Tenses out the Toagfour Elements in which he mono office to the subject of the state of t was truly Councified and लेक्स्रीव वर्ष मानिया के सिंहा मेहलं मनवार क्षामा ने स्थापन के महाराज्य के स्थापन offer his Resurrection न्यो त्रेष्ठवार्थिक के प्रमुक्त, पार हु shemed the same Flesh to STANIS LONG BUT WITH THE WAXIN के में कि असि में में हैं है है जिस्से के हैं हैं हैं bis Disaples after which + seavor, Stere at The Advert. baving finished the Diff Hæref. in Hæref. Apel. p. 167. penfation whi his pencariutan a nord nation, he restored unto every ane of the Element sthat which he hadreceived from them; and so dissolving his fleshly Body, he ascended into Eleavensus from whence he came. I Now I say missis yery proposition, the Ascension was inserted in the Symbol or Rule of Faith: Whence, Epiphanius in his i consutation therewisely and in the consultation therewisely and in his is consutation therewisely and in his is consultation therewisely and in his is a subject to the his had a subject to the his in the subject t

i Ibid. p. 169.

of, makes great use of this Argument of the Ascension; and elsewhere he thus

Begues, - Ex STOPENLY OF TO alla ows-ण्डं जबड़, सेड के कर्य ध्यी रार्टिंग. Anacephal. p. 531. Twevag-

c. 2. p. 35.

k'Arybor es explains this Article it felf, k He ascended into Heaven, not divesting himd sion σωμ2, felf of his boly Body, but uniting it unto a spiritual one: Not much different wherefrom, Irenaus thus repeats this Article in one of his Creeds, That we must believe I the fleshly reception of xov es 183 8- Jesus Christ our Lord, into Heaven: eaves avann- Which was a most formal and avow-Inow. Lib. 1. ed condemnation of the faid Apelleians, who owned that his Soul, but denied that his Flesh ascended into

m Solet autem quosdam offendere, - quod credamus assumprum terrenum corpus in coelum, nesciunt quomodo dictum sit, seminatur corpus animale, furget corpus spirituale. Tom. 3. de fide dy Symbol. p. 189.

Heaven; m being of fended, as St. Austin writes, at the Christian Faith, that an earthly Body should be assumed into Heaven, not knowing what is written, it is sown a natural Body, it is raised a

Spiritual Body,

Now the place unto which our Saviour ascended, is said to be Heaven; by which, we are not to understand the Clouds, sometimes called the Clouds of Heaven, nor the starry Heaven, but the third Heaven, the Heaven of Heavens, the Throne of God, and the more immediate Habitation of the Almighty; Almighty: The nomination of which place, might probably have been defigned in contradiction to a foolish conceit of an antient Heretick called Hermogenes, who, according to the relation of Theodoret, affirmed, That

n the Body of our Lord,

was placed in the Sun; τω πω καιω επεν επερεθωία.

wherein he was after- Epit. Heret. Fab. lib. 1. c. 15, wards followed by the 1.92.

o Selenciani, and others, o Augustin. de Heres. c. 59. abusing to that end that p. 193.

Text of the Psalmist,

Psal. xix. 4. In them bath he set a Tabernacle for the Sun; reading it according to the mif-translation of the Septuagint, ou To n'him ilelo to Caluivapea auts, P in the Sun bath he set his Tabernacle; occasionem de from thence concluding, That our Sa-Pfalmo, ubi leviour's Body was after his Resurre-gitur, in Sole dion, conveyed to the Sphere of the naculum fuum Sun, where it was to remain till his Id. Ibid. fecond coming: Which filly Imagination feems to have been confuted by this Article, that be ascended into Heaven, as also by what follows next to be considered, viz. that be there sitteth at the right Hand of God the Father Almighty, till he shall come to judge both the Quick and the Dead.

Which Clause I shall first give the Ex-

T 4

plication

plication of, and then enquire into the time and occasion of its introdu-Etion into the Creed, and sitteth on the right Hand of God the Father Almighty.

By his fitting, wer are not to imagine him confined to that fingular posture of Body, in a distinction from all others, seeing Stephen saw him Acts vii.55. 9 Standing on the right Hand of God;

but by it we are to understand his Habitation, Mansion, and continuance at the Father's right Hand, as Augustin

upon this Article writes, That I by fitting, we are Sedere intelligite habitare, to apprehend dwelling, as we say of any one, that he sate in that Country

three Years, that is, that he dwelt there

so long.

quomodo dicimus de quocunque

homine, in illa Patria sedit per tres annos. Tom. 9. Symb. ad Catechumen. lib. 1. p. 1388.

By the Father's right Hand, we are not to fancy, that he hath really any fuch Parts as Hands, or the like; for, being a Spirit, he is Incorporeal, without any bodily Members or Organs; but it is a Metaphorical Expression, denoting a place of Power, Honour and Happiness, signifying that our Lord is advanced in Heaven, to a place of great Dignity, Bliss and Authority;

I We believe, saith St.

Austin, that he sits at the right Hand of God the Father, not as though God had an human Shape, a right and a left side; but by the right, we are to understand the highest Happiness, where is Righteousness, Peace, and Joy; as the Goats are placed on the left.

Credimus quod seder ad dextram Dei Parris, nec ideo ramen quasi humana forma circumscriptum esse Deum Patrem arbitrandum est, ut de illo cogitantibus dextrum aut sinistrum latus animo occurrat, — ad dextram ergo intelligendum est dictum esse in summa beatitudine, ubi & justicia, & pax & gaudium est; sicut ad sinistram hoedi constituuntur, id est, in miseria, &c. Tom. 3. de Fide & Symb. p. 190.

Train do to to St. Carl

are placed on the left, that is, in Misery and Torment.

But that which, I suppose, was chiefly defigned in the Creed, by this Phrase of sitting at the right Hand of God the Father, was this, viz. a Declaration of the complete Advancement of Christ our Lord, to his Regal Office, and of his plenary Exercise of his Kingly Power; God t fetting him * Ephef. i. at his own right Hand in the heavenly 20, 21, 22. places, far above all Principalities, and Powers, and Might, and Dominion, and every Name that is named, not only in this World, but also in that which is to come, putting all things under his Feet, and giving him to be the Head over all things unto the Church. In which sense it is interpreted by the Author of the Creeds, which are commonly ascribed teram intelliille, &c. ad Catechum. tib. 2. p. 1405.

" Ipsam dex- to St. Austin, That " by the right Hand is to be understood, that Power which tem, quam ac-Christ as Man received; that is, the cipit homo Power of his little Power of his Mediatorial Kingdom, Tom. 9. Symb. exercised in the Preservation of his Church, and the subduing of his Enemies; which Authority and Rule shall be so exercised till the general Judgment-day, when his whole Church shall be completely faved, and all his Enemies shall be eternally vanquished

* I Cor. XV. 24.

and destroyed; after which time, x he shall deliver up the Kingdom to God, even the Father; but, until that time,

Pfal. cx. 1. y till all his Enemies are made his Foot-Stool, he shall sit at the Father's right Hand; that is, he shall as Mediatour, exercise an absolute Authority, and an unlimited Dominion over all: Which fense I do the rather chuse to put upon these words, because the word Almighty is farther added in this Article; wherein it is said, That he fitteth at the right Hand of God the Father Almighty; which word, though the same with that in the beginning of the Creed, both in Latin and English, yet is different from it in the Greek. In the beginning of the Creed, where it is faid, I believe in God the Father Almighty, the Greek word is

Harlo-

Πανθοχράτως, which properly fignifies God's supreme and universal Dominion; but in this Article the Greek word is Tarlod wanG, which, in Strictness and propriety of Speech, denotes the efficacy and irrefiltibleness of his Power and Operation, that he hath all things at his command and beck, able to dispose of them without any controul or hinderance, as he himself pleafeth according to the counsel of his Will: And so in this place, this Attribute feems to have been superadded to the Person of the Father, to confirm us in the belief of his Son's sitting at his right Hand, or of his universal Disposal and Government of all things, in the execution of his regal Office as Mediatour, because the Father, who hath advanced him to that place of Dignity and Rule, is Almighty, of infinite Force and Efficacy, whom no Creature can refift, but all are infinite Weakness and Imbecillity in comparison of him.

Now, as for the time and occasion of the Introduction and Setling of this Article in the Creed, there is very little said concerning it in the Primitive Writers; it is in neither of the Creeds of Irenews; but is first found in those of Tentullian, and fince his time used in most others. bus amarcal about

According to the Interpretation which fome of the Antients give thereof, it feems to have been designed for no other end, than to be a continued proof of the same Point with the precedent Clause of the Ascension, viz. that Christ did not lose or dissolve his human Body after his Refurrection, but that with the same human Body he not only ascended into Heaven, but is also fate down at the right Hand of his Father, where he shall remain till the restitution of all things, when he shall come to judge the World both the Quick and the Dead: According unto which, in the Epistle of Damasus to Paulinus, amongst the several Anathema's against the Hereticks of those Times, there is this relation to our pural with σες τος μη είπη, ότι εν σαςκὶ τις μη είπη, ότι εν σαςροίς: Τ΄ If any one shall not say, that Christ in the θεμα ε΄ς ω. Apud Theodoret. Eccles. Same Flesh which he affumed here, is sate down at the right Hand of the Father, let him be accursed: Where it is evident, That the Explication that he gave of this Article was, that Christ since his Ascension into Heaven; continues; still there with the very same Body that he had on Earth; which exactly agrees with the Explanation of the Creed to the faid Damafus, extant amongst the Works of St. Jerom, but fally attributed to him; wherein this Article is thus unfolded . A He fitteth at the . Sedet ad dextram Dei Pather, that nature of Flesh criam resurrexit. Tom. 9. p. 71. remaining involich he was right Hand of God the Faqua natus & passus est, in qua

S. 524.

born, and suffered, and also rose again. But, inafmuch as this Point was afferted by the foregoing Clause of the Ascension, and this of our Lord's Seffrom at his Father's right Hand, is first found in the Creeds of Tertullian, it is not improbable, but that it was chiefly deligned against another fort of Persons mentioned by the said Father, who did indeed own the Ascension of our Saviour's human Body into Heaven, but b affirmed manner, void of Sense, Christ. p. 24. and without Christ, as a

it to remain there in a b Adfirmant carnem in coelis vacuam sensu, ut vaginam ex-Stupid and unconcerned empto Christo sedere. De carne

Scabbard is when it is without a Sword: Which Doctrine is directly condemned by this Article, which affures us, That our Mediatour liveth not in a regardless and unactive Temper in Heaven, but that fince his Ascension, he is sate down at his Father's right Hand, having all Power and Authority committed into his Hands, which he continually exerts for the weal of his Church in the Government of the whole World, and of every Occurrent therein; which is not much different from the Explication that Epiphanius gives of this Article, which is, That Christ

'Exáθισεν èν δεξιᾶ τε Παλεὸς, πέμφας κής υκας εἰς ὅλως το οἰκεωρίω, Σίμωνα Πέτεον, μη τέτες η πάνλας, — Παύλον, — ἐκλεξάμψ διὰ νωνῆς ἰδίας ἀπ' ἐξανε. Απαςερβαί. P. 524. being ascended into Heaven, c sate down at the right Hand of God the Father, and from thence sent forth Preachers, Apostles and Evangelists into the whole World, as Peter, James, Mark, Luke, Barnabas, Stephen, Paul, and others; the last of whom he chose out by his own Voice from Heaven: So that he is not idle and unemployed in Heaven, but is sate down at the right Hand of God the Father Almighty; from whom he hath received all Power and Authority, which he constantly exercises for his own and his Father's Glory, and the good of his Church and People, and will still continue so to do to the end of the World, when be shall come from Heaven to judge both the Quick and the Dead. Which

Which is the last Particular that is attributed unto the Son, and comes next in order to be confidered; wherein I shall give first a brief Explication thereof, and then shew the occasion and time of its being introduced into the Creed.

Now as for the Explication thereof, its sense is very plain and obvious, viz. that at the end of the World our Lord Jesus Christ shall come from Heaven to judge according to their Works, all Mankind, both the Quick and the Dead; which latter words I shall a little more explain, because there was some difference in the Notions of the Antients concerning them, which it may not be unnecessary to mention.

Isidore the Pelusiote, reckons up three Explications of this Phrase; the first whereof is, That by d the Quick and the Dead, may be understood the Bodies and Souls of Men, that one hall not be separated from another, but as they behaved themselves alike here, so they "Vivos ani-hall receive an equal Reward hereafter: most corpora most corpora According unto which Interpretation, minavit. Ex-Ruffinus also writes, That e by the Quick pof. in Symb.

Tò neived (wilas n) ve-ness, reto òci, rò n fuxlus n) owna es neiou endioed, κ) જેτε εν ઝેની દેવુક κεχωρισμένον, Αλλ' ώστες κοινων τ ενησώθα σιωάφειαν εποιήσανδο, έτο κ τ ineiber Sinku irophiwe igetsσιν. Lib. 1. Epist. 222. p. 53.

5. 32. P. 374-

may be understood Souls, and by the Dead Bodies.

f Ζωνίας τευς ἀωζωὸν βίον κ) θεοφική μείζθόντας, κεΐναι τευς νεκεωθέντας τοῦς ἀμθλήμασι, &c. Ifidor. Pelufiot. Ibid. ut antea.

flos. Tom. 3. Enchir. ad Laur. c. 53. p. 225.

h Justos & peccatores fignificari, ficut Diodorus pucat. Inter Oper. August. Tom. 3. de Eccles. Dogmat. p. 261.

ं Keivai का निष्ट (बिंगीवड, सबीअन्तक्षरंगीवड, में कार्ज निर्भ करने

au A norundévlas. Isidor. Pelu-fiot. ibid. ut supra. p. 54.

The second is, That f by the Quick and Dead, are meant the good and bad; which Opinion is not condemned, but judged probable both by St. & Anstin and Gennadius Massiliensis; the latter of whom informs us, That h Diodorus Bishop of Tarsus, who flourished about the Year 380, attributed this sense unto it, That by the Quick and Dead, are signified the Godly and Ungodly.

But the third Interpretation is the most natural and genuin, That i by the Quick, are meant those who shall be alive at the coming of our Lord.

the coming of our Lord, and by the Dead, those who shall be then void of Life, and must then be raised to be brought to Judgment; k Tom. 2. En-which Explication is followed by k Auchir. ad Laugustin, 1 Gennadius, Massiliensis, and

p. 225. Others.

Inter Opera August. Tom. 3. De Eccles. Dogmat. p. 261.

So that taking in these three Explications of the Quick and the Dead, the meaning of this Article is no other than this, That all Mankind in Soul and Body, both good and bad, the dead as well as those then living, shall appear at the last Day before the Tribunal of our Lord Jesus Christ, to receive from him according to what they respectively did in the Flesh.

Now as for the occasion of the inferting this Article in the Creed, or the reason or cause of it, I apprehend it to have been Two-fold; that it was defigned to be an Antidote against two forts of most pestilent Hereticks, viz. the Marcionites and the Gnosticks; the former of whom blasphemed the Judge, and the other subverted the Judgment: Against whom it is most pertinently repeated in the Creed, That marcion præter CreatoJesus Christ himself shall come to judge rem alium Dethe World, that is, to dispense Re-um solius bo-nitatis induwards and Punishments to every Man cit. Tertull. according to his Works. As for m Mar-de Prescript. cion and his Followers, they together advers. Haret, with their Master n Cerdon, imagined Origen. Dialog.

1, 6 2.

" Cerdon introducit initia duo, id est, duos Deos, unum bonum, & alterum sævum; bonum superiorem, sævum hunc, mundi creat rem, Tertull. de prascript. advers. Heret. p. 95. Cerdoniani - dogmati zant Deum legis ac propherarum non esse Patrem Christi, nec bonum Deum' este, sed justum, Patrem vero Christi bonum. Aug. de Hares. c. 21. p. 95.

STREAT ST

round known a two Gods; the one an unknown, good and merciful God, the other a just and severe God, the Maker and Creator of the World; the former, or the good God. they affirmed to be the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, and that both he and his Son were nothing else but Pity, Grace and Love; that the Son's design in coming into the World, was only to fave those from the severity of the Maker of the World who should fly unto him; but as for others, though they should be the most flagitious and abominable Sinners. yet he would never condemn or punish them: Which monstrous and horrid Tenet, opens a Flood-gate to all Licentiousness and Impiety; for if God be only good, and not also just, who will ever obey his Commandments, and especially such of them as are contrary to Men's fenfual Inclinations and carnal Interests? If there be no fear of a future Punishment, the Sensualists and Voluptuous are without contradiction the wisest and most prudent Men; and it would be a most unacountable Folly to mortify the Flesh, to renounce the World, yea, and to deny Interest, Life, and all, to ferve and obey that God, who is not at all displeased with any of our disobedient Actions; and being being not displeased, will never punish us, though we freely plunge our selves in all sorts of Debaucheries and Impurities: On which account, in a just detestation of this impious Doctrin, Tertullian elegantly cries out,

Hear this, all ye Sinners, and ye who are not so yet, that ye may be so:
Such a kind God is found,
who is neither offended,
nor angry, nor revengeth,
who hath no Fire burning in Hell, nor gnashing
of Teeth in utter Darkness; he is altogether
good; he probibits Sin

O Audite peccatores, quique nondum hoc estis, ut este possitis: Deus melior inventus est, qui nec offenditur, nec irascitur, nec ulciscitur, cui nullus ignis coquitur in gehenna, cui nullus dentium frendor horret in exterioribus tenebris, bonus tantum est denique prohibet delinquere, sed literis solis: in vobis est, si velitis illi obsequium subsignare,—timorem enim non vulte Advers. Marcionalib. 1 p. 145.

in words only; it is at your pleasure, whether you will obey him or no; for, he doth not desire to be feared by you.

Wherefore, in contradiction to this destructive Tenet of all Religion and Piety, the Rule of Faith declares, That God is not only good, but that he is also just; that he is a Judge as well as a Saviour; that he and his Son are Justice and Equity, as well as Grace and Mercy; that Christ Jesus did not only die and rise again for the good and weal of Mankind, but that he will also come to judge the Quick and the Dead,

to examine into all Mens Carriages

P Rom. ii.

8, 9.

and Behaviours, and to reward them futably thereunto; not only to give P Glory and Honour, Immortality and eternal Life to the Penitent and Believing, but also to render Indignation and Wrath, Tribulation and Anguish to every Soul of Man that doth evil.

Now that this was the reason for which the Name or Person of the supreme and final Judge is mentioned in the Creed, seems very probable from the frequent use which the Fathers make of this Argument of Christ's coming to judge the World, to prove, that God is just and righteous as well as kind and good, as may be seen in the Writings of 9 Tertullian, r Irenaus, and others: And it appears to be more E Lib. 4. c. 78. evident from the Third Book of Ireneus, which is chiefly levelled against the Marcionites; in the beginning whereof, after an account given of Polycarp's reception of Marcion at Smyrna, calling him the First-born of Satan, and of the care taken by the Apostles and Apostolick Men, to preserve the Faith of the Gospel pure and entire from all manner of Heresies whatfoever, he proceeds to repeat the 4 Advers. Marcion, lib. 4. p. 221.

1.313.

Catholick Creed, wherein this Article is is expressed with this circumlocution,

That's be shall come to be the Saviour of those who are saved, and to be the Judge of those who are judged, sending into eternal Fire the corrup-

'Venturus falvator, eorum qui falvantur, & judex erum qui judicantur, & mittens in ignem æternum transfiguratores veritatis, & contemptores Partis sui & adventus ejus. Lib. 3. c. 4. p. 172.

ters of the Truth, and the despisers of his Father and of his Coming; which, on the same account, is mentioned by Tertullian in terms not much unlike, viz. That the shall come in brightness to receive the Saints into the Fruit of eternal Life, and to adjudge the Profumendos fanctos in vitæ æternæ,

— fructum, & ad prophanos judicandos igni perpetus. De Præscript. advers. Hæret, p. 73.

phane to everlasting Fire; in which two Creeds, the Actions of the Judge being so emphatically enumerated, after the confutation and recital of the Herefy of the Marcionites, that he is not only the Saviour of the Godly, but also the Condemner and Punisher of the Wicked, it is not unreasonable to conclude, that the Person of the Judge was inserted in the Creed against the said Hereticks; by which, in contradiction to them, it is declared, That God is not only good, but also just; that as he will render a reward of Happiness and Bliss unto the Righte-U 3 ven in flaming Fire, to take Vengeance on them, who know not God, nor obey his Gospel.

But, as there is remarkable in this Article the Person spoken of, viz. the Lord Jesus Christ, he shall come; so there is also observable, that which is predicated concerning him, which is, that he shall judge both the Quick and the Dead; by which is fignified, that he shall at the last Day, examine into all Mens Carriage and Behaviour, and render them a just Reward suitable to their Deeds; that unto the Holy he shall give Life everlasting, but on the Wicked he shall pour his Wrath and Vengeance, every one receiving according to his Actions in this Life, as they were good or evil; which supposeth that Mankind, the subject of this Judgment, was in this Life a voluntary and spontaneous Creature, not forced by any superiour Agent, but freely determining himself to all his Actions and Operations: For Judgment implieth a Freedom and Liberty in the Person judged, as Justin Martyr writes, That although the Christians believed that the holy Prophets foretold future Events, yet they did not not * thereby establish a fatal necessity, or a forcible predetermination to future Actions, but altogether disowned and rejected it; it being contrary to that fundamental Truth taught them by the Prophets, that * "Οπως ή μή τινες επ τ περλίε με νος ή μή τινες επ τ περλίε με νος ή μη , δοξάσωσι καθ' εμφριμένης ανάζη μω φάσκεν ήμας τα γινουθμα γενέως, -τετο διαμομένου Τας τιμωθάς κὶ τας αξαθας αμοιθάς, καὶ ἀξίαν τ πράξεων εκάς εποδίδους διάτ περφητή μαθόνες, κὶ ἀληθές εποφανόμθα. Αροίος. 2. ρ. 80.

there should be Punishments and Rewards rendered to every Man according to the Merits of his Works; where he evidently declares, that in the Opinion of that Age, a righteous Judgment as our Lord's will be, did necessarily imply a liberty and freedom of every Action that should be judged: For, as the said Father continues farther to write in the same place, y If it be determined by Fate, that this Man shall be good, and the other wicked, then wither is the one to be commended, nor the other to be blamed:

But, saith he, God bath not created Man as Trees and Four-footed Beasts, who do nothing by choice and discretion;

y Εί S લંઘીડ 9 τόνδε. τινα ἀ Γαθον εί), η τόνδε φοῦλον, ε΄θ' & πωδεκτός, εδε ἐκᾶνΘ, μεμπίεΘ. Ibid. p. 80.

Του β ώπες τα άλλα δι δενδεα η τερεάποδα, μήδεν δωμάμθια περαιείτη πεάτ-Γεν, εποίητεν ο Θεος τ άνθεωπον, εδε β ην άξι Θ άμοιδης ή επαίνε, εκ άρ εαμτε ελόμθι Θ τό άξαθον, άλλα τετο βυόμενΘ, εδ ε κακός υπηςχε, δικαίως κολάσεως ετύ χανεν, εκ άρ εαμτε τοι ετ δ ών. Ibid. p. 81.

neither

neither would Man deserve a Reward or Praise, if he were made good, and did not of himself choose the good; neither if he were wicked, could be be justly punished, except he voluntarily made himself so.

* Matth. xxv. 46.

And as the word Judging Supposeth the liberty of the Person judged, so it also implies a Rule by which the Judgment is to be made; which the Scripture affirms, is to be according to every Man's Deeds, that a they who have done wickedly, shall be adjudged unto everlasting Punishment, but the Righteous unto Life eternal: So that when this Article is repeated, it is thereby declared, That Man being a free and voluntary Agent, acting without con-straint or force, shall at the general Judgment-day receive a Sentence from Jesus Christ either of Bliss or Woe, futable to the Works which he did here on Earth, whether of Piety or Wickedness, Obedience or Disobedience. But now both these necesfary Truths, the liberty of Man, and his being judged according to his Works, were denied by the Valenti-nians, Basilidians, and others, comprised under the general Name of Gnoflicks, as I shall in the next place endeavour deavour to shew, beginning first with the Valentinians, who were the chiefest Sect amongst them; whose System concerning the nature and state of Man is as follows:

there were three kinds of Men, Spiritual, Earthly, and Animal, whom they exemplified in Cain, Abel, and Seth; of which, the Earthly fort would be necessarily reduced to Corruption; the Animal should ascend to ο 'Ανθεώπων ή τεία γείη εφίς ς αν η, συναμαθικόν, χοϊκόν, ψυχικόν, καθώς εγμονήο Καΐν, "Ας ς, Σήθ, — το με χοϊκόν εἰς φθοερίν χως εῖν, κὶ το ψυχικόν, εὰν τὰ βζτίονα ελη η, ἐν τω τ μεσότητ Φ τόπω ἀναπαύεις, ἐὰν ή τὰ χείςω, χως ήσειν κὶ αὐτὸ σερίς τὰ ὅμοια, τὰ ή συναμαθικά, — ψυχῶν αὐτω, — ἐν μεσότηθι — ἀναπαυσομερίων. Iren. lib. I. c. I. p. 24.

a place of Rest if it did well, but should be reduced to the same Fate with the Earthly if it did ill; and the Spiritual should certainly be saved:

Those who were Earthly or Material, though they lived never so good

τὸ με υλικόν, — χτάναςκων επόλλυθος λές κοιν, άτε μεδεμίαν επιθέξαθος πνοίω άφθας σίας δωάμθον. Ibid. p. 20.

Lives, yet should necessarily perish, because they were not capable to receive any Breath of Incorruptibility; that is, they were not capable to receive any of the spiritual Seed of Achamoth, which they affirmed to be the alone cause of Salvation; whereof I have already spoken under the Article of Maker of Heaven and Earth, Earth, unto which I refer the Reader.

d Τὸ ἡ ψυχικὸν, — ἄτε μέςσον ὄν τε τε πνωμαδικέ κὴ ὑλικέ ἐκθσε χωρθν ὅπε ἀν κὴ Τ΄ περκλησιν ποιήση). Id. Ib. p. 20. d The Animal, who were the middle fort between the Earthly and the Spiritual, should have their Portion according to their tl.

b

Inclinations and Actions; if they did ill, they should have the same condemnation with the Material; but if they

Τὰς ή τ δικαίων ψυχὰς ἀναπαύσεως κὶ αὐτὰς ἐν πό τ μεσότη Φ τόπω, μηδὲν χίψυχικὸν ἐνδὸς πληςώμα] Τως ςἔν. Id. Ibid. p. 22.

did well, e their Souls
should be hereafter received into the middle
place, as they called it,
which they placed between the imaginary Seventh Heaven and their Plenitude, and there remain in rest and quiet; from whence they should never pass into the Plenitude, because no Animal Being can be admitted

f 'Ημᾶς ψυχικές δνομάζεσι,

- κ) ἀναγκαῖαν ἡμῖν τ ἐγκεά Θιαν κ) ἀγαθων πεάξιν, "να

δὶ αὐτῆς ἔλθωρθυ κς τ τ με σότη Θ τόπον. Id. Ibid. p. 22.

there. f This Animal fort of Men, they affirmed to be the Orthodox Christians; for whom, Acts of Piety and Virtue were absolutely necessary, that by them they might arrive unto the middle place, s Kai σὐτὰς or the Haven of their Joy and Hapμ τὰς ψυχι- piness: s Which Animal Kind was κας πάλιν piness: s Which Animal Kind was κωσυμεείζονες λέρεσιν, ἄς μ φύσς ἀςαθὰς, ἄς ὁ φύσς πονητωτομερίζον ες λέγεσιν, ας με φύση αξαθάς, ας ή φύση πονηρώς, η τας με αξαθάς ταμτας εθ, τας δεκθικάς τε απέρματω γινομείας, τας ή φύση πονηρώς μηδέπολε αν επιδέξανζ εκείνο το απέρμα. Id. Ibid. p. 24.

again

again thus subdivided by them; some they said were evil, and others good by Nature; of which the one remained good, being capable to receive the spiritual Seed, h Immutabiand the other continued evil, being in-lem enim & capable so to do: h The Nature of Na-lem naturæ ture, as Tertullian expresseth it, being naturam proesseemed by them to be immutable and nunciaverunt.

Advers. Valentin. lib. p. 304.

i The spiritual kind of Men, were they themselves who had received the spiritual Seed from Achamoth, by which i Αὐτες ή μη διὰ πράξεως, ἀλλὰ διὰ τὸ φύση πνουμαλικές εξ) πάνην τε κὶ πάνηως σωθήσεως δογμαλίζεσιν. Iren. lib. 1. c. 1. p. 20.

alone they affirmed, they should be saved, and not by their good Works and Actions; k upon which account, they k Earlies is exceeded in Pride and Arrogance, cal- heles in its ling themselves Perfect, and the Seeds heles in well-of Election; afferting, that they should hala enhobe saved by virtue of their spiritual p. 22.

Nature alone: On which account,

1 they esteemed good Works unnecessary iones necessary
for them, maintaining, that neither good rias sibi exi Actions could profit them, nor evil stimant. TerActions injure them; that m as the ma-lentin. p. 305.
terial Nature, though never so good in its my \Omegas 18 78
Actions, could not be saved, so their xounds acspiritual ineias usla-χαν, — έτως πάλιν το συθμαζικον θέλεσιν οι σώτοι εί) αδυώαζον οθοράν καζαθέξαθς, καν οποίαις συζκαζαγώων η σεάξεσιν, ον η τεόπον χρυσός εν βορβόρφ καζαθεθες εκ δποβάλλο τ κελλονων αύτε.

αὐτε, ἀλλὰ τ ἰδίαν φυσίν διαφυλάτης, τε βοςδόςε μηδεν ἀδικῆσαι τ χςυσὸν, ετω ή κὶ αὐτες λέςετι, κὰν ἐν ὁποίαις ύλικᾶς πεάξεσι καθαγνών), μήδεν αὐτες Φραβλάπηεδς, μὴ ή
ἐποβάλλων τ πνωμαθικών ὑπόςασιν, διὸ δὴ κὴ τὰ ἀπωςἡνώνα πάνθα ἀδεῶς οἱ τζωόταθοι πεάτηεσιν αὐτε, πεὶ ὧν αί γεαφαί διαβεβαιεν) τεν ποιενθας αὐτὰ βασιλώαν Θεε μὴ κληεσνομήσων, κὴ γὸ ἀδωλόθυθα διαφόςως ἐδίεσι, μὴ ή μολύνεδς ὑπ αὐτεν ἡςκμροι, &c. Iren. advers. Hæres. lib. 1. c. 1. p. 20.

spiritual Nature, though defiled with never for many Enormites, should never see Corruption; for as a piece of Gold, which is buried in the Dirt and Mire, loses not its Beauty, but retains its Nature that cannot be injured thereby, so in the like manner they affirmed, that they could not be harmed by any impious Practices what soever, or lose their spiri-

" ου βπed-tual Seed thereby; from whence the most perfect amongst them fearlesly perpetra-EIS EIS TANgapa docist, ted those Sins of which the Scriptures बंभभवारे का द्रtestify, that they which do them shall neμα, - οταν j मर्बेष में का दिएver enter into the Kingdom of God, eatμα τζειωθή, τ μ 'Αχα-μωθ τ μη ε-εσ. αυτή μεing indifferently things offered to Idols, not holding themselves to be defiled there-Tacliva is & by, committing without any scruple or hor-MEDOTHIO rour all manner of most execrable Impieτόπε λε [8σ1, 2) colos πλη-ties, Incests and Villanies, most impuogler, no sme dently avouching, That " they were not λαβείν τ νύμφιον αὐτῆς τ σωίῆρα, τ εκ σάνων γεσονότα, - τού ο πνουμα ικές, — ἀκρα ήτως κὸ ἀοράτως ἐνθὸς πληςώμαθ Θ ἀσξθόντας, νύμφας ἐποθοθήσεως τοῖς τοῦς τοῦ ἡ σωθηραάς Γέλοις. — Τὰς τ δικαίων ζυχας, — ἐν των τ μεσότηθ τόπω. — τέτων τ χυομθών έτως το εμφολεύον τω πόσμω πύς επλάμ ταν κ έξαφθέν, κ καί φ-ງແຮ່ນປູເວນ ຫລັງ ປັນໄພ σພາລນອນຄຳ ເວີຽ ໝໍ ເກົ , ກູ ຄຳ ເວັ ພຸກຸກ ຄົ ຄົງ ໝັກກາຄົ ຄົງ ແຮ້ວຍຮອງ. Id. Ibid. p. 22. Saved

Saved by good Works, but by their spiritual Seed; which spiritual Seed being all perfected, their Mother Achamoth shall leave the middle place wherein she hath hitherto lived, between the Seventh Heaven and the Plenitude, wherein the Æons dwell, and enter into the Plenitude it self, and be joined or copulated with the Saviour, who was made by all the Æons; after which the Spiritual shall in an incomprehensible and invisible manner, enter within the Plenitude also, to be given for Spouses to the Angels that are about the Saviour; and those of the Animal who did well, shall go into the middle Space: Which things being once transacted, a Fire which now lies hid in the World, shall kindle and break out, and with its self consume all that is material, so that it shall be no more.

But as the Valentinians, so the Baflidians also, who were another Sect of the Gnosticks, embraced in a great measure the very same Opinions, introducing o a precedent natural neces- & wisews x sity to all Mens Actions, whether of Faith anistas is is or Unbelief, affirming, That P Faith was no wesεχεσα τ επ τε τὰ πάν α Swars φυσικων ἀνάζκων χρομβύων. Clem. Alexand. Stromat. lib. 2. p. 265.

 $^{p}$  Φυσικίων ή  $\gamma$   $\tilde{s}$ ν  $\tilde{\gamma}$   $\tilde{\tau}$   $\tilde{\tau}$

anatural

a natural Gift, or, the prerogative of Nature; to which they were forcibly predetermined or premoved, and should be thereby saved, although their Lives were never so irregular and debauch'd: Upon which account, it is no wonder that in a conformity to these Principles, they openly indulged themselves

Gontemnere autem & idolothyta & nihil arbitari, fed fine aliqua trepidatione uti eis. Habere autem & reliquarum operationum ufum indifferentem & universæ libidinis. Iren. lib. 1. c. 23. p. 78. in all manner of Wickedness, 9 eating without any fear or scruple things offered to Idols, and freely committing all other Acts of Villany and Un-

cleanness, esteeming all Actions to be indifferent; that no good work could advantage, or bad work prejudice

them, seeing they rwere by nature Believers and elected, and s had a liberty to be wicked by reason of their perfection; and although they did sin, yet they should necessarily be saved by virtue of their natural Election.

Tivds of the wife of the service of

P.390.

Bασιλειδιανών, ως ήτοι εχόνων Εξεσίαν κ) τε άωλθεν
δια τ τζειότηα, η πανθως
γε σωθησοιθών φύσς, καν νιώ άμαρωσι δια τ εμφυθον επλογω. Idem. Ibid. lib. 3. p. 312.

Not much unlike whereto were the horrid Tenets of the Carpocratians, another subdivision of the Gnosticks, who blasphemously imagined

ty to be necessary to Salvation; that all other things were indifferent; that according to the opinion of Men, some things were called good, and others bad, when in reality there is by Nature nothing evil: From whence, together with the former Hereticks, they plunged themselves in all Licentiousness and Debauchery; it being related concerning them by "Clemens "Storm. Alexandrinus, That after their natu-lib. 3.1.314. ral inclinations to Lust, were excited through the delicacy and abundance of Meats at their Suppers or Love Feasts, they extinguished their Lights, and both Men and Women promiscuously joined and perpetrated the most filthy and obscenest Villanies.

Per fidem & charitatem falvari, reliqua vero indifferentia cum fint, secundum opinionem hominum quædam quidem bona, quædam autem mala vocari, cum nihil naturamalum fit. Iren. lib. 1. c. 24. p. 81.

But, what need I mention any more of the particular Sects of these monstrous Gnosticks, seeing, though each Division was signalized by some peculiar Notion, yet they generally combined in the forementioned Heresies and Abominations, taking the first occasion thereof from their grand Patriarch and Master Simon Magus, who

x affirmed,

* Quippe quem adserit talem hominum manibus ipsam suis creare naturam, quæ proprio quondam motu, & necessariæ cujusdam voluntatis impulsu nihil aliud possit, nihil aliud velit, nisi peccare. Vincent. Lirinens. Commonit. c. 34. p. 110.

y Hi qui in eum & in Selenen ejus spem habeant, & ut liberos agere quæ velint, secundum enim ipsius gratiam salvari homines, sed non secundum operas justas.

Iren. lib. 1.c. 20. p. 76.

x affirmed, That God so created the Nature of Man, as that by its proper Motion and necessary Impulse, it neither could nor would do any thing else but sin; y that those who believed in him, and in his Whore Selene, might live as they lift, seeing Salvation was to be obtained according to his Grace, and not according to good Works.

So that the whole swarm of Gnosticks, or at least the greatest part of them, united in these two dangerous Tenets, That Man was fatally neceffitated and predetermined to all his Actions whether good or bad, and that he should not be judged at the last Day according to his Works, but be disposed of according to his spiritual Seed, Election, or folitary Faith, which was naturally conferred upon him, and was not attainable by any endeavour or industry of his own. Now, what more monstrous and abominable can be expressed or imagined? By the first of these Opinions, God is made the Author of Sin, represented as an unkind, cruel, and an unjust Being

litti lov auci

S. HALPER L.

, स्थापात्रकः स्थापात्रकः स्थापात्रकः स्टिस्

Cast of

Being, punishing and tormenting his Creatures for that Nature which he irresistibly forced on them, the Nerves and Sinews of all human Industry and Diligence are cut and broken, the nature of Rewards and Punishments is entirely taken away; and many other Blasphemies are the natural consequences of so wild an Opinion. By the second, the necessity of an Holy Life is taken away, Licentiousness and Impiety are introduced, all manner of Wickedness is patronized and encouraged.

Wherefore, in contradiction to these Notions, that all true Christians might be confirmed and setled in contrary Principles thereunto, the Fathers of the Primitive Church inserted in the Rule of Faith, That Christ shall come to Judge both the Quick and the Dead; thereby declaring the Liberty of Man in all his Actions, and that the final disposal of every Man shall be according to the Works which he hath done in the Flesh.

Now that a Declaration of the Freedom of Mens Actions was designed hereby, will be most evident from this consideration, viz. that in some of the Antient Creeds the word Adregation, or, that Man bath a Power over himself, was part of this Article; as in a Creed of Origen's, one of the Fundamental καὶ ὅτι αὐτεξέσιοι ὄν]ες κολαζόμθα μὰ ἐφ' οἷς ἀψθρά-νομν, τιμώμθα ἢ ἐφ' οἷς εὖ πεσίτομν. Com. in Johan. Tom. 32. p. 397. Vol. 2.

X

Truths affented to is, That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite 28.

That 2 we being wite

me do ill, and be remarded for what we do well: And in another of his, translated by Ruffinus, it is declared to be the Ecclesiastical Doctrine received a Animam esse rationabilem, liberi arbitrii & voluntatis, — unde & consequens est intelligere non necessitati esse subjectos, ut omni modo etiamsi nolimus, vel bona vel mala agere cogamur. In lib. peri Archon. inter Oper. Hieron. Tom. 9. p. 156.

from the Apostles, That a every Soul is Rational, of a Free-will and Determination; from whence it follows, that we are not subject to Necessity, and compelled against our

Wills to do either good or Evil: And in his Dialogues, where Eutropius, the Moderator of the Dispute between an Orthodox Christian and his several heretical Opponents, Gnosticks, and others, sums up the Christian Faith; he repeats this as one Article thereof

ο Τος κή δια τε αυτεξεσίε δικαίως απανίας εἰς κείσιν ἀξειν Αποδέδεικ η.
Dial. 5. p. 160.

That God b shall judge all men justly according to the Freedom of their Wills, or, the Power that they have over themselves. In all which Creeds, the inferting of the word Adregson in this Article, or that Man hath a command over

over himself, doth most clearly convince us, That the forementioned Herefy of the Gnosticks was designedly levelled at, and condemned thereby.

And, even in those other Creeds wherein that word was not expressed, the fame sense was always supposed and couched under the word Judge; for the Fathers apprehended it an impossible thing, that there should be a true Judgment where a Man was irrefiftibly necessitated to all his Actions: For, as Clemens Alexandrinus writes against the Basilidians, c if Faith be the prerogative of Nature, then there can be no just retribution, neither to him that believeth not because it is not his fault, neither to him that believeth, because he is not the cause thereof; and the proper-

"H wisis, el quosus wheevenlyua, est apostis sinaias τάξε) ἀναίτι ο ἀν, ὁ μὲ σι-εάσας, κὶ ἐκ ἀιτι ο ὁ σιε ά-σας, πασα ἡ ἡ τ σίες ως κὶ απιςίας ίδιότης κ) διαφορότης, ετ' επαίνω έτε μ' ψόζω τωςπέσοι αν, όρθως λογίζομμοις किंग्रिक्सी कि हिंदिय में देश में पर warla Swars quointe avasalus Luculilus. Strom. lib. 2. p. 265.

ty and difference of Faith and Unbelief being under a precedent natural necessity from the Almighty, cannot be either commended or blamed by all due considerers: Wherefore they did with good reason apprehend, That a profession of our Saviour's coming to judge the World, was a sufficient declaration of the

the Freedom of Man, who is to be the

p. 80.

Person judged; as in the forementiond Apolog. 2. ed Passage of d Justin Martyr the said Father writes, That the Christians did not believe a Fatal Necessity, or a forcible Predetermination to their future Actions, but altogether disowned and rejected it, because it was contrary to that Fundamental Truth taught them by the Prophets, that there should be Punishments and Rewards rendered to every Man according to the Merits of his Works: Where he concludes, that the very notion of Judgment did necessarily suppose the freedom and liberty of those Actions for which the Person shall be judged. Upon which account, St. Anstin, the great Affertor of the Grace of God, and of the necessity of its concurrence in the Conversion of a Sinner, doth from this Argument contend for the liberty of Man, as well as from others he pleads for the efficacy of God's Grace: An instance whereof is in a Letter of his to one Valentimus, the Head probably of a Monastery, wherein some over-zealous and imprudent opposers of Pelagius, had advanced the Power of Divine Grace, to that heighth, as to take away all Freedom from Man, which he condemns demns as dangerous and erroneous; and directs to the middle way as the safest, wherein the Grace of God is so asserted, as that the liberty of Man is not denied; and the Liberty of Man is so maintained, as that the Grace of God is not diminished: There are come, saith he, unto us from your Congregation, two young Men, Cresconius and Felix, who report, that your Monastery is divided; that e some so preach up Grace, as to deny Man to have a Free-will; and which is worse, that at the Day of Judgment, God will not render to every Man according to his Works; but that others disagreeing from them, confess, that our Free-will is helped by the Grace of God, to think and do those things which are right, that when the Lord shall come to render unto every Man according to his Works, he may find our Works good which God hath prepared, that we may walk in them; e Quidam in vobis fic gratiam prædicent, ut negent hominis esse liberum arbitrium, & quod est gravius dicunt, quod in die judicii non sit vel redditurus Deus unicuique secundum opera ejus, etiam hoc tamen indicaverunt, quod plures vestrum non ira sentiant, sed liberum arbitrium adjuvari fateantur per Dei gratiam, ut recta faciamus arque fapiamus, ut cum venerit Dominus reddere unicuique secundum opera ejus inviniat opera nostra bona, quæ præparavit Deus ut in illis ambulemus. Hoc qui sentiunt bene sentiunt, - primo enim, - Christus non venit ut judicaret mundum, sed ut falvaretur mundus peripfum; postea vero judicabit Deus mundum quando venturus est, sicut tota Ecclesia in Symbolo confitetur, judicare vivos & mortuos, fi igitur non est Dei gratia quomodo salvat mundum? Et si non est liberum arbitrium, quomodo judicat mundum? Tom. 2. Epist. 46. p. 179.

those

those who think so, think well: Wherefore, as the Apostle did the Corinthians, fo I befeech you, Brethren, by the Name of the Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all say the same thing, and that there be not Schisms amongst you, for our Lord Jesus Christ came not first to judge the World, but that the World through him should be saved; but hereafter he shall judge the World, when he shall come, as the whole Church professes in the Creed, to judge both the Quick and the Dead. If therefore, there be not God's Grace, how can be save the World? And, if there be not Free-will, how can be judge the World? Where he apappeals, as it were to the common sense of all Mankind, that there could not be a proper and righteous Judgment, as to be fure our Lords will be, except the Party judged were free and voluntary in all his Actions. From all which, it doth evidently enough appear, That by this Article, the compilers of the Creed defigned to obviate that part of the Herefy of the Gno-Sticks, which introduced a Fatal Necessity, and denied the Liberty of Man.

But, as this part of the Gnosticks Herefy which regarded the Liberty of Man,

M. W.

PO 1724

Man, so also that other part which denied the future Judgment to be according to Mens Works, was warded against by this Article, That Christ shall come to judge both the Quick and the Dead. These Hereticks, as it hath been already related, affirmed, That Men should not be tried and rewarded at the Last Day, according to their Works and Actions; that it was no odds whether they lived virtuously or wickedly, but that according to their spiritual Seed, Election, Predetermination, and the like, they should be either condemned or absolved: Wherefore, as an Antidote to prevent the Infection of fo pernicious a Tenet, it was inferted in the Creed, That Christ shall come to judge the World, that is, to render unto all Men Rewards sutable to their Deeds; which is most undeniably evident from that, whilst the Herefy of the Gnofticks raged and infested the Church; the Rulers thereof, to prevent any equivocal Evasions, expressed this Article with such a Periphrasis and Circumlocution, as the Gnosticks could never affent to without a direct and formal renunciation of their horrid Notions, and by which the whole World might apparently fee, that X 4 aimed at thereby; Examples of which are in the two Creeds of Irenaus, the great Scourge and Confuter of those Hereticks. In the first whereof, which is immediately subjoined to his large account of that Heresy, as a Preservative there-against, this Article is thus expressed, That he shall come from

κείσιν δικαίαν ον τοῖς σάσι ποιήση) τὰ με πνο μα]ικὰ
τ πονηείας, κὲ ἀ[γέλες τευ
περεσούτας, κὲ τευ ἀσεδες κὲ
αδίκες, κὲ ἀνόμες κὲ βλασφήμες
τ ἀνθεώπων εἰς τὸ αἰώνιον πῦς
πέμι τοῖς ἢ δικαίοις κὲ όσίοις κὲ τὰς ἐνῆολὰς αὐτε τε]ηςηκόσι, — ζωμύ χαειζάμει, αφθαρσίαν δωρήση), κὲ δόξαν
αἰώνιον πειποιήση. Lib. 1. c. 2.
1.36.

Heaven, f to render a righteous Judgment unto all; that he shall send into everlasting Fire evil specific which are fallen and a postatized, and all impostatized, and blasphemous c. 2. Men; but that on the righteous, holy, and obedient observers of his Commandments, he shall confer Life, Immortality and everlisting Glory: And in his second, eorum qui falvantur, & judex eorum qui judicantur, & mittens in ignem aternum transfigurat. res veritatis, & contemptores Patris sui, & adventus ejus. Lib. 3. c. 4. p. 172.

That & he shall come in Glory to be the Saviour of those who are saved, and the Judge of those who are judged, sending into everlasting Fire the cor-rupters of his Truth, and the despisers of his Father and his Coming. Not much unlike unlike to which, we have another instance in a Creed of Tertullian's, wherein this Article is thus worded,

That Christ h shall come in splendour to receive the Saints into the Fruit of eternal Life, and the heavenly Promises, and to adjudge the Prophane to h Venturum cum claritate ad fumendos fanctos in vitæ æternæ & promissorum cœlestium fructum, & ad profanos judicandos igni perpetuo. De Præscript. advers. Hær. p.73.

everlasting Fire. But afterwards, when the Herefy of the Gnosticks decreased, and their Numbers lessened, or were altogether extinct, it is probable, that the Governours of the Church not willing to enlarge their short Confession of Faith beyond what was absolutely necessary, omitted this Circumlocution, and contented themselves with a bare Declaration, That Christ shall come to judge the World, seeing unto all sensible and unprejudiced Perfons, that is a sufficient and manifest Acknowledgment, that every Man shall at that Day be futably rewarded according to his Actions here.

To conclude therefore with this Article; from what hath been written, it doth appear, that by the repetition thereof, it was designed that we should yield our assent to this Proposition, That Jesus Christ, the Son of the true and only God, shall at the end of the World descend from Heaven, to render a righteous Judgment unto all Mankind, either of Absolution or Condemnation, according to their Works and Actions, which in this Life they freely and voluntarily acted and committed.

the

CHAP. VI.

I believe in the Holy Ghost. Why the word Believe is again repeated. This Article was always part of the Creed. Why so little is said of the Holy Ghost, when so much is said of the Father, and of the Son. His Divinity intended by the Creed's requiring us to believe in him; whereas, we are only simply required to believe the ensuing Articles; as in particular the Holy Catholick Church, which is next of all considered. In the Greek, wherein they are followed by the Modern French and Dutch, the word Believe is again repeated before the Article of the Church; which, for different Ends, was variously placed in the Primitive Creeds. Its usual Order after the Holy Ghost. This

This Article first mentioned by Tertullian. The most antient Creeds read only the Holy Church. The term Catholick being added by the Greeks to be an explication or determination thereof. By the Church, is to be understood the universal One, which is affirmed to be One, Holy and Catholick. That the Unity of the Church was here intended, appears from that the Greek Creeds read in one Holy Catholick Church. The Church Universal is to be considered as One, either as to Faith or Charity; in which sense it was, for several reasons which are mentioned, inserted in the Creed in opposition to Hereticks and Schifmaticks. The Church termed Holy from the Purity and Holiness of her Doctrine, which is affented to thereby. The Affection Catholick, which signifies Universal, not always in the Creed; first introduced by the Greeks, to prevent too narrow and limited Conceptions of the Church. A brief repetition of what is affented to, when we repeat this Article, the Holy Catholick Church. Whereunto is added as an Appendix, the Communion of Saints; which was introduced about St. Austin's time, in opposition to the the Donatists. By Saints, are to be understood particular Churches and the Members thereof. For what rea-Son they were called Saints. By Communion, is signified the mutual Socie. ty and Fellowship of particular Churches and their Members. Various Methods used by the Antients to maintain their Communion. The Donatists refused Communion with other Churches; and for that Schism, were justly condemned and rejected by them. In opposition unto whom, this Article may be considered, either as a Mark to know a true particular Church by, that she is one that is acknowledged fo to be by other Churches, or rather as the Quality, Property and Practice of Such an one to hold Communion with other particular Churches: In which sense it is also added as an Explanation of the Holy Catholick Church, and was intended to declare, that there ought to be a due Communion and Fellowship between the particular Churches and Members of the Catholick and Universal One.

THE Faith of an Orthodox Christian, respecting the Father and the Son, having been already declared,

That a our Belief, as Augustin writes, might be perfected concerning God; the Creed proceeds to add, that we must al-ad perficiendam fidem, quæ nobis de Deo eft, Spiritus Sanctus. Tom. 3. de Fid. der Symbol. p. 190.

Jo believe in the Holy Ghost: Where the word Believe is again repeated to relieve our Memories, after that so many Particulars concerning the Son had intervened.

This Article hath been always part of the Creed, and is coeval with Christianity and the Administration of Baptism, as appears from the very Form of Baptism, the ground and the foundation of the Creed; which is not only to be solemnized in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, but also of the Holy Ghost, where the Holy Ghost is joined with the Father and the Son: From whence

b Didymus thus argues, Who will not ex ipla cogefrom hence conclude the equality of the suscipere in-Sacred Trinity, seeing there is but one differentiam sanctæ Trinitatis, dum una sit sides in Patre & Filic, & Spiritu Sancto, & lavacrum detur atque sirmetur in nomine Patris & Filii & Spiritus Sancti, non arbitror quemquam tam vecordem atque insanum suturum ut persectum Baptisma putet, quod datur in nomine Patris & Filii, sine assumptione Spiritus Sancti. De Spiritus Sancto, lib. 2. inter Oper. Hieron. Tom. 6. P. 224.

eafte.

Faith in the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost? And Baptism is given in the Names of all Three. I do not think that any one will be so foolish or mad, as to imagin That Baptism to be perfect, which is given in the Name of the Father and of the Son, without the addition of the Holy Ghost. Consonant unto which, is that observation of St. Jerom, That those Persons mentioned in the Nine-

Joannis baptismate fuerint baptizati, & credebant in Deum Patrem & Christum, quia Spiritum Sanctum nesciebant, iterum baptizantur, imo tunc verum accipiunt Baptisma; absque enim Spiritu Sancto imperfectum est mysterium Trinitatis. Tom. 3. ad Hedib. Epist. 150. Quast. 9. p. 420.

teenth of the Acts, who were baptized with John's Baptism, and believed in God the Father, and Christ Jesus, because they knew not the Holy Ghost, were again baptized, yea then received the true Baptism;

for, without the Holy Ghost, the Mystery of the Trinity is imperfect.

It may perhaps feem strange to some, that when there is so much declared in the Creed relating to the Father and the Son, so little should be said concerning the Holy Ghost. But, for this there is a sufficient and manifest reason, which is, That there was not so great a Controversy in the Primitive Church concerning the Divinity and Person of the Holy Ghost; for, though

though the Gnosticks and some others blasphemed him, yet their Assaults were more furious and violent against the Father and the Son, which obliged the Church to use her greatest care for the preservation of that part, which

This Observation was made long

was most exposed and attack'd.

ago against the Macedonians, or Pneumatomachists, the first Hereticks, who owning the Divinity of the Son, directly attacked that of the Holy Ghost alone; of whom Epiphanius writes, That they boasted a of their entire Akay to be adherence to the Nicene Creed, which he will be shift the same with the Apostles Creed he will be some concerning the Holy Ghost, affirming, where the that his Divinity was not therein afferted; Ninaday is unto which the said Father replies, with that whatsoever they might imagin, sake is the said and the said father replies, which is also and the said father replies, which is a said to be a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies, which is a said and the said father replies are said father replies.

της, ότι το άριον συδιμα ον τη θεότη ι συμαριθμέθ, διρηθήσου) η άπ αὐτης έλερχομμοι, ε γέρονε ή τότε πεὶ τε συδιμάθοι ή ζήτησις, σεὸς ηδ το ὑσοπίπρον ον καιρώ η καιρώ, αἱ συμοδοὶ τὰ ἀσφάλειαν σοιεν), ἐπεὶ εν ὁ ᾿ΑρειΘ ἐς τὰ ψὸν τὰ δυσφημίαν ἀπερένελο, τέτε ἐνεκα με σειωής διληογής άκειβεια τὰ λόρον γεγμή), ὅρα ἡ ἀπ αὐτής τὰ ὁμολογίας, ὅτι ἔτε ἐν τέτω δίρηθήσον) τὶ λέρον ες οἱ εἰς τὸ συδίμα βλασφημενθες, — ἐυθυς ηδ ἡ ἔκθεσις ὁμολογεί, κὰ ἐκ ἀρνεθ, σις δόμμη ηδ εἰς ἔνα θεὸν σαίερα σανθοκρότορα, τὸ ἡ σις δίουμ, εχ' ἀπλώς εἰςη), ἀλλα ἡ σίςις εἰς τὸ Θεὸν, κὰ εἰς ενα Κύριον Ἰησεν Χριςὸν, εχ' ἀπλώς εἰςη) ἀλλ εἰς Θεὸν ἡ σίςις, κὰ εἰς τὸ α΄ριον συδίμα, κὰ ἀπλώς εἰςη) ἀλλ εἰς Θεὸν ἡ σίςις, κὰ εἰς τὸ α΄ριον συδίμα, κὰ ἀπλώς εἰςη), ἀλλ εἰς μίαν δοξολογίαν, εκ. Αδυνες. Ηρες in Har. 74. αδυνες. Ρηθιμανακοπας ο ρ. 384.

BCAT The

CT 211-

in kop s madionin

10 3 10 10

that Creed did condemn their Heresy; for, although there was no great mention made of the Holy Ghost therein, because there was no Controversy then about him; and that Synod principally infisted upon the Articles of Faith relating to the Deity of the Son, which at that time were impugned and denied by Arius and his Followers; yet nevertheless, there was Sufficient Said of him to declare him to be God, in that as we are directed by that Creed, not only simply to believe the Father and the Son, but in the Father and in the Son, terminating our Faith upon them; so also, we are obliged in the like manner to believe in the Holy Ghoft.

Which Criticism and Distinction between believing and believing in, is not to be despised, seeing the Primitive Writers lay great stress thereon; and do from thence conclude and prove the Divinity of the Holy Ghost, and intimate to us, that the Framers of the Symbol did on this account omit to prefix the Preposition in, before the other Articles which immediately succeed, as it is observed by Russinus,

e Non dixit, That e it is not said in the Holy Church, in fanctam Ecclesiam, necin

remissinem peccatorum, nec in carnis resurrectionem; si enim addidisset in Præpositionem, una eademque vis fuisset cum superioribus, nune autem in illis

illis quidem vocabulis, ubi de divinitate fides ordinatur, in Deum patrem dicitur, & in Jesum Christum Filium ejus, & in Spiritum Sandtum; in exteris vero, ubi non de divinitate fed de creaturis ac mysteriis Sermo est, in Præpositio non additur; ut dicaturin sandtam Ecclesiam, sed sanctam Ecclesiam credendam esse, non ut in Deum, sed ut Ecclesiam Deo congregatam; & remissionem peccatorum credendam esse, non in remissionem peccatorum.—Hâc itaque præpositionis syllabâ Creator à creaturis secernitur, & divina separantur ab humanis. Expost in Symb. Apost. §. 35. p. 575.

nor in the Remission of Sins, nor in the Resurrection of the Body; for, if the Preposition in had been added, it would have had the same force with what went before. But now in those words, where our Faith in the Deity is declared, it is Said to be in God the Father, and in his Son Jesus Christ, and in the Holy Ghost; but, where the Creed speaks of Creatures and Mysteries, the Preposition in is not added; as we do not say in the Holy Church, but that we believe the Holy Church, not as in God, but as a Church congregated by God; and we do not say in the Forgiveness of Sins, nor in the Resurrection of the Body, but the Forgiveness of Sins, and the Resurrection of the Body: By this Preposition therefore, the Creator is distinguished from the Creatures, and Divine Things separated from Humane. So that the not prefixing the Preposition in before the Holy Catholick Church, and the other Articles which follow, directs us, according to the said observation of Ruffin's, to believe them after another manner than the precedent Articles before whom that Syllable is prefixed; that on the former we are to believe as God, whilf we are only simply to believe the latter as Mysteries revealed by God; or as the Author of a Sermon, who paffeth under the Name of St. Austin, expresseth it, with particular relation to the Article of the Holy Catholick Church: Which I now come in the next place to consider, That the Creed obligeth us f to believe the Church but not in the Church; for the Church is not God, but the House of God. By all which, it appears,

Ecclesiam credere, non tamen in Ecclesiam credere debemus, quia Ecclefia non Deus est, sed domus Dei est. Tom. 10. Serm. de Temp. 181. p. 525.

That the Antients observed a great difference in the manner of their believing the feveral Articles of the Creed, laying a great stress upon this little Preposition in; and which is yet farther observable, the Greeks contented not themselves with the bare suppresfion thereof before the Holy Catholick Church, but to make the Distinction more evident and remarkable, inferted also another Ibelieve between that and the precedent Article of the Holy Ghost: From whence it comes to pass, that the Modern Greek Creeds thus run, wherein they are exactly followed by the present g French and h Nether Dutch, Πιςδίω eis τονεῦμα άΓιον, Πιςδίω το άγιαν δακλησίαν καθολικω. I believe in the

g Je croi au Saint Esprit, Je croi la Sainte Eglise universelle.

h Ick geloove in den Heyligen Geeft, Ick geloove een Heyligen Algemeyne Christelicke Kercke.

Holy Ghost, I believe the Holy Catholick Church.

But, to insist no longer on these Criticisms, and to come to the Article of the Holy Catholick Church, there is this thing in the sirst place to be remarked concerning it, That the antient Creeds vary in the Order and Place thereof. In severals of them it is the very last Article of all; as in a Creed of Cyprians, wherein we profess to believe i the Remission of Sins, and Life everlasting through the Holy Church. The rea-

i Remissionem peccatorum & vitam æternam per sanctam Eccle-siam. Epist. 76. §.6. p. 248.

fon whereof is alledged by one who falfly passeth under the Name of

St. Austin, to be, k because if any one be found out of the Church, he is not to be reckoned in the number of Sons; for he shall not have God for his Father, who will not

k Hujus conclusio Sacramenti per Sanctam Ecclesiam terminatur, quoniam si quis absque ea inventus fuerit, alienus erit à numero Filiorum, nec habebis Deum Patrem, qui Eccesiam noluerit habere Matrem. Tom. 9. Symb. ad Catech. lib. 4. p. 1438.

have the Church for his Mother; or, as it may be gathered from St. Cyprian the design thereof was, to signify, That Nam cum dicunt, Credis remissionem peccatorum, & vitam æternam per sanctam Ecclesiam? Mentiuntur in interrogatione, quando non habeant Ecclesiam, tum deinde voce sua ipsi consitentur, remissionem peccatorum non dari, nisi per sanctam Ecclesiam posse. Epist. 76. §. 6. p. 248.

Remission of Sins and Life everlasting, could not be obtained but in and through the Holy Catholick Church.

CI

to

t

i

But in the generality of Creeds, this Article possesset the same place that it doth in ours, immediately following our Faith in the Holy Ghost; the reason whereof is thus given by Tertullian, in whom the clear mention of this Article is first

m Cum autem sub tribus & teflatio fidei, & sponsio salutis pignorentur, necessario adjicitur Ecclesiæ mentio, quoniam ubi tres, id est Pater, & Filius, & Spiritus Sanctus, ibi Ecclesia quæ trium corpus est. De Baptism. p. 599.

97930

found, m That after the pledging of our Faith and Hope in the Trinity, the mention of the Church is necessarily added, because where those three, the Son and which is the Body of them. Not much different wherefrom, St. Austin writes. That " the right Order of Faith requi-

Confessionis
Ordo posce- red, that the Church should be subjoined bat, ut Trini-Templum suum, & conditori civitas sua. Tom. 3. Enchir. ad Laur. p. 226.

to the Trinity, as an House to his Occupier, a Temple to its God, and a City to its Builder. Done vilob enime

But, befides the different placing of this Article in the Primitive Creeds, there is this to be remarked concerning the words thereof, That the more antient Symbols had only the Holy Church, as is to be seen in O Cyprian Vitam æter-and several others: The word Catholick stam Ecclesibeing afterwards added by the Greeks, am. Epist. 76. as I shall hereafter shew, by way of 5. 6, p. 248. Explication or Determination; from whom it was received by the Latins, and by them inserted in their Creed, wherein we now read the Holy Catholick Church. Into the meaning and intent whereof, I now proceed to enquire; in which, the sense of the word Church is first to be considered, and then the Affections thereof, which are in number Three, Unity, Sanctity, and Universality. As for the Church, which we are obliged to believe, though it be capable of various Significations, yet the Affeation of Universality being joined with it, makes it evident, That it must be here necessarily understood of the Visible Catholick, Universal Church, which comprehends within its Bounds all Men and Women, who throughout the whole

SERARGICAL.

ober with us helman

KADIKI SE hendl buch

Mills No. 1. 81 9 1

whole World make a visible Profession of the Christian Religion, and own the Doctrine delivered by our Saviour and his Apostles; who, though necesfarily divided into many separate Congregations and particular Churches, yet compose but that one general Church, which is here affirmed by the Creed to be One, Holy and Catholick.

Now that the Unity of the Church is herein contained, appears not only from that this Article is in the fingular Number, and from that the Fathers put this constant Interpretation upon it; but also from that in some Creeds, to render it the more obvious and indisputable, the word One is added thereto, as in the Nicene or rather Constantinopolitan Creed, P I believe One Holy Catholick and Apostolick natorinhi nj Church: And in the Exposition thereof, by Alexander Bishop of Alexandria, he expresses it by 9 the One and only Catholick and Apostolick Church.

Now, though in feveral respects the Universal Church may be said to be One, yet, that I may not go beyond the bounds of my designed Task, I shall only take notice of what was principally intended by the inferters of it in the Creed, which was, That the

Ennanoiar. P Miav ni μόνω καθολιx (w) 7 500-SOLINEW EN-

PIIISdia piar ayiar

STOSONIXLW

κλησίαν. Apud Theodoret. Eccles. Hift, lib. 1.

e. 4. p. 18.

Church is One as to her Faith and Dodrine; that though she be enlarged through the Face of the whole Earth, yet all her Members universally assent to the same necessary Truths of the Gospel, and that she is One as to her Love and Charity; there being an harmonious Agreement and Union between particular Churches which complete and perfect the Universal One.

That the Unity of the Churches Faith was hereby designed, will more evidently appear, when I shall come to consider the occasion of its being placed in the Creed: For the present, I shall only cite a pregnant Passage in Irenaus very pertinent to this purpose, which is, That immediately after his repetition of the Creed, he writes,

e ll

iit ie h that the Church although dispersed τ Ἡ ἐκκληthrough the whole World, yet, as if she σία καίπερ ἐκ dwelt in one and the same House, did διε ωαριθή diligently preserve this Faith, believing ἐπιμελῶς φυit, as if she had but one Soul, and λάως, ῶς ἐνα
one Heart, and uniformly preaching κ) ὁμοίως ωιsold τέτοις, ώς μίαν ψυχω, κ) τ αὐτω εξεσα κας δίαν, κ) συμοώνως ταῦτα κης ύως κ) διδάσκο κ) Φραδίδωσιν, ώς εν σόμα κεκηνωνή, κ) γδ αἰ κ) τ κόσμον διάλεκ οι ανόμοιαι άλλ ή δωίαμις τ Φραδόσεως, μία κ) ή αὐτη, κ) ἔτε αἱ ἐν γερμανίαις ὶδς ύωθμαι ἐκκλησίαι άλλως σεπισόκασιν,—ἔτε ἐν τ ἱδηθίαις, ἔτε ἐν κελοῖς, ἔτε κ) τὰς ἀναδολὰς,—ἀλλ ώσως ὁ ηλιΘ,— ἐν ὅλω τω κόσμω εἰς κ) ὁ αὐτὸς, ἔτω κ) τὸ κής υμα τ ἀληθέας σαν αχη φαίνο, κ) φωδίζο σάν ας ἀνθρώπες τος βελομείες εἰς ἐπίνωσιν ἀληθέας ἐλθείν. Lib. I. c. 3. p. 35.

Y 4 and

And teaching it, as if she had but one Mouth; for, although there be different Dialects in the World, yet the force of Tradition is one and the same; for neither do the Churches in Germany, Spain, France, the East, Egypt, Lybia, or the middle of the World, believe otherwise; but as the Sun is one and the same in the whole World, so the preaching of the Truth shines every where, and enlightens all Men who are willing to come unto the knowledge thereof.

But the Unity of the Church Universal, besides the Uniformity of her Faith, included also the Love and Concord, Union and Communion, which was and ought to be between her particular Members and Churches, which is now partly contained in the following Clause of the Communion of Saints, and is partly to be confidered under this Article, to render the Interpretation thereof complete and entire. In reference whereunto, it directs us to this observation, That although the Universal Catholick Church be composed of different and almost innumerable Members and Churches, yet that she is but one Body; and those particular Parts are, or ought to be united amongst themfelves by Love and Charity, without Factions

Finchant

As of As

onoll scoul

and a solvent

le Briennin

Factions and Schiffins, and fo agree as to the execution of their Ecclefiaftical Power and Government, that whatfoever is justly determined in one Church according to the common Laws received by them, is not thwarted and contradicted by another; and, if any schismatical and factious Spirits rent and divide one Church, they are not favoured or countenanced, but difallowed and condemned by others; all Churches harmoniously concurring in this Bond of Love and Charity, diligently avoiding every thing that might break this kind of Unity of the Church Univerfal.

Now that which gave occasion unto the Fathers to introduce the Unity of the Church thus expounded into the Rule of Faith, were the Herefies and Schisms wherewith they were pestered and assaulted, designing to oblige hereby all Orthodox Christians at their Baptism, to declare, That they would firmly adhere to the one and undivided Church of Christ, which preserved the Faith of the Gospel pure from Heresies, and the Union thereof free from Schisms and Divisions.

Now that the Unity of the Churches Faith, and an Adhesion therethereunto, was for the forementioned Reason designed hereby, appears from the frequent References which the Fathers in their Disputes against Hereticks, make unto the Faith and Doctrin of the Church, and especially of those Parts of her who were planted and confirmed by the Apostles, challenging the Hereticks to be determined by their Arbitrement, and exhorting the Faithful to follow their Prescriptions and Directions: Which Method is frequently used by Tertul-Omnem do- lian (in whose Works is the first men-Creed, ) as in his Book of Prescripti-ons against Hereticks, where he several times refers his Readers to the Faith

Arinam de tion of this Clause as an Article of the mendacio præjudicandam quæ sapiat contra veritatem Ecclefiascript. advers. Haret. p. 76.

Presbytero-

provocamus

cos. Lib. 3.

rum. De præ- received in the Church, and admonishes them to s reject as Lies, what-Eam tradi-foever Doctrines were contrary to the tionem, quæ est ab Aposto-Truth of the Churches; as also by Irenaus, who from time to time t challis, quæ per fuccessiones lenges the Hereticks to stand to that Trarum in Eccle- dition, which from the Apostles, by the siis custoditur, succession of Presbyters, was preserved in provocamus the Church; " in which Church, God

c. 2. p. 170. u In Ecclefia posuit Deus, Apostolos, Prophetas, Doctores, & universam reliquam operationem Spiritus, cujus non sunt participes omnes qui non concurrunt ad Ecclesiam, sed semetipsos fraudant à vita per sentenriam malam, & operationem pessimam. Ubi enim Ecclesia ibi & Spiritus, & ubi Spiritus Dei, illic Ecclesia, & omnis gratia Lib. 3. c. 40. placed p. 226.

placed Apostles, Prophets, Doctors, and the rest of the Spirit's Operation, whereof they are not Partakers who do not run unto the Church, but deprive themselves of Life by their evil Faith and wicked Works; for, where the Church is, there is the Spirit; and, where the Spirit of God is, there is the Church, and all Grace: So that by affenting to the Unity of the Church in this sense, it was thereby intended to declare, That forsaking all Hereticks, and renouncing Communion either with them or their Herefies, we will adhere and firmly stick to the Faith and Doctrine received in the Apostolical and Universal Church. WA 10 1011110 of

But, as the Unity of the Church, as including its Faith, was intended against Hereticks, the Corrupters thereof; so also, as comprehending its Love and Charity, it was designed against Schismaticks, who were the Subverters thereof, and the Introducers of all Disunion, Confusion and Disorder; which will be manifest from this consideration, That all the legal Acts of a particular Church were esteemed and reckoned to be the Acts of the Universal One, and were not contradicted, but ratisfied and approved by other particular particular Churches; and if any did unjustly separate from, or cause Disorder and Confusion in a particular Church, they were condemned as Di-viders from, and Disturbers of the whole Catholick Universal Church: A particular Church being part of the Universal, every Disorder and Breach therein had a general and universal Influence; as the Pain and Anguish of one Member affects and disturbs the whole Body, fo the Division of one particular Church was reputed to break the Unity of the Universal and Catholick one: From whence the Schifm of Novatian, which at first respected only the Church of Rome, is frequently represented by Cyprian, who was his Cotemporary to be a Rent and Separation from the Catholick Church; as when feveral of the Roman Confesfors had engaged with him in that schismatical Conspiration, he informs their legal Bishop Cornelius, that he had written unto them an extraordinary " Ut ad Ma- Letter x to return to their Mother, that crem fuam, id is, to the Catholick Church; in which Letter, he most fensibly bewails their grievous fin in consenting to the Election of a schismatical Bishop, which was not only against the Law of the Gospel, est Ecclesiam Catholicam revertantur. Epift. 43. p. 101.

Gospel, but also against a the Unity of the Catholick Institution; and as pathetically intreats them, a not to separate themselves from the Flock of Christ, his Peace and Concord, but to return to y Contra institutionis Catholicæ unitatem. Epist. 44. §. 1. p. 102.

<sup>2</sup> Vosmet ipsos à Christi grege & ab ejus pace & concordia separatis,— ad Ecclesiam Matrem revertamini. Id. §. 2. p. 102.

the Church their Mother; and when it pleased God to incline their Hearts to come back to their former Station, he terms it a a returning to the Catho- Ad Eccle-lick Church: So that although their cam regressos Schism had only an immediate refe-esse. Epist. 47. rence to their own particular Church, §. 1. p. 107. yet by reason of the mutual intercourse between each other, and its subversion of the common Order observed by them, it was esteemed to be a Contradiction to the Unity, and a Separation from the Communion of the whole Catholick Church; for which reason, those who schismatically disturbed the peace and Union of those Churches to which they appertained, were never maintained and encouraged by other Churches, or received to Communion by them: An instance whereof we have in the Legates of Novatian, Author of a Schism in the Church of Rome, with whom, neither

b Et cum ad nos in Africam legatos missistet, optans ad communicationem nostram admitti, hinc sententiam retulerit, se foris esse cæpisse, nec posse à quoquam nostrum sibi communicari. Epist. 67. §. 2. p. 198.

Cum Novatiano te non communicari. Cyprian. Ep. 52. §. I.

p..113.

d Una Ecclefia, — in multa Membra divisa. Id. Ep. 52. S. 16. p. 119. b Cyprian Bishop of Carthage, nor c Antonim another African Bishop, would communicate, lest thereby they should impair the Unity of the Universal Church, which though d divided into many Members, yet was but one Church: And which is yet farther observable, that the Unity and Order of the Church in this respect, might be preserved entire and inviolable, who foever was excommunicated in one Church, was not received into Communion by another, till he had given fatisfaction unto that Church by which he was cenfured. An eminent Example whereof, is to be feen in the Heretick Marcion, who being ejected from the Church by his own Father, the Bishop of Sinope in Pontus, applied himself to the Church of Rome to be admitted to Communion there, who rejected him with this Answer, That e they could do not it without the

That they could do not it without the was ave f permission of his Father, because the emlerans F

τιμίε παθεός σε τέτο ποιήσαι, μία οδ όξεν ή πίεις, κὶ μία ή δμόνοια, κὶ ε δυμάμθα εναθιωθύθαι τω κληφ συλλεθες ω, πάτει τὸ σφ. Ερίγραη. advers. Hares. Marcion. p. 135.

Faith

Faith is one, and the Concord one; and we cannot contradict our reverend Fellow-Minister, but your Father. From all which, it evidently enough appears, That as by affenting to the Unity of the Church, an aversion to Heresies and Hereticks was thereby intended to be delared; so by the same, it was likewise design'd to profess an adherence to the Catholick Communion, in contradiction to Shisms and Schismaticks; which is not much different from what St. Austin writes on this Article, f We believe,

Article, the We believe, faith he, the Holy Church, to wit, the Catholick one; for Hereticks and Schifmaticks call their Congregations Churches; but Hereticks, by false Opinions concerning God, violate the Faith; and Schismaticks, by unjust Separatious, depart from Brotherly Love, although they believe what we believe: Wherefore, a Heretick doth not belong to the Catholick Church, because she loves God; nor a Schismatick, because she loves her Neighbour.

But as the Church is one, so the

f Credimus & fanctam Ecclefiam, utique Catholicam, nam &
Hæretici & Schismatici Congregationes suas, Ecclesias vocant; sed
Hæretici de Deo falsa sentiendo
ipsam sidem violant, Schismatici
autem discissionibus iniquis à fraterna charitate dissiliunt, quamvis
ea credant quæ credimus: Quapropter nec Hæreticus pertinet ad Ecclesiam Catholicam, quoniam
diligit Deum; nec Schismaticus, quoniam diligit proximum. Tom. 3.
Fid. of Symbol. p. 195.

Creed affirms it also to be holy: For which Appellation, many Rreasons might be given; which, to prevent a Digression from my designed Task, I shall omit to mention, and only take notice of that which probably the Framers of the Creed intended by it, which is not much different from the intent of the precedent Affection of the Church, viz. its Unity; for as by that is declared a Renunciation of the perfidious Tenets and Practices of Hereticks and Schismaticks, so by this is acknowledged the Truth and Regularity of the Doctrines and Actions of the Catholick Church; that whatfoever she proposeth to our Faith, (still with this supposition; that it is according to the Holy Scriptures,) is

In qua una certain, pure, and unquestionable: eft fides, & Which Interpretation I gather from unum Baptis the Exposition of Russinus, who writes ma, in qua the Exposition of Russinus, who writes unus Deus cre- on this Article, That g the Church, in

ditur Pater,

Creed

28 man &

Congressasvoome: fed

obasima ari

Schilmatici

& unus Dominus Jefus Chriffus, Filius ejus, & unus Spiritus Sanctus, ista est sancta Ecclesia, non habens maculam, aut rugam; multi enim & alii Ecclesias congregarunt, ut Marcion, ut Valentinus, ut Hebion, ut Manichæus, ut Arius, & cæteri omnes Hæretici, sed illæ Ecelesiæ non funt fine macula aut ruga perfidiz; & ideo dicebat de illis Propheta, odivi Ecclesiam malignantium, & cum impiis non sedebo; de hac autem Ecclesia qua sidem Christi integram servat, audi quid dicar Spintus Sanctus in canticis capricorum, una est columba mea, una est perfeda genitricis suz. Qui ergo hanc fidem in Ecclesia susceperit, non declinet in Concilio Vanitatis, & cum iniqua gerentibus non introcat. Exposit. in Symb. 18. 27. p. 575. & Hound only as the which

which there is one Faith, and one Baptism, in which there is believed one God the Father, one Lord Jesus Christ his Son, and one Holy Ghost, is the Holy Church without Spot or wrinkle; for, many others have gathered Churches, as Marcion, Valentinus, Ebion, Manichæus, Arius, and all other Hereticks, but these Churches were not without the spot or wrinkle of Perfidiousness: Wherefore the Prophet Said of them, I have hated the Church of evil Doers, and will not fit with the Wicked. But of this Church which keeps the Faith of Christ entire, hear what the Holy Ghost saith in the Song of Songs, My Dove, my Undefiled is but one, She is the only one of her Mother: Let him therefore who bath received this Faith in the Church, not turn aside to the Council of Vanity, neither let him go in the way of evil Doers. After which, the faid Father enumerates feveral Hereticks, as Marcion, Ebion, and others, who turned aside to the Council of Vanity, and embraced impious and blasphemous Opinions; h from whom faith he, let the Believer turn aside and hold the boly Faith of the Church, which is, I believe in profitetur. Ibid. §. 38. p. 576.

obinA

h Ab his omnibus fidelis declinet auditus, Sanctam vero Ecclefiæ fidem teneat, quæ Deum Patrem omnipotentem, & unigenitum Filium ejus Jesum Christum, &c.

God the Father Almighty, &c. From whence it appears, That the Church is metonimically called Holy, from the Holiness and Purity of her Faith: In which sense, Cyprian beseeches God the Father Almighty, and his Son Jesus

i Ut Unitas ejus & Sanctitas non perfidiæ & hæreticæ pravitatis obstinatione vitietur. Epist. 47. §. 1. p. 107.

Christ our Lord, That i the Unity and the Sanctity of the Church might not be corrupted by the obstinacy of Persidious-ness, and heretical Pravity. So that by affirming the Church to be Holy, the Faith and Doctrine thereof is thereby declared to be pure and undefiled.

The Third Affection of the Church yet remaining to be considered, is Catholick; which, as it hath been already remarked, was not originally in this Article, but was introduced by the Greeks as an Explication or Determination thereof: The first Creed wherein it is found, being that of * Καθολικω k Alexander Bishop of Alexandria;

— 'Εκκλησί- after which, it is in both of the Creeds
doret. Eccles. of Epiphanius, repeated in his Book, Hist. l. 1. c. 4. Entituled, Sermo Ancoratus, and of sep. 18. veral other Greeks, from whom it was received by the Latins; signifying the same with Universal, determining the One and Holy Church spoken of in this Article,

Article, to be that which is diffused throughout the whole World, from one end of the Earth unto the other;

that 1 it was not like the Churches of Hereticks, confined within certain Places and Provinces, but enlarged by the Splendour of one Faith, from the rising of the Sun to the going down

1 Catholicam dleit toto orbe diffusam, quia diversorum Hæreticorum Ecclesiæ ideo Catholicæ non dicuntur, quia per loca, atque per suas quasque Provincias continentur, hæc verò à Solis ortu usque ad occasum unius sidei splendore dissunditur. August. Tomi 10. Serm. de Temp. 181. p. 535.

thereof: Whereby Provision was made against too narrow and limited Conceptions of the Church; it being too natural even to good Men, and that especially when transported with Heat and Zeal, to make the Entrance into the Church narrower than ever the Founder thereof intended it. I would not willingly animadvert fo far on any of the Primitive Fathers, who were Men famous in their Generations, the Ornament and Splendour of their refpective Ages, as to fay, That some of them, in favour to their own particular Churches, did sometimes reduce the Unity and Sanctity of the Church to fo narrow a compass as seems to be unbecoming the Charity and Moderation of a Christian, espousing such straitned Notions as excluded many

Z 2 1

m A figure

from the number of the Church Militant here, who might be reasonably presumed should be Members of the Church Triumphant hereafter: But this I will venture to fay, That to prevent too rigid and straitned Conceptions of the Church, and the mistaking of any particular Part thereof for the whole, it is highly probable, That the term Catholick was added in the Creed as an Explication of the two former Affections of the Church, to inform and fettle the true Believer's Judgment in free and moderate Principles, that the One and Holy Church, is not to be confined to any particular place or corner, but is diffused throughout the Face of the whole Earth; that from one end of the World unto another, all those who make a profession of Jesus Christ, and retain Christian Love and Charity, however disagreeing from each other in leffer and inferiour Points are the constituent Parts and Members of this One Holy Church.

Wherefore, to conclude this Article of the Holy Catholick Church: By the Repetition thereof, it was intended to declare our firm Persuasion, That Jesus Christ hath one Visible Body or Church here on Earth, comprehending

all

all the Profesfors of his Name throughout the whole World, who retain the Purity of the Faith, and the Unity of the Spirit, in the Bond of Love; unto which Church, as pure and peaceable, in opposition to all real Hereticks and Schismaticks, we will by the Grace of God, stick and adhere.

To the Article of the Holy Catholick Church, there is added as its Appendix, The Communion of Saints; which is not found in any Creed before St. Austin's time, nor in any, as I do think, of his genuin and undoubted Writings, feeing in his Enchiridion to Laurentius, he affures us, That min the Order of the Confes-fion of Faith, the For- Post Commemorationem sanctæ Ecclesiæ in ordine Confessionis ponitur remissio Peccatorum. Tom. giveness of Sins was pla- 3. c. 64. p. 230. ced after the Commemoration of the Holy Church; though it be very likely, that about that time, or not long after, this Clause was introduced, not only because it is first found in a n Creed recited in a Sermon, commonly attributed unto Tom. 10. Serm. de Temp. 123. him, but also because p. 385.

" Sanctam Ecclesiam Catholicam, fanctorum Communionem.

at that time, a probabable Occasion presented its self for which it should be introduced, viz.

the Z 3

the Schism of the Donatists; as I shall immediately shew, after that I shall have first explained the two Terms of this Clause, Communion and Saints.

And first of all; The Term Saints is not in this Place to be strictly confined to those who are really and internally Holy, but is to be understood of all the several Members of particular Churches professing Christianity; as St. Paul directs his Epistles to the Saints which were at o Ephefus, P Philippi and 9 Colosse; that is, as Dr. Hammond expounds it, to the Societies of Christians belonging to those Places, or constituting those Churches: The Word Saint or Holy being attributed to the whole, because a great part of them had without doubt, received a Principle of true and inward Sanctity: Or, they might be rather called Holy upon the account of their separating themselves from the Heathenish and Idolatrous World, to the Worship of the True God, through Jesus Christ: For it is well known, that the primary Notion of the Word Holy fignifies no other, than the Separation of a Thing or Person from a Common and Prophane, to a Peculiar and Religious Use: From which Reason, the Children

P Phil. i. 1.
Colof. i. 2.

dren of Israel, tho' often the greatest part of them were vicious and corrupt, are frequently called in the Old Testament an holy People or Nation, because God had chosen them out from the rest of the World, and set them apart for his peculiar People. In which manner also, the Creed here stiles the Members of particular Churches Saints or Holy, because by their Profession and Baptilm, which is a Sign and Seal of Purification, and is metonimically called r a washing away of Sins, they are Acts xxii.16. separated from the rest of the World, and devoted to the pure and holy Service of the true God, through Jesus Christ.

Now the Term Saints being thus explained, it will not be difficult to apprehend the meaning of the other Term Communion; which naturally appears to be this, That there is and ought to be a mutual Intercourse and Society, Fellowship and Communion, in all usual and regular Ways, between the several respective Churches and Congregations of Christians and Belivers; whereby they declare unto the whole World, that although both Necessity and Conveniency oblige them to assemble in distinct Places, and com-

Z 4

pole

pose different Societies, that yet nevertheless, they are all Members of one and the same Body, of which Christ Jesus is the Head; that they are all guided by the same Spirit, communicate in the same Institutions, and governed by the same general Rules; fo that whatfoever is regularly performed and determined in one Congregation, is affented to by all others; and whosoever is received to Communion in one Church, is freely admitted in any other.

Various were the Methods used by the Ancients, to maintain an inviolable Communion and Correspondency between themselves, and to preferve the Union of their particular Churches whole and entire; amongst which the Communicatory Letters which the Bishop Elect of any Church sent to other Bishops, and they returned to Tuas literas him, were not the least, as s Cor-

Cyprian. Epist.

t Literas nostras ad te direximus. Epist. 42. § 1. P. 99.

legimus. Apud nelius advised Cyprian Bishop of Car-42. § 1. p. 99. thage, of his Promotion to the See of Rome; who, on the contrary, t returned him a Communicatory Letter, acknowledging him to be Bishop of that Part of the Universal Church, and promifing to hold Communion with him as a Brother and Fellow

low Member; which Communicatory Letters, " Antonius an African Bishop, " Apud Cy-refused to send to Novatian, a Schist- § 1. p. 113. matical Pretender to the Bishoprick of Rome; who, according to the usual Custom, x advised by Letter the Cano- x Id. Epist. 41. nical Bishops of several Churches, that § 1. p. 96. he was advanced unto the Episcopal Throne; though all or most of them would not fend back their Communicatory Letters unto him, left they should thereby diffolve the Communion and Fellowship, which ought to be carefully preserved between all the particular Members and Congregations of the Holy Catholick and Universal Church: And besides these, there was also another fort of Communicatory Letters, granted by the Bishops and Governours of Churches, to such of their Members as travelled, called by Tertullian, y The Communication of Peace, the Title of Brotherhood, and the common Mark of Hospitality; by virtue whereof, they were admitted to communicate in all Churches through which they passed: And which is yet farther observable, if it hapned that a Bishop in his Travels came to a strange

1

7

strange Church which was not his own, he was for the Testification of their Union and Mutual Society, permitted by the Bishop of that Church to confecrate the Sacramental Elements of the Lord's Supper, εν τη εμκλησία Θεαχώ- as z Polycarp did at είαν τω Πολυκάς τω. Iren. apud Rome, by the consent of Anicetus the then Bishop of that Church.

Euseb. Eccles. Hist. lib. 5. c. 24. P. 193.

Many other Methods were also made use of, to preserve the Harmony and Communion between particular Churches, which I shall wholly omit, and content my felf with the brief mentioning of one or two more relating to their Discipline, which are more particularly affented to by this Article: One whereof is, That although there might be a Disagreement in some lesfer and inferiour Points, yet they still retained Peace and Order; and one Church did not imperiously claim and exercise a Jurisdiction over another; but, whatfoever was regularly and according to Form performed in one Church, was allowed to be valid and obligatory by all others: Whofoever was Baptized, Ordained, or the like, in one Church, was not obliged to receive those things de Novo, if his CircumCircumstances and the Divine Providence should necessitate him to be Member of another. To offer to prove this concerning Baptism, will be the greatest Impertinency, seeing every one knows, that the Baptism of Hereticks was deemed valid, and was never reiterated: And as for Ordination, there is an Instance thereof in one Numidicus, who a being a Presbyter before, a Numidicus was admitted into the Number of the Presbyter ad-Presbyters of Carthage without a new scribatur Pres-Ordination. And as for other Things, Carthaginenthey are so universally known, that it sum numero, will be supersuous to add the Proof of p. 84. them. The other Instance therefore of their mutual Communion and Fellowship, respecting their Discipline, was, That who oever were justly and legally censured in one Church, were not in opposition thereunto countenanced and supported by another; but as they were excluded their own Congregation, fo they were also debarred from the Communion of all others, and never admitted into the Fellowship of any regular Christian Society, till by their Amendment and Satisfaction they were received again into their own Church unto which they appertained. An Example whereof.

of, I have already given in the Excommunication of Marcion, by his own Father the Bishop of Sinope in Pontus, which I shall not here again recite.

But having thus briefly explained the Terms of this Clause, The Communion of Saints, and shewn some of the Methods used by the Ancients, to continue and promote their Society and Communion, I shall in the next Place more particularly enquire into the Occasion of its being inserted in the Creed, and shew what was chiefly and more particularly defigned thereby.

Now, as it hath been faid before, the Introduction of this Claufe was occasioned by the Donatists, who, although Orthodox in Matters of Faith and Doctrine, yet by reason of a Quarrel at the Election of Cecilian to the Bishoprick of Carthage, about the end of the Tenth Persecution, engaged themselves in a long, violent, and deplorable Schism; arriving to that heighth of Pride, Uncharitableness and Faction, as to affirm their Party, which was confined within the Bounds of Africa, and rejected by all Transmarine Churches, who were the greatest Part of the Universal One, to be only and folitarily the one Holy Catholick Church; Church; and that all others were without its Pales and Limits, having no right to Administer any of the Institutions thereof; that whatfoever they performed, were Invalidities and meer Nullities. Upon which account, they most schismatically and unchristianlike, proceeded to Rebaptize, and to perform every thing de Novo upon those who revolted from the Catholick Church unto their narrow-hearted Sect; thus proudly and unjustifiably cutting off all other Churches from their Society and Union, whilst other Churches most justly rejected them from their Fellowship and Communion. In opposition unto which, this Clause of the Communion of Saints was inferted in the Creed; whereby these Two Things were declared, viz. the Mark and the Property of true particular Churches, that on the one hand, a Sign to know a regular particular Church by, is entertaining of Communion with it by other Churches; and that on the other hand, it is the Property and Practice of such a particular Church, to maintain all regular Communion and Fellowship with others: Of both which I shall briefly discourse.

First,

First, This Clause may be considera ed as a Mark or Sign by which to know a regular particular Church, that fuch an one must be esteemed so to be, which is acknowleged as fuch by the other particular Churches and Members of the Catholick and Universal One: A fufficient ground for which Interpretation, is in the Conference of St. Austin with Fortunius a Bishop of the Donatists, who with the rest of his Faction, excluded all the Orthodox from being Members of the Catholick Church, limiting the Bounds of it by their own Party, who were all confined within the Borders of Africa; for which reason, saith St. Austin, I b Quænam effet Ecclesia, utrum illa quæ sicut sancta ante Scriptura prædixerat, tanto se terrarum orbe dissunderet, an illa quam pars exigua vel Afrorum vel Affricæ contineret? Hic primo asserte conatus est, ubique terrarum esse communicatorias, quas formatas dicimus, posset quo vellem dare,&c. Tom. 2. Epist. 163. p. 854, &c.

ask'd him, b Which was the Church? Whether that, which according to the Prediction of the Holy Scriptures, should spread it self throughout the whole Earth, or that which a small part of Africa should contain? Unto which, he first endeavoured to assert, That their Communion was throughout the whole Earth. Unto which St. Austin replies, That the easiest way to conclude that Question, was for

for each Party to produce their Communicatory Letters from other Churches. In pursuance whereof, Fortunius produced a certain Book, wherein, he said, was contained a Letter from the Council of Sardis to the Bishops of the Donatist's Communion in Africa; which Letter being read, there was found in it the Name of Donatus amongst the other Bishops, to whom it was directed : Upon which, St. Austin asks him, Whether this Donatus was the same with him from whom they received his Name? For it might be, that he was a Bishop of another Heresy, seeing the Name of Africa is not so much as mentioned in the Letter; adding moreover, that it could not be proved, that it was this Donatus, since it could not be made out, that this Letter was sent to the African Churches: For, although Donatus be an African Name, yet one of another Country might be called so also, or an African of that Name might be a Bishop elsewhere. Besides, supposing that this Letter had been really sent to Donatus the Schismatical Bishop in Africa, this would be no Proof of the Catholick Churches Communion with, and Acknowledgment of them, seeing the Members of that Council did visibly encline to the Arian Faction; and

and as such were resisted and opposed both by Athanasius Bishop of Alexandria, and Julius Bishop of Rome. From all which, as also from other Passages of the said Father, which I might farther cite, it is most clear, That in contradiction to the Donatists, who were rejected from the Fellowship of other Churches, the Communion of Saints, or the Communicatory Letters from other Churches, and the rest of the Methods and Tokens of Union then used, were esteemed as Marks and Signs of a particular Church, that was regularly framed and constituted.

But, Secondly, I think, that in contradiction to the same Hereticks, this Clause is rather to be understood, as expressing and declaring the Quality, Property, and Practice of a particular Church, regularly constituted and governed. The Donatists arrived to that heighth of Pride, Impudence, and Uncharitableness, as to unchurch all other Churches besides themselves, affirming, that those of their own Party, who were confined to a little Part of Africa, were alone the One Holy Catholick Church; and that for all the other Churches both of Europe and Asia, as well as of the other Parts of Africa, they were not Churches of Fesus Christ, but Synagogues of Satan; for which reason, they afferted all their Ordinances and Administrations to be mere Nullities, that their Baptisms, Ordinations, and every thing elfe, were all invalid and of no worth. In consequence whereof, they performed every thing de Novo on those who revolted to them from the Catholick Church, avowedly renouncing all Communion and Fellowship with every Church, which was not of their Party and Faction. Wherefore in opposition to these proud Opinions and schismatical Practices, it is very probable that the Communion of Saints was added as an Explanatory Clause of the Holy Catholick Church, to signify unto us thereby, that though there was but one Universal Church, yet the particular Churches and Members thereof, maintained a strict Union and Correspondence with each other; that whatfoever was regularly performed in one Church, was esteemed valid and obligatory by all others; or, that though the Universal Church was necessarily divided into many Particulars, yet the Christian Unity was not thereby destroyed, but was still preferved Politica ferved by their reciprocal Agreement and Communion: Confonant whereunto, St. Austin writes against these profitminb Schismaticks, That 'the bem terrarum plerumque regna dividuntur, ideo & Christiana unitas dividitur, cum in utraque World is divided into parte Catholica inveriatur Eccle- several Kingdoms, seefia. Tom. 7. Part. 2. de Unit. Ecclef. c. 12. p. 651.

e Neque enim quia & in or- Christian Unity is not divided , because the ing in every place where there are Christians, the Catholick Church is found. And in another place, the faid Father feriously addresses himself to the Donatistical Laity, befeeching them not to be held any longer in their factious and uncharitable Practices by the flight and cunning of their Teachers, but to return to the Communion of the Catholick Church, from whence they had schismatically separated themselves: The Holy Scriptures, faith he, mention the place where the Church should begin, viz. at Jerusalem; from whence it should go out to the Ends of the Earth. Turn over the Sacred Writings, and you shall find, that from Jerusalem it spread its self into places far and near. The Names of the Places and Cities are expressed and known, wherein the Church of Christ was founded by the Labour's of the Apostles: From whom, some of them received Epistles, ferved

the Apostolical Churches, expostulating with the Donatists for their uncharita-

Epistles; d which Epi-Ales, faith he, they themselves, that is, the Clergy of the Donatists, read in your Congregations, and yet will not communicate with the Churches of those Places and Cities who received those Epistles. After which, the faid Father elegantly introduces

d Quas Epistolas & ipsi in vestris congregationibus legunt, & ta2 men non communicant eorum locorum & civitatum Ecclefiis, quæ iplas Epistolas accipere meruerunt. Tom. 7. Part. 1. cont. Donat. post Collat. c. 2. p. 728.

ble refusal to hold Communion with them; Let, faith he, the Churches unto whom the Blessed Apostle Peter wrote, of Asia, Bythinia, Cappadocia, and the other Eastern Parts, speak, and they will say, O ye, Party of Donatus, we e Clament Ecclesiæ Pontifices Bythiniæ, Afiæ, Cappadociæ, cæterarumquæ Orientalium Regionum, ad quas Beatus Petrus Apostolus scripsic; O Pars Donati, non novirius quid dicaris: quare nobis non communicatis? Si Cæ cilianus mali aliquid fecit,quare nobis præjudicat? Ibid. c. 3. p. 728.

know not what you say: Why will ye not communicate with us? If Cecilian bath done any evil, why must it prejudice us? f Let the seven Ori-etiam simili-ental Churches also speak, unto whom the ter Ecclesiæ septem Ori-Apostle John wrote, of Ephesus, Smyrna, entales, ad quas scribit

Apostolus Johannes, Ephesi, Smyrnæ, Thyatiræ, Sardis, Philadelphiæ, Laodicez, Pergami, & dicant, Quid vobis fecimus, Fratres? Quare Christiani cum Christanis pacem habere non vultis? Quare in nobis communia Sacramenta, rescinditis? Ibid. c. 4. p. 729

> Thyatira, Aa 2

Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, Laodicea, and Pergamus, and they will say, What have we done unto you, Brethren? Why will not you Christians have Peace with Christians? Why will you annul quas Paulus Apostolus scribit, Romanorum, Corinthiorum, &c. literas ad nos datas fratres quotidie legitis, qui vultis adhuc esse de parte Donati, in ipsis Epistolis per nomen pacis nos Apostolus salutavit, dicens Gratia vobis & pax à Deo Patre & Domino nostro Jesu Christo; Quare pacem in nostris Epistolis legendo didicistis, & eam nobiscum tenere noluistis? Ibid. c. 4. p. 729.

in us the common Sacraments? g Let also the Churches unto whom the Apostle Paul writ, of Rome, Corinth, Philippi, Colosse, and Thessalonica, speak, and they will say, You, Brethren,
of the Party of Donatus
daily read the Epistles
sent to us, in which the Apostle suluted us by the naming of Peace, Saying, Grace and Peace be unto you from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ: Wherefore then have ye learned Peace by reading it in our Epistles, and yet will not maintain it with us? And, after the same manner, the faid Father might have represented all the other Parts of the Catholick Church, reasoning with the Donatists for their Pride and Folly in refusing to hold Communion with them; it being an horrid Piece of Arrogance to limit the Church to their own Party, and an intolerable A& of Schism, to require quire the reiteration of Baptism and other Administrations (which are to be received but once,) on those who were to be admitted into their Church, as if their former Baptism, &c. had been vain, wholly insignificant, and nothing at all.

Wherefore, that such schissmatical Notions and Practices, fo destructive of Christian Charity, and subversive of the Unity of the Catholick Church, might be repressed and contradicted, it is most probable, that the Communion of Saints was added in the Creed as an Appendix to, or Explanation of the Holy Catholick Church; by which it was intended to declare, That although there be feveral particular Churches and Congregations throughout the Face of the Earth, yet that there ought to be a Communion and Correspondence between them, as far as is necessary, possible and convenient; that whatfoever is regularly performed and de-termined in one, either as to Acts of Worship or Discipline, must be allowed by all others to be valid and good, feeing particular Churches are no other than fo many distinct Limbs, Members, or Parts of the Catholick and Unifal one.

Aa 3 CHAP.

CHAP. VII.

A brief Explication of the Forgiveness of Sins: Not constantly repeated in the Creed till the Days of Cyprian, though sometimes expressed, and always supposed from the very beginning of Christianity. Two Interpretations are given thereof, a Primary, and a Secondary one. To have a clear Idea of the Primary one, which respects Sins committed before Baptism, it will be necessary to reflect on the great Wickedness of the World before the Publication of the Gospel; by means whereof they were under Guilt, which the Heathens knew by the Light of Nature, but could not tell bow to remove it. The Jews had no Universal Assurance of the Pardon of Sins: Wherefore the Apostles were Sent forth to reveal an infallible way for the obtaining it, viz. by Believing, and being Baptized; which is proved to be the primary sense of this Article, always supposed, or else expressed in the Creed from the very first Preaching of the Gospel, viz. that all past Sins are for the Sake of Christ, remitted to all PenitenPenitential Believers at Baptism: Wherein these Two Things are contained, First, That our Sins are forgiven for the Sake of Christ: Secondly, That the time of their Forgiveness is at Baptism. Remission of Sins ascribed to Baptism, which is always to be understood with due Regards to the Qualifications of the Persons baptized. Why Sins are said to be forgiven at Baptism. The Secondary sense of this Article, respected Sins committed after Baptism. The rigorous Notions of the Basilidians, Montanists, but especially of the Novatians, who denied the Pardon of God, or at least of the Church, to scandalous Sins perpetrated after Baptism. The wretched consequences of this Opinion, as an Antidote there-against this Clause was constantly recited in the Creed. Both the Senses of this Article repeated. The Resurrection of the Body is in some Creeds the last Article, and may be considered in conjunction with the Resurrection of our Saviour. The Resurrection from the Dead being a necessary Point of our Religion, and withat being early opposed both by Heathens and Hereticks, it bath been always a Part of the Aa 4

Creed from the Apostles Days. In the Greek and Latin Creeds, as also in the Modern French and Dutch, it is the Resurrection of the Flesh. Several Hereticks would equivocatingly affent to the Resurrection of the Body, who denied that the same fleshly Substance should arise again. Against whom it was emphatically inserted in the Creed, that there should be the Resurrection of the Flesh; that is, that the very same fleshly and material Body should rise again, though the Qualities thereof shall be changed and altered. Life Everlasting diversly placed in the antient Creeds, pertinently put at the end of the Apostles, because it is the end of our Faith, and the determination of every Man to his proper place. The Gnosticks affirmed, that the greatest part of Mankind should be Annihilated at the Day of Judgment; against whom, it is declared by this Article, that after that there will be Life everlasting: Wherein is included, the eternal Misery of the Damned, and the everlasting Happiness of the Blessed. Religions and Whold being early orbo-

H E next Article that in order follows to be enquired into, is the Forgiveness of Sins; the Terms whereof are so plain and easy, as that they scarce need any Explication at all. Wherefore, that which I understand by it, is in brief no other than this, That God for the fake of Christ, will freely remit and forgive all manner and kind of Sins, and release their obligation to Punishment, unto all such as shall unfeignedly repent and believe the Gospel; wherein I insert the sake of Christ, as also Repentance, Faith, and receiving of the Gospel, as a Cause and Conditions of the Remission of Sins, for reasons which will hereafter follow.

As for the time of the constant repetition of this Article in the Creed, it was not till the Days of Cyprian, seeing it is not in any of the Creeds of Irenews, Tertullian or Origen, but is first of all to be found in a Creed of the forementioned a Fathers; after crediswhich, it is generally to be met with remissionem peccatorum? in all succeeding Creeds, which was Epist. 76. §. 6 no doubt, occasioned by the severe p. 248. and rigorous Notions of the Basilidians, Montanists, but especially of the Novatians.

Novatians, as I shall hereafter shew. But, though this Article was not constantly demanded with the other Parts of the Creed at Baptism, till the Days of Cyprian; yet, long before his time, even from the promulgation of the Gospel, it was always supposed, and fometimes expresly mentioned to be part of the Faith unto which the baptized Person gave his Assent: In which respect I may truly say, That this Article is as antient as any in the Creed; and, that the primary sense thereof is to be fetched from the Holy Scriptures, and the Circumstances of the Apostles, and of the Jewish and Pagan World at that time, as well as a secondary Interpretation, which afterwards occasioned its fixed and continual repetition, is to be searched for elfewhere.

As for the first and primary Sense, which hath respect to Sins committed before Baptism; the best way to have a clear Idea and Apprehension thereof, is to restect on the state and condition of the World before the Preaching of the Gospel, and the Commission given unto the Apostles with respect and reference to them.

Novatien

The whole World, as is well known, was at that time drowned in Impiety, Profaneness and Ignorance, fallen into the last Irregularity and dregs of Licentiousness, giving themselves over to all manner of Uncleannesses and Abominations; by which Sins, they were necessarily fallen under insupportable loads of Guilt, and bound over to the inevitable Punishment and Vengeance of the Almighty, when he should come in his Majesty and Glory to render a righteous Reward unto every Man according to his Works: Of which the very Heathens themfelves were convinced, having found out by their natural Ratiocinations that they were Sinners, and obnoxious to the Divine Anger, as appears by their Sacrifices, and other Rites. But now, this was that which surpassed their most raised Intellects, How their Sins should be forgiven, and their obligation to Punishment by reason of them, be cancelled and annulled. They had indeed fome general Hopes of God's Mercy founded on the common Bounty of his Providence towards them, in giving them Rain from Heaven, and fruitful Seafons, filling their Hearts with Food and Gladness, and the like, which they endeavour'd to increase by their Sacrifices, and other religious Rites and Ceremonies: But they had no positive assurance of the Remission of their Sins, and of the Divine Reconciliation unto their Persons, being still obscured and bewildred in their Notions and Apprehensions concerning it, never arriving unto any certain Conclusion; That though the Goodness of God did now attend them, yet, that his Justice, Anger, and Vengeance, should not overtake and feize them another Day, and severely punish them for all those innumerable and abominable Sins. which they themselves were sensible, they had most daringly committed against him.

And as the Heathers knew not how their Sins could be forgiven, and their Persons absolved from the Guilt thereof, so neither had the Jews any persect and certain apprehension thereof: The Mosaical Law had appointed Sacrifices for Sins of Ignorance, and for small and ordinary Transgressions; by the regular and conscientious Offering whereof, those Sins were remitted, and the Auger of God appeased: But, as for greater and capital Sins, such as Murther, Murther, Adultery, and the like, there was a fentence of Death denounced against them; for the reversing of which, the Law had made no Provision. Unto which it is not improbable, the Pfalmist David had respect in Pfalm li. 16. For thou desirest not Sacrifice, else would I give it; thou delightest not in Burnt-offering; the Sacrifices of God are a broken Spirit, &c. intimating thereby, That if the Law had prescribed Sacrifices and Burnt-offerings for his enormous Crimes of Adultery and Murther, he would have offered them unto God; but, feeing that no Provision was made thereby for the Expiation of those scandalous Transgressions, he would present unto the Almighty a broken Heart, and a contrite Spirit, hoping that those might prove acceptable and pleasing to him.

This being then the condition of the World at the time of our Saviour's appearing therein; they being all, both Jew and Gentile, concluded under Sin, and not knowing which way to free themselves from the guilt and condemnation thereof, the Apostles were sent forth with full Power and Authority to invite them both, to come into the Christian Church, which they were now founding; affuring them, that they should therein receive a complete and perfect Remission of all their Sins and Crimes, though never so innumerable and abominable: The Entrance whereinto, was by Baptism, supposed to be accompanied with Faith and Repentance, when for the fake of Christ, all the Sins of the baptized Person should be entirely obliterated and forgiven.

b Mark xvi. 15, 16.

Thus our Saviour a little before his Ascension into Heaven, authorized his Disciples to b go into all the World, and preach the Gospel to every Creature; he that believeth, and is baptized, shall be saved: And at the same time informed their Understandings, that the Holy Scriptures of the Old Testament had long before foretold concerning Luke xxiv. him, c That Repentance and Remission

47.

of Sins should be preached in his Name among all Nations, beginning at Ferusalem. According unto which Prediction and Command, when they were all inspired by the Holy Ghost on the Day of Pentecost, the principal end and drift of St. Peter's Sermon then preached, is fummed up in these

Christ

Acts ii. 38. words, d Repent and be Baptized every one of you, in the Name of Jesus cy

nd

nd

a-

Ce

ed

e-ſt,

n

r-

19

is

d,

e

Christ for Remission of Sins. And the fame Apostle concludes his Sermon to Cornelius with this Polition, as the defign and fum of his whole precedent Discourse, That e through the Name of Christ, who soever believeth in him, Shall receive Remission of Sins; which was also done by St. Paul in his Sermon to the Jews at Antioch in Pisidia, wherein he invited them to the Obedience of the Gospel from this consideration, That it revealed unto them a Way and Method for the full Pardon of all Sins whatfoever, even of those for which there was no Remedy provided by the Law of Moses; f Be it known unto you therefore, Men f Acts xiii. and Brethren, that through this Man is 38, 39. preached unto you Forgiveness of Sins; and by him, all that believe are justified from all things, from which they could not be justified by the Law of Moses. And the fame Apostle, relating the manner of his Conversion, writes, That Ananias, a devout Man of Damascus, after he had restored his Sight unto him, exhorted him speedily to become by Baptism, a Member of the Christian Church, that so he might receive Remission of Sins: g And now, Acts xxii. why tarriest thou? Arise, and be Bap- 16. tixed.

tized, and wash away thy Sins, calling on the Name of the Lord. From all which it appears, That the Forgiveness of Sins was always either expressed or suppofed in the Creed demanded at Baptism, feeing Persons were baptized for that very end, That all their Sins might be remitted and pardoned, through the merit and virtue of that Blood which was fignified to them, and really applied unto all due Recipients, by the Water in that Ordinance of Baptism: From whence it naturally follows, That the primary sense of this Article is, that at Baptism all past Sins are remitted and forgiven for the fake of Christ, unto all believing and penitential Receivers thereof. According unto which, it is thus expounded by feveral of the Fathers, as in a Creed extant amongst the Works of Athanafins, whose Author was probably Vigilius Tapsensis: After the Profession of our Saviour's Death, Refurrection, Ascension, Session at God's right Hand, and coming to judge the World, it follows, That h by his Death and Blood we receive Remission of Sins: And the Explication which Maximus Tau-

In hujus morte & fanguine remissionem peccatorum consecuturi. Tom. 2. lib. 11. ad Theophil. p. 588.

rinensis

rinensis gives hereof, is,
That i we must believe
the Forgiveness of Sins,
because it is the only remedy that frees Mankind from the sentence of everlasting Death; for which end, the only begotten Son of the most High
was contented to be Incarnated and Crucified,

i Credenda est peccaterum remissio, quia hoc unum est remedium, quod hominum genus à sententia perpetuæ mortis absolvit; ideirco unigenitus Altissumi sumere dignatus est carnem, contentus est crucem, ut te qui crimina tua evadere; — non poteras, indulgentia faceret innocentem; ideo immaculatus occisus est agnus, ut ejus cruore humani generis macula tergeretur. Homil, in Symbol. p. 240.

that by his Mercy he might make thee Innocent, who couldest not avoid thy Sins and Crimes; and the spotless Lamb was slain, that by his Blood the Spots of Mankind might be washed away. And St. Austin writes in his Exposition of this Article, That k at Baptism all our Sins are forgiven, whether Original or Astual; with which agrees the Nicene or rak Baptismatis munere, quod contra Originale peccatum donatum est, — activa quoque peccata — tollit. Tom. 3. Enchir. ad Laurent. c. 64. p. 230.

ther the Constantinopolitan Creed, wherein this Article thus runs, Ouchold in Bdwhich is, I believe in one Baptism of Eisen BdRepentance for the Remission of Sins:
Repentance for the Remission of Sins: Javolas els
So that these and others explained apour auxthis Article in this primary Sense there18: p. 220:

B b of:

of, viz. that all Sins of whatsoever Kind, Sort, or Degree, are for the sake of Christ, perfectly remitted at Baptism, to all the due and worthy Receivers thereof: Wherein are these Two Things contained; First, That our Sins are forgiven for the sake of Christ: And, Secondly, That the time of their Forgiveness is at Baptism.

First, It is herein contained, That our Sins are forgiven for the fake of Christ; unto which consideration, the Water in Baptism, and the washing of our Bodies therewith, direct us, fince it is impossible that the sprinkling of that should purge away the Guilt and Stain of Sin, in any other way or manner, than as it hath reference to, and is a Representation of the Blood of the Lamb of God, which was spilt to take away the Sins of the World: For, Water under the Evangelical Dispensation, is in it felf no more available to the purifying of the Conscience and the pacifying Divine Wrath, than the Blood of Bulls and Goats was under the Mosaical and Legal Oeconomy; of which the Apostle expresly saith, That m it was not possible they should take away Wherefore, the Apostles and Sins. Primitive Doctors preached Remission in Heb. x.

of

of Sins through the Blood of Christ, as the alone Remedy of Fallen Mankind, as is to be seen from the precedent Quotations: Unto which many more might be added, as that of Acts v. 31. where St. Peter and the rest of the Apostles affirm in their Speech to the Council, That God had exalted Je-Sus with his right Hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, for to give Repentance to Israel, and Forgiveness of Sins; and that of Ephes. i. 7. That we have Redemption through his Blood, the Forgiveness of Sins: And many other such like Texts might be eafily enumerated, directing us to this necessary and fundamental Truth, That the Blood of Christ typisied by the Water of Baptism, is the alone Cause of the Remisfion of our Sins and Trespasses; which is not much different from the Exposition given by Petrus Chrysologus of this Article, which is, That

n he pardons himself, who trusteth that his Sins can be remitted through Je-

be remitted through Je- serm. 57. p. 52.

Sus Christ.

But, Secondly, There is farther to be considered the Time of the Forgiveness of Sins, which, by the Constantinopolitan or Nicene Creed, is positive-

Bb 2 ly

" Ipse sibi donat veniam, qui fibi peccata per Christum remitly faid to be at Baptism; I acknowledge one Baptism for the Remission of Sins: And by the Apostles Creed is supposed to be, seeing this Article was then affented to, by which the Person to be baptized, did declare, That he firmly believed, that by the Virtue of the Blood of Christ, all his Sins should be washed away by the Sacramental Water: And, the very end for which Persons were baptized, was, That their Iniquities might be pardoned, according unto the Exhortation of St. Peter to the convinced Jews, o Repent, and be baptized every one of you, in the Name of Jesus Christ for Remisfien of Sins. From whence it comes, that Forgiveness of Sins, and other fuchlike noble Epithets and Appel-lations, are frequently attributed by the Fathers unto Baptisin; as by Ter-

· Acts ii. 38.

Fælis Sacramentum aquæ noftræ, quia ablutis delictis priftinæ cæcitatis, in vitam æternam liberamur. — Lavacro dilui mortem.

Pe Baptijm. p. 597.

<sup>9</sup> Exempto, scilicet reatu, eximitur & pæna. Ibid. p. 599.

vallian, it is called Pa Washing away of our Sins, a Salvation into Eternal Life, a Dissolution of Death, 9 a taking away of Guilt, and consequently of Punishment

T X deισμα also; by Clemens Alexandrinus, r Grace, n) σωτισμα Illumination, Perfection; by Dionysius Pedag. lib. 1. ce6. p.69.

Alexandrinus

Alexandrinus, s a Purgation from the Filth of old and impure Leaven, t a participation of Adoption and Grace; by Justin Martyr, a Regeneration, that being no longer Children of Ignorance, but of Ele-

'Avanaθαίς εδζ τ τ πλησίας η ἀπαθάς Ιε ζύμης ρύπον. Apud Euseb. Eccles. Hist. lib. 7. c. 5. p. 252.

p. 252.

τ Φεα-fοχης κὸ χάεθ Φ τυγεν. Ibid. c. 9. p. 255.

χεν. Ibid. c. 9. p. 255.

"Αναγωών], — αφέσεως τε άμληιών, τών ών περημάριους τύχωνες το ν'δα]ι. Αροίος.
2. p. 94.

ction and Knowledge, we obtain the Forgiveness of our past Sins in the Water; and many other suchlike Appellations are every where to be met with in the Writings of the Fathers: By which, we must not imagine, That they apprehended Baptism of its self, without any regard to the Qualification of its Subject, to be sufficient and effectual for the blotting out of Sin, and the pardoning of Iniquity, but their meaning was, That who foever was Evangelically prepared for that Ordinance by a fincere Repentance and an unfeigned Faith, unto him, and him alone, was Baptism efficacious to the remitting and washing away of his Sins and Crimes; according to that of our Saviour, * He that believeth, and is * Mark x i. baptized, shall be saved; and that of 16. St. Peter, y Repent, and be baptized eve- y Acts ii. 38. ry one of you, in the Name of Jesus Christ, Bb 3 for

A Critical History of

for Remission of Sins: In which Texts Faith and Repentance are made necessary Ingredients of effectual and saving Baptism. For, as Justin Martyr well

2 Τὶ ઝ τοςς Φ ἐνκίνε τε βαπίσμα Φ, ο τ σάςκα κὶ μόνον τὸ σῶμα φαιδεωίς, βαπίδηθε τ ψυχω ἀπ' ὸςγῆς κὶ ὅπὸ
τοςς, κὶ ἰδε τὸ σῶμα καθαςὸν
τος, κὶ ἰδε τὸ σῶμα καθαςὸν
τος. Dialog. cum Tryph. p. 231.

reasons, <sup>2</sup> What profit is there in that Baptism, which only makes the Flesh and Body shining? Baptize, or wash the Soul from Anger and Covetousness, from Envy and Hatred, and then the Body is clean.

a Simon lotus est—verum — non erat lotus in salutem. Homil. 6. in Ezechiel.

a Simon Magus, as Origen observes, was baptized, and yet was not washed for Salvation. As it was not the Water, but the Blood of Christ which washed away Sins in Baptism, so neither were the Sins of any washed away thereby, but of those who repented and believed. For which reason, the Discipline of the Church took care, that none should be admitted to Baptism till they had by a convenient time of Trial given sufficient proofs of the Sincerity of their Faith and Repentance; during which time, they were gradually instructed in the Articles of the Christian Faith, and endeavoured more and more to amend their Lives by an increase in an holy and godly ConConversation: After which, as Origen remarks, b When they had to the utmost of their Power lived better, then they were initiated in the Christian Mysteries.

ο ''Οση δωίαμις βέλ]ιον βεβιοκέναι το τΙωικάδε κληδιών αὐτεις όπὶ τὰς τὰς ἡμῖν τῆετὰς. Contra Celsum, lib. 3. p. 147.

င် Osol ซึ่ง สะเอลังเ หู สะ รณ์ผงเง สังทิที ชณ์ชล ชล ง์จั

ημήν διδασκόμψα, κ λεγόμψα Ε), κ βιεν έτως δωίαθο ύπι-

१ १००० हैं। १९०० मह में बोर्सिंग भा-इंडिंगीड़ किया गई नेहाँ में किशा- ωριωνών ἀφεσιν διδάσκον).

— επελα άζον) ύφ ἡων ένθα

USwe 64. Apol. 2. p. 93.

The Antecedents unto Baptism are thus briefly related by Justin Martyr,

That c whosoever were persuaded of the Truth of the Christian Religion, and would endeavour to live according to the Rules thereof, were instructed by Fasting and Prayer to beg of God the Remission of their past Sins, and then they were baptized. Agreeably whereunto Tertullian writes, That d Persons to be baptized, were to give themselves to Prayer, Fasting, and Watching, and to make a Confession

d Ingressuros Baptismum orationibus crebris, jejuniis, & geniculationibus, & pervigiliis orare oportet, & cum confessione omnium retro delictorum. De Baptism, p. 604.

of all their past Sins: And in his Book De Pænitentia, the said Father more largely discourses of the state of Repentance that was to be undergone before Baptism. Unto which, and the other Primitive Writings relating hereunto, I refer the Reader; seeing Bb 4

it is univerfally known, that none were permitted to be baptized before they had by a sufficient time of Trial, given such evident Proofs of their Conversion and Repentance, as every Man according to the Rule of Charity, would judge them to be sincere and real.

But then, besides this state of Probation, at the time of Baptism its self, in a most solemn manner before God and Man, they acknowledged and protested their Repentance and Faith; declaring before the whole Congregation, that they renounced the Devil, the World, and the Flesh; that they believed all the Articles of the Christian Faith; and that by the Grace of God, they would walk according to the Rules thereof, all the Days of their Lives. Upon the Profession of which Repentance and Faith, preceded by a convenient Trial of the Reality thereof, they were admitted to Baptism for the Remission of their Sins; which, by the Blood of Christ, were in that Ordinance unto all, fo repenting and believing, freely remitted and forgiven.

But, if any impenitent and unbelieving Persons were washed with the Baptismal Water, it profited them nothing at all, but on the contrary extremely

tremely prejudiced them by the aggravation of their Guilt, and confequently by the augmentation of their Woe: For which reason, Origen gives this feafonable and pertinent Exhortation to the Catechumens, that is, to those who were in the preparatory State for

Baptism; e Come, saith he, ye Catechumens, and repent, that ye may be baptized for the Remisfion of Sins: He receives Baptism for the Remission of Sins, who hath left off to Sin; for, if any one comes sinning to that Laver, his Sins are not forgiven him. Wherefore, I beseech you, do ye not without caution and diligent Circumste-

Stion come to Baptism; but, first of all bring forth Fruits meet for Repentance; foend some time in a good Conver-Sation, keep your selves clean from all Filthiness and Vice: And then your Sins shall be forgiven, when ye your selves begin to contemn them.

So that from all these Citations it is most evident, That the Fathers esteemed Repentance and Faith to be necessary adrigation is Venite Catechumeni, agite poenitentiam, ut in remissionem peccatorum Baptifma confequamini, in remissionem peccatorum ille accipit Baptisma, qui peccare defistit. Si quis enim peccans ad lavacrum venit, ei non fit remissio peccatorum. Propterea, obfecro vos ne absque cautela & diligenti circumspectione veniatis ad Baptismum, sed ostendaris primum fructus dignos pœnitentiæ; facite aliquod temporis in conversatione bona, mundos vos à cunctis fordibus vitiifque servate : Et tunc vobis remissio peccatorum fiet, quando cœperitis, & ipfi, propria peccata contemnere. Hom. 21. in Lucam.

manufit as

and by the

obnsin

A Critical History of

necessary unto the Esticacy of Baptism, without which it can be of no saving profit or advantage at all; and that, whensoever they termed Baptism a cleansing or forgiving of Sin, or the like, they understood it solitarily and only with relation to those who were duly qualified by Faith and Repentance for the reception of it; as for the most part, they are in Charity supposed to be, who are baptized in a Church wherein Discipline and Government is maintained and exercised.

But, to return to the time of the Remission of Sins committed in an Heathenish and Unconverted State, which by the Nicene Creed is expreffed, and by that of the Apostles supposed to be at Baptism; the reason thereof was, because every one did at the time of his Baptism, solemnly renounce and forfake the Devil, the World, and the Flesh, and entirely devote and confecrate himself to the Worship and Service of God, through Jesus Christ; and as a visible Evidence, Sign and Token thereof, did on his part receive the Sacramental Water of Baptism, appointed by Jesus Christ for that very End; whilst on the other part, God through the same Ordinance,

f

n

u

0

dinance, fealed and conveyed Grace and Pardon unto every Person thus fincerely qualified and difposed: For, the very end of this Institution was, That on the one hand, Men might testify their Repentance and Faith in Christ thereby; and that on the other hand, God might by the same, convey and affure them of the full Pardon and plenary Forgiveness of all their Sins whatfoever. For which reafon it comes to pass, That by Cyprian and others, Baptism and Remission of Sins are used as convertible Terms, because in the former, God was pleased to confer the latter on all those who were prepared and fitted for it.

But, that I may conclude with the chief and primary Interpretation of this Article, it is evident from what hath been faid, to be no other than this, That all Sins whatfoever committed before Baptism in an Heathenish or Unregenerate Estate, are in that Ordinance for the sake of Christ, and the Satisfaction made by his Blood to the Divine Justice, entirely forgiven and remitted, unto all those who unseignedly repent of their Sins and believe the Gospel.

But, besides this Explication of the Article before us, there is yet another secon-

fecondary Sense thereof respecting Sins committed after Baptism, which occafioned its constant and perpetual repetition in the Creed; being therein placed to be an Antidote against the heretical Rigours of the Basilidians Montanists, but chiefly and principally of the Novatians, who maintained such severe and cruel Notions, as too injuriously resected on the Mercy of God, and the Merits of Christ, and were extremely prejudicial to Mens Salvation, naturally forcing them to Despair

f Ouse masas o Basileisus onoi, uovas 3 ras annoins no xt asvoiav aspiest. Clem. Alexand. Strom. lib. 4. p. 390.

s Ne Montanus & Novatus hîc rideant, qui contendunt non posse renovari per pœnitentiam eos qui crucifixerunt sibimet Filium Dei, &c. Hieron. Tom. 2. lib. 2. advers. Jovin. p. 164.

and Horrour. f The Bafilidians affirmed, That not all Sins, but only involuntary ones, and Sins of Ignorance, should be pardoned. The Montanists & denied the Pardon of God, or at least of the Church, to all scandalous and heinous Sinners. But, those who were most noted for their Rigour and Severity, were the Novatians, who maintained, That y there was no Mercy for him was no Mercy for him who should fall after Baptism; that is, either that God would

h Mela ή το λείρον μηκέτι δωία οξ έλεκος Φραπεσίου ότα. Epiphan. advers. Hæres. Cathar. p. 214.

nachier

-go ol

not

not pardon those who should scandalously sin after they were baptized; or rather, that the Church could not forgive them, and receive them into Communion again, but must for ever exclude them from her Society, and leave them to the Judgment of God hereafter.

St. Anstin observes,
That i there is a threefold Repentance to be found in the Holy Scriture; the first, A Repentance at Baptism, when all the Sins of the Penitent are blotted out;
k the second, A daily Repentance, which is the continued work of
every Christian: For,
even after he is baptized, through the Tem-

Triplex autem confideratio agendæ pænitentiæ in fancta Scriptura invenitur, nam neque ad baptismum Christi, in quo omnia peccata delentur, quisquam benè accedit, nisi agendo pænitentiam de vita pristina. Tom. 10. Homil. 27. p. 615.

k Alia quotidiana, & ubi illam oftendimus pœnitentiam? Non habeo ubi meliùs oftendam, quàm in oratione Dominica, ubi orare nos docuit: — Dimitte nobis debita nostra, sicut & non dimittimus debitoribus nostris. Ibid. p. 619.

ptations of the Devil, the Delusions of the World, and the Infirmities of the Flesh, he will have unavoidable Miscarriages and Defects; of which he is continually to repent, and to beg of God the pardon of them, according to the fifth Petition of the Lord's Prayer, wherein our Saviour teacheth us to pray, Forgive us our Trespasses, as we forgive them

and visited

Pœnitentiæ tertium genus—
est pœnitentia gravior atque lustuosior, in qua propriè vocantur
in Ecclesia pœnitentes, remoti
etiam à Sacramentis altaris participandis, ne accipiendo indignè judicium sibi manducent & bibant,
illa verò pœnitentia lustuosa est,
— adulterium fortè commissum
est, fortè homicidium, &c. Ibid.
p. 620.

them that Trespass against us: I The third a more heavy and grievous Repentance, performed in the Church by those who are called Penitents, who having committed Adultery, Murther, Sacrilege, or any other scandalous and beinous crimes, are

Lord's Supper, lest by eating it unworthily, they should eat and drink Judgment to themselves. Under which suspension they are continued, till they have given sufficient Evidences of their Repentance; by means whereof, they obtain a readmission to the Communion of the Church, and unto those Rights and Privileges which by their Miscarriages they had forseited and lost.

Now the two former Kinds of Repentance the Novatians allowed, but absolutely disowned the third and last, resusing to receive again into the Communion of the Church those who had lapsed in times of Persecution, or any other fort of scandalous Sinners whatsoever, though they gave the most convincing Proofs of their Humilian

tion,

tion, Sorrow, and Repentance: Which cruel and unmerciful Doctrine is with good reason affirmed by Dionysius,

Bishop of Alexandria, m to be most wicked towards God, and reproachful to our most merciful Lord Christ Jesus,

m Teel To Ost Sisaondiav avorialathu, - i + xensoralor Kulesov num Inogy Xeisdy as ανηλεή συκοφανίδηι. Apud Eufeb. Eccles. Hist. lib.7. c. 8. p. 254.

representing him, as one that is implacable: And, by Cyprian, to be n a severe Impiety of heretical Presumption; by which, the Consolations of Divine Pity and Fatherly Lenity are shut against the penitent and mourning Servants of God, who knock at the Church with Tears, Sighs and Groans; so that the Wounded are

n Hæreticæ præsumptionis durissimam pravitatem, ut servis Dei pœnirentibus & dolentibus, & ad Ecclesiam lacrymis & gemitu & dolore pulfantibus, divinæ pietatis & lenitatis paternæ solatia & fubfidia claudancur; nec ad fovenda vulnera admittantur vulnerati, fed fine spe pacis & communicationis relicti, ad luporum rapinam, & prædam diaboli projiciantur. Epist. 67. § 1. p. 198.

not admitted to have their Wounds cured; but, being left without any hope of Peace or Communion, are thrown out to the Rapine of Wolves, and the Prey of the Devil. For which reason, the said Father calls Novatian, who was the Propagator and principal Maintainer of these cruel and rigid Notions, o an enemy of Mercy, a murtherer of Repen-diæ hostis, interfector pænitentiæ, doctor superbiæ, veritatis corruptor, perditor caritatis.

Epist. 57. § 3. p. 159.

tance, a doctor of Pride, a corrupter of Truth, and a destroyer of Charity.

The natural consequences of this Herefy being then fo dishonourable to God, so prejudicial to the Church, so contrary to the Spirit of the Gospel, and fo destructive to the Souls of Men, it is no wonder, that at the first broaching thereof by Montanus, or at least, at the revival of it with greater vigour and fuccess by Novatian, the Fathers of the Church ordained, That the Forgiveness of Sins should be constantly repeated in the Creed at Baptism; to declare thereby, that not only Sins committed before Baptism were then pardoned to the duly Qualified and Disposed, but that also all Sins perpetrated after Baptism, even the most Scandalous and Notorious, (the irremissible one against the Holy Ghost still excepted,) were pardonable and remissible upon the renewal of Repentance and Faith, both by God and the Church; that as the former would not exclude the Penitent from Heaven, so neither should the latter seclude them from her Communion on Earth.

Now that this Article was thus affented to, in contradiction to these heretical retical Rigours of the Montanists and Novatians, is abundantly evident from the Writings of the Fathers. St. Jerom observes, That the Montanists and the Orthodox Christians P disagreed in the Rule of Faith, or in the Creed, and particularly in the Article of the

In fidei regula discrepamus—illi ad omne pene delictum Ecclesia obserant sores, nos quotidie legimus, malo pænitentiam peccatoris quam mortem. Tom. 2, ad Marcel. Epist. 54. p. 193.

Forgiveness of Sins, for they shut the Church-doors for every Fault almost; but we, saith he, read every Day, I rather desire the Repentance than the Death of a Sinner.

The Author of the Explanation of the Creed to Damasus, wrongfully supposed to be St. Jerom, imagined by Bellarmin and Launoy to be Pelagius, thus explains this Clause against the forementioned Severities, That 9 if a Man falls after Baptism, we believe that he may be saved by Repentance.

q Hominem si post baptismum lapsus suerit, per pœnitentiam credimus poste salvari. Inter. Oper, Hieron. Tom. 9. p. 71.

But above all, St. Austin in sundry places thus interprets it, as in his Enchiridion to Laurentius, where, after he hath mentioned the precedent primary Sense thereof, he adds this se-

C c condary

<sup>r</sup> Sed neque de ipsis criminibus quamblibet magnis remittendis in sancta Ecclesia, Dei desperanda est misericordia agentibus poenitentiam secundum modum sui cujulquæ peccari, in actione autem pœnitentiæ, ubi tale crimen commissium est, ut is qui commifit à Christi etiam corpore separetur, non tam confideranda cft, mensura temporis, quam doloris; cor enim contritum & humiliatum Deus non spernit: verum quia plerunque dolor alterius cordis occultus est alteri, neque in aliorum notitiam nisi per verba vel quæcunque alia figna procedit, - recte constituuntur ab iis qui Ecclesiæ præsunt tempora pænitentiæ, ut fiat etiam fatis Ecclefiæ, in qua remittuntur ipfa peccata. Tom. 3. Enchirid. ad Laurent. c. 65. p. 230.

condary one, That s as for great Sins to be remitted in the Holy Church, the Mercy of God is not to be despaired of by those who repent according to the measure of their Sin; but, in the Action of Repentance, where such a Crime is perpetrated, as that the Committer thereof is feparated from the Body of Christ, the measure of Time is not so much to be considered as the mea-Sure of Sorrow; for God despiseth not a contrite and humbled Heart: But, because the Sorrow of one Man's Heart is hid from another, and cannot be known by others, except by Words and other external Signs, therefore Times of Penance are appointed by the Ecclesiastical Governours, that the Church may be satisfied, in which their Sins are remitted. And in another place, where he cautions his Readers particularly against those several Hereticks who denied the several Parts of the Creed, he directly levels this Article against the Novatians, faying

saying thereon, s Let us not hear those who deny, that the Church of God can forgive all Sins.

Solution Nec eos audiamus, qui negant Ecclesiam Dei omnia peccata posse dimittere. Tom. 3. de Agone Christian. p. 31. p. 1032.

And elsewhere, where he largely profecutes this secondary Explication of the Article before us,

He wonders that any should be so obstinate, as to deny Repentance to the lapsed or Pardon to the penitent, when it is written, Remember from whence thou art fallen,
and repent, and do thy first Works: And when the Lord exhorts to rise again by Works, where it is written, Charity delivereth from Death, that * Miror autem quosdam sic obstinatos esse ut dandam non putent lapfis poenitentiam, aut poenitentibus existiment veniam denegandam, cum scriptum sit, Memento unde excideris, & age pœnitentiam & fac priora opera,---& quum Dominus hertatur per opera rursus exurgere, quia scriptum est, eleemosyna à morte liberat, & non utique ab illa morte, quam semel sanguis Christi extinxit, & aqua nos falutaris Baptismi & Redemptoris nostri gratiæ liberavit, sed ab ea quæ per delictum postmodum surrepsit, &c. Tom. 10. Serm. de Temp. 181. p. 538.

is, not from that Death which the Blood of Christ hath once extinguished, and the Salutary Water of Baptism, and the Grace of our Redeemer hath saved us from, but from that which afterwards crept in by Sin. From all which, it appears, That by the constant repetition of the Forgiveness of Sins, the Compilers of the Creed intended to declare thereby, in opposition to the Novatians, and others, That scandalous Sins committed after Cc 2 Baptism.

Baptism, were upon an unseigned and sincere Repentance, remissible both by

God and the Church.

So that from all that hath been faid, we may conclude, that by this Article of the Creed, it was intended to be professed, That all Sins committed before Baptism, are at that time, for the fake of Christ, completely forgiven to all Penitent Believers; and that all Sins committed after Baptism, though never fo fcandalous and offenfive, are upon the renewal of Faith and Repentance, pardonable both by God and the Church. Both which Explications whereof were given by the Bishops to Constantine the Great, as it is reported by Zozomen, who relating the History of the famous Cross, which our Saviour impressed on his Fancy, commanding him to make one in the Form and Likeness thereof; farther adds, That the next Morning the Christian Bishops expounded unto him the meaning thereof, and from thence took an occasion to recommend unto him feveral of the Articles of the Creed; the last whereof was, the Forgiveness of Sins, delivered by them in this brief Periphrafis, sis, " That there is hope of Salvation and remission of Sins, to Persons in this Life; to those who have not yet been initiated in the Mysteries of the Church, by receiving that said Initiation, but to those who have been initiated, not to sin again: But, as the said Historian continues to write, because there are but seen

Εἶναι μβίτει κὰ τοῖς ἐνραῦσο θα πλημαβήμασιν ἀφοςμων σως Πημάς ημασιν ἀφοςμων σως Πημάς Των, ἀμυήτοις μὰ μυήσιν κῆ τὸ νόμον τὸ ἀκκλησίας, τοῖς ἢ μενμυημείοις τὸ μη πάλιν άμβρθών, ἐπὰ ἢ τἔτο πανθάως ὁλίν ων κὰ θάων ἀνδςων ὁλὶ καθος θῶσαι, ἐδίδασκον δά τεςον καθαςμὸν τεράχθαι ἐκ μερανοίας οιλάνθςωπον χὰ ὄνλα τὸ Θεὸν συςνώμω νέμων τοῖς ἑπλακόσιν κὰ μεραμβηθώσι, κὰ ἔςςιος ἀςαθοῖς, τὰ μεραμέλων βες εκώσεσι θοῖς, τὰ μεραμέλων βες εκώσεσι Εcclej. Hist. lib. 1. c. 3. p. 404.

Men, and those most Holy and Divine, who can so do, therefore the Bishops farther instructed the Emperour, that there was a second Expiation appointed by Repentance; for, God being merciful and kind, will pardon those who have sinned, provided they repent, and consirm their Repentance by good Works.

Having thus dispatch'd the Article of the Forgiveness of Sins, the next that must be enquir'd into, is the Resurretion of the Body; which in the Creeds of x Jerom, and several others is the last Article thereof; Life everlasting being not expressed, but supposed in the Resurrection. But, feeing they are in the Apostles Creed, and in several other antient ones distinctly mentioned, I shall consider them apart, and begin with the first in order, The Resurrection of the Body: In the Explication whereof, it must be remembred, That whatsoever is related concerning our Resurrection, may for the most part be also applied to that of our Lord's, seeing his Resurrection was the Cause and Exemplar of ours; and both his and our Resurrection were denied by the same Persons, and in the same way and manner.

* In Symbolo fidei — omne Christiani dogmatis Sacramentum, carnis resurrectione concluditur. Tom. 2. advers. Error. Johan. Hierosol. Epist. 61. c. 9. p. 219.

Now, as for the time of its being inferted in the Creed, it is most evident, That the Resurrection from the Dead, hath been always part of the Creed from the very beginning of Christianity; which appears not only from the antient Creeds, but also from the weight and moment of the Doctrine its self, it being a Point on which the whole Christian Religion seems to depend.

For, if there should be no Resurrection of the Dead, the Christian Religion would be a meer Chimæra and Fable; and the grand Attractive, by which it was recommended to the

World,

World, would be no other than a meer Lye and downright Delusion: For, when the Apostles went forth to convert the Heathen World, the Method which they took for that end, as we fee by the Example of St. y Paul at Acts xviis Athens, was, to preach Jesus and the Resurrection; that is, to reveal a Saviour to them, who might redeem them from their finful and lost condition; and then, that they might engage them to a willing and perfevering Obedience in that Saviour's fervice, notwithstanding all Oppositions and Persecutions, to assure them of a Refurrection, when the eternal Majesty should by his Son Christ Jesus, whom he had as a Specimen and Pledge raifed from the Dead, judge the World in Righteousness, and render unto every Man a suitable Reward according unto his Works.

Now, I say, if there should be no Refurrection of the Dead, this grand Motive to the believing of the Gospel, would be enervated and entirely destroyed; and those who have been engaged thereby to the embracing of Christianity, would be most miserably cheated and deluded; which would be fuch an odious and blasphemous

CEA

Reflection on the Christian Religion and the Divine Author thereof, as no Christian can be imagined to entertain: From whence it comes to pass, that the Apostle Paul, disputing against fome Christians in the Church of Corinth, who denied the Resurrection of the Dead makes use of this Argument against them for the Proof there-21 Cor. xv. of; 2 Else what shall they do, saith he, which are baptized for the Dead? If the Dead rife not at all, why are they then baptized? Which place of Scripture, by reason of its Obscurity, is capable of many Interpretations; but yet, I think, without any force of the words, this Explication may be naturally given thereof, viz. If there shall be no Resurrection of the Dead, what will they do? or what profit and advantage will they have, who embrace Christianity, and are baptized from the Perfuasion of the Resurrection? How foolish and ridiculous is it for them to be baptized from the confideration of the Resurrection, that they may arise amongst the number of the Just, if the Dead shall not rife at all? Which is not much different from the Ethiopick Version, wherein this Verse is thus rendered; Else, why do

20.

do they baptize? Is it not, that they may arise from the dead? If therefore they shall not be raised from the dead,

why then do they baptize?

But this is not the alone Inconvenience that would follow upon the Denial of the Resurrection, as is to be feen in the forementioned place, wherein the Apostle farther argues the Truth and Certainty thereof, from the prodigious madness and folly, which otherwife all Christians, especially in perfecuting Times, as those then were, would be guilty of; If the Dead, faith he, rise not at all, a why stand we in a I Cor. XV. jeopardy every Hour? That is, if there 30, 60. be no Resurrection of the Dead, why then do we for the fake of Christ run Risks and Hazards, and expose our felves to all manner of Torments, Cruelties and Severities? Why do we daily encounter with Men, who are more furious and savage than Wild Beasts? What doth this unneceffary hazarding of our felves advantage us? Nay rather, doth it not harm and injure us? For if the Dead rise not at all, it would be the wisest and most prudent course to eat and drink, because to morrow we shall die; to enjoy the Pleasures of Sense, and to gratify the carnal Ease of our Bodies, because we shall shortly die, and never live more to experience either Sorrow or Happiness, Misery or Felicity.

I might yet farther shew in other respects, the great weight and necessity of this Article of the Resurrection of the Body; but I shall wave them, seeing those already mentioned, sufficiently prove the Belief thereof to be of the last and greatest consequence: Upon which account it is most reasonable to imagine, That the Apostles would not omit to require the assent of their Converts unto this Article at their Baptism, seeing without the acknowledgment of this, they could not well be termed Christians, or Professors of the Christian Religion.

And, besides this, there was yet something more, which might possibly oblige them to the constant repetition thereof, viz. the early and vigorous opposition which was made thereunto in their Days, both by Heathens and Hereticks.

The Philosophers, who were the wisest and most thinking part amongst the Pagans, had at the best, but very obscure and uncertain Notions of a Resurrection 5

furrection; whence the b Epicurean and Stoick Philosophers, who encountered St. Paul at Athens, when they heard of the Refurrection, mocked him; some saying, that he seemed to be a setter forth of strange Gods, because he preached unto them Jesus and the Resurrection; and as for the prophaner and less considerate part of the Heathens, they jeered at it, and derided it as a melancholy and idle Fancy: And not only Heathens, but also several false and pretended Christians, did betimes oppugn this necessary and momentous Truth, as Hymeneus and Philetus, c who erring concerning the c 2 Tim. ii. Truth, said, That the Resurrection was 18. past already, and so overthrew the Faith of some; affirming probably, the same with those Hereticks mentioned by Tertullian, That the Resurrection is to be understood in an Allegorical sense, and that it is a no other than our Baptismal Renovation, wherein we shake off the Death of Ignorance, and arise from the Grave of the old Man alive unto God.

d Refurrectionem eam vindicandam, qua quis adita veritate redanimatus & revivicatus Deo, ignorantiæ morte discussa, velut de sepulchro veteris hominis eruperit —exinde ergo resurrectionem side consecutos cum domino esse, cum eum in baptismate induerint. De Resurrest. Carnis, p. 39.

What trouble the Apostles met with from these sort of Men, and what difficulty ficulty they had to preserve the Churches from the Venom and Contagion of fo pestilential an Herefy, may be eafily gathered from the Holy Scriptures. The salonica and Corinth were two Churches founded by St. Paul; Theff. iv. and yet we find him by e Epistle, tacitly blaming the former for their ignorance of this necessary Point, and establishing them in the firm Belief thereof; and as for the latter, though he preached amongst them a Year and half, yet after he was gone from them, this Leaven so infected them, that he was obliged in his First Epistle to that Church, to make a large f Difcourse, to prove unto them, and fix them in the Belief of this great Truth, That Christ is arisen, and that in God's appointed time we shall in the same manner likewise arise. Wherefore this Doctrine being fo effential to Christianity, and having been withal fo violently stormed and attacked on every fide, both by Heathens and Hereticks, to the endangering of the purest Primitive Churches, we may from thence fairly conclude, That the Apostles would not omit to require an Affent thereto at Baptism, but make use of that most sacred Tye and 13, Oc.

and highest Obligation, to confirm and fettle their Converts in the Belief of this necessary and fundamental Article,

the Resurrection of the Dead.

But, as the Resurrection of the Dead in general was primarily intended by this Article, so also the Kind thereof is farther declared, as is to be gathered from the very manner of its Expression; which is not as in our Translation, the Resurrection of the Body, but the Resurrection of the Flesh, as it is both in the Greek and Latin Sagnòs avasaou, Carnis Resurrectionem, being therein followed by the modern g French and h Dutch; 8 La resurrection de la chair. in which word Flesh, h De wederopstandinge des lyes a particular Force vleesches. and Emphasis, which hath often made me wonder, that our English Translators should employ another more general Word in the room thereof.

Now, that which occasioned the invariable mentioning of the Term Flesh in the Primitive Creeds, was this, there were several Persons who did acknowledge the Resurrection of the or of a Body; for in the Latin and Greek, there is no difference between them; but, they would not grant, grant, that the same Body which now we have should be raised again, but instead thereof, they imagined, that at the Refurrection-Day, there should be framed by the Power of God, thin, fubtil, aereal Bodies, whereunto human Souls shall be joined, instead of those gross, material, fleshly Bodies, which they now actuate and inform. Now against these Persons, the Fathers and Governours of the Primitive Church, chose to express this Article by the Refurrection of the Flesh and not of the Body; that latter word being capable of more subterfuges and equivocating Explications than the former: Of which, St. Jerom gives us an instance in the Origenists, who

i Credimus, inquiunt, resurrectionem suturam corporum, hoc si benè dicatur, pura consessio est, sed quia corpora sunt cœlestia, & terrestria, & aer iste, & aura tenuis juxta naturam suam corpora nominantur, corpus ponunt, non carnem, ut orthodoxus corpus audiens, carnem puret, Hæreticus spiritum recognoscat. Hæc est corum prima decipula. Tom. 2. ad Pammach. So Ocean. Epist. 65.

espoused this Tenet;

i they say, saith he, We believe the future Resurrection of the Body;
which, if it be sincerely
said, is a pure Confession;
but, because there are celestial and terrestrial Bodies, and the Air and Ether according to their Natures, are called Bodies, therefore they use the word Body, and not Flesh; that whilst the Orthodox, bearing hearing the word Body, apprehend it to be Flesh, the Hereticks understand it to be a Spirit, which is their first Evasion: Wherefore Ruffinus, who was accused of this Herely, in the vindication of himfelf therefrom, alledges, That to remove all suspicion of his being tainted therewith, k he had frequently affirmed, that not only the Body, but that the Flesh also should rise Hieron. Tom. 9. p. 162.

k Et ideo non folum corporis, in quo calumniatur, sed & carnis fecimus frequenter mentionem. Investiv. 1. in Hieron. inter Oper.

again.

Various were the Persons who embraced this Opinion: It feems that in the Days of Clemens Romanus, there were some who espoused it, as is evident from this Caution of his;

1 Let none of you Say, that this Flesh shall not be judged, or rise again; for as ye were called in the Flesh, so shall ye come again in the Flesh:

Mi ASYETW TIS UNIN STE αύτη ή σάςξ ε κείνε), εδε ανίτα) — ον τεόπον οδ εν τη σας-κὶ ἐκδύσεδε. Ερίβ. 2. ad Corinth.

Which Notion was afterwards advanced by feveral others, but with the greatest advantage by the Followers of Bardesanes and Origen, two of the greatest Wits of their Age: That the Bardesianists fell into this Opinion, may be largely seen in the Fifth Dialogue Dialogue that passes under the Name of Origen, wherein this Point is closely disputed between Marinus a Bardesanist, and Adamantius an Orthodox Christian; in the beginning of which Disputation, Adamantius lays down as the common Faith of the Church, μα φημὶ ἀνίsads, o relog. p. 130. " AUTOBEV rages iv Exefx o oaphs. Ibid. p. 131.

m 7870 70 0 2. That m this Body with which we are now cloathed, shall rise again: Whereneiuda. Dia- unto Marinus replies, That nit was an Opinion very easy to be confuted, both by Scripture and Reason. From which Foundations, he proceeds to draw feveral Arguments against it; and from the latter, he makes great use of I Cor. xv. 50. This I say now, that Flesh and Blood shall not inherit the Kingdom of God; and of the 38th Verse of the same Chapter, But God giveth to every one a Body as seemeth him good: Upon which he remarks, καθος το το σώμα λέξη ανί-καθος άλλ' ετερον, Από τ λέ-ζων, δ ή Θεὸς δίδωσιν αὐτώ σώμα, καθώς ηθέλησεν. Ibid. p. 143.

fleshly Matter.

again; but it must necessarily be understood of another, because it is said, that God giveth that Body to every one as seemeth him good; which Body they affirmed to be a P spiritual, heavenly one, void of all gross, corporeal, or

That o it is not said,

that this Body shall arise

P Zãua-avdualixóv. Ibid. p. 130.

The

2 Apud Epi-

The Followers also of Origen were reputed to be maintainers of the same

Opinion, 9 affirming, as St. Jerom writes, that after the Resurrection our dum post Resurrectionem introdu-Bodies shall be thin, airy, and subtil, losing the prey Quofdam aereum corpus & paulatim in autas renues dissolvencere. Tom. 4. Com. in Esai.c. 66. p. 229.

Sent fleshly Substance which now they have: A full account of which Do-Etrine of Origen's, is Epitomized from his Writings by r Methodius, where- phant adversion it appears to have been this, That Haref. Origens the very same Bodies, Flesh and Blood F. 232, 233. wherein we now live, shall not arise and see the Kingdom of God, but that in lieu thereof the Almighty will at the Last Day give unto us other Bodies, which shall be thin, subtil, and spiritual, free from the material and fleshly Substance whereof they are now composed.

Now against the Abettors of this Notion, and to prevent their equivocating Evafions, this Article was expressed by the Resurrection of the Flesh, and not of the Body; according unto which, the general Explication given by the Fathers hereof, is, That hereby is profess'd our Belief, that there shall be a Resurrection of the same Body that now we have.

Spoffle

Ruffinus

Ruffinus was accused of being too favourable to this Tenet of Origen's; upon which account, it is observable, that in his short Confession of Faith, extant in his Preface to the Apology of Eusebius Bishop of Casarea, for Ori-

'Carnis resurrectionem non per aliquas præstigias, sicut nonnulli calumniantur, dicimus, sed hanc ipfam carnem, in qua nunc vivimus refurrecturam credimus: non aliam pro alia, nec corpus aliud quam hujus carnis dicimus: five ergo corpus refurrecturum dicimus, secundum Apostolum dicimus, (hoc enim nomine usus eft ille,) five carnem dicimus, fecundum traditionem Symboli confitemur: Stulta enim adinventio calumniæ est, corpus humanum aliud putare esse quam carnem. Sive etgo caro fecundum communem fidem, five corpus fecundum Apostolum dicitur, quod resurget, ita credendum est ficut Apostolus definivit. Inter. Oper. Hieron. Tom. 9. p. 134.

gen; he thus Paraphrafes this Article, 5 We do not say, that the Resurrection of the Flesh shall be by a Trick, as some calumniate us; but me believe, that this very Flesh in which we now live, shall rife again: We do not Say one thing for another, neither any other Body besides this Flesh; whether therefore we say the Body shall rise again, we speak it according to the Apostle, who made use of this Word; or, whether we say the Flesh, we confess it according to the Tradition of the Creed: For it is the foolish Invention of Calumny, to think an Human Body to be different from Flesh; for, whether we say it is Flesh according to the common Faith, or a Body according to the Apostle, that shall rise again, so must we believe, as the Apostle

Apostle hath defined it. And for the same reason in the Creed, which he sent to Pope Anastasius, to justify himself from the Accusation of Heresy, he thus expresses his Assent to this Article; t We confess the Resurrection of our Flesh shall be whole and perfect, of this our Flesh wherein we now live: For we do not say, as some do stander us, that another shall arise instead of this, but that it shall be this very same, withctionem fatemur integrè & perfectè futuram, hujus ipfius carnis nostræ in qua nunc vivimus; non ut quidam calumniantur, alteram pro hac resurrecturam dicimus, sed & hanc ipsam nullam omnino ejus membro amputato, vel aliqua corporis parte desecta, sed cui nihil omnino ex omni natura sua desit, nisi sola corruptio. Inter Oper. Hieron. Tom. 9. p. 159.

* Sed & carnis nostræ resurre

out the loss of any of its Members, or the defect of any part of the Body, unto which nothing of its Nature shall be wanting, except Corruption.

To the same purpose, Gennadius
Massiliensis writes on this Article,

"There shall be a Resurrection of all rectio mordead Men; and if that which falls is tuorum omsaid to rise again, then our Flesh shall nium hominum, — & si
truly rise again, as it truly fell; and id resurgere
dicitur quod

cadit, caro ergo nostra in veritate resurgit, sicut in veritate cadit; & non secundum Origenem immutatio corporum erit, id est, aliud novum corpus pro carne, sed eadem caro corruptibilis quæ cadit tam justorum quàm injustorum incorruptibilis resurget; quæ vel pænam sufferre possit pro peccatis, vel in gloria æterna manere pro meritis. Inter Oper. August. Tom. 3. de Ecclesiast. Dogmat. p. 260.

it shall not be, according to Origen, a Change of Bodies, that is, a new Body instead of the Flesh; but the same corruptible Flesh, which fell both of Just and Unjust, shall arise Incorruptible, that it may be capable according to its Merits, either to suffer eternal Pain, or to abide in everlasting Glory.

The same Explication is likewise

* 'Οτα ἀνας ησομθα σωὶ σωματι τέτω, συὶ ψυχῆ ταύτη, συὶ πανὶ τω ἡμείεςω σκούς, ἵνα ἕκας Τ΄ ἐπελάξη πεὸς ἀ ἔπευξεν. Lib. 3. Advers. Hares. Compend. Fid. Cathol. p. 464.

given hereof by Epiphanius, * That we shall arise with this Body, and with this Soul, with our whole Man, that every Man may receive what he hath done: As also by the Author of the Explanation of the Creed to Damasus, wrongfully attributed to St. Je-rom, That y we shall be raised with the very same Members which now we have.

y In eadem, in qua nunc sumus, veritate membrorum esse reparandos. Tom. 9. Inter. Hieron. p. 71.

But here it must be observed, That although the Fathers designed by this Article to declare the Resurrection of the self-same Body; yet they always understood, that the Qualities thereof should be changed and altered; that from Mortal and Corruptible, it should be Immortal and Incorruptible, and as it may be called, become a spiritual ritual Body, that is, have no need of the Supports of Meat and Drink for its Reparation and Sustenance; for at that time, saith St. Austin, the glorisi-

ed Bodies, 2 shall not only not be, such as they are now in their greatest Health and Vigour, but also not such as Adam's sinless Body was in Paradise; which, altho' it would not have died if he had not sinned, yet he must have sustained it with Meat and Drink, his earthly Body being yet Animal, and not Spiritual; but, a then the Man shall not be Earthly, but Heavenly; not as if he should not have the same earthly Body, but because through the heavenly Gift, a Tunc jam non terrenus, sed cœlestis homo erit; non quia corpus, quod de terra factum est, non ipsum erit, sed quia dono cœlesti jam tale erit, ut etiam cœlo incolendo non amissa natura sed mutata qualitate conveniat. Ibid. c. 23. p. 35.

2 Non solum enim non erit tale quale nunc est in quavis optima valetudine, sed nec tale qui-

dem, quale fuit in primis hominibus ante peccatum, qui licet mo-

rituri non essent, nisi peccassent,

alimentis tamen ut homines utebantur, nondum spiritualia, sed

adhuc animalia corpora terrena

gestantes. Tom. 5. de Civit. Dei,

lib. 13. c. 20. p. 30.

by the change of its Qualities, not by the loss of its Nature, he shall be fitted to inhabit in Heaven: So that, although they affirmed by this Article, that the same Flesh and Blood should still remain at the Resurrection, yet they held withal, that the Properties and Qualities thereof should be changed, as St. Austin writes in his Exposition here-

Dd 3

b Hæc visibilis, quæ caro proprie dicitur, sine dubitatione credenda est resurgere, videtur enim Paulus Apostolus eam tanquam digito suo ostendere, cum dicit, oportet corruptibile hoc induere incorruptionem, cum enim dicit hoc, in eam quasi digitum intendit, — & mortale hoc induere immortalitatem, &c. Tom. 3. de Fide de Symbol. p. 196.

of, that b this same visible Flesh, which is properly called Flesh, shall arise; for the Apostle Paul doth seem to point at it as it were with his Finger, when he saith, For this Corruptible shall put on Incorruption, and this Mortal Immortality: And yet a a little farther on in the same place, he saith, That those raised Bodies

Corpora fimplicia & lucida, quæ appellat Apostolus spiritualia. Ibid. p. 197.

d Refurgent fanctorum corpera fine ullo vitio, fine ulla deformitate, ficut fine ulla corruptione, onere aut difficultate. Tom. 3. Enchir. ad Laurent: c. 91. p. 242. confidence of the Saints shall arise without any Corruption,

Heaviness, or Difficulty, being by the Change of their Properties fitted and prepared for Life Everlasting; which is the next and last Clause of the Creed to be enquired into.

Wherein it may be observed in the first place, That it was variously placed in the Primitive Creeds, as in a Creed of Cyprian's it thus stands before the Article of the Church, and

e Life

Church; but, it is most pertinently atternam per fanctam Ecexpressed by the Apostles Creed at the clesiam. Epist, Conclusion thereof, because it is the 76. §.6. p.248.
End of all our Faith, and the Determination of every Man to his eternal and proper Place and State; for the Dead having been raised, and both Quick and Dead having received their Sentence from the final and supreme
Judge of Heaven and Earth, all Men both good and bad, shall go unto their appointed Place, from whence they shall not return, but there remain throughout Life Everlasting.

The Gnosticks, as it hath been already related in the Fifth Chapter of this Treatise, unto which I refer the Reader, divided all Mankind into Three Parts, Earthly, Animal and Spiritual; the first of which, and part of the second, they affirmed, would be annihilated, or reduced to nothing by the general Conflagration at the last Day, whilst only the Spiritual, and part of the Animal, should be made Immortal and Eternal. To obviate which Opinion, as it feems most probable, the Rulers of the Church did in those Days subjoin to the Resurrection the Clause of Life Everlasting, that there-Dd 4 by

by that Herefy might be contradicted and warded against: From whence we find, that Ireneus a Cotemporary with these Hereticks, and their greatest Antagonist and Consuter, doth in opposition to their Herefy, thus Paraphrastically express in his Creed the final Determination of every Man, that after the Resurrection Christ shall render a righteous Judgment unto all,

τες ἀσεβες ης ἀδίκες, ης ἀνόμες ης βλασφήμες τ ἀνθεώπων ες το αλώνιον ποῦς πεμη, τοῖς β εικαίοις ης ὁσίοις ης τὰς εθοκὰς αυτές τε περικόσι, — ἀρθαερίαν δωρήση, ης δοξαν αλώνιον πειποιήση. Lib.i. c. 2. p. 36.

f Wicked, Unjust, Ungodly and Blasphemous Men, he shall send into everlasting Fire; but, unto the Just and Righteous, and those who kept his Commandments, he fhall give Immortality and eternal Glory: And in another of his Creeds he thus words it, That

f Venturus salvator eorum qui salvantur, & judex eorum qui judicantur, & mittens in ignem atternum transfiguratores veritatis, & contemptores patris sui & adventus ejus, Lib. 3, c, 4. p. 172.

he thus words it, That Christ g shall come in Glory to be a Saviour of those who are saved, and a Judge of those who are judged, sending the Corrupters of his Truth, and the Contempers of his Father, and his Coming, into eternal Fire: And to the same effect, it is in a Creed of Tertullian's which he designedly repeats in apposition to the Gnosticks, and other Hereticks

Hereticks of his time, That Christ shall come in Glory h to receive the Saints into the

h Ad fumendos fanctos in vitæ Fruit of eternal Life, aterna — fructum, & ad prophanos judicandos igni perpetuo.

and to sentence the Pro- De Prascript. advers. Haret. p. 73.

phane to everlasting Fire.

From all which it appears, that this Clause was levelled against the forementioned Herefy of the Gnofticks; and, that it includes the final and eternal State of every Man, of the Damned in Hell, as well as of the Blessed in Heaven; that on the one hand, the Wicked and Miserable shall for ever fuffer under the Loads of Divine Vengeance; and that on the other hand, the Godly and Bleffed shall for ever live in the perpetual Fruition of pure and undisturbed Happiness: The Eternity of both which Persons and States, are included by St. Austin in his Explication of this Article, That after the Refurrection and univer-

fal Judgment, i the Godly shall happily live in eternal Life, but the wicked miserably, without the power of Dying

Istis in æterna vita vere fæliciterque viventibus, illis infæliciter in æterna morte fine moriendi protestate durantibus, quoniam utrique fine fine. Tom. 3. Enchirid. ad Laurent. c. 110. p. 252.

in eternal Death, because they shall both be without end: Wherewith agrees

the

only ni cont

& di perpetuo.

Heirt. p. 73.

A Critical History of, &c.

the Creed, commonly called the Creed of St. Athanasius, That at Christ's Coming, all Men shall rise again with their Bodies, and shall give account for their own Works; and they that have done good, shall go into Life everlasting; and they that have done evil, into evenlasting Fire and, that a finelades the final and second brane of every blan, of the Damaed in itel, as well as of the Block of Franch; ther on the one band, it e wicked and Mit rable fluid for ever lader index i'e Loads of osher hard the Godly and Bioffer that for east live in the perpetual

Francisco en paro and realificación francisco en la borbanta de la comita en la borbanta de la comita en la comita de  comita de la comita del comita de la comita del comita de la comita del la comita del comita de la comita de la comita del comita de la comita del comi

which to one and States are inches N Aby States and States are inches of this action. That once the Rofurivelion and moiverat judgment see this recent to the -mineral and published and a color decided their where their streets and a color decided their streets and a social this charter in the respiese of

AN

Alphabetical Catologue

Of feveral

AUTHORS,

And others herein before mentioned;

Containing the several Times, in, or about which they are supposed to have lived.

Anno Domini

A Gdense Concilium, or a Synod held at Agatha, or Agde, in the Lower Languedoc.

325 Alexander, Bishop of Alexandria.

370 Ambrose, Bishop of Milan.

500 Andreas Cafariensis,

252 Antonius, an African Bishop.

184 Apelles, a Scholar of Marcion's.

359 Apollinarius.

280 Archelaus, Bishop of Caschara.

300 Arnobius.

315 Arrius.

315 Arrius.

340 Athanasius.

180 Athenagoras.

410 Augustinus.

180 Bardesanes.

34 St. Barnabas.

134 Basilides the Heretick.

477 Basiliscus the Emperour.

140 Carpocrates the Heretick.

430 Cassianus.

140 Cerdon the Heretick.

90 Cerinthus the Heretick.

204 Clemens, Bishop of Alexandria.

70 Clemens, Bishop of Rome.

381 Concilium Constantinopolitanum Universale II.

307 Constantinus Magnus.

252 Cornelius, Bishop of Rome.

250 Cyprian, Bishop of Carthage.

370 Cyril, Bishop of Jerusalem.

740 Damascen.

370 Damasus.

360 Didymus.

260 Dionysius, Bishop of Alexandria,

320 Donatus.

IN DIVINE

80 Ebion the Heretick.

431 Ephesinum Concilium Universale III.

390 Epiphanius. The man the 360 Eunomius.

525 Ferrandus Diaconus.

525 Fulgentius.

490 Gennadius Massiliensis.

370 Gregorius Nazianzenus.

380 Gregorius Nyssenus.

210 Hermogenes, an Heretick.

390 Hieronymus.

360 Hilary, Bishop of Poictiers.

105 Ignatius, Bishop of Antioch.

184 Irenaus, Bishop of Lyons.

415 Isidorus Pelusiota.

350 Julius Firmicus Maternus.

155 Justin Martyr.

303 Lactantius.

364 Laodicenum Concilium.

450 Leo Magnus.

280 Manes the Heretick.

160 Marcion the Heretick.

420 Maximus Taurinensis.

640 Maximus Monachus.

80 Menander

80 Menander the Heretick.

230 Minucius Felix.

180 Montanus, an Heretick.

325 Nicenum Concilium Universale I.

252 Novatianus.

250 Numidicus.

230 Origen.

410 Pelagius the Heretick.

440 Petrus Chrysologus.

520 Petrus Gnaphens.

410 Philostorgius.

184 Ptolomeus, a Valentinian.

140 Polycarpus.

A to quality of A 189 Rhodon. a gerlie

390 Ruffinus.

260 Sabellius.

460 Salvianus.

134 Saturnilus the Heretick.

280 Seleuciani Hæretici.

40 Simon Magus.

200 Tertullianus.

518 Theodorus Lector.

430 Theodoret.

180 Theophilus Antiochemus.

520 Timotheus,

520 Timotheus, Archbishop of Constantinople.

589 Toletanum Concilium III.

140 Valentinus the Heretick.

484 Vigilius Tapsensis.

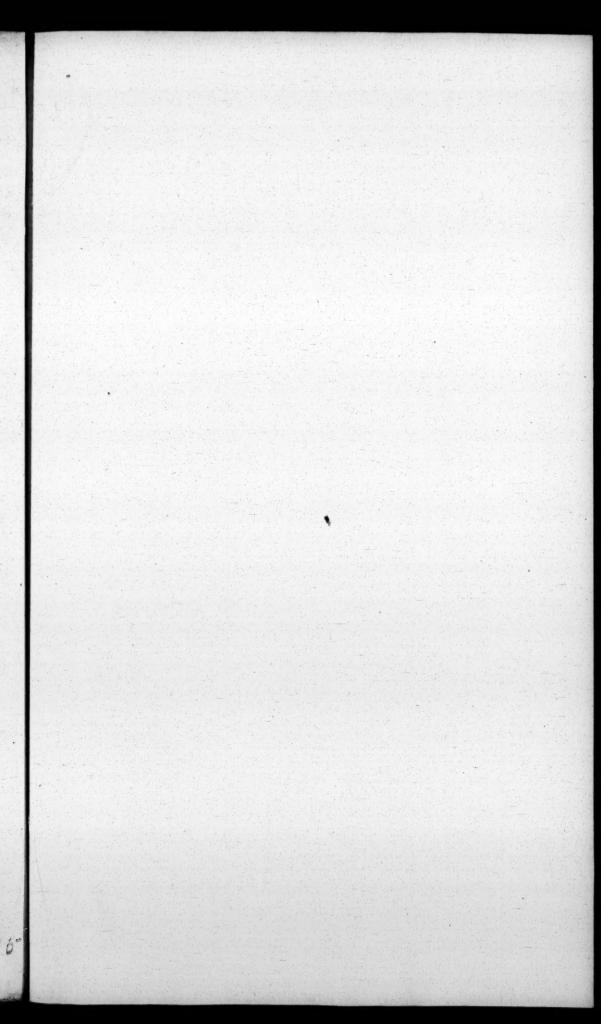

430 Vicentius Lirinensis.

478 Zeno the Emperor.

FINIS.

> 1 to Valuations the Hericida 184 Parisa Tayloria 130 Prestor Linuaria

494. 1. 22.